Councillors make spectacle of themselves; mayoral poll put off

AAP, BJP members in MCD come to blows over swearing in of nominated members first

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

The country on Friday watched in shock newly-elected MCD councillors raining blows on each other, uprooting mikes and toppling tables and benches in a free for all inside the Civic Centre in the national Capital on Friday. As a result, voting to elect mayor and deputy mayor could not take place.

The next date of mayoral election will be decided and announced by Lieutenant Governor Vinai Kumar Saxena. Visuals from the meeting showed shocking scenes of AAP and BJP workers hitting and pushing each other, hurling tables and chairs and even climbing on desks inside the meeting room of Civic Centre of the Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD).

The Congress members walked out of the House amid allegations by the AAP that the party has struck a deal with the BJP. The AAP said never in the history of MCD has nominated members taken oath first and claimed that around a dozen of its councillors got injured during the scuffle. On the other hand, the BJP claimed seven of its councillors sustained injuries and a couple of them were attacked by sharp objects.

According to MCD officials, it was for the first time in the history of the civic body that a newly elected House failed to elect a mayor and deputy mayor in its maiden meeting. The meeting began with

BJP councillor Satya Sharma being administered the oath as presiding officer for the elections to the posts of mayor and deputy mayor. The scuffle began after the presiding officer invited nominated councillors or aldermen (those who traditionally cannot vote) to take oath ahead of the elected members (those who can vote). After Sharma invited alderman Manoj Kumar to take his oath, AAP MLAs and councillors raised slogans against the BJP and Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Many also rushed to the well of the House.

The BJP councillors retaliated, raising slogans against the AAP and its national convener Kejriwal. The councillors of both parties were seen pushing and shoving each other. Amid the din, the House was adjourned for over an hour. The situation remained chaotic even after the House was reconvened. It finally led to the adjournment of the House for the day.

"The LG office has been informed about the ruckus in the MCD House by Municipal Secretary Bhagwan Singh and MCD Commissioner Gyanesh Bharti. The oath taken by the four aldermen is valid," Sharma said. The next date for the MCD House meeting will be declared by the LG office, she said.

The AAP has alleged that the BJP made the alderman take oath first in order to get them voting rights for the election to mayor and deputy mayor. AAP members said elected councillors should have been sworn in before the nominated members.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal termed the move to invite the nominated councillors for taking oath ahead of the elected ones in the mayoral polls unconstitutional. "Article 243R of the Constitution clearly debars nominated members from voting in the House. Attempting to get them to vote in the House is unconstitutional," Kejriwal tweeted sharing the snippet of the Article.

Sources in Raj Niwas said "Administrator" means the LG of the National Capital Territory of Delhi and the AAP is deliberately making efforts to mislead the issue.

US firm sacks man for peeing on woman flyer

Delhi Police in Mumbai to arrest banker

RAJESH KUMAR ■ NEW DELHI

American banking sector giant Wells Fargo has sacked the Vice President of its Indian operation Shankar Mishra for allegedly urinating on an elderly woman on an Air India flight on November 26.

A four-member Delhi Police team on Friday afternoon landed in Mumbai in search of Mishra, but found his home locked. The Delhi Police has called the pilot and other crew members of Air India flight AI-102 from New York to Delhi in connection with the case of Mishra.

In another development, Mishra on Friday cited the woman's WhatsApp messages to claim that she had "condoned the alleged act" and had shown no intention to file a complaint. "A settlement was made and compensation was paid to the elderly woman on November 28, 2022 but the money was returned by the woman's daughter on December 19, 2022," Mishra's lawyers said in a statement.

Mishra is missing and a lookout notice or an airport alert has been put out for him.

The company in a statement on Friday said the allegations against Mishra were "deeply disturbing". "This individual has been terminated from Wells Fargo," the firm said in a statement.

The company further said it held its employees to the highest standards of professional and personal behaviour and found these allegations deeply disturbing. "We are cooperating with law enforcement and ask that any additional inquiry be directed to them," the statement added.

After the media reported the news of mid-air peeing incident on an Air India flight on November 26, the Delhi Police on January 5 wrote to the concerned authorities seeking a lookout circular (LOC) against Mishra.

Sources in the Delhi Police said the pilot and other crew members of the Air India flight on November 26, were called to record their statements. "The Police will establish the entire timeline of the incident and the statements of the flight staff will be recorded."

Centre stopping PMGKAY free rice hits poor: BJD

BJP says BJD no longer can claim PDS rice scheme as its own

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The spar between the BJD and the BJP that began over Union Government's recent move to scrap the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana (PMGKAY) intensified on Friday as the former said such a step "harmed" the interests of lakhs of poor people in the State. BJD national spokesperson Dr Sasmit Patra said Odisha's 3.5 crore people were receiving 10 kg of rice since the introduction of the PMGKAY.

"While a beneficiary gets 5 kg rice under the National Food Security Act (NFSA), another 5 kg was given under the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana. Now that the Centre has discontinued the PMGKAY, a person who was getting 10 kg rice a month, will get only 5 kg of it. How can he or she survive with only 5 kg?" questioned Patra.

To drive his point home, he gave the example of a poor family of six members living in Balangir's Tusra village.

"The 5 kg of rice the poor people of Odisha were receiving has been stopped by the Centre. A six-member family of Basant Dharua of Tusra area in Balangir district received 60 kg of rice a month. After the withdrawal of the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana, the family will now get 30 kg. Can you imagine the hardship for the family after taking away 30 kg from his quota? From now on, Dharua has to buy this rice with the money he would otherwise have to spend on medicine or something else," said Patra.

In response to the allegation, BJP State general secretary Golak Mohapatra said, "Finally, Dr Sasmit Patra has accepted the truth. There is a saying in Odia that 'Hanu Mala Belaku Sata Kahe' (The monkey speaks the truth before its death). It seems the BJD's end is near because Sasmit Patra accepted today that the Prime Minister had been providing rice and stopped it now. Previously, the BJD was claiming that it was providing rice to the poor. You (Patra) have to be thanked for accepting the truth that PM

Narendra Modi was giving it and not your party."

"The fact is that the price of 1 kg of rice provided under the Public Distribution System (PDS) was Rs 37.28. Of it, the Centre's contribution and the Odisha Government's contribution stood at Rs 34.28 and Rs 2, respectively. The beneficiary was buying the rice at 1 rupee only. Now, the Centre has decided to bear the entire cost of PDS rice. This decision has left the BJD in the lurch as it was showcasing the PDS rice scheme as its own and thereby reaping huge electoral benefits," said Mohapatra, adding that from now onwards, people of Odisha would receive only Modi's rice.

The Union Government spends nearly Rs 8,444 crore per annum to provide free rice to 3.25 crore of Odisha people under the NFSA. On the other hand, the State Government spends Rs 185 crore per annum as its matching share for implementation of the NFSA.

HC asks CB to take over Soumya death case

PNS ■ CUTTACK
With investigation of the mysterious death of aspiring model Soumya Ranjan Panigrahi making no headway even after a year, the Orissa High Court on Friday directed the Crime Branch (CB) to take over the case and submit a report within three months. The order came during hearing of a plea of Soumya's sister Soubhagyalakshmi who has alleged that even after the High Court directed the Bhubaneswar DCP to take necessary steps to speed up investigation and update the family members about the probe within a stipulated time, no such response has been made. On January 30 last year, Soumya allegedly died by suicide in Kalarahanga under the Infocity police limits of Bhubaneswar. He was found hanging in his residence; and a note, purportedly written by him, had been recovered from the spot. The letter named a girl with whom Soumya was reportedly in a relationship but was going through a rough patch after getting to know that she was developing intimacy with another person. While Soumya's family members held the girl accountable for his death, Soumya's sister filed a complaint with the Infocity police two days later. Soubhagyalakshmi sister had, however, alleged that police did not cooperate. On February 19, she even approached the DCP but reportedly got no response even there. Distraught over lack of cooperation by the police, she moved the HC on February 23, after which the court had directed the DCP to update the kin of the deceased about the progress in investigation within three weeks' time. But even after the HC order, the family did not get any information on what steps were being taken by the police to find out the exact cause of Soumya's death. Consequently, Soubhagyalakshmi once again filed a petition basing on which the High Court, in a hearing, directed the Crime Branch to take over, informed the family's lawyer Byomkesh Tripathy.

Puri Sankaracharya demands 'Hindu-Rastra' tag for India
SAROJ KUMAR MISHRA ■ PURI

In a hard-hitting remark against the judiciary, Sankaracharya of Puri Nischalananda Saraswati said that the Judge, who branded the cow protectors as goons, must apologise. Saraswati rather branded those leaders and Governments as criminals who are protecting the people behind cow smuggling and cow slaughter in the country. He said those patronising the killings of cows are criminals and they have no rights to stay in power. Urging the young generation to shun western culture, he stressed on an urgent need to draw the youths into the fold of spiritualism.

Demanding a 'Hindu Rastra' status to the country, the top Hindu seer called upon the parents and guardians to encourage their children to move on the path of spiritualism and respect traditions and ethos of the country. A most blistering attack both on the judiciary as well as on the Government, which was unprecedented, came at a time, when Saraswati was addressing a three-day global conclave on spiritualism and Jagannath culture which ended on Friday here. It was organised by the 'Jaganath Biswa Adhyatmik Samilani'. The conclave, sponsored by Sri Jagannath Chintan and Chetana World, was attended by Governor Prof

Ganeshi Lal and Puri King Dibyasingh Dev. Besides, several luminaries from spiritual background, prominent seers of mutts and seminaries from 23 countries participated in the mega session. Targeting the present leadership for embracing acts of terror in the name of democracy, Saraswati warned citizens against unethical politics which, he said, is the root of all disturbances in the country. He expressed concern over degrading environment and strongly opposed devastations of forest, water and air in the name of development. Saraswati asserted that the Vedas have no comparison, which are above the modern science.

Debate: Is Birsa Hockey Stadium world's largest?

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR
While the newly-built Birsa Munda Hockey Stadium in Rourkela was inaugurated on Thursday by Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik ahead of the Hockey World Cup-2023, it has sparked a debate whether the venue is world's largest hockey stadium or not.

The State Government has been labelling it as the largest hockey stadium of the world since its construction.

However, many opined that it might not be true as National Hockey Stadium in Pakistan's Lahore is the largest with seating capacity of 45,000. The official website of the Olympics also states the same.

As per the website, Chandigarh Hockey Stadium with 30,000 capacity and Weingart Stadium in Los Angeles having a capacity of 22,355 are world's second and third largest hockey stadiums, respectively while Birsa Munda

Hockey Stadium is at the fourth place with 20,000+ seating capacity.

On the other hand, Sports Minister Tusharkanti Behera said the International Hockey Federation (FIH) has certified the Birsa Munda Hockey Stadium as world's largest one in terms of seating capacity.

Sports journalist Jaspreet Sahani said the Birsa Munda Hockey Stadium is the largest hockey stadium constructed solely for the purpose of hockey matches.

The hockey stadiums in Lahore and Chandigarh are part of sports complex.

Similarly, the stadium of Los Angeles is not hockey-centric, he said.

Notably, the Birsa Munda Hockey Stadium has been constructed at an expenditure of Rs 261 crore on 15 acres of land on the premises of Biju Patnaik University of Technology (BPUT).

As many as 20 matches of the Hockey World Cup will be played at the sporting venue.

The construction work of Birsa Munda Hockey Stadium Complex spread over 60,000 square metres of land was completed in record 15 months, said an official.

Roadside evictions Baleswar vendors to stage stir on Jan 12

PNS ■ BALESWAR

The street vendors of Baleswar town protesting against roadside evictions undertaken by the municipal authorities have decided to embark on demonstration and agitation on January 12.

The district administration has been undertaking eviction on various stretches including OT road, College road and Vivekananda Marg since last week of December.

The vendors said that by doing roadside business they were not only selling their wares to customers at cheap rates but also were earning their own bread.

They further alleged that the district administration arbitrarily began eviction exercises flouting the Street vendors (protection of livelihood and regulation of street vending) Act 2014.

Mohini Mohan Parida, secretary of the union, alleged that the evictions were carried out by the district administration without identifying the shops or establishments to be evicted by the Town Vending Committee of which the district Collector is the chairman.

The district administration should stop eviction till it discusses with them (vendors), else the street vendors closing their outlets would embark on agitation on January 12, he warned.

Award for slum dwellers housing scheme Jaga Mission

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

An innovative Jaga Mission programme, which is aiming to upgrade almost 3,000 slums in Odisha, has won the prestigious Bronze World Habitat Award.

The awards, which are organised by the World Habitat in partnership with UN-Habitat, are the world's leading housing awards, which recognise and highlight innovative, outstanding and revolutionary housing ideas, projects and programmes from across the world.

set itself the ambitious target of becoming the first slum-free State in India and is leading the Jaga Mission programme to upgrade all of the State's 2,919 slums - improving living conditions for 1.7 million people.

The project takes a holistic approach to addressing poverty, focusing on three core issues- granting land rights to residents to mitigate the threat of forced evictions and enable access to public housing subsidies; infrastructure upgrades to improve living conditions and livelihood opportunities and community mobilisation to empower marginalized groups to construct, manage and maintain upgraded facilities.

To date, 707 slums have been upgraded across 30 cities, of which eight have been declared slum-free.

