Put on hold 3 farm laws or we will do so: SC

SC criticises Govt's handling of farmers' protest; all eyes on apex court's order today

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Monday asked the Centre to put on hold the three controversial farm laws or the court itself will do so on the recommendation of a courtappointed committee which is to be constituted. Now all eyes will be on the court's Tuesday order in the matter.

Criticising the Government's handling of the farmers' protest, the court questioned the Centre's opposition to its suggestion that the implementation of three new farm laws be held back for the time being so as to help find an amicable solution to the ongoing farmers' protest at Delhi borders.

The Bench said that till date the Centre has not told it anything on its proposal to keep the implementation of these laws in abeyance for some time.

'We are still thinking it is equally important that we stay the implementation of law without staying the laws," the Bench said.

On December 17, the SC had asked the Centre to consider putting on hold the implementation of the three Disagreeing with the Centre's contention that court cannot put on hold laws passed by Parliament, the court referred to its last year order staying the implementation of 2018 Maharashtra law granting reservation to Marathas in education and jobs.

"We don't see why there is an insistence on implementation of the law," a Bench headed by Chief Justice SA Bobde said, adding, "We are not experts on economy and you going to hold on these laws or we will do this".

Attorney General KK Venugopal told the Bench, also comprising Justices AS Bopanna and V Ramasubramanian, that a law cannot be staved unless the court finds it violates fundamental rights or constitutional schemes.

"A law cannot be stayed by the Supreme Court unless the Lordships find that it violates the fundamental rights or constitutional schemes Law has to be without the power to legislate, only then it can be stayed. No petitioners have raised any such issues," Venugopal said.

The Bench refuted his contention and said, "We are doing this because you have failed to solve the problem. The Union of India has to take the responsibility. The laws have resulted into a strike and now you have to solve the strike".

The top court said it may stay the implementation of these laws as talks between the Government and farmers are told the Bench that a law cannot be stayed unless the court finds it violates fundamental rights or constitutional schemes

Protest will continue till laws are repealed, assert farmers

m F}$ armer leaders sitting along the national Capital's border mounting pressure on the Centre to repeal new farm laws on Monday said they would continue their agitation even if the Government or the Supreme Court stays the implementation of the new agriculture laws.

The reaction came after the SC indicated that it may stay the implementation of the contentious farm laws and refused to grant more time to the Centre to explore the possibility of an amicable solution saying it has already granted the Government a "long rope".

While sharing this online on Facebook, Gurnam Singh Chaduni, Bharatiya Kisan Union (Harvana) leader, said they welcome the Supreme Court observation, but ending the protest is not an option.

"Any stay is only for a fixed period of time... Till the issue is taken up by the court again," he said.

The farmers want the laws to be repealed completely. The protest will continue even if the Government or the Supreme Court stays their implementation," he said.

Bhog Singh Mansa, president of Indian Farmers Union (Mansa), said a stay on the laws is "no big deal".

"A stay is not a solution. We are here to get these laws scrapped completely...the Government has in a way already agreed to scrap the laws when it said it is willing to incorporate as many amendments as farmers want," he

"We appeal to the Supreme Court to terminate these laws as these are not valid constitutionally," Mansa said, adding the protest will continue till the "the laws are repealed".

3 cr Covid warriors to get vaccines free of cost: PM

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday said the Central Government will bear the expenses of vaccinating nearly three crore healthcare and frontline workers in the first round and asked political representatives and VIPs not to jump the queue for getting the first dose of vaccine.

Interacting with Chief Ministers, Modi announced that over 30 crore citizens will get the jabs in the next few months in India against only 2.5 crore people who have received them in over 50 countries in around a month so far. The countrywide vaccination

RAJESH KUMAR ■ NEW DELHI

With the presence of avian influenza in Delhi, Maharashtra and Uttarakhand, the Ministry of Animal Husbandry and Dairying on Monday said bird flu has been confirmed in 10 States and stressed on increased surveillance around water bodies, live bird markets, zoos and poultry farms. Meanwhile, fresh avian deaths continue to be reported in other States too.

The Centre has urged States not to close mandis or restrict sale of poultry products as there are no scientific reports of transmission of bird flu to human beings

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has asked all State Governments to remain alert and ensure local administration keeps a constant vigil near places like water Zbodies, zoos and poultry farms.

Till January 11, 2021, avian influenza has been confirmed in 10 States of the country," the Ministry said.

PLA soldier to Chinese army PNS NEW DELHI

India hands back

The Indian Army on Monday handed back to the Chinese army one of their soldiers who was apprehended on Friday for transgressing LAC. He was returned to the Chinese army at 10.10 am the Chushul-Moldo meeting point.

This was the second such incident since October last year when a Chinese soldier was nabbed after straying into India in Ladakh. In the latest incident, the Chinese soldier crossed the LAC in the south of Pangong Tso (lake) near Gurung Hill in Chushul sector. The two armies are in a standoff in this region for the past nine months. Announcing the safe return, the Indian Army said here on Monday, "The People's Liberation Army (PLA) soldier, who had been apprehended on January 8, has been handed over to China at Chushul-Moldo at 10.10 am today." He was in Indian custody for more than two days. China Military Online, a news portal run by the military, last week said the soldier strayed across due to "darkness' and "complicated geography".

Punjab Cabinet gives 1 time reprieve to business community

PNS CHANDIGARH

In a reprieve to the business community especially the small and medium businessmen to sail through these trying times amid Covid-19, the Punjab Cabinet on Monday approved the 'Punjab One Time Settlement Scheme for Recovery of Outstanding Dues-2021' to clear and settle their pending arrears.

With implementation of OTS, the state exchequer would bear a financial burden of ₹121.06 crore.

A spokesperson of the Chief Minister's Office said that the scheme would be implemented from February 1, 2021 across the state under which all the dealers whose assessments have been framed upto December 31, 2020 could apply under the scheme till April 30, 2021. The dealer can even submit additional statutory forms like C-forms which were not produced at the time of assessment, with the application form and will have to make the self-assessment and submit the proof of payment net tax payable as the result of settlement. The concerned Ward in-charge would issue an order of settlement which would not be reopened in any proceeding by way of review or

It may be recalled that Covid-19 has resulted in unprecedented situation for all sections of the society. Business community, especially the small dealers have suffered a lot due to lockdown and subsequent decline in the business

Various trade associations raised a concern that they are facing difficulties in procuring statutory forms prescribed under the Central Sales Tax Act, 1956 for availing concessional/nil rate of tax on interstate transactions. They also urged the state government for settling their outstanding dues by introduction of One Time Settlement Scheme for the clearance and settlement of outstanding arrears under Punjab Value Added tax Act, 2005 and Central Sales tax

ENHANCE ITS EFFICIENCY

cy in the functioning of the Information & Public Relations department in the changed scenario, the Punjab Cabinet led by Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Monday gave approval to its restructuring plan.

A spokesperson of the Chief Minister's Office said that the department prepared a comprehensive proposal to right-size its manpower to cater to the changing requirements and to introduce a degree of flexibility in engaging manpower with fast changing skill sets by bringing in a component of outsourced manpower. Certain traditional posts are proposed to be abolished in favour of new posts which would help the department in improving its overall efficiency and response. The desired pyramidical structure in hierarchy has also been adequately taken care of.

It may be recalled that the Information & Public Relations department is actively engaged in the dissemination of policies and achievements of the state government. Earlier, the department used traditional methods such as exhibitions, song & drama, cinema, etc. to percolate the message at the grassroots level. With the passage of time, print journals and electronic mediums like TV and radio became more significant. Of late, social media has emerged as a potent medium of communication. However, the sanctioned strength of the department continues to have provisions to engage persons for the traditional modes of communica-

INLD leader Abhay Chautala gives 'conditional' resignation over farmers' unrest

PNS CHANDIGARH

Indian National Lok Dal (INLD) legislator Abhay Singh Chautala on Monday wrote to the Haryana Assembly speaker, saying if the Centre does not withdraw the three recent farm laws by January 26, then his letter may be considered as his resignation as an MLA from the House. In a letter to Speaker Gian

Chand Gupta, Chautala, INLD from Ellenabad, slammed the Centre for imposing the "black laws" on farmers in an "undemocratic way" and said the farming community in the entire country is opposing these legislations.

A farmers' agitation against the laws has been going on for over a month and the protesting farmers have been camping at Delhi's borders in the cold weather conditions, he point-because of the intense cold weather but the Centre has paid no heed to their demands, Chautala wrote in the letter.

More than 60 farmers have "attained martyrdom"

Despite holding eight rounds of talks with the farmer leaders, the government has not shown any sign of agreement on the withdrawal of farm laws, he said. The INLD leader said it does not seem that being a responsible member of the House, he can play any role to protect the rights of farmers under the kind of conditions created by the government. "Considering all these situations, if the government of India does not withdraw these three "black laws" by January 26, then this letter should be considered as my resignation," he wrote to the speaker. A couple of days ago,

Chautala had said he would resign from the Assembly if the demands of the farmers were not accepted by the Centre by

PNS CHANDIGARH

Haryana Police on Monday registered a case under various sections of IPC and Damaging Public Property Act against BKU (Charuni) leader Gurnam Singh Charuni among 71 named people and about 900 unidentified people over the Karnal incident in which protesting farmers vandalised the 'Kisan Mahapanchayat' venue where State Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar was to speak on the farm laws on Sunday. The accused were booked for rioting, assault on public servants, damaging public property, criminal conspiracy and other charges, police said.

Talking to 'The Pioneer' over the phone, Gharaunda (Karnal) Police Station Inspector Mohan Lal said that the police have taken action against 900 people for obstructdamage to public property. An FIR has been lodged under sections 147, 149, 153, 152, 427, 109, 120 of IPC and under different sections of Damaging Public Property Act against 71 people by name, including Gurnam Singh Charuni, while 800-900 unnamed people have also been booked. No arrest has been made so far. Investigation is being done at Police Station

Khattar had accused Charuni of instigating people to vandalise the programme

The Haryana Police had used water cannons and teargas shells to prevent farmers from marching towards Kaimla village, where the programme was to be held. The farmers, however, had managed to reach the venue and damage a makeshift helipad where Khattar's chopper was to land despite elaborate security arrangements made by police.

A purported video of Bharatiya Kisan Union leader Charuni, making an appeal to "end the arrogance of the CM" by not allowing him to address the mahapanchayat, was circulating on social media. On January 6, the BKU (Charuni) had threatened to oppose the "kisan mahapanchayat".

PNS CHANDIGARH

Haryana Government on Monday decided to develop Pipli in Kurukshetra as a world class tourist hub. The tourist hub which will be developed on Saraswati Setu in Pipli would attract tourists from within the country and abroad and also place Haryana on the international tourist map, the meeting of Haryana Sarasvati Development Board (HSHDB) held under the Chairmanship of Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar decided on Monday.

The Tourist Hub in Pipli would be developed by Haryana Sarasvati Heritage Development Board (HSHDB). Apart from boating, it would also offer a wide range of facilities like restaurants, parks, museums etc to the visitors. The State Government is already developing Adi Badri in Yamunangar as a tourist desti-

It was also decided in the meeting that five-six water bodies would be developed in Yamunangar and Kurukshetra districts for the storage of excess water during the rainy season so that the same could be utilized for irrigation and related purposes. This would not only significantly boost the tourism activities in the area but also improve the underground water level in Kurukshetra, Pehowa, Ladwa and Radaur.

Saraswati River project is a prestigious project of the State Government as the water flowing in the River would not only help in overcoming the problem of dark zones in Yamunanagar, Karnal and Kaithal districts but also the un-channelized water which adversely affects the crops in the fields could be effectively utilized for irrigating fields and beautification of rural

It was also informed that Haryana Sarasvati Heritage Development Board (HSHDB) is going to organize 3-days International Saraswati Mahotsav-2021 from February 14 to February 16, 2021 at Adi Badri and Pehowa to showcase the rich heritage and history of the sacred river Saraswati where all of the ancient scriptures including the Vedas and Upanishads were written.

The situation seems to be under control. Recent mortality numbers of migratory birds are showing a declining trend continuously for the last two days. The control and containment measures to deal with the bird flu outbreak in Pong wetland continued for the 15th day, the official added.

It was on Monday last week when the bird flu was confirmed in carcasses of migratory birds found dead at ng Wetland.

Not only migratory birds, but crows have also died in various parts of the state. Till date, 215 native birds have been found dead in various parts of Himachal. 1000 dead domestic poul-

the Pong wetland which hosts more than one lakh winged guests during winter season. All the wetlands including Renuka wetland, which hosts migratory birds every year, wildlife sanctuaries and zoos in the state have been put on bird flu alert. Notably, humans can get infected by H5N1 only upon close interaction with infected live or dead birds, or H5N1-contaminated environments. If infected, humans tend to fall severely ill and also require hospitalisation.

Holding one's breath can increase chances of Covid infection: Research

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Researchers from IIT Madras have found that holding one's breath can increase the chances of a Covid-19 infection. They said that the process of virus-laden droplets being transported into deep lung increases with decreasing breathing frequency.

The research team led by Prof. Mahesh Panchagnula,
Department of Applied
Mechanics, IIT Madras, with his research scholars Arnab Kumar Mallik and Soumalya Mukherjee, IIT Madras modelled the breathing frequency in a laboratory and found that low breathing frequency increases the time of residence of the virus and therefore it increases chances of deposition and consequently the infection.

Also, the multiscale lung structure has a significant effect on a person's susceptibility to Covid-19, said the study which is published in the journal Physics of Fluids. Elaborating on the need for such research, Prof. Panchagnula, said, "Covid-19 (the disease caused by Coronavirus) has opened a gap in our understanding of deep pulmonological systemic

"Our study unravels the mystery behind how particles are transported and deposited in the deep lung. The study demonstrates the physical process by which aerosol particles are transported into the deep generations of the lung," he added.

Prof. Panchagnula's team worked to gain a deeper understanding of how the rate of flow of droplet laden with virus determines the deposition of the virus in the lungs.

In their research, the team reported that holding the breath and having low breathing rate can increase chances of virus deposition in the

The study was conducted to pave the way for developing better therapies and drugs for respiratory infections.

Previous work from the group has also highlighted the significant variability in aerosol uptake from individual to individual, suggesting a reason why some people are more susceptible to airborne diseases than others.

The IIT Madras research team imitated the droplet dynamics in the lung by studying the movement of droplets in the small capillaries which were of a diameter similar to bronchioles. They took water mixed with fluorescent particles and generated aerosols from this iquid using a nebulizer. These fluorescent aerosols were used to track the movement and deposition of particles in the capillaries. The researchers studied the movement of the fluorescent aerosol particles in capillaries of size ranging from 0.3 to 2 millimetres which covers the range of bronchiole They found that the deposition is inversely proportional to the aspect ratio of capillaries, which suggests that the droplets are likely to deposit in longer bronchi-

The scientists also studied how the 'Reynolds Number,' a parameter that quantifies the nature of flow - steady or turbulent, determines the deposition in the capillaries.

They found that when the flow of aerosol movement is steady then the particles deposit via the process of diffusion, however, if the flow is turbulent then the particles deposit via the process of

CDS Rawat reviews operational readiness of armed forces in Ladakh

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

With the impasse continu-ing at the Line of Actual Control (LAC) for the last nine months, Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat reviewed the operational readiness of the armed forces on Monday in Ladakh. He is also likely to visit some forward areas along the Incidentally, the CDS had an extensive tour of Arunachal

Pradesh some days back to check readiness. He interacted with the Army and Indo-Tibetan Border Police(ITBP)troops on some of the posts maintained by air. He also reviewed some air force bases and advanced landing grounds in the State facing China in the east. The top brass briefed him about the situation in the eastern sector. As regards the ongoing

Ladakh tour, officials said here on Monday he was apprised of the current situation on the 1,700 km LAC in Ladakh by the commanders of the Leh based Fire and Fury Corps'.

He was also updated about the army's preparedness to remain fighting fit during the harsh winter months. The briefing included logistical situation of winter clothing and prefabricated heated huts to enable the troops to withstand temperature dipping to minus 30 degrees.

As multiple rounds of talks at the military and diplomatic levels have so far failed to break the logjam, the Indian army was all geared up for a long haul during the ongoing winter season. At present, more than one lakh troops of India and China are facing each other in Ladakh thereby heightening tension.

During his tour of Ladakh Rawat was also likely to interact with troops at some bases in an effort to boost their morale, officials said. He was also likely to review the readiness of some of the fighting formations.

His visit came at a time with all the three Services have ramped up their war fighting machinery. The Army has deployed crack mountain troops in Ladakh besides gearing up its formations all along the 4,000 km long LAC stretching from Ladakh in the west to Arunachal Pradesh in the east. ₹6 Lakh along with other incriminating documents were seized from his possession.

The NIA took over the investigation of the case on July 21, 2018 and re-registered it to probe the case.

"Investigation has established that arrested accused Manoj Kumar Yadav, was working as an associate/ Over Ground Worker (OGW) of the CPI (Maoist), a proscribed terrorist organization, and was the conduit between the contractors and the banned organization.

With no clue available initially, break-through in the investigation was achieved subsequently after extensive and meticulous examination of sevtechnical analysis," the NIA said in a statement here. Investigation has also revealed that arrested accused Sunil Manjhi, Regional Committee Member of CPI (Maoist), and absconding accused Krishna Da, Regional Committee Member and Secretary, North Chotanagpur Zone of CPI (Maoist) were involved in raising funds by collecting levy through extortion for commission of terrorist activities by way of attacking security forces, damaging public and private property, disrupting public peace and killing innocent people.

It was further established during investigation that Manoj

Kumar Choudhary was also CPI (Maoist) cadre who used to collect the levy amounts and hand over the same to the other senior members of the proscribed organisation, it added.

the second edition of the ■ biennial pan-India coastal defence exercise 'Sea Vigil-21' will be conducted for two days starting Tuesday. The exercise will be undertaken along the entire 7,516 km coastline and Exclusive Economic Zone(EEZ) of India. The first such exercise was held in 2019.

Giving details here on Monday, the Navy said the drill will involve all the 13 coastal States and Union Territories along with other maritime stakeholders, including the fishing and coastal communities.

The exercise is being coordinated by the Indian Navy. entire coastal security set up was reorganised after the 26/11 Terror attack at Mumbai which was launched via the sea route.

The scale and conceptual expanse of the exercise is unprecedented in terms of the geographical extent, the number of stakeholders involved, the number of units participating and in terms of the objectives to be met.

The exercise is a build up towards the major Theatre level exercise TROPEX

[Theatre-level Readiness Operational Exercise] which Indian Navy conducts every two years. SEA VIGIL and TROPEX together will cover the entire spectrum of maritime security challenges, including transition from peace to conflict.

Assets of the Indian Navy Coast Guard, Customs and other maritime agencies will participate in the exercise, the conduct of which is also being facilitated by the Ministries of Defence, Home Affairs, Shipping, Petroleum and Natural Gas, Fisheries, Customs, Governments and other agen cies of Centre and State.

While smaller scale exercises are conducted in coastal states regularly, including combined exercises amongst adjoining states, the conduct of a security exercise at national-level is aimed to serve a larger purpose.

At present, India has a network of 903 protected areas across the States covering about 5 per cent of the total geographic area of the country. In order to assess the efficacy of protected areas, evaluation of management effectiveness is required, said the Minister.

He said that what other countries could not achieve, India has achieved and today has a thriving biodiversity. "70% of the global tiger population, 70% of asiatic lions and more than 60% of leopards population in India is a certificate of India's thriving biodiversity, as these big cats sit at the top of food chain and their growing numbers shows the well being of the whole ecosystem."

Management Effectiveness Evaluation (MEE) of Protected Areas (PAs) has emerged as a key tool for PA managers and is increasingly being used by governments and international bodies to understand the strengths and weaknesses of the protected area management systems. The results of the present assessment are encouraging with an overall mean MEE score of 62.01 per cent which is higher than the global mean of 56 per cent. On the occasion, the Management Effectiveness Evaluation of Indian Zoos (MEE-ZOO) framework was also released virus. Crows from Beed and Dapoli in Ratnagiri district were infected by H5N8 avian influenza virus. Similarly, 180 birds, including 128 hens, were found dead during the last few days in Latur district of Marathwada region.

Talking to media persons at Jalna where he had gone to celebrate his birthday, State Health Minister Rajesh Tope said that there was a need to sound "high alert" in the state.

There has been an outbreak of bird flu in many states. Maharashtra has also joined these states. Hundreds of crows have been found dead in Parbhani district The death rate among those affected by bird flu is 10 to 12 per cent To stop the spread of bird flu, the state animal husbandry department has to sound high alert in the state," Tope said.

Confirming the outbreak of bird flu in some parts of Maharashtra, State Animal Husbandry Department secretary Anoop Kumar said that the state government would intensify bio-safety measures in poultry farms so that there was no interface with wild birds. Kumar said that as part of the action plan being implemented to fight bird flu in the state, the culling of birds would begin from Tuesday. Kumar said that 8,000 to 10,000 birds within one-km radius of the infected zone in Parbhani would be culled on

Kumar, meanwhile, said that it was "safe" to consume eggs or chicken as the virus cannot withstand cooking temperatures. He said that people need not worry as infection to humans due to bird flu was 'rarest of rare'

In a related development, Thane Municipal Corporation has set up a control room to monitor the situation and appealed to people to promptly report any cases of bird deaths in the city. "The TMC will undertake a campaign to remove fear from the minds of citizens and give them appropriate information from time to time," a TMC

The earthquake occured at a shallow depth of 10 km near Doda and the epicentre is said to be Kishtwar. Shallow earthquakes are felt more strongly than deeper ones as they are closer to the surface.

According to ground reports, strong tremors were felt across Doda, Kishtwar ,Reasi and Udhampur districts. Large number of people came out of their homes during the earthquake. It created panic among the people. Several tremors have occured in the state over the past four

Yasin Malik, 9 others to be charged in Rubaiya Sayeed kidnapping case

 $M^{\rm ore\,than\,31}$ years after terrorists belonging to the Jammu & Kashmir Liberation Front (JKLF) had abducted Rubaiya Sayeed, younger daughter of former Home Minister Mufti Mohd Sayeed, a special TADA court in Jammu on Monday ordered that charges be framed against terrorist-turned-separatist leader Yasin Malik and nine others. The trial in the case is expected to begin soon.

Rubaiya Sayeed was kidnapped by the Jammu Kashmir Liberation Front on December 8, 1989 barely six days after Mufti Mohd Sayeed was sworn in as Union Home Minister. She was dragged out of a matador, popular mode of public transport and whisked away in a car from Nowgam area of Srinagar, by the JKLF terror-home from the local hospital at the time of her abduction at gunpoint.