Inspired by Odisha, it is now being replicated in the northern State of Punjab, where it will benefit an additional 1.4 million people.

The Jaga Mission worked closely with people who lived in the slums to find suitable vacant lands, plan layout designs and create new mini neighbourhoods for them to live in.

Their new habitat contains piped water supply, individual household toilets, electricity, storm water drainage, open spaces, children's play areas, community centres and paved streets with lighting. And importantly, all the families received land titles, ending the possibility of eviction. The project's annual budget is approximately 5 billion rupees ($65 million USD), which comes predominantly from the Odisha State budget and grants from the Central and State Governments that are meant for various components required for slum upgrading.

Principal Secretary, Housing and Urban Development, G Mathivathanan said, "We are delighted to receive the Bronze World Habitat Award for Jaga Mission for the second time."

"The Jaga Mission has successfully demonstrated that there is an urgent need to have a paradigm shift in the Government's approach by recognising the informal settlements and the slum dwellers as indispensable part of the city fabric and empower them with land tenure security, and better living habitat. This global recognition helps in promoting this best practice for other governments dealing with similar challenges of rapid urbanisation and the consequent rise of informal settlements," the Principal Secretary added.

Chief Executive of World Habitat David Ireland said, "Jaga Mission is a hugely ambitious State-wide project that aims to make Odisha slum-free by upgrading informal settlements, improving governance and securing land ownership for slum dwellers. There is nothing else like it."

DGCA issues stern directive to all airlines

'While tackling unruly flyers, use restraining devices when all conciliatory approaches are exhausted'

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Days after two incidents of drunk men urinating on women on Air India flights came forth, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) on Friday issued an advisory to the Head of Operations of all Scheduled Airlines for tackling unruly travelers outlining that "restraining devices should be used when all conciliatory approaches have been exhausted". The advisory warned that the airline staff will face action if they fail to act against passengers who are unruly or behave inappropriately.

The DGCA has also sought a report from Tata Group-owned Air India on an incident of a drunk passenger allegedly urinating on the blanket of a female passenger on the airline's Paris-New Delhi flight last month, which it did not report to the regulator. Air India on Thursday confirmed the incident, which took place on December 6 last year.

"In case a situation relating to handling an unruly passenger comes up, the pilot-in-command is responsible for assessing the situation quickly if the cabin crew can control the situation and accordingly relay this information to the airline's central control on the ground for further action. If it becomes difficult to handle the situation with "verbal communication", applying restraining devices should be used when all conciliatory approaches have been exhausted," the advisory said.

"Head of operations are hereby advised to sensitize pilots, cabin crew and Director-in-flight Services of their respective airlines on the topic of handling of unruly passengers through appropriate means under intimation to DGCA" - the advisory reads.

"Non-action/inappropriate action/omission by the airlines towards such untoward incidents has tarnished the image of air travel in different segments of society," it further highlights.

"In the recent past, DGCA has noticed a few incidents of unruly behavior and inappropriate conduct by the passengers on board the aircraft during flight, wherein it is observed that post holders, pilots and cabin crew members have failed to take appropriate actions," the statement reads.

Earlier, the DGCA on Thursday issued notices to the officials and crew of the New York-Delhi flight, asking why action should not be taken against them for "dereliction" of duty while handling the November 26 'urination' incident. The DGCA held that Air India's conduct appeared to be "unprofessional" in the two incidents.

Airport passes with 'distorted' map of India withdrawn, AAI to conduct enquiry: BCAS

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

All passes issued to employees and visitors of airports across the country have been withdrawn by the Bureau of Civil Aviation Security (BCAS) after it was found that a "distorted" map of India was printed on them, officials said.

Map images of Jammu and Kashmir, the Northeastern region, Rajasthan and Gujarat were wrongly depicted in the passes issued at all Airports Authority of India operated airports and six Adani group-run airports — Ahmedabad, Jaipur, Lucknow, Thiruvananthapuram, Guwahati and Mangaluru. After it was found that the images were "distorted", the BCAS has withdrawn the passes, an official privy to the development said.

In a communication to the chairman of the Airports Authority of India (AAI), the BCAS said the embedded hologram roll being used is not according to the sample hologram approved by the BCAS. "Keeping in view the seriousness of the issue, it is hereby directed that all Aerodrome Entry Permits (AEPs) issued with holograms shall be withdrawn and further printing with these hologram roll shall be stopped with immediate effect," the letter said.

The BCAS also conveyed that the AAI will conduct an inquiry in the matter, find out at which level the lapses occurred, who is responsible for procuring these hologram rolls and take appropriate action against the responsible officers. The AAI has been directed to submit an action taken report on the issue to the BCAS at the earliest, it said. A person, who is not a passenger with a valid ticket, requires an AEP that is issued by the airport.

The AEP application form, which is issued by the BCAS, mentions 13 zones that a person can enter. The permitted areas include the arrival halls, the departure halls, the terminal building, the apron area, the security hold area, cargo terminal among others.

Def Min visits Indra Point to review Op readiness

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

A day after reviewing operational readiness of the triservice Andaman and Nicobar Command to thwart any challenge in the Indian Ocean by China, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Friday visited Indra Point, the southern-most tip of the country. It was the first visit by him to the archipelago since taking over as the Defence Minister.

Rajnath's visit assumes importance in light of the growing influence of China in the Indian Ocean Region. His interaction with troops at naval station INS Baaz in Cambell Bay is important as it overlooks the Strait of Malacca, the sea route through which majority of Chinese imports pass and is one of the most important shipping routes in the world both, from an economic and strategic viewpoint.

Moreover, Indra Point is along the Great Channel, popularly referred to as the 'Six Degree Channel', which is a major shipping lane for international traffic. A strong presence of the Armed Forces equips India to better discharge its responsibility of being a net security provider in the region. En-route, Rajnath halted at the Car Nicobar Island and Campbell Bay where he was apprised about the ground conditions. He also interacted with the joint services troops of Andaman and Nicobar Command there, lauding them for serving the country with unmatched bravery and commitment, defence ministry officials said here.

He was accompanied by Lieutenant General Ajai Singh, the commander-in-chief of Andaman and Nicobar Command (CINCAN). Rajnath was familiarised with the terrain of Southern Group of Andaman and Nicobar Islands. He also paid a visit to naval station INS Baaz and interacted with troops.

This is the first visit of the defence minister to Indra Point since January 2019. Apart from the strategic signaling in view of proximity of these far-flung islands to the Indo-Pacific, his visit to the Command motivated the troops deployed in these distant and remote islands. Andaman and Nicobar Command is a 21-year-old successful Integrated Theatre Command which is now being planned at the national level. INS Baaz is a forward operating base of the and also overlooks the Six Degree channel between Great Nicobar and the Indonesian island of Sumatra. Campbell Bay is the country's eye over the Strait of Malacca.

After visiting INS Baaz, Rajnath also visited the Air Force station at Car Nicobar. It operates frontline fighter jets including SU-30 and Jaguars. Meanwhile, AN's BJP leaders urged him for better air connectivity between the archipelago and other parts of the country.

"We understand the importance of the upgradation of runway here but we requested Union minister to ensure speedy completion of the project because this led to steep airfares," Bairagi told PTI. The local BJP leaders also urged Rajnath to start flight services between Port Blair and Shippur airport in Diglipur to handle medical emergencies, he said.

Coal scam: Court asks CBI to probe role of Adani Enterprises

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The Special Court conducting trial in the 'Coal Scam' has ordered a further probe by CBI into the role of Adani Enterprises, AMR India, Lanco Infratech and officials who entertained their incomplete applications in the 2012 allotment of coal blocks in Jharkhand.

Special Judge Arun Bhardwaj, in his 10-page order, outlined the violations by each of the three companies even after the technical evaluation committee of the Coal Ministry pointed out that none of the companies submitted enough documents. In the order dated January 4, the Judge Bhardwaj asked the CBI to submit its report by April 15, rejecting its earlier reply that their probe is limited only to Lanco Infratech, the successful bidder of Jharia coalfields. The Court said though the technical evaluation committee found that all three companies submitted only chartered accountants and auditors' certificates instead of original documents to claim their eligibility, the tender committee overlooked all the findings of technical evaluation committee.

The technical evaluation committee in 2012 said that "Adani Enterprises Ltd is not eligible in the absence of copies of submissions made to the statutory government authorities in support of OB (over burden) and coal production, the said firm was declared eligible by the tender committee on the basis of the certificate dated 24.09.2012 of its chartered accountant/undated certificate of its company secretary which mentioned that the information given in the certificates with respect to coal produced and over burden planned is as per submission of quarterly report of coal production activity submitted to Department of Mining and Energy of Republic of Indonesia and Department of Environment of Republic of Indonesia".

Men more likely to die post Covid: Study

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Even mild cases of Covid-19 might trigger stronger inflammatory responses in males than females, resulting in more pronounced functional changes to the male immune system, even long after recovery, according to a study published in Nature. The findings may help create better vaccines against diverse threats by, for instance, mimicking how mild

Covid-19 changes the male immune system, the researchers said. Scientists have long believed that the immune system reverts to the previous stable level after viral infection. However, the latest study published in the journal Nature, shows that it depends on the individual's sex.

Researchers at the US National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) systematically analysed immune responses of healthy people who had received the flu vaccine. From that data, they then compared the responses between those who had never been infected by SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes Covid-19, and those who experienced mild cases but recovered.

The team found that immune systems of men who had recovered from mild cases of Covid-19 responded more robustly to flu vaccines than women who had mild cases or men and women who had never been infected.

The baseline immune statuses in men previously infected with SARS-CoV-2 were altered in ways that changed the response to an exposure different from SARS-CoV-2, the researchers said. "This was a total surprise," said John Tsang, an immunobiologist at Yale University in the US, who was previously at NIAID.

"Women usually mount a stronger overall immune response to pathogens and vaccines, but are also more likely to suffer from autoimmune diseases," Tsang said.

The findings may also be linked to an observation made early in the pandemic: Men were much more likely to die from a runaway immune response than women after contracting the Covid-19 virus.

Their analysis of immune system status down to the individual cell level showed several differences between COVID-recovered males and healthy controls and COVID-recovered females, both before and after receiving flu vaccinations.

For instance, previously infected males produced more antibodies to influenza and produced increased levels of interferons, which are produced by cells in response to infections or vaccines.

Cooperative federalism touching new heights under Modi: Officials

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

With Prime Minister Narendra Modi chairing the ongoing second national conference of chief secretaries, official sources on Friday said the government has heralded a "new era of cooperative federalism" by making the process of policy making and implementation more collaborative and consultative.

The chief secretaries' conference is aimed at rapid and sustained economic growth in partnership with states in coordination as the prime minister believes that this is an essential pillar for the development and progress of new India, they said. With this vision in mind, Modi had conceptualised this conference, which was held for the first time last year in Dharamshala, they noted and cited several programmes and instances in which he has tried to leverage cooperative federalism. The Centre and states have been working together in "Aspirational Districts Programme", launched by Modi in January 2018 to fast-track development in most backward districts across the country through the convergence of government programmes and schemes.

The Modi government has also worked to increase states' share in divisible pool of tax resources, the sources said. Having been a chief minister for close to 13 years himself, Modi knows that the key to development for states is availability of sufficient resources. Taking a significant step in this direction, his government took the decision to increase states' share in the divisible pool of taxes from 32 per cent to 42 per cent. This has provided them more resources to design and implement programmes as per their needs, they said.

Another example is the GST Council where both the Centre and states are partners in decision-making. The workings of the council are an example of fiscal federalism with reliance on decision making through consensus, they said.

Modi has also initiated the unique concept of Pragati, the Information and Communication Technology (ICT) based multi-modal platform for "Pro-Active Governance and Timely Implementation" (Pragati), involving the Centre and states.

₹10 cr in fake a/c's found in cattle case: CBI

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Gopal Ghosh died a couple of years ago. But even after his death he managed to open a bank account. At least the records seized by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) probing the cow smuggling case that has seen Trinamool Congress strongman and Trinamool Congress' Birbhum district president Anubrata Mondal go to jail -- say so. This, whereas the deceased person's brother says that he has no idea of the account of his brother being used by others. "We don't even know that an account was opened in the name of my dead brother," said his brother.

Similarly Sundari Basaki who lives in a muddled house too has an account in the same cooperative bank but she has no idea of how many lakhs have been transacted through that account. "I have not signed anywhere ... because I am illiterate ... I have not opened any account ... but here you say that I have an account ... it is a bolt from the blue ... several lakhs of rupees were parked in my bank and here we don't have two square meals to eat," says Sundari.

These are only two of 177 instances that the CBI has stumbled upon in a day-long raid in the Suri Cooperative Bank. In course of investigating the cow smuggling case the CBI has found that the accounts were used to legalise crores of rupees allegedly earned from cattle smuggling. Till now trace of Rs 10 crore has been found. CBI sources said adding most of these accounts either belong to dead or non-existent persons or poor villagers who have no inkling of the whopping amount of money that were transacted through their accounts.

When asked as to how scamsters managed to get documents required to open accounts relatives of Mamata Mridha another account holder said, "we had submitted copies of our Aadhar, voter cards etc for MNREGA job cards but it seems that they have misused these documents for their purpose."