As pressure mounted on the union government, five JKLF terrorists were released by Dr Farooq Abdullah government on December 13, 1989. Hours later Rubaiya Sayeed too was set free by the IKLF terrorists.

During a special hearing in the case, Special Judge TADA Court Sunit Gupta Monday ordered that charges be framed against Yasin Malik, Ali Mohamad Mir, Mohammad Zaman Mir, Iqbal Ahmad Gandroo, Javed Ahmad Mir, Mohammad Rafiq Pahloo alias Nana Ji alias Saleem, Manzoor Ahmed Sofi, Wajahat Bashir, Mehraj-ud-Din Sheikh and Showkat Ahmad Bakshi.

The court after hearing public prosecutor of the CBI

cate MA Goni besides going into confessional statements of other accused observed that sufficient grounds existed to presume that all the accused had committed offences.

According to the CBI, the accused had kidnapped Rubaiya Sayeed to force the government to release five terrorists.

Yasin Malik has been accused of playing a key role in the kidnapping that he and his associates executed.

"Hence, charges are required to be framed against each of the accused persons, separately," the court stated.

In March last year, a TADA court had also framed charges against Yasin Malik and six others allegedly involved in the killing of four unarmed Indian Air Force (IAF) officials in 1990 in Kashmir. Malik is currently

Famine will follow if Bengal picks BJP, claims Mamata

RANAGHAT/HABIBPUR/NADIA

Stopping short of calling the BJP a fascist force, Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday said that there is no difference between the saffron outfit and outgoing US President Donald Trump adding Bengal will witness a second famine if they come to power in the State.

"There is no difference between BJP and Trump as they represent two sides of the same coin," Banerjee said referring to how one party like the other refuses to concede defeat even after getting trounced in the elections. "Trump has lost the elections but wants to continue in power refusing to concede defeat. The BJP is no different from him and they too cling on to power after Hitting out at the saffron Government for forcing through the anti-farmer laws against which the entire farming community of the country had united in the outskirts of Delhi Banerjee said if the BJP is allowed to come to power in Bengal the State will be hit by a second Great Famine.

Bengal had lost lakhs of people in the Great Famine of 76. "The Great Famine will hit Bengal again if the BJP comes to power in the State" asking the farmers and the poor to reject the party in the coming Assembly elections.

The Chief Minister was speaking in an electoral rally at Habibpur in Nadia.

Earlier she demanded the withdrawal of the "oppressive farm laws" while paying tribute to former Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri on his 55th death anniversary.

Invoking Shashtri's slogan, "Jai Jawan, Jai Kisan" (hail the youth hail the farmers), Banerjee said that the interests

"We will not allow anyone to implement to force NRC or NPR in Bengal in the name of giving citizenship to people," Banerjee said adding "those who will try to implement NRC or NPR will be shoed away from the area by the local people."

Attacking the "turncoats" including senior TMC leaders and former Ministers who have left the ruling party to join the BJP Banerjee said that the "BJP today stands for Bharatiya Junk Party which accommodates all the junks from the TMC... adding "the BJP has come out with a formula according to which all the Kalo (black) becomes 'Bhalo' (good) after joining the BJP."

Pooh-pooing the BJP for holding out a false dream of 'Sonar Bangla" or Golden Bengal, Banerjee said "they are feeding you a false dream of Sonar Bangla. But there is no need of that as we already have made a Sonar Bangla ...now we are proceeding to accomplish the dream of Biswa Bangla (Global Bengal).

"On January 13 or 14 according to convenience of our national President J P Nadda and Karnataka incharge (general secretary Arun Singh), by inviting them, swearing in ceremony will be organised," Yediyurappa told reporters here.

After paying tributes to former prime minister Lal Bahadur Shastri on his death anniversary, he said, about seven people will be inducted.

Asked whether it will be cabinet expansion or reshuffle, he said, "let's see, you will get to know." On returning from New Delhi after holding discussions with Nadda and Union Home Minister Amit Yediyuurappa had on Sunday said seven members would be inducted and that he will finalise the names on Monday.

Yediyurappa was waiting to carry out the expansion/reshuffle as he was asked by the BJP president during their meeting in New Delhi on November 18 to wait for the clearance from the central leadership.

Amid reports that he might be dropped, Excise Minister H Nagesh said he was not aware of any such move.

The Minister said he was promised that he would not be eased out from the cabinet as he had played a crucial role in the BJP forming government and he trusted the chief minister.

'It is I who paved the way for BJP government formation, CM and people of the state are aware of it," Nagesh, a minister in the previous JDS-Congress government, said.

PAPER WITH PASSION SC reprimands Govt

Court wants farm laws paused till the deadlock with farmers can be resolved through dialogue, not judicial intervention

It has happened again; the Supreme Court reminding the Executive to carry out its functions rather than relying on legal intervention on matters that it is perfectly equipped to handle. Except, this time, it was an admonishment of sorts, exasperation even, with the Government for not heeding past counsel and passing the buck to escape its share of the blame. So the top court reminded the Government, which washed its hands of the impasse with farmers over new agricultural laws, that it could not ignore its role in what was essentially a matter of policy. In a stinging rap, the judges re-emphasised the need for a consultative process to resolve the vexed issue, asking the Government whether it would pause the implementation of the farm laws, or else the court would. It further drew attention to dialogue as the only way out, asking "What's the ego here?" and if the Government was "part of the problem or solution?" Considering that it had earlier highlighted the importance of setting up a mediatory committee, the court rightly took umbrage at the Government's ignorance of such recommendation and its rigidity. By calling out the Government on its stubbornness, the court clearly laid out the virtues of democratic discourse. Besides, it kept the Centre accountable to farmers, a task that the latter was hoping to tie up in legalities. The court, hearing a clutch of petitions challenging the farm laws and farmer agitations at the Delhi border, was also deeply concerned about the human dimension, raising questions about suicides and even old men and women holding out in the harsh weather. Clearly, it didn't want a civil movement to get out of hand because of the Government's intransigence and, at the same time, warned against a crackdown, with Chief Justice of India SA Bobde saying: "We do not want blood on our hands." By suggesting that the protests could continue even after the laws' implementation was stayed, the court made it clear that dissent needed its space. Nor could the Centre "blame the previous Governments" for it, it added, an indictment of its tendency to attribute anything antithetical as the Opposition's conspiracy.

It would be easy to describe the court's stern stand as a win for the farmers' unions but the fact of the matter is that it is a denunciation of the Government's political failure. Had the Government preferred the Standing Committee's scrutiny over pushing the law unceremoniously with a voice vote in the Upper House, things would not have come to such a pass. A GST-like consensus involving the Centre and States would have helped, since agriculture-related issues come under the State List in Schedule VII of the Constitution. The laws may sound well-intended, reformist and help farmers in the long run but shouldn't the Government then have hand-held them through the transition? What stopped it from considering amendments or a "clause by clause" analysis while the laws were on the drawing board? In that sense, the Government is solely responsible for fomenting protests in the first place. The farmers are not against market economics but simply want a level playing field. Experts may argue that the protest is being led by cultivators from Punjab and Haryana, who have benefited because of the Government's guaranteed pickup of volumes and fixed rates, namely the Minimum Support Price (MSP). But with the MSP itself becoming unremunerative given the rising input costs, with the farmers forced to sell at lower rates, they are but naturally wary of competitive prices in the open market. The small and marginal farmers, the lot of whom the Acts intend to improve, would not gain that much either, given their limited resources to transport their goods to the local mandis, leave alone to bigger markets. Besides, without proper warehousing and processing, they would anyway be dependent on the food majors. With most of them not literate enough to exercise their rights, dispute resolution could also end up being loaded against them. The farmers need to be legally protected in what is still an unequal deal.

The Sydney stain

Cricket Australia must take expeditious and strict action against the racial bigots and make an example of them

ricket, they say, is a gentleman's game. But the disgrace which occurred on the fourth day of the ongoing third Test at the Sydney Cricket Ground (SCG) doesn't bear witness to this adage at all. Team India pacer Mohammed Siraj was subjected to abuse by a section of racist Australian supporters who called him "Brown dog" and "Big monkey" before being evicted from the stands by security officials when the bowler complained to his captain Ajinkya Rahane, who was quick to take up the matter with the on-field umpires. What is worse is that such shameful indiscretion, nonchalance and mindset of the Aussie spectators is a recurring theme, given that even the previous day Siraj and Jasprit Bumrah were on the receiving end of racial abuse.

According to a media report, the Australian fans had been drunk. "Bumrah and Siraj were called monkeys, wker and moer by the people almost throughout the time they were fielding at the boundary," it claimed. What lends more currency to the two Indian bowlers' allegation is the fact that a number of cricketers — including Sachin Tendulkar, Harbhajan Singh, Ravichandran Ashwin and Virat Kohli — have come out to counter the New South Wales Police's claim that the six fans were only "welcoming Siraj to Sydney" by unequivocally stating that they had had also undergone many incidents where "really pathetic things were said" near the boundary rope.

But it has been an issue in Australian sport stretching back decades, on and off the field. Aficionados would vividly remember the Monkeygate scandal involving Harbhajan Singh and Andrew Symonds during the second India-Australia Test in Sydney in 2008-2009, and Kohli's flipping response — yes, to the Sydney crowd, again — in the 2011-12 series. Then, Cricket Australia was forced to lodge an investigation when England cricketer Moeen Ali accused an Australian player of name-calling him during the 2015 Ashes series. In his autobiography, Ali had revealed that he was called "Osama" by an Australian player. As per an extract, an Australian player had turned to him on the field and said: "Take that, Osama." The Englishman had asserted that he "could not believe" what he had heard at the time. Similarly, former Australian Test star Usman Khawaja has previously said he was abused so much growing up that he refused to support the national side, and claimed racism once even played a role in selections for the team. Even off the field, several attacks on Indian students across different Australian cities have been ascribed to "racism" and "racial overtones" and, during the early stages of the COVID-19 pandemic, Asians were targeted by linking them to the likely origin of the disease in China. The International Cricket Council's (ICC) "anti-racism code" clearly banishes "engaging in any conduct (whether through the use of language, gestures or otherwise) which is likely to offend, insult, humiliate, intimidate, threaten, disparage or vilify any reasonable person in the position of a player, player support personnel, umpire, match referee, umpire support personnel or any other person (including a spectator) on the basis of their race, religion, culture, colour, descent, national or ethnic origin". It is high time, therefore, that Cricket Australia, in tandem with the police authorities, take expeditious and strict action against the racist bigots and make an example of them so that their, and that of others like them, perfidiousness comes to a permanent halt. The ongoing series is currently locked 1-1 and the finale is scheduled in Brisbane from January 15.

A 'Hindu patriot'?

Gandhi's idea of Swaraj was admittedly shaped by his Hindu ethos. But can it be overlooked that he sacrificed Hindu interests for Pan-Islamism?

n 2003, the trio of JK Bajaj Professor MD Srinivas and AP Joshi came out with a path-breaking 'Religious Demography of India'. It revealed the changing share of different religious communities in India, based on the Census figures between 1881 and 1991. The Partition was a watershed moment in India's inter-communal relations. The study, however, suggests that it was far from the culmination. Muslims are still the fastest growing community in India, particularly in certain pockets close to the frontiers or coastline. Numerous districts of India, often contiguous, betrayed a significantly higher growth rate of the Muslim population. A belt of Muslim concentration districts spans Jammu & Kashmir (J&K), western Uttar Pradesh (UP), north-eastern Bihar, West Bengal and Assam, running almost into Bangladesh.

Way back in 1912, Colonel UN Mukherji (based on his study of Censuses 1881 to 1911) had stated that the Hindus were a "dying" race. Bajaj's team – through a more exhaustive analysis of the Census figures — concluded that the changes on the ground were far too serious in independent India than those in the colonial era. These developments could not be without severe consequences for India.

It was a book about India's future, or rather challenges to it, which those in power should have taken note of. However, the Atal Bihari Vajpayee Government soon lost power in May 2004. The UPA-1 Government attuned its policies to the growing Muslim clout. It set up the Sachar Committee to study Muslim underdevelopment, created an independent Ministry of Minority Affairs permanently headed by a Muslim Minister and announced lakhs of scholarships for the minorities, where the lion's share went to Muslims. It was in a sense Bajaj's predictions coming true; Muslim demographic heft was moulding State policies.

However, those with whom he shared his ideological affinity also did not seem to realise the would hardly read or quote from his laborious work. Though Bajaj's Centre for Policy Studies continued to function and even secured its own building in Central Delhi (which apparently meant that it was able to monetise its projects, or obtain funding), his path-breaking work was not sufficiently appreciated by those on whom he had pinned his hopes Since 2014, India seems to have come under a divinelyordained Prime Minister. The Hindu nationalists have reasons to be upbeat. However, the pro-minority (read Muslim) policies of the Government have only got bigger and better. New schemes like Nai Manzil, USTTAD and Gharib Nawaz have been started by the Modi Government. Almost ₹2,082 crore were disbursed towards pre-matric, postmatric and merit-cum-meansbased scholarships during financial year (FY) 2019-20, marking a definite improvement over the ₹1,739 crore worth of scholarships during FY 2013-14. The ambit of Pradhan Mantri Jan Vikas Karyakram (previously called multi-sectoral development programme for the minorities) has been expanded to 308 districts from mere 90 under the UPA Government. What was previously alleged as "appeasement" is now being re-interpreted as "empowerment". All the Congress-era institutions are functioning well. However, this Government never appointed a Commissioner for Linguistic Minorities, though it is a constitutional post.

The book, titled 'Making of a Hindu Patriot: Background of Gandhi's Hind Swaraj, is based mostly on Gandhi's own correspondences and conversations. As evident, it deals with the period prior to 1908, when the Hind Swaraj was published. Gandhi spent 24 years in South Africa before returning to India in January 1915. This columnist, though he is yet to see the book, is in no doubt that the authors would have done a thorough job. However, was the subject really worth the massive labour the two authors put up? Further, does this really contribute something to India's future as their previous work on religious demography did?

The crux of the authors' argument is that Gandhi's political outlook was shaped by profound Hindu convictions. Those having read the speeches and correspondences of Gandhi would know that this is correct. Expressions like "I speak as a Hindu" and "our Hindu scriptures say that..." frequently appear in his literature. He mainstreamed the concepts like satyagraha, ashram, brahmacharya, Ram rajya, upvaas (fast), maun (silence), Daridra Narayan, de-colonise the Indian mind. However, why would such a person, with deep formative influence of Hinduism, zealously take up the Khilafat Movement to restore the deposed Sultan of Turkey on his throne? Gandhi precondition for any political action. He went to the extent of distorting the bhajan "Raghupati Raghav Raja Ram" to include words like Allah, Rahim and Karim. Gandhi described the marauding Moplahs in Malabar as "God-fearing people" and (at the Guwahati Congress, 1926) refused to censure Abdul Rashid, the assassin of Swami Shraddhanand, but rather called him a "brother" who had

BR Ambedkar — in his landmark book Pakistan, or the Partition of India - wondered whether any sane man could go to the extent that Gandhi went for the sake of Hindu-Muslim unity. However, while Gandhi harmed the Hindu interests, he failed to impress the Muslims either. They dissociated themselves from the leadership of Gandhi soon as the Khilafat Non-Cooperation Movement ended in a fiasco. Rather, the Muslims turned upon the Hindus as though they were responsible for Mustafa Kemal Pasha's abolition of the Caliphate. Gandhi had to acknowledge that every Muslim was a bully, and every Hindu a coward.

Gandhi fraternised with (1884-1963), the evil genius of Great Calcutta Killings (August 1946) to the extent that the latter could attend Gandhi's prayers at Birla House in New Delhi (September 1947) as Subimal Dutt (later India's Foreign Secretary) found him patriot" should act? One wonders what purpose will be served by identifying a "Hindu patriot" in Gandhi in South Africa. In South Africa, the Hindu-Muslim question was either non-existent or subservient to the question of colonial policy. The immigrant Indians were a small minority among the huge native black population and tiny White rulers. Gandhi's test of Hinduism was in the India between the years of Khilafat Movement to the Muslim League's campaign for Pakistan. He failed the test miserably.

Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) chief Mohan Rao Bhagwat launching the book is perhaps an indication of 'Gandhi-tisation of the RSS" even though the Hindus might continue to put its faith in the organisation as their saviour. If Gandhi were really a "Hindu patriot", KB Hedgewar need not have founded the RSS in 1925. Moreover, the Gandhi that one comes across in the Hind Swaraj or Indian Home Rule (1908) is a person who wants to disengage with all forms of viz; railways, machinery, law courts, Parliament and so on. Is it the way forward for the much-touted "New India"?

Alternative to WhatsApp

Sir — The recent change in the privacy policy of WhatsApp is like holding people to ransom. Even though the service provider has clarified that the change is only to facilitate business, there is no assurance that personal chats will not be tracked.

The credibility of WhatsApp is now lost and people should avoid using it for messages related to business transactions. The banks should withdraw all the services provided through WhatsApp and courts may also review the earlier decision of allowing WhatsApp for official communication.

In the age of technology, privacy is of utmost importance and the Government should frame rules to ensure that no company is allowed to compromise on the privacy and safety of end users.

It is also an opportunity for the Government to promote 'Make In India' by encouraging young entrepreneurs to develop indigenous social media platforms similar to WhatsApp. That will not only safeguard the privacy of common people but also of businesses and the Government. M Raghuraman

Sad state of fire safety system in Govt hospitals

he recent fire tragedy at a Government hospital in Maharashtra's Bhandara district is yet another incident that shows the pathetic state of fire safety system at State-run hospitals.

It reminds us of similar tragedies in the past that were apparently not horrible enough to wake up the authorities from slumber. Ten infants have been killed in the fire that gutted the newborn care unit at the General Hospital. The gory incident shows how safety norms are thrown out of the window when it comes to saving lives. Safety measures, even in the best of Government hospitals, are not up to the mark and lack standard features. The casual approach towards standardising the protective system in State-run hospitals is scary. It is doubtful whether a clearance from the relevant safety authorities is procured by such district-level hospitals. The question that jumps to one's mind is whether fire audits are carried out regularly? Are the firefighting equipment monitored periodically?

The need for maintenance of electrical wiring on a regular basis cannot be stressed enough. It is also the responsibility of hospital staff and relatives of patients who regularly smoke, ignoring the rules and putting the lives of others in grave danger. There are many inflammable materials and waste in hospitals that can catch fire easily. In a fire emergency, extinguishment and evacuation have to be accorded top priority. It is high time the authorities take preventive steps on war-footing and make the fire safety system more robust

Neglected elderly

Sir — We as a society have failed to take care of our elderly. The problems faced by the older people are mainly due to the disintegration of the traditional joint family system. In the nucleated families, the elderly are mostly left to take care of themselves or at the mercy of a caretaker who often ill-treats them. Moreover, geriatrics is still a neglected area in modern medicine. The private old-age homes are very expensive and mostly out of reach for a large section of society.

The expenditure of elderly care is ballooning in the absence of concrete models of support from the Government. We are still ill-prepared to deal with the problems confronting the elderly population like chronic illness, mental health problems, illtreatment by caregivers and so on. Our economic growth will not be sustainable in the true sense if we fail to empower our older people and create a safe environment for them

Bhagwan Thadani

Stop caste bias Sir — It is very saddening that a few days ago, a Muslim shopkeeper was detained by police for selling shoes embossed with the word 'Thakur' on the soles in Uttar Pradesh's Bulandshahr.

The incident raises uncomfortable questions about our society and politics. It also shows where we are headed as a nation and society. Why a caste name on the shoe becomes incendiary when a Muslim sells it and not when others do? Shopkeepers have sold 'Thakur' footwear in UP and elsewhere for decades without it kicking up any dust. Are we reaching a situation where to use a certain title is to invite trouble and legal action?

Such incidents show that we are sitting on top of a volcano which can erupt anytime leading to caste and class conflicts in the society. It is the responsibility of the State Government to ensure that no injustice is done to the poor shopkeeper and his livelihood is not affected.

Drama in the US is not over yet

US President Donald Trump might make some more attempts to subvert democracy till January 20, when President-elect Joe Biden takes over here is a WhatsApp message doing the rounds: "Americans recently found out that it's much easier for them to change presidents in other countries than in their own nation." So, how does the largest democracy, India, compare with the oldest one, the US, on practising democracy?

All through the presidential campaign, outgoing US President Donald Trump had declared that he would not move out of the White House even if he were defeated. His rival, President-elect Joe Biden, retorted that he (Trump) would be escorted out by the military. But no one expected an attack on the Capitol Hill, which is regarded as the temple of democracy in the US. Trump has spent the last two months refusing to concede defeat and claiming mass voter fraud. But the worst was his instigation of the Capitol Hill riots. According to the US media, Trump began his most infamous Wednesday morning making a last-ditch effort to hold on to power with a tweet, asking his Vice-President Mike Pence to intervene and overturn Joe Biden's election. Pence publicly issued a letter in the afternoon declaring that he would not illegally intervene in the Congress, minutes before convening the joint session of the US Congress to certify the Electoral College. Trump addressed his supporters about 1 PM and declared: "We will never give up, we will never concede," and announced "We're going to the Capitol." Trump drove his supporters into a frenzy. However, he did not join them in the riots that followed in the Capitol Hill and went back to the White House and watched the destruction on television. At the end of Wednesday, after the US Congress confirmed Biden's victory, Trump declared: "Even though I disagree with the outcome of the election, and the facts bear me out, nevertheless, there will be an orderly transition on January 20.'

There are many reasons for Trump's atrocious behaviour. First of all, he is a bad loser and reluctant to admit defeat. Even in 2016, Trump had declared that he would accept the poll results only if he won or else he would resort to legal action. Second, now that he has lost the presidency, he would lose all federal protection against prosecution. Third, he needs his followers to be his support base in case he makes a presidential bid in 2024. He is also depending on the 73 million who voted for him this time. It is speculated that Trump has made up his mind to contest the next elections and wants to play the role of a martyr. Fourth, he also has to keep the section of Republicans who support him in the party, happy. This contemptible attack on the US democracy makes one compare it to the largest democracy, India, that has gone through many trials and tribulations in the last 73 years. India has seen a smooth transfer of power 17 times. The electorate, too, has become mature over the decades since Independence and has punished authoritarian rulers. Even late Prime Minister Indira Gandhi who imposed an Emergency in 1975 worked within the system, which bears little direct parallels to the current situation in the US.