The CBI is known to have traced the link of the ill-gotten money to Food Department too. According to sources the proceeds from the cow smuggling were used to purchase low quality crops, mostly rice from the farmers and then these were sold to the Food Department. The payments were then received in the fake accounts, sources said.

Incidentally Mondal and his associates had purchased a number of rice mills worth crores in Birbhum and neighbouring Burdwan districts. The officials on Friday grilled Abhishek Samanta, the manager of the Cooperative Bank, a state government controlled entity. Samanta is known to have provided crucial information to the investigators, sources said adding the total amount thus transacted may go far beyond Rs 10 crore.

Reacting to the development Trinamool Congress spokesperson on Friday said that his party was for zero tolerance for corruption but demanded an impartial probe from the CBI. "Let the law take its own course ... let the guilty be punished but my question is why the CBI is not interrogating one of the prime accused in the Narada scam ... why don't they interrogate Suvendu Adhikari who is a person named in the CBI FIR."

Another senior leader and TMC MP Saugato Roy said "the CBI has become a narrow-minded agency ... they are being shamelessly used by the BJP to serve its own cause."

Apex court stops HC order staying Assam, Meghalaya boundary pact

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday stopped the execution of the Meghalaya High Court order staying the memorandum of understanding (MoU) signed by the Chief Ministers of Assam and Meghalaya for settling their festering boundary dispute.

A bench comprising Chief Justice DY Chandrachud and Justices P S Narasimha and J B Pardiwala took note of the submissions of Solicitor General Tushar Mehta and the lawyers representing Assam and Meghalaya and ordered a stay on the order of the Meghalaya High Court.

The bench took note of the submissions that some of the areas, which are covered under the MoU, are not getting the benefits of the developmental schemes due to the old border disputes and, moreover, the boundary between the two states has not been altered due to the agreement.

A single judge bench of the Meghalaya High Court had on December 8 ordered an interim stay on physical demarcation or erection of boundary posts on the ground following the interstate border pact. Later, a division bench of the high court refused to interfere with the order of the single judge bench, prompting the petitioners to an appeal in the top court.

Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K Sangma and his Assam counterpart Himanta Biswa Sarma had in March last year signed an MoU for demarcating the border in at least six of the 12 contested locations that often raised tensions between the two states. On March 29 last year, the agreement was signed in the presence of Union Home Minister Amit Shah by the Chief Ministers of Assam and Meghalaya.

The pact sought to resolve the protracted dispute in six of the 12 places along the 884.9-km border between the two states. The boundary dispute between Assam and Meghalaya has lingered for 50 years. However, efforts to resolve it have gained pace in recent times.

Rahul attacks Centre over Agnipath scheme, GST

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI/PANIPAT

Former Congress president Rahul Gandhi on Friday launched a scathing attack on the BJP-led government at the Centre over a host of issues, including the Agnipath scheme and GST. Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge too slammed the Centre over a host of issues, including inflation and unemployment, and accused it of making tall promises during election time and going back on those words after coming to power.

Addressing a public meeting as part of the Congress' Bharat Jodo Yatra in Haryana, Rahul also said there are two Indias -- one of farmers, labourers, small shopkeepers and unemployed youth and the second of 200-300 people who hold the country's wealth.

Targeting the government over the Agnipath scheme, he said, "First make me understand what the Agnipath scheme is. The BJP people say they are patriots, make me understand their patriotism," he said.

Kharge, senior party leaders Kumar Selja, Bhupinder Singh Hooda, K C Venugopal, Shaktisinh Gohil, Kiran Choudhary and D K Shivakumar were among those present at the rally.

The former Congress president also hit out at the BJP-led Haryana government over the state's high unemployment rate. "In the 21st century, Haryana is the champion in unemployment, you have left everyone behind," Gandhi said when someone in the crowd said the state has an unemployment rate of 38 per cent.

Rahul said demonetisation and Goods and Services Tax (GST) were not policies but weapons to destroy small and medium businesses.

Addressing the rally at Panipat, Kharge said there is rising inflation and unemployment in the country but the government, led by the BJP, does not seem to be bothered.

Kharge said Rahul has led the Bharat Jodo Yatra for more than 3,000 kilometres so far. The foot march reached Haryana from Uttar Pradesh on Thursday evening.

Kharge said the Congress came to power in several states under Rahul's leadership, but the BJP allegedly used tactics to bring down those democratically-elected governments.

He pointed out that in poll-bound Tripura, Shah has talked about the inauguration

Now, Bharat Jodo Party on the political horizon?

In an interesting development, a group of people based in Bareilly have issued a public notice seeking registration as a political party with the name 'Bharat Jodo Party'. As per the notice, published in two newspapers last month, the group's president and the vice president are Nasir Ali and Jinat Begum. The mandatory public notice is part of an elaborate exercise parties have to undertake before they are registered by the Election Commission. The notice says that the party has submitted an application before the EC for registration as a "political party" under the Representation of the People Act. The notice was put on the EC website on Friday.

Azad puts up brave face as Chand, 18 others return to Congress fold

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ SRINAGAR

Chairman of the Democratic Azad Party (DAP) Ghulam Nabi Azad Friday tried to put up a brave front even after learning about 'Ghar Wapsi' of former Deputy Chief Minister Tara Chand along with 18 others in the Congress party.

Tara Chand, Balwan Singh and Dr Manohar Lal were earlier expelled by the DAP Chairman for anti party activities on December 22, less than three months after Azad had floated his new political outfit after quitting the Congress party.

Interestingly, Dr Manohar Lal was not present in AICC headquarters along with other leaders who returned to the Congress fold.

Meanwhile, reacting to the new political development Azad, who was present in Srinagar said, "I wish my former colleagues well in their political career ahead. It is not a setback because all three of them have no constituency. I will not say anything against them, they were my old colleagues."

In New Delhi, former Deputy Chief Minister Tara Chand soon after rejoining the Congress party admitted they had committed a blunder by exiting the Congress party at the time of joining the Azad bandwagon.

Azad, on the other hand, maintained after these leaders joined him, I gave them the party positions as they were left without their constituencies after the culmination of the Delimitation exercise. But, they could not digest that. It is okay. Perhaps where they went, they do not know that these three only had party positions, but have no constituencies," he said.

Quality certificate to 160 Chinese firms for selling toys in India delayed by Covid

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The government on Friday said it has not yet issued a mandatory quality certificate to around 160 Chinese companies for selling toys in India, and the delay is due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

From January 2021, India has made it mandatory to get the quality certification mark of 'ISI' from the Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS) for the sale of toys in the country.

"Around 160 Chinese toy companies have applied for the BIS quality certification in the last two years. We have not yet issued to them in view of the COVID-19 pandemic," BIS Director General Pramod Kumar Tiwari told reporters.

Normally, the BIS quality certification is issued after an inspection of the factories. Due to the pandemic restrictions and health concerns, the BIS officials could not visit China, he said.

"Neither they invited us for inspection nor we could visit China because of the pandemic," Tiwari said.

In the last two years, Tiwari said the BIS has granted the quality certificate to 29 foreign toy makers, out of which 14 are from Vietnam.

The BIS has also issued the quality certificate to 982 Indian toy makers in the same period, he added.

The BIS has been conducting enforcement raids in the last few days at major airports and malls across the country for violation of toy quality control orders.

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Indicating the growing importance of the National Cadet Corps (NCC), its Director General (DG) Lt General Gurbirpal Singh on Friday said that the participation of girl cadets in the NCC has more than doubled in the last one decade.

As NCC cadets from all over the country gathered in the national capital for the annual Republic Day camp, the DG gave an overview of the activities undertaken by the cadets across the country, including in the Puneet Sagar Abhiyan under which more than 200 tonnes of plastic waste has been collected from different water bodies.

"The participation of girl cadets in the NCC is increasing every year," he said adding the ratio of women in the NCC was around 13 per cent in 2010, which has gone up to around 35 per cent this year.

He said some states have a higher ratio of women cadets like Delhi, Kerala, and north eastern states with some states having almost 50 per cent girl cadets.

Talking about the future plans of the NCC, Singh said training is being revamped and use of simulators for training is being increased. At present the NCC is using 98 firing simulators, 71 rowing simulators, and 62 flying simulators.

UP signs MoUs worth $2 billion with North American companies

PNs ■ LUCKNOW

The Uttar Pradesh government has signed memorandums of understanding (MoUs) worth nearly $2 billion (about Rs 16,400 crore) with North American companies in the logistics, defence and aerospace sectors.

The agreements were inked recently with the companies incorporated in the US and Canada, a senior government official said.

US-based Mobility Infrastructure Group will invest Rs 8,200 crore in logistic projects, expected to generate 100 fresh employment opportunities. Canada-based QSTC will also pump in Rs 8,200 crore in defence and aerospace projects, creating 200 jobs.

The government is looking to showcase the state's military hardware manufacturing potential as well as the UP Defence Industrial Corridor at the UP Global Investors' Summit (GIS) 2023 in Lucknow during February 10-12.

The event is likely to attract defence manufacturers from the US, Europe, Russia, the UK, Sweden, France, Israel, and Germany. These include: US missile company Northrop Grumman; UK missile launch systems and ammunition maker BAE Systems; German rifle company Umarex; Swedish firm SAAB, the maker of Carl Gustaf M4 rifles; Russia's Almaz-Antey, a leading military hardware exporter; France's Dassault Aviation, which manufactures Rafale jets; and Israel Weapon Industries (IWI), which deals in unmanned aerial systems.

"During the recent visit of the UP ministers and officials to North America in the run-up to the GIS next month, MoUs of almost Rs 20,000 crore were signed across sectors with logistics, defence, and aerospace leading the chart," he said.

India eyes $5 billion exports in defence manufacturing in near future. The two defence industrial corridors in UP and another in Tamil Nadu are seen as the steps taken by the Centre to achieve this goal.

The UP Defence Industrial Corridor spans six nodes: Lucknow, Kanpur, Jhansi, Aligarh, Chitrakoot and Agra. So far, the state has acquired 1,600 hectares of land for allotment to companies.

UP's dream

Yogi Adityanath will have to rein in saffron activists if he wants the film city project to be successful

The Uttar Pradesh Government seems to be serious about its dream to make the state a film-making centre. Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Thursday met a number of leading lights of Hindi cinema on Thursday for the purpose. In fact, the state has been trying to attract the film industry for quite some time. Film City came up at Noida decades ago, but it eventually got occupied by television news channels. Undeterred by the failure of Noida's Film City to become a major film centre, the Chief Minister interacted with several people from the film fraternity, including producer Boney Kapoor, actor Ravi Kishen (who is also Lok Sabha MP from Gorakhpur), Bhojpuri actor Dinesh Lal Nirhua, playback singers Sonu Nigam and Kailash Kher, actor Suniel Shetty, and filmmakers Chandraprakash Dwivedi, Madhur Bhandarkar, and Rajkumar Santoshi. A day earlier, the Chief Minister had met actor Akshay Kumar. After the half-an-hour-long meeting, Kumar said, "Many big production houses, producers, directors and actors are waiting for the UP Film City. The development of world-class film and infotainment city in UP will provide a new option to the cinema world." If that happens, UP will see a lot of economic development and employment generation. As the largest Hindi-speaking state, UP is quite apt to have a film centre. With the state administration keen on a film city, it can become a reality in the foreseeable future. So far, so good.

However, it takes more than political will and administrative support to develop a film city; it also requires a socio-cultural milieu in which creative arts can flourish; and it is here that the shoe pinches. UP, like most other parts of the Hindi heartland, is dominated by the Bharatiya Janata Party and its front organisations. One of the biggest ailments that the saffron party is afflicted with is a kind of split personality disorder. Party leaders and Government functionaries talk about world-class infrastructure, state-of-the-art facilities, the latest technologies like artificial intelligence and machine learning, and so on; they also walk the talk, as evident from the various policies and programmes that the Centre and BJP Governments in states are implementing. Anyone viewing such developments would say that these guys belong to the 21st century. But, unfortunately, many of them also belong to the 17th century; one just has to notice their views on cows and mythology to realise this fact. Many centuries live in the BJP. The 21st century BJP may want UP to emerge as a prominent film centre, but will the medievalists let that happen? That is the moot question. It is a well-known fact that cinema gets the worst treatment from the enemies of free speech; also, most of these enemies are from the Hindutva camp. The folks who scrutinise Ravan's looks and Deepika Padukone's dress may not like the ways of filmy people in their state. If Adityanath can control that, the film city project may become successful.

Spirit of Mumbai

Ahead of civic polls, Eknath Shinde govt holds 1st global Marathi conference to woo 'Marathi manus'

When it comes to garnering votes nothing comes to the time-tested plank of regionalism. Playing to the sentiments works like a charm, and if it is Maharashtra it works wonders. Years back Balasaheb Thackeray mobilized people with his call to 'Marathi Manush'; years after he is gone Eknath Shinde and his breakaway faction of Balasahebanchi Shiv Sena are stepping into his shoes to woo the Maharashtra sentiment with his slightly different pitch to Marathi language and playing to the gallery by stoking the border dispute with Karnataka. He is of course backed by the BJP. Of late Eknath Shinde has been on the back foot as he could not stop the mega projects going out of the state and even the Governor playing a spoilsport by demeaning Marathi sentiment. To give his image a boost, Eknath Shinde inaugurated a first-of-its-kind international Marathi conference in Mumbai. The meeting saw leaders of his party taking the pledge to preserve Marathi in Maharashtra's capital city. This is a big-ticket event from Shinde months ahead of the Mumbai civic polls.