After declaring an Emergency under Article 352 of the Indian Constitution, Indira blamed the "hidden hand" of the Central Intelligence Agency for internal unrest. The late President Pranab Mukherjee, who had been a Congressman all his life, talked about the Emergency period in his book 'The Dramatic Decade: The Indira Gandhi Years.' He described the period thus: "Suspension of fundamental rights and political activity (including trade union activity), large-scale arrests of political leaders and activists, Press censorship and extending the life of legislatures by not conducting elections were some instances of Emergency adversely affecting the interests of the people. Congress and Indira Gandhi had to pay a heavy price for this misadventure." The Emergency officially ended on March 23, 1977. The Congress came down from 352 seats to just 189 seats in the Lok Sabha in the 1977 elections. The Janata Party came to power. However, once the people's anger subsided a subdued Indira came back to power in 1980 when the Janata Government collapsed. Since then, her successors have confined themselves to the boundaries of the Constitution. Even in States where cult leaders like Tamil Nadu Chief Minister J Jayalalithaa or RJD leader Lalu Prasad ruled in an authoritarian manner, they did so within the confines of the Constitution. So, to that extent, India has been lucky that democracy survives

The US democracy got a major jolt on Wednesday and it is not over yet as Trump might make some more attempts to subvert democracy till January 20, when Biden takes over. The framers of the US Constitution would never have expected such shameful behaviour by a sitting President. In the words of Bob Woodward: "When history is written, Trump's failure to heed the warnings he was given is going to be probably the story of the failure of the American presidency and the American system to nominate and elect someone who responsibly would carry out the duties of

Stop chasing a mirage

The Govt needs to pursue disinvestment, including privatisation, as an objective by itself instead of linking it to revenue receipts and meeting the fiscal target

UTTAM GUPTA

¬he Department of Investment and Public Asset Management (DIPAM) is in a war of words with the Ministry of Finance (MoF) over the proceeds of disinvestment of the Government's shareholding in Central Public Sector Undertakings (CPSUs) during 2020-21. Sector Undertakings (CPSUs) during 2020-21. The point raised by the DIPAM is that out of the ₹2,10,000 crore target fixed in the Union Budget, a big slice of ₹90,000 crore, was thrust upon it by the MoF as being the projected proceeds from the sale of 10 per cent shares in the Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) and its residual stake in IDBI bank (during 2018-19, LIC acquired 51 per cent stake in IDBI Bank even as the balance 49 per cent remained with the the balance 49 per cent remained with the

Leave aside ₹90,000 crore, even the balance ₹1,20,000 crore is nowhere within reach as the proceeds so far are a meagre ₹14,000 crore. The Narendra Modi Government's strategy of disinvestment pursued during the last seven years has not worked. This is because barring two years i.e. 2017-18 and 2018-19 — when the actual proceeds from divestment exceeded the goal - in the remaining five years the target fell short. Even during those two exceptional years, the good performance was made possible primarily due to two big ticket sales of the Union Government's shares in one CPSU to another. This was the sale of its 51.11 per cent shareholding in Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited (HPCL) to the Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC) during 2017-18 yielding ₹37,000 crore and the sale of its 52.63 per cent stake in the Rural Electrification Corporation (REC) to the Power Finance Corporation (PFC) 2018-19 that brought in ₹13,000 crore. But, for these, even during 2017-18 and 2018-19, actual proceeds would have fall-

These trends point towards bad handling of the disinvestment process. At the root of this is the faulty approach of the Union Government to treat CPSUs as an appendage to the administrative Ministry under which the PSU concerned falls and by extension, treating proceeds from divestment of its shareholding in them as a source of revenue (albeit non-tax) while preparing its with a degree of certainty (the crucial determinants being the prevailing tax rate as per the law of the land and the value of economic activity), the same can't be said about the proceeds from disinvestment. In this case, a lot depends on the market scenario and, in particular, the perception of investors about the PSU in which share sale is contemplated. It is even more relevant in cases where strategic disinvestment is mooted. Under such a sale, the shareholding of the Union Government is brought down to below 50 per cent or even zero. For instance, the sale of its entire shareholding of 51.11 per cent in HPCL or sale of its entire 53.29 per cent shareholding in Bharat Petroleum Corporation Limited (BPCL) that was initiated in 2019-20 and has not yet happened. In such cases, if you don't get a buyer, the sale won't materialise. The proof of the pudding is in the eating.

As per the original plan, the 51.11 per cent shares of the Union Government in HPCL were to be sold to a private investor. But things did not pan out as planned and towards the fag end of that year i.e. January 2018, the Government had to ask ONGC to pick up the entire stake, as it desperately needed money to meet the fiscal deficit target (in the process, ONGC suffered a collateral damage as it had to borrow ₹35,000 crore to fund the purchase). The second flaw has to do with the Government's reluctance to transfer rights proportionate to shares sold to private parties.

Even in cases where strategic disinvestment is proposed, it wants to remain in the driver's seat. To get an idea, look at what Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said in her Budget speech for 2019-20. She had stated that the intent was to change the extant policy of the Government "directly" hold-ing 51 per cent or above in a CPSU to one whereby its total holding, "direct" plus "indirect", is maintained at 51 per

Such a stingy approach and the unwillingness of the political establishment to relinquish control even after divestment of majority ownership is far from potential investors. Third, the Government spends too much time on policy formulation — a process that goes on ad infinitum. In early 2016, the NITI Aayog had recommended a strategic sale of over two dozen CPSUs. But, the powers that be didn't act on those recommendations.

Meanwhile, early this year, Sitharaman announced broad contours of the Government's plans on privatisation, delineating different approaches to "strategic" (16 such sectors have been identified) and "nonstrategic" sectors. Reportedly, a meeting of the Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs (CCEA) will be held shortly to approve the policy.

Allowing for about a year for the NITI Aayog to come up with its recommendations, it has been more than five years and the policy on strategic disinvestment has not been finalised vet. Till that happens, the Ministries concerned won't gain the necessary momentum to push the sale process. Even after a divestment plan for a PSU is finalised, the Government remains in a flip-flop mode. For instance, in the case of Air India (AI), in its initial sale plan (2018-19), it had insisted on retaining 26 per cent stake, three years' lock-in period on disposition of shares by the acquirer, leaving a big slice of debt on the balance sheet, retention of employees and so on. Since then several changes have been made. The offer plan currently under execution includes divestment of all of the Government's shareholding, requiring the suitor to bid for the "enterprise value" (put simply, it means, he will be free from any debt burden), relaxation in other riders such as lockin period, retention of employees and

These flip-flops result in avoidable delays and erosion in the sale proceeds. If, only the Government had gone for sale of its 100 per cent stake in its 2018-19 offer and not insisted on the suitor AI's books, further erosion in the realisable value from sales could have been avoided. Fourth, notwithstanding much trumpeting about governance reforms, bureaucratic red tape rules the roost. Almost all processes starting from conception, getting approvals, appointment of transaction advisor, inviting an Expression of Interest, financial bids, selection of bidder and so on, crucial to successful completion of disinvestment are hamstrung by it. Add to this, the reluctance of bureaucrats to take timely decisions fearing they might be questioned after retirement.

This leads to delay in processes and by the time, all approvals are in place, the market scenario has undergone a drastic change. For instance, the sale of BPCL was planned during 2019-20. Then, the projected realisation from sale was over ₹60,000 crore. But, the officials were not ready. Even as they exuded confidence that the sale would go through during the current year, the pandemic has spoilt the party. The chances of the sale getting completed by March 31 this year are dim. Meanwhile, there has been significant value erosion, even as the proceeds on current valuation may not exceed

To conclude, the present approach of the Government to link divestment of its shareholding in CPSUs to using receipts (non-tax) therefrom to meet the fiscal deficit target is flawed. It should be abandoned. Instead, the Government should pursue share sale including strategic disinvestment (or privatisation) as an objective by itself. In this regard, formulation of an appropriate strategy and preparation of a PSU-specific plan should come from the management (it is best equipped to do the job) instead of being thrust on it by the concerned administrative Ministry under a typical top-down approach.

However, the Government may sionals (sans bureaucrats) for providing guidance on macro-economic issues that have a bearing on the disinvestment process and can be helpful in maximising realisation from the sale.

In the current scenario, wherein the Government is encouraging private companies to invest even in sensitive areas such as defence, space and so on, there is no point in getting bogged down in drawing a line between strategic and non-strategic sectors. Any decision to privatise a PSU should be taken on the merit of each case.

This will give the much-needed flexibility to the management to decide the contours and timing of the divestment, taking into account market conditions. This will help in maximising proceeds from sales and improve the Centre's budgetary position, too.

The drugless way to good health

Sujok has become popular among people suffering from chronic diseases, especially among the poor who can't afford costly hospitals

s the world battles the Coronavirus pandemic and Other zoonotic diseases that are plaguing humanity, it is vital to keep healthy and boost immunity. Apart from the use of various allopathic drugs and ayurvedic tonics, people are trying out alternative therapies to improve their overall health and immunity.

One such therapy is Sujok, which was invented by late Park Jae Woo, a Korean professor, a few decades ago. It is a drugless method of treatment and is a mixture of acupuncture and other healing methods. Su means hand while jok means palm. Sujok is thus a method of treatment based on the principle that all parts of the body have a positional link in our palms and feet and it thus focuses only on treating through points in the hands and

After successfully treating many chronic diseases in his country, Prof Park chose India to propagate this therapy and established the Sujok Association of India in Nagpur. He groomed and trained a few physio-therapists and other interested people and kept on visiting India to popularise this drugless treatment.

Sujok in recent years has become very popular in some parts of India among people suffering from chronic diseases liked axonal neuropathy, cerebral palsy and so on, especially among the poor people who cannot afford costly treatment in big hospitals. It is becoming popular because it is a very safe and effective natural therapy that works without medicines.

Sujok treatment is carried out by using various instruments, like tiny needles and magnets specially defined and made with precision to carry out specialised, specific treatment on the hands and feet. Sujok needles are made of medical grade steel, have spring-like handles on one side and are perfectly shaped for painless insertion by experts. The therapy also uses the energy of various seeds and colours for treatment. One of the most effective ways to massage the points of the body part where the treatment is needed is done by a diagnostic and therapeutic stick after identifying the exact points and then treating those points by mas-Magnets are the most important tools in the armoury of a Sujok healer. They are used to channelise the flow of energy in the identified body part. Yet another way is the application of elastic ring massagers to provide continuous pressure on the identified

As for the efficacy of the treatment, Sujok practitioners give a long list of diseases which can be cured by them like arthritis, bronchitis, asthma, cervical spondylosis, backache, pain in the joint, migraine, hypertension, sinusitis, partial deafness, paralysis, constipation, acidity, obesity, diabetes, blood pressure, menstrual problems and many more diseases related to different body organs. However, practitioners say they find it to be successful in all muscle and nerve-related diseases, too.

For instance, a senior retired veterinary surgeon who was admitted to medical college hospital in Dehradun, was later treated by the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS), Delhi, for almost eight months for axonal neuropathy. He was put through 84 tests but to no avail. Ultimately, out of frustration he contacted a Sujok expert in Dehradun and was cured in 90 days. Today he is fine and his nerve conduction value has reached 56 per cent in medical terms from 14 per cent. Similarly two children suffering from cerebral palsy children have returned home after fully recovering, thanks to Sujok therapy.