It would have been just another conference in the PR building but it was Deepak Kesarkar, minister in charge of the Marathi language department who filled an entirely different colour to it. In his opening address, Kesarkar said, "The aim is that Mumbai is the capital of the Marathi language and the language should be preserved here. Today, our own children have started talking to us in Hindi. That needs to stop. We decided to have the event in Mumbai because Mumbai's spirit is Marathi..." In a sentence, he almost laid out the reason of the conference. The Minister forgot that he was talking about the national language Hindi which he thought was bad. Mumbai is a cosmopolitan city, it always was and every Maharashtrian is proud of it. The Marathi language is vibrant, not a dead language that needs to be restored. This could lead to yet another wave of anti-north sentiment. Taking the narrative forward, Eknath Shinde said the conference was a step forward towards the ideology of Shiv Sena supreme Bal Thackeray, where 'Marathi manus' (Marathi-speaking population) was at the centre and should have a say in the system. He should not be driven out of Mumbai. The Marathi Manus pitch works in Mumbai, especially in civic polls. It would be interesting to note what the BJP, the nationalist party makes of the parochial pitch.

Yak, the ship of high altitudes rules NE

Efforts are being made at ICAR- National Research Centre on Yak to check the declining population of Yaks.

BRIJENDER SINGH PANWAR

My recent visit to Dirang in the West Kameng district of Arunachal Pradesh, known as "Arunachal's best-kept secret", proved to be exciting and purposeful. It took me to the Indian Council of Agricultural Research - National Research Centre on Yak (ICAR-NRCY). The Institute is one of a kind. It derives a major source of motivation and strength from its prime research animal - Yak. It is the most resilient creature on earth as it can survive in extreme cold (up to -40 degree centigrade) and hypoxic conditions of high-altitude terrain. Yak sustains the highlander communities across the Trans-Himalayan region by providing them with much-needed milk, meat, wool, hide, and dung and transportation services. The population of Yak in the country stands at 58,000 as per the latest census (2019). The majority of them are found in three major Yak-rearing states - Arunachal Pradesh, Ladakh, and Sikkim. The Institute prepares its strategy by taking cues from the existing ground realities in the Yak belt of India.

The main concerns are the drastic fall in the yak population of Ladakh and the dreadful incident of unprecedented snowfall and the severe feed scarcity resulting in the deaths of hundreds of Yaks in Sikkim in 2019. Considering the uncertain situation of Yak owners, the Institute convinced the National Insurance Company Limited (NICL) to provide Yak insurance to sustain the tribal pastoralists in the event of natural disasters and mishaps. To promote Yak entrepreneurship and attract the younger generation to this occupation, the Institute roped in NABARD to provide credit support for Yak farming from leading banks. This unique bond of mutualism forged between Yak and Yak pastoralists serves critical intangible roles like biodiversity conservation, environmental sustainability, and preservation of cultural heritage. Recently, the Institute has signed five MOUs in the areas of value addition of Yak wool, poultry farming to supplement the income of tribal Yak farmers, collaboration in teaching and research, and providing good healthcare facilities to the Institute staff at cost-effective rates.

Situated amidst the picturesque lush green hills, ICAR-NRCY was established ment the income of tribal Yak farmers, collaboration in teaching and research, and providing good healthcare facilities to the Institute staff at cost-effective rates.

According to Dr Mihir Sarkar, Director, ICAR-NRCY, "The Institute has been carrying out cutting-edge research in the fields of Yak production, reproduction and health while providing scientific knowledge and technical support to the Yak rearers (Brokpas)." Besides conducting research, the institute has a strong and active dimension regarding technology dissemination and awareness. The important research highlights include checking the effectiveness of synch protocol and timed Artificial Insemination in Yaks, designing the blueprint for portable and detachable animal shelters for young ones and milking yaks during migration, identifying the most suitable maize fodder and grain variety to be grown at 5500 ft. above mean sea level. To disseminate knowledge regarding scientific Yak Husbandry, an informative mobile app called "Yak- The Ship of the High Altitude" was launched, recently".

Situated amidst the picturesque lush green hills, ICAR-NRCY was established in 1989 with a vision to work towards the research and development of Yak in India. At present, it is spread over 11.32 acres at a height of 1500 meters above sea level. The Yak experimental farm of the Institute was also established in 1995 at Nyukmadung.

THE MAIN CONCERNS ARE THE DRASTIC FALL IN THE YAK POPULATION OF LADAKH AND THE DREADFUL INCIDENT OF UNPRECEDENTED SNOWFALL AND THE SEVERE FEED SCARCITY RESULTING IN THE DEATHS OF HUNDREDS OF YAKS IN SIKKIM IN 2019

The present laboratory-office building was inaugurated in April, 2009. ICAR-NRC on Yak is ISO 9000: 2015 certified to work for the "Conservation and Improvements of Yaks". The mandate of the Institute includes the identification, conservation, characterization, and evaluation of Yak germplasm and the improvement of Yak for draught and milk. The main objectives to realize the mandate of the Institute are - the establishment of the nucleus herd(s) of Yak; develop and frame conservation strategy of Yak and take up research on ex-situ and in situ conservation of Yak genetic resources in a collaborative mode; conduct research on different aspects of Yak improvement in terms of production, productivity, health and quality improvement of products; research scientific utility of Yak cross-breeds being traditionally carried out by people of mid-altitude areas to frame a strategy on crossbreeding with cattle and act as a one-stop station for Yak related information and technology access.

The research in the Institute is directed at various aspects of Yak husbandry and is chiefly executed through scientific sections viz. Animal Genetics and Breeding, Animal Nutrition, Animal Physiology and Reproduction, Animal Health, Livestock Product Technology, and Veterinary Extension Education. Despite being situated in a remote location, the Institute has an excellent research infrastructure consisting of an Experimental Yak farm, Central laboratory, Central Instrumentation Facility, In vitro Fertilization laboratory, Semen processing laboratory, and dedicated laboratories for Yak genetics, nutrition, physiology, parasitology, biotechnology, and medicine. Important support sections of the Institute include the Estate and Maintenance section, AKMU Cell, Library, Finance, and Establishment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SHOCKING INCIDENT

Sir — After the November 26 incident on a New York-Delhi Air India flight, yet another episode of a drunk male passenger allegedly urinating on a female passenger's blanket on the Paris-Delhi sector has come to light but there was no penal action after he gave a written apology. This incident happened on December 6 on Air India flight 142 and the pilot of the aircraft reported the matter to the Air Traffic Control (ATC) at the Indira Gandhi International (IGI) Airport about it, following which the male passenger was apprehended.

The male passenger was apprehended by the Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) as soon as he de-boarded the plane but was later allowed to leave after the two passengers had a "mutual compromise" and the accused tendered a "written apology". The lady passenger, who had initially made a written complaint, refused to file a police case and hence the passenger was allowed to go by the airport security after he cleared immigration and customs formalities.

MOST GRUESOME ACCIDENT

Sir — What a shock! Delhi's Anjali Singh, who died after being dragged by a car for 14 km in the early hours of this New Year, was with a friend Nidhi, when their scooter met with an accident. But what pained me and I was unable to understand why the accompanying Nidhi who escaped with minor injuries did not raise any alarm. Had she raised the alarm in time the victim Anjali might have survived. One wonders if she has no fear of going to a midnight party at 1.45 AM, but felt fear to save her friend! Instead, Nidhi spread lies and maligned Anjali's character that she was drunk on New Year's Day, but the detailed post-mortem of Anjali says that there was no alcohol in her system.

After this how one believes Nidhi's version that the men in the car knew Anjali was stuck under their car. Like many times earlier this time also Delhi

Women in the armed forces

Ever since women were inducted into the military brigade in 1990, much water has flown down the bridge. They are breaking glass ceilings even in inhospitable and spine-chilling conditions to protect the country's frontiers on an equal footing with their male counterparts. Now, the deployment of captain Shiva Chauhan, the first women officer at the Siachen glacier, represents another milestone in the women folks' journey to serve and represent India in the military realm also. She went through a rigorous one-month training at Siachen battle school before being selected for this arduous task. She will have a three-month stint in the frozen landscape where the temperature can dip to -60 C. It is the world's coldest and highest of all battlegrounds.

It is symbolic of dismantling the last apparent gender barrier of physical endurance that can even serve as a beacon of hope for thousands of aspiring young women to serve in the defence sector. Tanks and combat position in the infantry is still a no go zone for women, but with thinking fast changing within the forces to harness the potential and intelligence of half of the country's population, it can usher in a new dawn to follow in captain Chauhan's footsteps.

Vijay Singh Adhikari | Nainital

Commission for Women's (DCW) has recommended setting up a high-level committee under the chairpersonship of the union home minister, which should include a few prominent persons to create a coordinated strategy for tackling crimes against women in the crime capital. It's a lengthy process and its success remains doubtful as we have witnessed from the time of Nirbhaya case. But prompt and early action why not like Anjali's friend Nidhi, the five youths (who ignored Anjali and Nidhi's screams), and police officials of the area (has shown such disregard for women's safety and then on top of it trying to hide their incompetence by cooking up things) should be brought under the lens of stringent legal action, for the horrific Kanjhawala accident.

A DANGEROUS SPORT

Sir — With the Supreme Court recommending its work after the winter vacation, all eyes in Tamil Nadu are on the verdict of a five-member Constitution Bench of the Court on a batch of petitions seeking to strike down a 2017 Tamil Nadu law that protects Jallikattu, a traditional event involving bulls. As the conduct of the event will coincide with the Pongal festival, the Bench, which reserved its judgment on December 8, is expected to give its ruling next week. A massive agitation erupted on the Marina beach in Chennai in January 2017, demanding that the Central and State governments come up with a law that would annul the Supreme Court's ban on Jallikattu which was imposed, through a judgment in May 2014.

The Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (Tamil Nadu Amendment) Ordinance 2017 must be put in place to avoid animal cruelty at every level. The Assembly subsequently adopted a Bill to replace the Ordinance which resulted in the Court being moved and the case being referred to the Constitution Bench in February 2018. Better council should prevail to avoid playing this dangerous sport, which is a danger to human life.

FIRST COLUMN
PRACTICE FORGIVENESS FOR GOOD RELATIONS

One must work for purity of thought to build relationships

RAJYOGI BRAHMAKUMAR NIKUNJ

Human relationships are infinitely complex and tricky to manage and hence they need immense patience, understanding, acceptance, acknowledgement and engagement. That is why the quality of our relationships decides the quality of our life. Unfortunately, most people today experience unhappiness and stress in their lives either due to their relationship with work or with their family.

The highest form of exchange of energy in any relationship is love and respect. When love is absent, there are problems in relationships and they become stressful. The exchange of anger, hatred and fear in any relationship breaks the union between the people.

The origin of stress is when we want people to do or be something else because we believe that our happiness and sense of self-worth depends on them, and when they do not do or be what we want, our love turns into resentment and fear.

Instead, when we accept them as they are, we can heal and restore relationships. So, if there is peace, joy, love, kindness, courage and wisdom in everything we relate to, then every relationship will bring happiness.

Most of us may have had this experience, where a very close and loving relationship with some friend or a dear one went completely sour and the relationship which lasted for years suddenly ended. While one keeps on wondering and thinking about the reasons for such sad events that brings one's self esteem down, one forgets to do a simple self-check as to what was my fault in this? Where did I go wrong? As a result of this, one starts blaming the opposite person and the bitterness in heart keeps on increasing day by day, leaving no margin for a reconciliation.

There is a well-known saying that "we see things not as they are but as we are". While our physical eyes see everything and everyone the same way, it is actually the thoughts and feelings that accompany the act of seeing which form an impression in the mind about what we are seeing. So, if our feelings are light and pure, we feel the same way about everything we see.

On the other hand, if we are in a negative frame of mind, we might perceive things negatively. Today we all live with a fragmented sense of self, defined by many identities, based on physical, social and professional identities, which has led to inner disintegration of the self. This is the actual cause of our inability to love and feel love for yourself. Hence, we must realise that we can experience our completeness only when we realise our true identity as a soul.

Acceptance, appreciation, trust, good listening skills, respecting others' ideas, sincerely wishing them well and taking care to exchange positive vibes in all interactions - all these are valuable investments in a good relationship. The best part of this is, that whatever we exchange with others, we first give to ourselves. A relationship is like a house. When a light bulb burns out, do we go and buy a new house? Not really! We fix the bulb and move on.

Such an attitude helps us remain stable in the face of all the challenges. It also helps others around us as it enables us to come out of self-centered or selfish ways of thinking and to think of the universal good. Lastly, there is one question we all could ask ourselves every night which would certainly contribute to forming better relationships: What did I give from my heart to anyone today?

India must tax MNCs for revenues here

UTTAM GUPTA

Ideally, the source country from where an offshore firm is deriving its income should have sole right to collect tax

Over the years, an increasing share of the income generated globally has gone towards boosting the profits. The proportion of corporate profit in global GDP (gross domestic product) went up from 14.5 per cent during 1975 to 16.2 per cent in 2000 and further to 20 per cent during 2019. The growth in profit, in turn, was driven largely by multinational companies (MNCs) - companies which operate in several jurisdictions. Their share in corporate profit increased from four per cent during 1975 to 18 per cent during 2019.