In a huge, overpopulated and poor country like India, providing affordable healthcare to all is still a very big challenge for the Government and the private sector alike. Even though the healthcare infrastructure has been ramped up to a very large extent due to the COVID-19 pandemic, it is far from adequate. At a time like this, when a lot of emphasis is on prevention of the infection, ayurvedic and traditional systems of medicine have proved their efficacy in bolstering the immune system. In the treatment of chronic diseases, where Sujok therapy has achieved excellent results, it needs to be subsumed in the holistic and alternative healthcare system so that it can be evolved to provide cheaper and assured healthcare to our citizens. Health Minister Harsh Vardhan, who is a celebrated doctor himself, needs to evolve an integrated healthcare policy for certain identified diseases where a combination of all forms of medical therapies can be applied.

Sujok therapy offers the Indian Government an excellent way to treat some untreatable diseases at an affordable cost. However, it should not be included without testing its efficacy and solid scientific proof. To judge its potential and effectiveness, the . Government must ask AIIMS, Delhi, and other prestigious medical institutions in the country to conduct studies and standardise the protocols for identified diseases before Sujok therapy is officially recognised. Even as Sujok therapy continues to grow in popularity globally and help countless people suffering from chronic diseases, Sujok leaders in Korea, particularly Minchul Park, son of professor Park who heads the Sujok International Foundation, have their task cut out. Park, must rid the Sujok India Association of vested interests who are not allowing new practitioners to flourish and are putting up roadblocks in the spread of the therapy for their own selfish interests.

One can only hope that in the end, Sujok will spread widely across the country and become a boon for the poor and rich alike.

THE UK NEEDS TO INVEST IN HEALTH

Spending on health and social care in the UK is lower than in many comparable countries. It is good that so many British people value the NHS; indeed, it is a cornerstone of progressive politics. But a resilient health system cannot be run on goodwill. What it needs, particularly in a country with an ageing population, is sustained and strategic investment.

Dems step up bid to impeach Trump

Washington: Democrats in the House of Representatives have stepped up their bid to impeach Donald Trump in the waning days of his presidency, contending that he should be held accountable for the unprecedented mayhem by thousands of his supporters at the US Capitol.

The move to impeach Trump gained momentum on Sunday with the House Democrats announcing to introduce the article of impeachment against the outgoing Republican president on Monday.

The announcement Sunday comes as Pompeo and his top aides rush to complete actions they believe will cement their legacy and the presidents. In addition to the Houthi designation, Pompeo in coming days is also expected to likely re-designate Cuba as a "state sponsor of terrorism," according to several administration officials. Both moves will impose or

Armenian, Azerbaijani leaders in Russia for talks

AP ■ MOSCOW

Russian President Vladimir Putin on Monday hosted his counterparts from Armenia and Azerbaijan, their first meeting since a Russia-brokered truce ended six weeks of fighting over Nagorno-Karabakh.

As he sat down for talks in the Kremlin with Azerbaijan's President Ilham Aliyev and Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan, Putin said that the peace agreement has been successfully implemented, laying the foundation for a fair settlement of the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict.

He noted that senior officials from Armenia, Azerbaijan and Russia will now discuss further moves to restore traffic links in the region after the decades-long conflict.

The November 10 peace deal ended 44 days of hostilities in which the Azerbaijani army routed Armenian forces and reclaimed control over large parts of Nagorno-Karabakh and surrounding areas.

Nagorno-Karabakh lies within Azerbaijan but was under the control of ethnic Armenian forces backed by Armenia since a separatist war there ended in 1994.

China denies coercive birth control measures in Xinjiang

Chinese official on Amonday denied Beijing has imposed coercive birth control measures among Muslim minority women, following an outcry over a tweet by the Chinese Embassy in Washington claiming that govwomen of the Uighur ethnic group from being "baby-making machines."

Xu Guixiang, a deputy spokesperson for the Xinjiang regional government, told reporters Monday that birth control decisions were made of the person's own free will and that "no organisation or individual can interfere."

"The growth rate of the Uighur population is not only higher than that of the whole Xinjiang population, but also higher than that of the minority population, and more significantly higher than that of the (Chinese majority) Han population," Xu said.

"As for the so-called forcing ethnic minority women in Xinjiang to wear IUDs, or abortions, it is even more

Merkel: Trump's Twitter eviction problematic

Berlin: German Chancellor Angela Merkel considers US President Donald Trump's eviction from Twitter by the company "problematic," her spokesman said Monday.

Twitter permanently suspended Trump from the microblogging platform on Friday, citing a "risk of further incitement of violence" in the e of the storming of the US Capitol by supporters of the outgoing president. Asked about Twitter's decision, Merkel's spokesman, Steffen Seibert, said the operators of social media platforms "bear great responsibility for political communication not being poisoned by hatred, by lies and by incitement to violence." He said it's right not to "stand back" when such content is posted, for example by flagging it.

WHO experts' team tasked to probe origins of Covid to visit China on Jan 14

Beijing: China said on Monday that a group of experts from the WHO is due to arrive in the country on Thursday to probe the origins of the coronavirus pandemic, ending the uncertainty and delay which drew sharp criticism from the world health body. Experts from the WHO will conduct a field visit to China on January 14, the state-run CGTN quoted China's National Health Commission as saying in a report. The team's visit to China, especially to Wuhan where the virus first emerged in December last year, has become a bone of contention as Beijing, which questions the widely-team of experts. On January 9, Zeng Yixin, the deputy head of the National Health Commission (NHC) told the media here that the exact time of the team's arrival in Wuhan was still under negotiations. China and the World Health Organization arrangements of the investigation with four video conferences, Zeng said. Once the WHO experts complete their procedures and finalise the schedule, Chinese experts will go to Wuhan with them to conduct the investigation, Zeng said.

Monday's confirmation came after WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, who is often accused of being pro-China, in a rare instance of criticism had expressed disappointment over Beijing not finalising the necessary permissions for the experts' team's

India's real GDP to expand by 10.1% in FY 2022: Icra

Domestic rating agency Icra Ratings on Monday said it expects the country's real gross domestic product (GDP) to grow by 10.1 per cent in FY2022.

It, however, said the value of GDP in the next financial year will only mildly surpass the level that had been recorded in FY2020.

"After a 7.8 per cent pandemic-driven shrinkage in the ongoing fiscal (FY2021), India's real GDP is projected to record a growth of 10.1 per cent in

The seemingly-sharp expansion will be led by the continued normalisation in economic activities as the rollout of Covid-19 vaccines gathers traction, as well as the low base," the agency principal economist Aditi Nayar said in

The agency's principal economist expects a multi-the contact-intensive sectors, discretionary consumption and investment by the private sector trailing the rest of the economy, in the arduous march back to attaining, and sustaining, pre-Covid levels.

"On a sobering note, we project the aggregate value of the Indian GDP in real terms in FY2022, to be only mildly higher than the level recorded in FY2020," Nayar added.

The agency expects the headline ČPI inflation to decline to 4.6 per cent in FY2022 from 6.4 per cent in FY2021, while exceeding the mid-point of the Monetary Policy Committee's (MPC's) medium target of 4 per cent, for the third consecutive year.

A favourable base would moderate the retail food inflation to an average of 4.7 per cent in FY2022 from 8 per cent in FY2021, despite the pressures from edible oils, and protein items such as pulses, it

With the CPI inflation expected to remain above the MPC's 4 per cent target during FY2022, the agency expects an extended pause for the repo

It expects the "stance of monetary policy to be changed to neutral from accommodative in the August 2021 policy review or later, only after there is greater certainty on the durability of the awaited economic

The report said RBI may initiate steps, in a calibrated manner, to reduce the magnitude of the systemic liquidity

Nayar said the government security yields will take a cue from the size of the borrowing programme of the central and he state governments for FY2022, as well as the outlook

The agency expects the twin deficits to display a divergent trend in FY2022.

The market capitalisation of all BSE-listed companies jumped to an all-time high of over ₹196.56 lakh crore on Monday as markets reached lifetime high for the second straight session. At close of trading session, market capitalisation of BSE-listed companies was at ₹ 1,96,56,811.32 crore (USD 2.6 trillion). The 30share BSE Sensex ended 486.81 points or 1 per cent higher at 49,269.32, closing above the 49,000-level for the first time. During the day, it touched its record intra-day high of 49,303.79."The Indian equity began today's session trading at all-time highs, taking a cue from the Asian markets and announcement of vaccination drive," said Sumeet Bagadia, Executive Director, Choice Broking. HCL Tech was the top gainer in the Sensex pack gaining 6.09 per cent, followed by Infosys, HDFC, Maruti, Tech Mahindra, Bajaj Auto and M&M.Sector-wise, BSE

telecom and healthcare indices gained up to 3.63 per cent.

"Markets started the week on a robust note led by positive global cues and strong earnings from IT behemoth TCS," according to Ajit Mishra, VP - Research, Religare Broking Ltd.

to States, UTs to meet GST

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Finance Ministry on Monday released the 11th instalment of ₹6,000 crore to states and UTs to meet the GST compensation shortfall, taking the total amount provided so far under this window to ₹66,000 crore.The Centre had set up a special borrowing window in October 2020 to meet the estimated shortfall of ₹ 1.10 lakh crore in revenue arising on account of implementation of GST.

The Ministry of Finance in a statement said it has released the 11th weekly instalment of Rs 6,000 crore to states/Union Territories to meet the GST compensation shortfall.

Out of this, ₹5,516.60 crore has been released to 23 states and ₹483.40 crore to the three Union Territories (UTs) with Legislative Assembly (Delhi, Jammu & Kashmir and Puducherry), who are members of the GST Council.

The remaining five states, Arunachal Pradesh, Manipur, Mizoram, Nagaland and Sikkim do not have a gap in revenue on account of GST implementation, it said.

'The amount has been borrowed this week at an interest rate of 5.10 per cent.

So far, an amount of ₹66,000 crore has been borrowed by the central government through the special borrowing window at an average interest rate of 4.72 per cent," the statement said.

The borrowings under the special window have been done in 11 rounds and the amount borrowed so far was released to the states on October 23, November 2, November 9, November 23, December 1, December 7, December 14, December 21, December 28, 2020, and January 4 and January 11 this

Banks gross NPA may rise to 13.5% by Sept 2021, says RBI FSR

 $B^{\text{anks' gross non-performing}}_{\text{assets may rise to }13.5~\text{per}}$ cent by September 2021, from 7.5 per cent in September 2020 under the baseline scenario, according to Financial Stability Report (FSR) released by the Reserve Bank of India.

If the macroeconomic environment worsens into a severe stress scenario, the GNPA ratio may escalate to 14.8 per cent, the report said.

The stress tests indicate that the GNPA ratio of all scheduled commercial banks (SCBs) may increase from 7.5 per cent in September 2020 to 13.5 per cent by September 2021 under the baseline scenario," the FSR report added. Among the bank groups, public sector banks' (PSBs) GNPA ratio of 9.7 per cent in September 2020 may rise to 16.2 per cent by September 2021 under the baseline scenario, it noted. The gross nonperforming asset (GNPA) ratio of private sector banks (PVBs) and foreign banks (FBs) may increase from 4.6 per cent and 2.5 per cent to 7.9 per cent and 5.4 per cent, respectively, over the same period. In the severe stress scenario, the GNPA ratios of PSBs, PVBs and FBs may rise to 17.6 per cent, 8.8 per cent and 6.5 per cent, respectively, by September 2021, the report said."These GNPA projections are indicative of the possible economic impairment latent in banks' portfolios, with implications for capital planning," it added.

Domestic funds see outflows after 5 yrs

New Delhi:Domestic institutional investors (DIIs) recorded their first outflows in 2020

after five years of inflows. This is at odds with bulge bracket FIIs powering the indices to fresh highs virtually daily, as on Monday the BSE Sensex powered to a new peak crossing 49,000. According to a report by Motilal Oswal Institutional Equities, in calendar year 2020, while FIIs inflows were at a record highs, outflows by DIIs were at fresh highs too.

DOCYARD DR SMITA KAPOOR

Squint and Paediatric Ophthalmology Consultant

VISION EYE CENTRE, NEW DELHI

Keep a check on eyes

Tn India there is a high incidence of childhood and adult blind-Iness, but the problem of strabismus or squint is often overlooked, either because of ignorance or lack of access to adequate eye care. Squint is a condition in which the eyes are not aligned with each other in the same direction therefore they are not capable of focusing on the same spot at the same time. Strabismus occurs because of the absence of coordination between the extraocular muscles. As a result, while one eye may be looking straight, the other may be directed inward (esotropia), outward (exotropia), upward (hypertropia) or downward (hypotropia) with the individual appearing cross-eyed.

Misalignment of eyes in the first few months is normal. It takes upto three months for the coordination to develop. Squint can be congenital and associated with genetic disorders or acquired after birth. Some conditions may run in families. Squint can also be a consequence of some common refractive errors such as short-sightedness (myopia), long-sightedness (hyperopia) or astigmatism. Of these, long-sightedness is particularly responsible for squint in young children between six months and two years. The inturning of eyes in infectious viral diseases con normal. It takes upto infectious viral diseases contracted during childhood can also lead to squint. In adults, coordination to trauma, tumor or other infecdevelop. Squint can tions of the brain or eye can be congenital and lead to sudden onset squint. However, in many patients the associated with reason for squint remains

> If medical intervention is not made at the opportune time in the early stages, squint can further degenerate into what is called amblyopia, commonly known as lazy eye. This occurs because the brain tends to ignore signals or inputs from one eye to avoid double vision. If discovered late, amblyopia is nearly impossible to cure completely. In fact, even after surgical treatment of squint during childhood, the squinting eye might remain amblyopic for life. Some patients experience blurred vision, strain, headache and inability to concentrate. On a psychosocial scale, squint makes patients conscious of their appearance and reduces their ability to make eye contact with people.

When should squint be treated?

Squint should be treated as early as possible in children in order to prevent the development of lazy eye. If left untreated, the child will be unable to develop 3-D vision and thus lose depth perception. Cosmetic appearance of a patient can be improved at any age. However, adults who develop sudden onset double vision require urgent treatment.

Treatment: While medical intervention during early years is recommended, strabismus can be treated at any stage in life. Depending on the cause of squint, several types of treatments are available. For instance, if refractive errors are a cause, glasses with the right power can remedy the condition. Or, if one eye seems stronger than the other, an eye patch can be used to force the weaker eye to function better. Then for some, eye exercises such as Home-Based Pencil Pushups (HBPP) are recommended to strengthen the eye muscles. Eye drops and botox have a role in a few cases. For those that remain uncured, surgery has to be performed. The surgical intervention requires readjustment of the extraocular muscles and must be made timely.

A person's wellbeing depends on skeletal health as well. Doctors tell you how winters can be harsh for your joints and share tips to keep the pain at bay ot only cough, cold and viral infections, winters are driving condition for bone related issues as well. Many people are seen reporting about joint pain or with increased severity of conditions like arthritis osteoporosis etc. during this season. Also it may be a tough time for those who recently had a fracture or any other bone injury. A person's overall wellbeing depends upon skeletal health as well. So how does winter affect bone health and how prevention can be ensured?

Winters lead to increased muscular spasm. Hence if you are facing some extra fatigue or acute pain, it may be associated with increased muscular spasm. In our experience people in winters report more with joint pain, back pain, neck pain etc. issues. Also health of people suffering from arthritis, osteoporosis etc is more at risk in this weather.

In winters you may feel more tempted to unnecessarily rest under the cosy cover of blankets but it is not advisable. Avoid binge eating As unprecedented lockdown has induced some unhealthy habits in many households due to more stay at home, many of them have confined themselves to gadgets and unnecessary munching, and lazy winters are there just add more stiffness to the bones. Apart from leading to obesity it is equally threatening for your bones as well. This has to be avoided.

Always keep your posture right while sitting, watching screen, even reading or writing. These days working on laptops and other gadgets is important, still avoid taking them to your bed. Fix a place for office work at your home with table and chair which can ensure right posture and comfort.

Keep in mind

Winters make your body stiff for diverse reasons. In winters blood vessels shrink because of fall blood supply is affected around joints and musculature. This condition may aggravate your old joint Adequate intake of water is seen reduced in winters. Hence keep yourself hydrated, drink adequate water.

 Keeping calcium intake high solely doesn't serve the purpose if one is deprived of other nutrients like protein and Vitamin D. In urban areas it is quite apparent that lesser exposure of sunshine has made a vast majority Vitamin D deficient which plays a major role some physical activities or exercise daily for at least 20 minutes under sun exposure.

FOR THAT FLAWLESS SKIN

¬ kin pigmentation refers to the colour of the skin. Skin pigmentation or dark patches are a common issue amongst both males & females wherein the skin becomes darker often in patches. Hence, one gets uneven skin tone. The main cause for skin pigmentation is overproduction of the brown pigment called melanin. Melanin is the pigment responsible for the colour of the skin and is made by melanocyte cells in the skin.

Skin rashes like rosacea, psoriasis, eczema, contact dermatitis; skin infections such as acne, ringworm, tinea versicolor, candidiasis, medical conditions, and hormonal changes due to pregnancy can cause the formation of skin pigmentation and dark patches.

Certain external factors and medication certain external factors and medication can also cause dark patches or skin pigmentation. UV rays are the biggest cause that trigger the overproduction of melanin. However, the damage caused by UV rays is not visible immediately, it will be visible over a period of time. over a period of time.

Hyperpigmentation is generally harm-less but can sometimes be caused by an underlying medical condition. Therefore, it is advised to consult a qualified dermatologist if someone is facing skin pigmentation problems.

There are several types of skin pigmentation such as age spots or solar lentiginosis (Liver Spots), melasma or chloasma, freckles (Ephelides) and post-inflammatory hyperpigmentation.

The following are some tips and home remedies one can follow to get rid of skin pigmentation and dark patches:

Apply sunscreen every day at least 15-20 minutes before heading out in the sun as it need some time to get absorbed in the skin. Reapply sunscreen after every 4 hours or use physical sunscreen as it provides protection for long duration. This is the most important step towards preventing and treating skin pigmentation.

Apple cider vinegar contains polyphenolic compounds that are beneficial in managing pigmentation. One can apply it daily.

Take oral supplements like Vitamin C or glutathione. These can boost the skin's resilience to the UV rays of sun.

■ Potatoes are known for their anti-pigmentation properties. It can work quite well on pigmented areas and blemishes. For this, cut a potato into half and dip the sliced part ed areas in a circular motion for about 10 minutes. Wash off the face with lukewarm water. Repeat this procedure twice or thrice in a week to get rid of dark patches

Apply black tea water on the skin. For this soak a cotton ball in black tea water and apply it on the pigmented skin at least twice

Coconut oil helps to remove the dead skin cells and also protects it from the harmful UV rays of the sun. Take a few drops of coconut oil and massage it well so that it penetrates deep down the skin's layers. Leave the oil on the skin for about 20-25 minutes so that it gets absorbed. Wash the face and repeat this method thrice in

Studies suggest that the number of elderly in India will be over 319 million in the next three decades. ARCHANA JYOTI speaks with doctors about the diseases that can hamper their quality of life

Healthy lifestyle must for elderly

In next three decades, the number of elderlacksquare ly people in the 60 plus age group in India will be over 319 million, threefold the number identified by the Census in 2011, as per the recently released Longitudinal Ageing Study of India (LASI) by the Government.

It presents disturbing scenario for not only those in the sunset of their life but their care-

"About 45 million have cardiovascular diseases and hypertension, 20 million suffer from Diabetes, and 24 per cent of the elderly have difficulty in performing daily functions such as walking, eating, toileting," says KS James, director of The International Institute of Population Sciences (IIPS), Mumbai, the nodal institution for implementing the survey.

"But what is more worrying is we are not yet geared to cater to the needs of the elderly. Despite such a huge chunk of population, trained elderly care physicians do not exist even in the triple digit," adds Dr Prasun Chatterjee, Associate Professor, Department of Geriatric Medicine, AIIMS, Delĥi. The ageing population surely has multifaceted problems concerning their health, family and society. "These problems are usually interrelated to their medical illiteracy, perception towards random events of life, incomplete wishes and the attitude of the next two generations of society towards them," he says.

Here are some of the major diseases that take a toll on the elderly people if they do not adopt healthy lifestyle. Heart disease: The number of cases of heart disease in senior citizens across India in 2050 is forecasted to be about 19.1 million. As people age, they're increasingly living with risk factors, such as high blood pressure and high cholesterol, that increase the chances of having a stroke or developing heart disease. Arthritis: The most common arthritis seen in India is age-related degenerative arthritis which involves degeneration (wear and tear) of cartilage and can affect any joint such as the knee. The reasons for early onset in females include obesity and poor nutrition with as many as 90 per cent Vitamin D defi-

Cancer: Cancer is the second leading cause of death among people over age 65. In India, the number of cases of cancer in senior citizens across India in 2050 is forecasted to be about 1.3 million. If caught early through screenings, such as mammograms, colonoscopies, and skin checks, many types of cancer are treatable. Fall: Common among the older adults either with or without falls and considered as important risk factors for falls, especially as one advance in aging. Respiratory diseases: Chronic lower respiratory diseases, such as chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), are the third most common cause of death among people

Alzheimer's and Dementia: The Alzheimer's Association reports that one in nine people age 65 and older, which is about 11 per cent, have Alzheimer's disease. Similarly, the proportion of people with dementia in age groups of 60-75 years is expected to increase steadily over time.

Osteoporosis: Osteoporosis is a major clinical problem in older women and men. Almost any bone can fracture as a result of the increased bone fragility of osteoporosis. These fractures are associated with higher health care costs, physical disability, impaired quality of life, and increased mortality.

Diabetes: Diabetes can be identified and addressed early with simple blood tests for blood sugar levels. The sooner you know that you have or are at risk for Diabetes, the sooner you can start making changes to control the disease. Dr AB Dey, former Head of Department of Geriatric Medicine, AIIMS advices inculcating healthy lifestyle choices, like quitting smoking and losing weight, intake of rich protein diet and keeping one self physically and mentally engaged can help elderly avoid health risks. They should also go for routine checkup for timely medical treatment, if required.

Actor KIRTI KULHARI has recalled working on Uri: The Surgical Strike, which released two years ago on this day.

"Flight lieutenant Seerat Kaur is a very memorable character, not only for the audience but for me as well. My family is serving in the defence. My father is a retired naval officer and my sister and brotherin-law are serving lieutenant colonels in the army, so the film was very per-

'We live in a society where most of us refrain from expressing our feelings about anything because other people will just judge, say something ugly and try to make your life miserable. Is this how we intend to go forward as humans? And because some of us can't voice our feelings, these thoughts get bottled up and cause stress, anxiety and pose a serious threat to our mental health.'

A glamourous update

Sustainable, functional and easy-to-wear clothing has taken precedence over impressing people through what you wear. Fashion experts share a few trends that may rule 2021

A 7 hile this year was all about comfort comfort, personal significance and artisanal be comfortable, wearable and meaningful and meaningful design, which works well for work from home, loungewear and intimate gatherings, 2021 is expected to a glamourous update of the same forecast the experts.