Even more disconcerting is the fact that such companies didn't pay taxes in countries from where they earned profits (call them 'source countries'). According to the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development or OECD, corporate tax avoidance costs countries anywhere from $100 billion to $240 billion annually, equivalent to 4-10 per cent of global corporate income tax revenues.

Developing countries are disproportionately affected because they tend to rely more heavily on corporate income taxes than advanced economies. India is losing about $10 billion annually.

MNCs don't pay tax in source countries by taking recourse to a disingenuous practice of registering their subsidiaries in low-tax countries such as Singapore, Mauritius, and Ireland, and showing their revenue and profits there regardless of where their sales are made. Over time, this practice has proliferated as is evident from the fact that the share of multinational profits booked in tax havens increased from less than two per cent in the 70s to over 37 per cent in 2019.

To better understand the dynamics, consider an MNC, say Amazon, whose home country is the US; it has all its customers located in India who buy goods and services on former's on-line platform and it has a 100 per cent investment arm/subsidiary registered in a low-tax jurisdiction, say, Ireland.

If Amazon were to have a subsidiary registered in India and record the revenue from sales to Indian customers in this very subsidiary (this indeed is the right way to go), it would have paid tax on such income to the Government of India. But it does not follow this route. Instead, it asks its subsidiary in Ireland to raise invoices on Indian customers even as the Indian entity is crafted more like a service company or commission agent to the parent firm.

Since the revenue is recorded in the books of the Irish subsidiary, the right to collect tax is vested with the Government of Ireland. Being a tax haven, Amazon either pays very little or no tax in that jurisdiction. Not having to pay any tax in India either (as no income is shown here), it gets away with not paying tax anywhere.

MNCs DON'T PAY TAX IN SOURCE COUNTRIES BY TAKING RECOURSE TO A DISINGENUOUS PRACTICE OF REGISTERING THEIR SUBSIDIARIES IN LOW-TAX COUNTRIES SUCH AS SINGAPORE, MAURITIUS, AND IRELAND, AND SHOWING THEIR REVENUE AND PROFITS THERE REGARDLESS OF WHERE THEIR SALES ARE MADE

(The author is a policy analyst)

To address the problem, October 8, 2021, 136 countries and jurisdictions representing more than 90 per cent of global GDP, including India, agreed to a deal called the OECD action plan. It requires: (i) 25 per cent share in profits in excess of 10 per cent to be reallocated to market jurisdictions where the companies' users are located; this applies to firms with an annual global turnover exceeding 20 billion euros, which can be potentially reduced to 10 billion euros, and profit before tax greater than 10 per cent of the revenue and is expected to cover about 100 of the most profitable MNCs and (ii) MNCs to pay taxes at a minimum 15 per cent (referred to as global minimum corporate tax or GMCT) where ever they operate; this applies to companies with annual global revenues of over 750 million euros. The plan also says "no newly enacted digital services taxes (DSTs) or other relevant similar measures will be imposed on any company from October 8, 2021, and until the earlier of December 31, 2023, or the coming into force of the MLC (multilateral convention)".

The deal is heavily tilted in favour of the developed countries and brings little gain for India. Picking up from the above example, the plan requires Ireland to impose a minimum tax of 15 per cent in which case Amazon will have no incentive to continue with its subsidiary in that country. In case, Ireland keeps the tax rate at a lower level say 10 per cent or even 'nil' then the US would impose a top-up tax of 5/15 per cent that would bring the effective rate to 15 per cent. This is in sync with a law enacted by the Trump administration (2017) to impose "Global Intangible Low-Taxed Income (GILTI). GILTI is applied on the offshore income of US-based MNCs having subsidiaries in low-tax countries at 10.5 per cent. The incumbent President Joe Biden wanted GMCT - the new face of GILTI - to be set at 21 per cent but was eventually lowered to 15 per cent. The big question is: Can the US - the home country of Amazon - collect tax on the profits of its subsidiary in Ireland despite the fact that the latter's income is derived mostly from Indian customers and that the GOI has a right to collect tax on it? This brings us to the second pillar. The plan allocates to the 'source' country (read: India) taxing rights only to the extent of 25 per cent of the profit. How does India from where the MNC/Amazon gets all its revenue and profit be treated as residual, getting the right to tax only 25 per cent? On the other hand, how can the US, which has no contribution to revenue, get away with collecting tax on 75 per cent of the profit? The initial game plan of the US and other developed countries which are home to MNCs operating from tax havens was to garner all of the tax on profits booked in those jurisdictions. Now, they have made developing countries sign on a deal which enables them to collect tax on 75 per cent of these profits. This is patently unfair and violates the spirit of the OECD as reflected in its draft paper on "Taxing digital companies" released on October 9, 2019 stating: "Profits of MNCs should be available for taxation in the country where their customers are, irrespective of any physical presence in that market." As for GMCT, far from any help in addressing the problem of profit shifting and resultant loss of tax revenue, the requirement to impose a minimum tax will take away from India the policy space to lower the tax and attract foreign investment. To conclude, ideally the source country (read: India) from where an offshore firm is deriving its income, should have the sole right to collect tax on it. Yet, if at all 'non-source' countries are to be given something, they should get to tax on residual basis say 20-25 per cent. India should also pester OECD to drop the GMCT idea; countries should have the freedom to decide the tax rate. India should also not agree to withdraw the 'equalization levy' (a DST introduced in 2016/2020 in lieu of tax on profits) which under the OECD action plan is required to be done before the new tax rules take effect. The levy should be withdrawn on the date the new regime comes into force.

Should free trade agreements have a shelf life?

Sunset clause constitutes a critical lever to bring a partner to negotiating table for rebalancing through mid-course corrections

In this jolly season one could easily recall a staple American Christmas comedy trilogy where the protagonist is subject to a legal technicality known as "The Santa Clause" (which is also the film's title) and has to accept all of Santa's duties and responsibilities therein. By the time the third sequel was made, the producers had appended the title "the Escape clause", which begets the question: should agreements have a shelf life?

SANJAY CHADHA

More recently, one can recall the furor created by the sunset clause in the recent US-Mexico-Canada Free Trade Agreement or USMCA (successor to the expired NAFTA). The sunset clause provision states that the agreement shall terminate 16 years after it enters into force unless certain conditions are met. The condition starts with a "joint review" of the agreement after six years. At this review, if the three governments express their desire to continue the agreement, the term gets further extended for 16 years from the time of this review.

(The author is a senior retired official from the Department of Commerce)

After another six years have elapsed from the time of the first review, there will be another review and the process will keep getting repeated with extensions for next 16 years at each review.

Critics argue that while there is nothing wrong with updating agreements to keep up with changes in the economy and to fix flaws that have been discovered, but such a provision of a sunset clause takes "review" of the agreement to a whole new level.

Let us take a step back here and see what has historically been the shelf life of trade agreements. We know that it was not until the 19th century that the idea of free trade was seeded. The World's first free trade agreement, the Cobden-Chevalier Treaty, was put in place in 1860 between Britain and France, which set off a number of similar treaties in Europe. This "golden age of free trade" in Europe, however, lasted only until the 1880s, whereafter, the rise of protectionism in Germany, the United States and elsewhere made the treaties irrelevant.

In fact, the evolution and demise of trade agreements find roots in the series of flip-flops between liberalisation and protectionism in the trade policies of the developed world. However, post second world war, with the formation of GATT, the larger objective within the democratic west became to pursue a more ambitious and permanent lowering of duties across board and to diminish a country's ability to pull back given concessions.

Even so, today the idea of "winners and losers" in trade liberalization following an FTA, is increasingly influencing domestic politics even in the west. Many criticize what they allege to be a "democratic deficit of trade agreements" - limited as they are in their ability to be amended in accordance with the long-term changes in the ecosystem.

Adding to the woes of the developing world is the fact that the developed countries, who have a penchant for compelling their trade partners to maximise the tariff concessions, then use non-tariff means to undermine those concessions. This often acts as a disincentive for developing countries to pursue ambitious FTAs.

Though Article 62 of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties provides for a unilateral right to terminate or suspend a treaty in case of a fundamental change of circumstances, it sets a rather high bar to clear for termination of FTAs. The question arises as to how do we recalibrate signed FTAs and successfully initiate measures to rebalance the commitments that have been made to trade partners.

A sunset clause which has an 'Opt-in' option for its continuation spurs the partners to take affirmative action to recalibrate and is perhaps more effective than a sunset clause with an 'Opt-out' option where the default option is to continue with the FTA.

The argument being that the entrenchment effect of not having this 'Opt-in' provision diminishes the incentive to go for a mid-course correction, especially if one party is reluctant to come to the negotiating table - fearing that they may have to let go of an undue advantage. Why would the gainer come to the negotiating table to cede an advantage - unless compelled to. A case in point being the India-Japan CEPA which is long overdue its mid-term review.

Though a conventional liberalist narrative voices deep concerns on using sunset clauses to regulate temporary and transitory issues, yet in the long run the sunset clause constitutes a critical and underappreciated lever to bring a partner to the negotiating table for rebalancing through mid-course corrections, especially if the continuation in-force hinges on it.

On a lighter note, a periodic reaffirmation of commitments and rebalancing is always a good idea for any relationship—trade or otherwise.

Putin orders weekend truce in Ukraine

Kyiv won't take part

AP ■ KIV

Russian President Vladimir Putin on Thursday ordered his armed forces to observe a unilateral 36-hour cease-fire in Ukraine this weekend for the Orthodox Christmas holiday, the first such sweeping truce move in the nearly 11-month-old war. Kyiv indicated it won't follow suit.

Putin did not appear to make his cease-fire order conditional on Ukraine's acceptance, and it wasn't clear whether hostilities would actually halt on the 1,100-kilometer (684-mile) front line or elsewhere. Ukrainian officials have previously dismissed such Russian moves as playing for time to regroup their invasion forces and prepare additional attacks.

At various points during the war that began Feb. 24, Russian authorities have ordered limited, local truces to allow civilian evacuations or other humanitarian purposes. Thursday's order was the first time Putin has directed his troops to observe a cease-fire throughout Ukraine.

"Based on the fact that a large number of citizens professing Orthodox live in the combat areas, we call on the Ukrainian side to declare a cease-fire and give them the opportunity to attend services on Christmas Eve, as well as on the Day of the Nativity of Christ," according to Putin's order to Defense Minister Sergei Shoigu, published on the Kremlin's website.

Putin's order didn't specify whether it would apply to both offensive and defensive operations. It wasn't clear, for example, whether Russia would strike back if Ukraine kept fighting.

Ukrainian officials dismissed Putin's move. Presidential adviser

Mykhailo Podolyak tweeted that Russian forces "must leave the occupied territories -- only then will it have a temporary truce. Keep hypocrisy to yourself."

Ukraine's National Security Council chief Oleksiy Danilov told Ukrainian TV: "We will not negotiate any truces with them."

He also tweeted: "What does a bunch of little Kremlin devils have to do with the Christian holiday of Christmas? Who will believe an abomination that kills children, fires at maternity homes and tortures prisoners? A cease-fire? Lies and hypocrisy. We will bite you in the singing silence of the Ukrainian night." U.S. President Joe Biden said it was "interesting" that Putin was ready to bomb hospitals, nurseries and churches on Christmas and New Year's. "I think he's trying to find some oxygen," he said, without elaborating.

State Department spokesman Ned Price said Washington had "little faith in the intentions behind this announcement," adding that Kremlin officials "have given us no reason to take anything that they offer at face value."

"It does not appear to be a strategic change in in Russia's plan or its approach," he said. "It appears to be a bid to continue to do what it has inflicted upon the Ukrainian people for nearly a year now as it seeks to rest, refit, regroup, and ultimately reattack."

U.N. Spokesman Stephane Dujarric welcomed the move but said it "will not replace a just peace in line with the U.N. Charter and International Law." Putin acted after the head of the Russian Orthodox Church, Patriarch Kirill, proposed a truce from noon Friday through midnight Saturday Moscow time (0900 GMT Friday to 2100 GMT Saturday; 4 a.m. EST Friday to 3 p.m. EST Saturday). The Orthodox Church, which uses the Julian calendar, celebrates Christmas on Jan. 7 — later than the Gregorian calendar

— although some Ukrainian Christians also mark the holiday on that date.

Kirill has previously called the war part of Russia's "metaphysical struggle" to prevent a Western liberal ideological encroachment.

President Volodymyr Zelenskyy had proposed a Russian troop withdrawal earlier, before Dec. 25, but Moscow rejected it.

Political analyst Tatyana Stanovaya said Putin's cease-fire order is intended to make him look reasonable. It "fits well into Putin's logic, in which Russia is acting on the right side of history and fighting for justice," she said.

"We must not forget that in this war, Putin feels like a good guy, doing good not only for himself and the brotherly nations, but also for the world he's freeing from the hegemony of the United States," Stanovaya, founder of the independent R.Politik think tank, wrote on Telegram.

She also linked Putin's move to Ukrainian forces' recent strike on Makiivka that killed at least 89 Russian servicemen. "He really doesn't want to get something like that for Christmas," she said.

Ukrainians reacted with suspicion to Putin's announcement.