We spoke to industry veterans to shed light on trends that may rule 2021.

DESIGNER KUNAL RAWAL

Military tones are going to be huge in the coming year. Personally I've always been fond of a good tonal grey look, so 'Ultimate Gray' is a colour I highly recommend. The new year will see a rise in de-constructed utilitarian silhouettes, especially in chic neutral shades.

Pantone colours will dominate virtual runways. Both 'Ultimate Gray' and 'Illuminating' are colours that work well together as the sensibilities behind them are Fashion Winners of 2020 were definitely silhouettes that were easy to lounge in. Comfort took charge over style, and as restrictions started easing up, menswear was championed by multi-utilitarian clothing that could easily transition from day to night.

MONICA SHAH OF JADE BY MONICA & KARISHMA I think comfort is going to be high on every bride's list of priorities when it comes to her bridal ensemble. We're going to see lighter fabrics and breezy silhouettes that not only facilitate movement but also make the bride feel completely at ease on her big day.

Another trend I see is that of experimentalism. Brides are going to be much keener to either deviate from what's seen as traditional or they're going to find ways to give their own unique touch to a traditional number. Heirloom value.

Ensembles, even the modern ones, are going to have a distinct heirloom element to them. Techniques like Ek Taar and Kasab can be effortlessly woven craft contemporary pieces that still that carry h e i r l o o m appeal. These are the kind of pieces that score high on

The idea this year has been to wear clothes to suit oneself and I strongly believe this trend will carry on in 2021 as well. I don't think there were any trends as such in 2020 honestly speaking as most of our time was spent at home. If at all, we could capture a trend for this year it would definitely

The sustainable fashion trends of the future are heavily influenced by the events of today, which could never have been predicted. our lives. As we continue to battle the pandemic, the textiles and apparel industry world-over experienced unprecedented disruptions. The pandemic has thrown light upon the urgent need for consumers as well as organisations to focus on sustainable choices, products and processes. And to that effect, sustainable fashion has accelerated to centre stage within the industry. The global ethical fashion market was earlier also estimated to grow at 6.8 per cent CAGR, from US$6.35 billion in 2019 to $8.25 billion in 2023.

Actor Pankaj Tripathi says he understands why women stay mum about issues related to their married lives, from domestic abuse to sexual abuse, after working on web series Criminal Justice: Behind Closed Doors.

The show, through the story of Anu Chandra, portrayed by actor Kirti Kulhari, spotlights marital sexual abuse and the trauma the victim goes through behind closed doors. In the show, Pankaj is seen as a lawyer fighting Anu's case.

"It was unknown to me why women kept quiet when they went through some trauma in their personal life, they were tight-lipped when asked to share their problems. I, as a man, didn't really know how to decode it," Pankaj said.

This issue exists in our society, whether we stay in liberal urban cities or places outside the city, so to share their problems and take the right step for themselves."

when I may face criticism because I am a human being and we all have some flaws. No one is perfect. But I am not, and will never be, that arrogant man who would say 'audience ko kya pata performance kya hota hai (what does the audience know of performance)?' I think that is a very wrong approach. I have a way and that has come from the fact that I have got late success," he said.

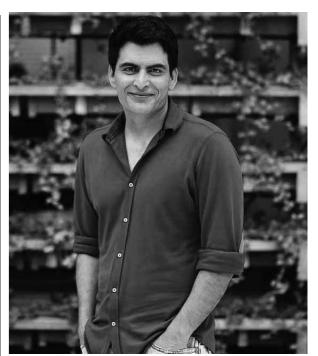

"If there is constructive criticism, I will surely introspect, because that is the way to grow as an individual. I cannot say I know it all. No. As an actor, I am constantly working on the nuances in my performance, and the possibility is endless," he added.

"I am the same actor who started from zero, I started with one scene, one dialogue... a small part.
My aim is to make that single opportunity magnify. I will make you remember that one dialogue. Since I did not get success overnight, I do not have the arrogance. I could have, if I would have got success at the age of 30! I have crossed 45 now, and every achievement makes me humble and not arrogant," explained

So, what has changed with suc-

"Firstly the fact that I know places, as in when I came to Mumbai, I did not know all the studios and production houses where I had to go and give an audition. After searching for the address, when finally I reached there, many a time the gatekeeper said that the shooting of the film was over and there was no audition happening! I do not give auditions anymore. Earlier I never said 'no' to any work because I needed the money to survive. Now that I have a fan-following, credibility matters to me," he replied.

Criminal Justice: Behind Closed Doors also features Jisshu Sengupta, Ashish Vidyarthi, Shilpa Shukla, Pankaj Saraswat, Ayaz Khan, Kalyanee Mulay, Ajeet Singh Palawat, Khushboo Atre, and Tirrtha Murbadkar. The series streams on Disney+ Hotstar VIP.

Acting is a lie: Manav

Actor Manav Kaul is being talked about for his portrayal of a multi-layered characterisation in the OTTreleased film Nail Polish. He says he did not expect his performance to create such an impact.

In the courtroom drama, Manav essays contrasting personalities as Veer Singh, Ranjit and a woman named Charu Raina. "I think the energy of both the characters were very different. So, when it comes to Charu, my body language was very tender, because that was the essence of Charu. I remember how, everyone who was present on the set, from our makeup artist, light and every other technician would leave me alone. After every scene that we shot, I would feel how the energy changed around me," Kaul said.

"Never did I imagine the impact and overwhelming response I got for Nail Polish.

I did not think of it when I was playing the character," he

Considering character was so intense, was there any hangover of the performance that Manav carried home, once shooting

"Yes, and that is natural because I never played such a character in any film ever. I really do not have any process to get out of that hangover. See, acting is a lie but you tell your brain all this is true. You convince your mind. So, there is a reaction that happens in mind I guess, even when you are done shooting, it cannot be just switched off like that. The character leaves you gradually," shared the actor.

Nail Polish also features Arjun Rampal, Anand Tiwari, Rajit Kapur, and Madhoo among and is directed by Bugs Bhargava Krishna. The film streams on avichandran Ashwin and Hanuma Vihari batand Hanuma Vinari Dau-tled pain and a hostile Australian bowling attack while resolutely displaying the largely extinct art of Test-saving batsmanship to snatch a remarkable draw for India after Rishabh Pant raised visions of an improbable win here on Monday.

Chasing a herculean target of 407, Pant (97 off 118 balls) ever-steady Cheteshwar Pujara (77 off 205 balls) produced an amazing 148-run stand before India were forced to down the shutters finishing on 334 for 5 in 131 overs when players shook

The series stands at 1-1 going into the fourth Test in Brisbane but an Indian team which has turned into a 'minihospital' would be walking away with a lot of pride. They put up a proper fight in adverse circumstances already soured by racist chants and abuses from the crowd here during the course of the game.

Pant's innings will be remembered for a long time but none can forget that Ashwin (39 no, 128 balls) and Vihari (23 off 161 balls), battling a hamstring injury, put their bodies on line to save a game which could have been lost in a jiffy after their two best batsmen were gone on the day.

"Our talk coming this morning was to show character and fight till the end. Not to think about the result. Really happy with the way we fought especially today but also throughout the game," skipper Ajinkya Rahane said at the post-match presentation. Pat Cummins (26-6-72-1),

Josh Hazlewood (26-12-39-2), Mitchell Starc (22-6-66-0) and Nathan Lyon (46-17-114-2) threw everything they had, peppering them with short balls, hitting the patches with a few jumping from the spot. "...This one's a tough one to swallow. Our bowlers were superb, Lyon bowled well. Just that we (especially me) didn't hold onto our catches," said

The duo, in 42.4 overs, scraped their way for a 62-run stand, which certainly would have made Rahul Dravid proud on his 48th birthday.

Perhaps, it was the was the best way to honour the brilliance of Pant and the assuredness of Pujara. So much so that Ravindra Jadeja, with his broken thumb, was all gloved up and ready to go in if need be.

There was method to madness in Pant's exhilarating innings during which he hit 12 fours and three sixes off 118 balls. His 'cat and mouse' game with the world's best offspinner Nathan Lyon was one for the ages. But it was Lyon, who had the last laugh when Pant's desperation to get to the threefigure mark before the second new ball saw him try to hit the spinner against the turn.

The result would have horrified his partner Pujara, who looked far more pur-poseful during his 205-ball

He was a bit lucky on two occasions with Paine dropping sharp chances off Lyon.

But what will stay on for a long time was the assured footwork and strategy against the off-spinner to reach the pitch of the deliveries.

On most occasions, he just came down the track to smother the spin and disturb Lyon's natural length.

There was a point in time just before lunch when Lyon had as manv as five fielders posted at various boundary points for a lofted shot, a departure from his usual

Knowing that the second new ball will be due in the second session, Pant smashed four boundaries in no time which also gave Pujara confidence to play his strokes and he too brought out the pull-shot out of his repertoire.

Once he was gone, Vihari, with a pulled hamstring and Ashwin, had no option but to go for a draw and they did it with a commendable effort.

We didn't know what to make of it: Ashwin, Vihari talk about marathon vigil In the Adelaide Test in 2012, du

T he aches and pains they carried to the field had numbed to such an extent by the end of it all that Ravichandran Ashwin and Hanuma Vihari had no idea what they had pulled off by steering India to an unforgettable draw against Australia with their three-hour vigil.

Ashwin came in with a sore back, Vihari had a hamstring tear that severely restricted his ability to run between the wickets. What the two did not lack was the resolve to hang in there and fight.

"With his hamstring and my (sore) back, we did not want to lose concentration and play a (bad) shot. In the last four-five overs we knew we were close and we started to slip a bit. So we wanted to rotate the strike and play each other's end," Ashwin said in a bcci.Tv interview which also featured Vihari with him.

"We did not even celebrate towards the end because we did not we were so channelised in taking on a certain particular bowler and keep

Vihari added a touch of extra optimism to the conversation, saying that he could have taken India to a win had he not been injured and Cheteshwar Pujara (77) stayed a bit "Getting a draw was a fabulous result. I feel if I was not injured and Pujara stayed some more time it could have been a different result, maybe it would have been a fabulous win," he said. Ashwin made 39 not out off 128 balls and Vihari 23 not out off 161 balls on day five for a resolute 62-run sixth-wicket partnership. "If you talk about premonitions, from when I went to bed last night with a sore back I was telling myself that if I keep dead batting everything, how (Faf) du Plessis did at Adelaide

I can give myself a good chance,"

Plessis batted for more than one day for his 110 not out off 376 balls to save the match against Australia while chasing 430 in the fourth innings.

through their partnership, Ashwin said, "Runs were not important in that situation. It was more about batting time. Whenever we are comfortable with a particular bowler or ceratin spell we wanted to hang on.

very slowly for him.
"It was something you can only match. The satisfaction of doing that is slowly sinking in and realise how big that was.' He said like an elder brother, Ashwin was communicating with him throughout in the middle

'Whenever he felt I was a bit loose (while playing shots), he told me let us focus and take as deep as possible."

As far as Vihari's replacement is concerned, the team

only has two options — either to play Wriddhiman Saha as a wicketkeeper and Rishabh Pant purely as a batsman or bring in Mayank Agarwal as a middle-order batsman who can take on the second new ball.

On communicating with Vihari all

Vihari said the enormity of what he and Ashwin achieved is sinking in dream of, batting on day five of a Test