"Frankly speaking, the 8th of March (Women's Day), (Ukraine's) independence day, Christmas (Dec. 25) and the New Year, there were no cease-fires. Why should there be one now?" said Sopiha Romanovska, a 21-year-old student who fled Mariupol for Kyiv, peppering her comments with expletives. Putin issued the truce order after Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan urged him in a phone call to implement a "unilateral cease-fire," according to the Turkish president's office. The Kremlin said Putin "reaffirmed Russia's openness to a serious dialogue" with Ukrainian authorities.

Erdogan also told Zelenskyy later by phone that Turkey was ready to mediate a "lasting peace." Erdogan has made such offers frequently, helped broker a deal allowing Ukraine to export millions of tons of grain, and has facilitated prisoner swaps.

Russia's professed readiness for peace talks came with the usual preconditions: that "Kyiv authorities fulfill the well-known and repeatedly stated demands and recognize new territorial realities," the Kremlin said, referring to Moscow's insistence that Ukraine recognize Crimea and other illegally seized Ukrainian territory as part of Russia.

Previous attempts at talks have failed over Moscow's territorial demands because Ukraine insists Russia withdraw from occupied areas.

Coupled with talk of diplomacy were new pledges Thursday of military support for Ukraine.

Kremlin-ordered truce uncertain amid suspicion of motives

AP ■ KIV

The impact of Russian President Vladimir Putin's order for his forces in Ukraine to observe a unilateral, 36-hour cease-fire was in doubt Friday after Kyiv officials dismissed the move as a ploy but didn't clarify whether Ukrainian troops would follow suit.

Moscow also didn't say whether it would hit back if Ukraine kept fighting.

The Russian-declared truce in the nearly 11-month war began at noon Friday and was to continue through midnight Saturday Moscow time (0900 GMT Friday to 2100 GMT Saturday; 4 a.m. EST Friday to 4 p.m. EST Saturday).

There were no immediate reports of it being broken.

Putin's announcement Thursday that the Kremlin's troops would stop fighting along the 1,100-kilometer (684-mile) front line or elsewhere was unexpected.

It came after the Russian Orthodox Church head, Patriarch Kirill, proposed a cease-fire for this weekend's Orthodox Christmas holiday.

The Orthodox Church, which uses the Julian calendar, celebrates Christmas on Jan. 7.

But Ukrainian and Western officials suspected an ulterior motive in Putin's apparent goodwill gesture.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy questioned the Kremlin's intentions, accusing the Kremlin of planning the fighting pause "to continue the war with renewed vigor."

"Now they want to use Christmas as a cover to stop the advance of our guys in the (eastern) Donbas (region) for a while and bring equipment, ammunition and mobilized people closer to our positions," Zelenskyy said late Thursday.

He did not, however, state outright that Kyiv would ignore Putin's request.

U.S. President Joe Biden echoed Zelenskyy's wariness, saying it was "interesting" that Putin was ready to bomb hospitals, nurseries and churches on Christmas and New Year's.

"I think (Putin) is trying to find some oxygen," Biden said, without elaborating.

State Department spokesman Ned Price said Washington had "little faith in the intentions behind this announcement," adding that Kremlin officials "have given us no reason to take anything that they offer at face value."

The truce order seems to be a ploy "to rest, refit, regroup, and ultimately re-attack," he said. The Institute for the Study of War agreed that the truce could be a ruse allowing Russia to regroup.

"Such a pause would disproportionately benefit Russian troops and begin to deprive Ukraine of the initiative," the think tank said late Thursday.

"Putin cannot reasonably expect Ukraine to meet the terms of this suddenly declared cease-fire and may have called for the cease-fire to frame Ukraine as unaccommodating and unwilling to take the necessary steps toward negotiations."

Washington says it is prepared to keep backing Ukraine's war effort.

On Friday, the U.S. was due to announce nearly $3 billion in military aid for Ukraine — a massive new package that was expected for the first time include several dozen Bradley fighting vehicles.

The ill-feeling between the warring sides showed no signs of abating, despite the backdrop of Christmas.

Germany to send armoured carriers, Patriot battery to Ukraine

AP ■ BERLIN

Germany will supply Ukraine with armoured personnel carriers and a Patriot missile battery, the government said Thursday.

The announcement came in a joint German-US statement after Chancellor Olaf Scholz spoke with US President Joe Biden.

Germany's decision to supply Marder armoured personnel carriers comes after France said it will soon hold talks with Ukraine to arrange for the delivery of armoured combat vehicles.

France's presidency said that will be the first time this type of Western-made wheeled tank destroyer will be given to the Ukrainian military.

The German government didn't specify how many Marder APCs will be supplied or when. It said that Germany will train Ukrainian forces on them.

The statement noted that the U.S. last month announced that it would give a Patriot air defense missile battery to Ukraine and said that "Germany will join the United States in supplying an additional Patriot air defense battery to Ukraine." It didn't specify a timeframe.

US to send Ukraine dozens of Bradleys in USD 2.85 billion aid package

AP ■ WASHINGTON

The US will send Ukraine nearly USD 3 billion in military aid, in a massive new package that will for the first time include several dozen Bradley fighting vehicles, US officials said on Thursday, in the Biden administration's latest step to send increasingly lethal and powerful weapons to help Ukraine beat back Russian forces.

The aid — totalling about USD 2.85 billion — is the largest in a series of packages of military equipment that the Pentagon has pulled from its stockpiles to send to Ukraine.

It is aimed at getting as much to the Ukrainian forces as possible during the winter months, before spring sets in and an expected increase in fighting begins.

An announcement is expected Friday, said the officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity because details of the package have not been publicly announced.

The Bradley fighting vehicles is a medium-armoured combat vehicles that can serve as a fortified troop carrier on the battlefield. It has tracks rather than wheels, but is lighter and more agile than a tank. It can carry about 10 personnel, and is seen as a critical way to move troops safely into battle.

Also included in the aid package will be HUMVEES, Mine Resistant Ambush Protected vehicles, or MRAPs, and a large amount of missiles and other ammunition.

The aid comes on the heels of Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy's dramatic visit to Washington last month, when he slipped secretly out of his war-torn nation for the first time to thank America and predict that 2023 would be a "turning point" in the conflict.

War in Ukraine at critical point right now: Biden

PTI ■ WASHINGTON

The war in Ukraine is at a critical point right now, US President Joe Biden said Thursday as the US and Germany announced additional support for Ukraine.

"Right now, the war in Ukraine is at a critical point. We have to do everything we can to help the Ukrainians resist Russian aggression. And Russia is not attempting to slow up. The actions they're taking are as barbaric as they were a year ago, and they're not letting up at all," Biden told reporters during a Cabinet meeting.

Earlier this afternoon, Biden said, he had a long discussion with German Chancellor Olaf Scholz about Ukraine and their alliances in Europe and the EU.

"We have a much larger contingent of countries that share our view, including Japan and others. But we talked about what we're going to do," he said.

"Today we jointly announced a statement saying that we're going to increase support for Ukraine. We're going to provide the Bradley Infantry Fighting Vehicles to the Ukrainians, and the Germans are going to provide the Marder Infantry Fighting Vehicles that they have to the Ukrainians," Biden said.

"In addition, we're going to help defend Ukraine against Russian air attacks. Germany has also announced today that it's going to provide the Ukrainians to deal with air attacks, a Patriot air defense system. We're going to provide an additional Patriot air defense battery. They work, and the Russians are beginning to realize that. They function well, and they're helping a lot," he said.

Earlier during a call, Biden and Scholz exchanged views on the ongoing war of aggression waged by Russia against Ukraine and reiterated their support for Ukraine's sovereignty and independence. "They reaffirmed their unwavering solidarity with Ukraine and the Ukrainian people in the face of Russia's aggression," the White House said in a readout of the call.

Biden and Scholz expressed their common determination to continue to provide the necessary financial, humanitarian, military and diplomatic support to Ukraine for as long as needed.

"In light of Russia's ongoing missile and drone attacks against Ukraine's critical infrastructure, President Biden and Chancellor Scholz affirmed their intention to further support Ukraine's urgent requirement for air defense capabilities.

In late December, the United States announced its donation of a Patriot air defense missile battery to Ukraine. Germany will join the United States in supplying an additional Patriot air defense battery to Ukraine," said the White House.

During the call, Biden and Scholz expressed appreciation for the military support provided by other allies and partners to Ukraine, endorsed the ongoing coordination efforts of the Ukraine Defense Contact Group, and welcomed additional donations of air defense systems and combat vehicles.

6 women killed in bus accident in Nepal

PTI ■ KATHMANDU

At least six women died and 18 other passengers were injured after a bus they were travelling in veered off a cliff in Western Nepal's Palpa district, police said.

The accident took place on the Saljhandi-Dhorpatan road section on Thursday.

The bus en route to Kharsane from Saljhandi in Rupandehi district fell some 60 metres down the road at Madhuban region. The Kathmandu Post newspaper reported.

All six passengers who died on the spot were women, the report said, quoting police officials. Rem Bahadur Rana, the chairman of ward 8 of the rural municipality, informed that a team of police and locals rescued the injured, it said.

The injured are being treated at the Lumbini Provincial Hospital in Butwal.

The rescue team faced difficulties while recovering the bodies and helping the injured, three of whom were crushed under the bus, due to poor weather conditions.

Nepal's Prime Minister Pushpa Kamal Dahal condoled the death of the women and wished a speedy recovery to those who sustained injuries in the accident.

2 years after Jan 6, Speaker scrap paralyses Congress again

AP ■ WASHINGTON

Such are the fractures in the country, between the political parties and inside the Republican Party itself, that one time-honoured specialty of Washington — memorialising and coming together over national trauma — isn't what it used to be.

Friday's moment of silence at the Capitol to contemplate the Jan. 6, 2021, assault on it was expected to draw mostly Democrats.

At the White House, few Republicans were expected for a ceremony at which President Joe Biden will award Presidential Citizens Medals to a dozen state and local officials, election workers and police officers for their "exemplary deeds of service for their country or their fellow citizens" in upholding the results of the 2020 election and fighting back the Capitol mob.

It's all a far cry from Sept. 11, 2001, when lawmakers who had frantically evacuated the Capitol during the terrorist attack gathered there later in the day in a moment of silence and broke out in "God Bless America," Republicans and Democrats shoulder to shoulder.

"They stood shaken and tearful on the steps of the Capitol, their love of nation and all that it symbolises plain for the world to see," an Australian newspaper reported in a passage reflected now in the House's official history.

Today, the world sees a different picture, one of turmoil in American democracy coming from within the institution that insurrectionists overran two years ago.

The nation's legislative branch is again paralysed — not by violence this time but by a tortuous struggle among Republicans over who should lead them, and the House itself, as speaker.

To be sure, a resolution to the immediate crisis may be near as the GOP leadership continues negotiations to appease its hard-right flank, but questions loom about the chamber's ability to manage even the most essential legislation, such as funding the government and meeting the nation's debt obligations.

Biden, in his afternoon remarks, will tell stories of heroism, whether in the face of a violent Capitol mob or a vehement horde of Donald Trump-inspired agitators who threatened election workers or otherwise sought to overturn the results. He will appeal for unity.

But the Democratic president can't ignore the warning signs that it could happen again.

In the midterms, candidates who denied the outcome of 2020's free and fair election were defeated for many pivotal statewide positions overseeing elections in battleground states, as well as a number of election deniers seeking seats in Congress.

Yet many of the lawmakers who brought baseless claims of election fraud or continued the violence on Jan. 6 continue to serve and are newly empowered.

Taiwan president visits base as China protests US ship passage

AP ■ CHIYAI (TAIWAN)

Taiwanese President Tsai Ing-wen visited a military base on Friday to observe drills while rival China protested the passage of a US Navy destroyer through the Taiwan Strait, as tensions between the sides showed no sign of abating in the new year.

Beijing claims self-governing Taiwan as Chinese territory to be brought under its control by force if necessary, and regularly protests the passage of US and other foreign warships through the Taiwan Strait, one of the world's busiest waterways.

"The Eastern Theater Command of the Chinese People's Liberation Army organised troops to monitor the US ship's entire passage and was fully cognizant of all its actions," the command's spokesperson Col. Shi Yi said in a brief statement posted to social media.

The US says the strait is international waters beyond the territorial sea of any coastal state. "Chung-Hoon's transit through the Taiwan Strait demonstrates the United States' commitment to a free and open Indo-Pacific. The United States military flies, sails and operates anywhere international law allows," the Japan-based 7th Fleet said in a statement.

That includes expanding the domestic shipbuilding and arms industry, buying more defensive weaponry from the US and extending the national service requirement for all men from four months to a full year beginning in 2024.

Japan, US to hold security talks before Kishida meets Biden

AP ■ TOKYO

Japan and the United States will hold security talks between their foreign and defence ministers in Washington the day before Japanese Prime Minister Fumio Kishida lands in the US capital next week wrapping up his tour of Group of Seven nations as Tokyo expands its military and deepens its alliance with America amid China's growing influence.

Kishida will embark on a five-nation trip Monday to France, Italy, Britain and Canada ahead of his January 13 summit with US President Joe Biden. While the two leaders last met during a Group of 20 meeting in Bali, Indonesia, Kishida's Washington visit will be his first as prime minister.

Defence Minister Yasukazu Hamada and Foreign Minister Yoshimasa Hayashi will fly to Washington to join their American counterparts Lloyd Austin and Antony Blinken for their "2+2" security talks on Wednesday, just before their leaders' summit at the White House, Japanese officials said on Friday.

An Australian woman charged with willingly entering part of Syria that was under control of the Islamic State group was freed on bail on Friday as a debate raged about the risk to the community.

Explainer: Is China sharing enough Covid-19 information?

AP ■ TAIPEI

As COVID-19 rips through China, other countries and the World Health Organization are calling on its government to share more comprehensive data on the outbreak. Some even say many of the numbers it's reporting are meaningless.

WHAT IS CHINA SHARING AND NOT SHARING? Chinese health authorities publish a daily count of new cases, severe cases and deaths, but those numbers include only officially confirmed cases and use a very narrow definition of COVID-related deaths.

US, Canada, Japan, South Korea, India, Australia, the UK, France, Spain and Italy — from announcing virus testing requirements for passengers from China. The European Union strongly encouraged all its member states to do so this week.

Health officials have defended the testing as a surveillance measure that helps fill an information gap from China. This means countries can get a read on any changes in the virus through testing, even if they don't have complete data from China.

repeatedly asked for more — not just on genetic sequencing but also on hospitalisations, ICU admissions and deaths. WHO Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus expressed concern this week about the risk to life in China.

Without basic data like the number of deaths, infections and severe cases, governments elsewhere have instituted virus testing requirements for travelers from China. Beijing has said the measures aren't science-based and threatened countermeasures.

China is most certainly doing their own sampling studies but just not sharing them, said Ray Yip, who founded the US Centres for Disease Control office in China.

That's only 0.04 per cent of its reported number of cases — a rate more than 100 times less than the United States and nearly four times less than neighbouring Mongolia. WHAT IS KNOWN AND WHAT CAN BE FIGURED OUT? So far, no new variants have shown up in the sequences shared by China. The versions fuelling infections in China "closely resemble" those that have been seen in other parts of the world since July, GISAID said. Dr. Gagandeep Kang, who studies viruses at the Christian Medical College of Vellore in India, agreed, saying there wasn't anything particularly worrisome in the data so far.

"We don't need China to study that, all we have to do is to test all the people coming out of China," said Yip, the former public health official. Canada and Belgium said they will look for viral particles in wastewater on planes arriving from China.

Chinese officials have repeatedly said they are sharing information, pointing to the sequences given to GISAID and meetings with the WHO. But WHO officials have

Ex-Lanka president returns to Lanka from Dubai

McCarthy offers deal to end standoff in House Speaker fight

AP ■ WASHINGTON

The contours of a deal that could make Republican leader Kevin McCarthy the House speaker have begun to emerge after three grueling days and 11 failed votes in a political spectacle unseen in a century. It has left Republicans in disarray and exposed anew the fragility of American democracy.

Weeks later, he flew to Thailand, seeking temporary shelter. Thailand said Rajapaksa can stay in the country for 90 days because he is still a diplomatic passport holder. However, he was not allowed to engage in political activities in Thailand. He was confined to a hotel and surrounded by security personnel.

They arrived on an Emirates flight from Dubai, the report said. During his visit to Dubai, Rajapaksa visited the exotic animal farm called "Fame Park," according to news portal newsfirst.lk. Rajapaksa, 73, fled Sri Lanka to the Maldives in a Sri Lankan Airforce plane in July.

New Israeli Govt takes steps to penalise Palestinians

AP ■ JERUSALEM

In some of its first acts since coming to power, Israel's new Security Cabinet approved a series of punitive steps against the Palestinian leadership, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's office said Friday. According to a statement from Netanyahu's office, the move is in retaliation for Palestinians pushing the U.N.'s highest judicial body to give its opinion on the Israeli occupation. The development underscores the hard-line approach to the Palestinians by Israel's new ultranationalist government has promised at a time of rising violence in the occupied territories.

International Court of Justice intervene and render an opinion on the legality of Israeli policies in the occupied West Bank and east Jerusalem. Israel's Security Cabinet described the Palestinian Authority's request to the U.N. As a "decision to wage political and legal war against the State of Israel." "The current government will not sit idly by in the face of this war and will respond as necessary," it said. In response, the Security Cabinet, packed with Netanyahu's far-right and religiously conservative allies, decided Israel would withhold $39 million from the Palestinian Authority and transfer the funds instead to a compensation program for the families of Israeli victims of Palestinian militant attacks.

India to grow at 7% in FY23

LOSE FASTEST GROWING ECONOMY TAG

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Hit by weakening demand, the Indian economy is expected to grow at a slower 7 per cent rate in the current fiscal ending March 2023, setting the stage for the country losing the fastest-growing major economy tag.

The 7 per cent expansion projected in the first official estimate released by the Statistics Ministry compares with 8.7 per cent gross domestic product (GDP) growth in 2021-22.

The projections are much lower than government's earlier forecast of 8-8.5 per cent growth but above the Reserve Bank's projection of 6.8 per cent. If the forecast comes true, India's GDP growth will be lower than Saudi Arabia's expected 7.6 per cent expansion.

In fact, India's GDP growth in the July-September quarter at 6.3 per cent was lower than the 8.7 per cent of Saudi Arabia.

The first advance GDP estimates, which are used to work out allocations and other fiscal projections for the next Budget due on February 1, proved to be more optimistic than the actual growth in three out of the last four years.

The projections suggest that despite the global headwinds and continued geopolitical uncertainty caused by the Russia-Ukraine conflict, the recovery is on track though there are pressure points. Inflation has been sticky despite a 225 basis points increase in interest rates since last May, which is likely to moderate demand.

"We believe that buoyant albeit mixed domestic consumption should help to stave off some of the pain arising from weak exports during this period," said Aditi Nayar, Chief Economist, ICRA Ltd.

"Given the full-year projections released today by the NSO, we expect there to be some revisions in either the H1 or the H2 FY2023 sectoral numbers, in the subsequent data releases."

Sunil Sinha, Senior Director and Principal Economist, India Ratings & Research, said the road ahead is not going to be easy so long as private final consumption expenditure (PFCE) does not recover fully and become broad-based.

"The household sector, which accounts for 44-45 per cent of the GVA, saw their nominal wage growth decline to 5.7 per cent during FY17-FY21 from 8.2 per cent during FY12-FY16. In fact, the real wage growth became nearly flat or even turned negative in some months of FY23 due to high inflation.

"Since much of the growth in consumption demand is driven by the wage growth of the household sector, a recovery in their wage growth is an imperative for a sustainable economic recovery," he noted.

The first advance estimates for 2022-23 factored in discrepancies of Rs 4,06,943 crore, which is nearly double the amount of Rs 2,16,842 crore as per provisional estimates of GDP growth for 2021-22 released on May 31, 2022. The discrepancies were Rs 2,38,638 crore in 2020-21.

Discrepancies in the statistical GDP data refer to the difference in national income under production method and expenditure method.

As per the first advance estimates of national income released by the National Statistical Office (NSO) on Friday, the manufacturing sector output is estimated to decelerate to 1.6 per cent in the current fiscal from 9.9 per cent in 2021-22.

Similarly, mining sector growth is estimated at 2.4 per cent in the current fiscal as against 11.5 per cent in 2021-22.

"Real GDP or GDP (Gross Domestic Product) at Constant (2011-12) Prices in the year 2022-23 is estimated at Rs 157.60 lakh crore, as against the Provisional Estimate of GDP for the year 2021-22 of Rs 147.36 lakh crore, released on 31st May, 2022," an NSO statement said.

It stated that growth in real GDP during 2022-23 is estimated at 7.0 per cent as compared to 8.7 per cent in 2021-22.

It also said the nominal GDP or GDP at Current Prices in the year 2022-23 is estimated at Rs 273.08 lakh crore, as against the Provisional Estimate of GDP for the year 2021-22 of Rs 236.65 lakh crore.

The growth in nominal GDP during 2022-23 is estimated at 15.4 per cent as compared to 19.5 per cent in 2021-22.

The agriculture sector is projected to see a growth of 3.5 per cent in FY2022-23, higher than the 3 per cent expansion recorded in the previous financial year.

Trade, hotel, transport, communication and services related to broadcasting segment is estimated to grow at 13.7 per cent from 11.1 per cent in 2021-22.

Financial, real estate and professional services segment is projected to grow at 6.4 per cent in the current fiscal, up from 4.2 per cent in 202-22.

However, construction sector growth is expected to decelerate to 9.1 per cent from 11.5 per cent a year ago.

Similarly, public administration, defence and other services growth is estimated to drop to 7.9 per cent this fiscal from 12.6 per cent in FY22.

The growth in gross value added (GVA) at basic prices is pegged at 6.7 per cent this fiscal, down from 8.1 per cent in 2021-22.

Benchmarks skid for 3rd day as bears tighten grip; end 1st week of 2023 with losses

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The Sensex tumbled for the third straight session to close below the 60,000-mark on Friday, ending the first week of the new year with losses amid concerns over elevated inflation and continued monetary policy tightening.

Unabated foreign fund outflows and a weakening rupee added to the gloom, traders said.

The 30-share BSE Sensex slumped 452.90 points or 0.75 per cent to finish at 59,900.37. The broader NSE Nifty went lower by 132.70 points or 0.74 per cent to end at 17,859.45.

TCS was the top laggard in the Sensex pack, shedding 2.97 per cent, followed by IndusInd Bank, Bajaj Finserv, Tech Mahindra, Bajaj Finance, Infosys and Kotak Mahindra Bank.

Only five counters closed higher — Mahindra & Mahindra, Reliance Industries, Nestle India, ITC and Larsen & Toubro, rising up to 1.06 per cent.

"Investor risk sentiment took a blow post the release of the FOMC meeting minutes, which indicated further rate hikes in 2023 to tame inflation. The market already remains sensitive to FIIs selling and IT stocks traded with deep cuts ahead the release of corporate earnings next week as the growth is anticipated to be muted," said Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services.

On a weekly basis, the Sensex lost 940.37 points or 1.55 per cent, while the Nifty declined 245.85 points or 1.36 per cent.

"The Indian equity markets have begun the new year on a slightly cautious note, in line with the global markets, continuing the trend visible in December 2022. While expectations remain of softer rate tightening by the global central banks from hereon, concerns remain on the overall economic environment amidst the high interest rates and sticky core inflation.

"Indian markets have been one of the best performing markets globally in CY22... However, in the near term, the markets seem to be running into a few headwinds -- record high valuation premium to EMs, potential slowdown in exports on the back of global slowdown, and Fixed Income emerging as a viable investment option," said Milind Muchhala, Executive Director, Julius Baer India.

In the broader market, the BSE smallcap gauge fell 0.73 per cent and midcap index declined 0.72 per cent.

Among sectoral indices, tech declined 1.86 per cent, IT dipped 1.77 per cent, metal (1.28 per cent), services (1.11 per cent), bankex (1.04 per cent) and financial services (1.03 per cent).

FMCG was the only gainer. Elsewhere in Asia, equity markets in Seoul, Tokyo and Shanghai ended in the green, while Hong Kong settled lower.

Equity exchanges in Europe were trading on a mixed note in mid-session deals. Markets in the US had ended lower on Thursday.

RBI to issue green bonds in two tranches of ₹8,000 cr each

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The RBI on Friday said maiden Sovereign Green Bonds (SGRBs) would be issued in two tranches for an aggregate amount of Rs 16,000 crore, and proceeds will be utilised for funding public sector projects seeking to reduce carbon emissions.

The first auction would be done on January 25 while the second on February 9, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) said in a statement.

The proceeds will be deployed in public sector projects, which help in reducing the carbon intensity of the economy, it said.

As announced in the Union Budget 2022-23, the central government as part of its overall market borrowings will be issuing Sovereign Green Bonds (SGRBs) for mobilising resources for green infrastructure.

"Accordingly, it was notified in the half-yearly issuance calendar for marketable dated securities for the second half of the fiscal year 2022-23 on September 29, 2022, that SGRBs for an aggregate amount of Rs 16,000 crore would be issued.

"The Government of India has since issued the Sovereign Green Bond Framework on November 9, 2022," it said.

These green bonds would be available in 5-year and 10-year tenure, it added.

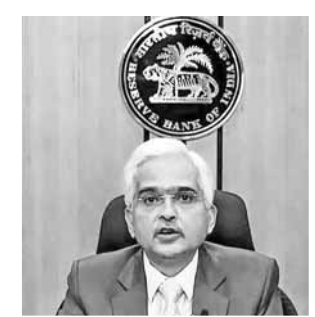

SGRBs will be issued through uniform price auction and 5 per cent of the notified amount of sale will be reserved for retail investors, the RBI said, adding these papers will be reckoned as an eligible investment for SLR purposes.

"SGRBs will be eligible for Repurchase Transactions (Repo) as per the terms and conditions mentioned in Repurchase Transactions (Repo) (Reserve Bank) Directions, 2018 as amended from time to time," it noted.

These bonds will be eligible for trading in the secondary market.

Announcing the guidelines, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in November had said the framework will strengthen India's commitment towards the Nationally Determined Contribution (NDC) targets adopted under the Paris Agreement as well as help attract global and domestic investments into eligible green projects.

'Govt, RBI in discussion with South Asian nations for cross-border rupee trade'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das on Friday said the government and the central bank are in discussion with South Asian countries to have cross-border trade in rupee.

He also said the central bank digital currency (CBDC) is in trial phase and the RBI is moving very carefully and cautiously on digital rupee launch.

"For UPI, we have already entered into agreements with countries in this region, for example, with Bhutan and other countries like Nepal and we are trying to provide the UPI facility to make cross-border payments much easier in this region... "The other initiative is the RBI, together with the Government of India, have initiated rupee settlement of international trade. We are already in discussion with some of the countries in this region and to facilitate rupee settlement of cross border trade in the South Asian region," Das said.

In his keynote address at an IMF conference here, the Governor also said that the RBI has launched a pilot project of CBDC.

"It's in a trial phase, we are moving about it very carefully, very cautiously because this is something where the approach has to be very cautious, very careful. If there is cloning or anything which happens, it can be very, very risky... So that could be another area where there can be room for cooperation (between South Asian countries)," Das said.

After the successful launch of the pilot for the wholesale segment on November 1, 2022, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on December 1, last year, began its retail CBDC pilot project.

Good initial progress made on quota reforms: IMF DMD Sayeh

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Good initial progress has been made on IMF quota reforms in line with the changing nature of the global economy, International Monetary Fund (IMF) deputy managing director Antoinette Sayeh said on Friday.

As per an IMF resolution, the 16th General Review of quotas should be concluded by December 15, 2023. Any adjustment in quota shares would be expected to result in an increase in the voting rights of emerging countries in line with their relative positions in the world economy.

"We're working of course quite a bit (on quota reforms)...From our experience from the last review, we understand that countries have very different perspectives about what the results of this quota review should be and we've been working with them to find areas of common ground and to make sure that there is ownership for how we approach the review," she said.

Observing that there has been good initial progress being made on that, she said countries are fully aware of the changing nature of the global economy and the contributions that individual members make to it now.

"There is a need to align our governance structure with those changes...Work in progress of course and a long way... But it is our expectation that we will make progress and it will be possible to come to a good outcome," she said

Sebi mulls standardised approach to valuation of investment portfolio of AIFs

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Capital markets regulator Sebi on Friday proposed that alternative investment funds (AIFs) need to adopt a standardised methodology for valuation of investment portfolios managed by them.

It has been recommended that AIFs should be mandated to carry out valuation of their investment portfolio as per International Private Equity and Venture Capital Valuation (IPEV) Guidelines.

Presently, AIF Regulations focus on disclosures to investors and do not prescribe any guidelines on the methodology to be adopted. As such, managers of AIFs have flexibility to adopt any valuation methodology by disclosing the same to investors in Private Placement Memorandums (PPMs) of schemes of AIFs managed by them.

Currently, the modalities relating to valuation of investment portfolio of the AIFs are not disclosed in the PPMs at the time of submission to Sebi and also not reported to the regulator subsequently.

In its consultation paper, Sebi has suggested criteria of independent valuers appointed by AIFs, reporting of valuation to performance benchmarking agencies and responsibilities of manager of AIF with regard to valuation of their investment portfolio and related disclosures.

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) has sought comments from the public till January 23 on the proposals.

As per the draft papers, out of 269 schemes of Category I and Category II AIFs, which invest primarily in unlisted securities, only 71 schemes or 26.4 per cent follow IPEV guidelines for valuation methodology, while others follow market, income, asset and cost based approaches.

With regard to criteria for independent valuer, Sebi suggested that AIF should appoint an independent valuer who is registered with the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India (IBBI) and has at least three years of experience in valuation of unlisted securities.

Among others, such independent valuer is required to have a membership of a professional institute such as Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI) and Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI) and Institute of Cost Accountants of India.

Further, the managers should be required to ensure that one of the terms in subscription agreement with the investee company stipulates a specific timeframe for providing its audited accounts to the AIF.

This would enable manager of AIF to report valuation based on audited data as on March 31 to performance benchmarking agencies within the specified timeline of 6 months.

Also, managers of AIFs should ensure that valuation based on audited data of investee company is reported to performance benchmarking agencies only after the audit of books of accounts of the AIF.

With regard to responsibilities of manager for valuation, Sebi has proposed that managers of AIFs should be required to ensure that the independent valuer computes and carries out valuation of investments made by the scheme(s) of AIFs in accordance with the stipulated guidelines.

The manager should be responsible for true and fair valuation of the investments made by the scheme of the AIF.

In cases where the established policies and procedures of valuation do not result in fair and appropriate valuation, the manager may be required to deviate from such policies and procedures in order to value the assets or securities at a fair value and document the rationale for such deviations.

'Mercedes-Benz will launch 10 new vehicles in India in 2023'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

German luxury carmaker Mercedes-Benz will launch ten new vehicles in India in 2023 with majority in the over Rs 1-crore price category, which grew over 69 per cent last year, according to a senior company official.

Mercedes-Benz India, which posted a record sales in 2022 at 15,822 units, had sold over 3,500 cars that are priced above Rs 1 crore last year.

In 2021, Mercedes-Benz India had sold 11,242 units. Its previous best sales was achieved in 2018 at 15,583 units.

The company is looking at an overall double-digit sales growth this year, and as part of the drive it launched its 'AMG E53 4MATIC+ Cabriolet' model priced at Rs 1.3 crore on Friday.

"The biggest growth for us in the last year has come from the TEV (top-end vehicle) segment, where we have grown by 69 per cent," newly appointed Managing Director & CEO of Mercedes-Benz India Santosh Iyer told PTI. The company's top-end vehicles include S-Class Maybach, GLS Maybach, top-end AMG, S-Class and GLS SUV, which are priced over Rs 1 crore (ex-showroom).

Iyer, who is the first Indian to be elevated to lead Mercedes-Benz in the country, said the share of its TEV has increased to 22 per cent of the company's total sales, up from 12 per cent in pre-Covid year of 2018. He further said bringing more products in the TEV segment will be a part of the company's "six pillar" strategy for 2023.

"The first pillar is to think and act like a luxury brand and for that we will be introducing 10 desirable cars in 2023, majority of them will be in the TEV segment..." he said.

Expanding the TEV base is a key part of the strategy, Iyer said, adding, "we have grown at 69 per cent and we will be launching more products there. We have sold more than 3,500 cars only in TEVs in 2022... That's a lot of cars in the Rs 1-crore-plus segment".

Also, he said the company will be putting a lot of emphasis on its online store in order to enhance the omni channel experience for its customers.

"We sold 2,000 cars through our online platform last year... We are making it even better for customers today. Earlier, they were not able to see cars which will be produced after three months. With the enhancements in our online store, they can actually see visibility of cars up to one year," Iyer said.

Mercedes-Benz India will also take the lead in electric vehicles, and is looking at more EVs to enhance product portfolio to add to the existing models EQC, EQB, EQS 53 AMG and EQS 580, he added.

Pacers, top order in focus as India look to win T20 series against SL

PTI ■ RAJKOT

The young pace bowling unit will look to pick up pieces from the hammering of previous night even as the Indian top-order itches to put in a meaningful performance against Sri Lanka in the decider of the three-match T20I series here on Saturday.

After eking out a narrow last-ball win in the opener, India fell short by 16-run defeat as Sri Lanka levelled the three-match series 1-1.

The inconsistency of a young attack was one of the reasons for the defeat but going forward Umran Malik and Shivam Mavi will know that it was great learning experience for them.

They erred in their lines and didn't always bowl the fuller length, making the Sri Lankan batters job easy to guide the pace of the short pitched stuff.

The Indian bowling unit bled runs with left-arm pacer Arshdeep Singh, who returned to the playing XI after a spell of injuries, bowling as many as five no balls in his two overs.

He stepped over the line three times on the trot in his first over, making him the first India bowler to bowl hat-trick of no-balls in T20I.

Mavi, who made a sensational T20I debut in the opening game and Arshdeep Singh added to the no ball count as they too missed the trick with skipper Hardik Pandya, who had to rely on his spinners, lamenting that the team needs to get its basics right.

But the youngsters in the team are expected more chances as they gather valuable experience.

"The young kids will have games like this at times, and I think we all need to be patient with them, (but) we need to be understanding that games like this can't happen," head coach Rahul Dravid said.

"I think as they're learning, it's tough. It's not easy learning in international cricket. You have to learn on the job. I think we're going to have to have a little bit of patience with these guys," he added.

On the batting front, the top order, once again, failed to provide a solid start. Shubman Gill succumbed to his second successive failure in the series and would be eager to capitalise on the opportunities in hand like Rahul Tripathi, who too perished cheaply in his debut game.

It was the second instance of the top-order collapse in the series.

But despite half the team returning to the dugout under 60 runs, it was heartening to see India still go for chase as Axar Patel and Suryakumar Yadav almost pulled off the impossible.

In Axar, India have found a reliable like for like replacement of Ravindra Jadeja.

The team is expected to give its core more games to form lethal combinations as the team prepares for life beyond Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma in the shortest format of the game.

India is unlikely to make any changes for the series decider with head coach Dravid asserting "we are not going to be chopping and changing people too much."

As expected, Sri Lanka have given a solid fight to the hosts.

The reigning Asia Cup champions came back strongly to level the series.

However, they would like their middle order to perform better.

Rajkot has is one of the flattest tracks in the country and is expected to be a batting belt.

The toss could thus play an important role as both captains would like to chase.

Dravid: Team rebuilding for next T20 WC, we have got to be patient with youngsters

PTI ■ PUNE

Head coach Rahul Dravid has called for patience as the Indian team goes through a rebuilding phase for the next cycle of the T20 World Cup and the youngsters in the side get some experience.

Dravid felt inexperience was one of the main reasons for India's 16-run defeat to Sri Lanka in the second T20I here. The former India captain pointed out that while the visitors had a pretty sorted playing XI, the hosts fielded a completely different side than the one which played the T20 World Cup less than two months back.

"They (youngsters in the team) are very skilful, but as they are learning, it's a tough (job). It's not easy learning in international cricket and you have to learn on the job. So, we've got to have a little bit of patience with these guys," Dravid said at the post-match press conference on Thursday.

Dravid said the team was in the rebuilding phase, given the "next cycle of the T20 (World Cup)" had started. He added that youngsters will be handled patiently and will continue to get support from the team management, hinting that it could be the end of the road for the likes of Virat Kohli, Rohit Sharma and KL Rahul.

"For us, it was a slightly different scenario (in the T20I series against Sri Lanka) in the sense that from the last game we played against England in the semifinal of the World Cup, we've probably only 3-4 boys in the playing XI (now). So, we are in a slightly different stage of looking at the next cycle of (the) T20 (World Cup). So, a slightly younger team."

With the focus shifting to the 50-over World Cup in India, Dravid feels it is the right time to give as many opportunities to youngsters in T20s as possible.

"The good thing is this year we have the (50-over) World Cup. Because a lot of focus will be on the 50-over World Cup, and the World Test Championship, at least the T20 games that we have, it probably gives us the opportunity to try out a lot of the younger guys."

India are fielding a new-look side comprising youngsters including Shivam Mavi, Umran Malik, Shubman Gill and Rahul Tripathi.

"Hopefully give them opportunities and just back and support them. I think we've got to be patient with a lot of these young kids. If you look at this team, there are a lot of youngsters playing, especially our bowling attack."

"We all need to be patient with them and we need to be understanding that games like this can happen."

With openers Ishan Kishan and Gill and Tripathi -- playing his debut match -- not firing, Dravid defended them, saying they've only played a couple of games, and asserted that no chopping and changing will take place for the Rajkot game.

"I haven't thought about the third match right now. Once we go there we will have a look at the wicket. But I don't expect there to be too much of experimenting."

"The boys we are already playing (with) are very young. The opening pair of Ishan and Shubman have only played two matches, so we are not going for (any) chopping and changing (of) people too much, unless, of course, there are some injuries," said Dravid.

SA20 will be a build-up for IPL, says Reece Topley

IANS ■ NEW DELHI

Ahead of the inaugural edition of SA20, England's left-arm fast bowler Reece Topley, who will feature for Durban's Super Giants, felt the newly-launched tournament will be a good platform to hit the ground running ahead of the 2023 Indian Premier League (IPL).

Topley was snapped by Royal Challengers Bangalore in the recently-concluded 2023 IPL Player Auction held in Kochi on December 23. Durban's Super Giants will play their first match of SA20 against the Joburg Super Kings on January 11. Topley is coming back from a left ankle ligament injury sustained ahead of England's campaign at the Men's T20 World Cup last year.

Now having recovered, he is excited to get back to action but cautious at the same time. "Obviously having not played for a long time since literally just before the start of the World Cup."

"Naturally, it's going to be a bit of a progression, it's going to be small steps, but at least, you know, I'll be playing, and I will be looking to fine-tune in skills during this opportunity over the next two months or so."

"Not just this competition obviously. But obviously, you want to get ready to hit the ground running when you touch down in India," he said in an official release.

Asked if anyone from RCB had gotten in touch with him, Topley said, "I had a welcome message from Fa (du Plessis), played against him a lot and really looking forward to playing under him. He's a fierce competitor. But now it's nice to have a change and have him on my side once."

At the SA20, Topley will join the likes of Quinton de Kock, Jason Holder, Akila Dananjaya, Keshav Maharaj and other top international names in Durban's Super Giants squad. The lanky pacer, standing at six feet and seven inches tall, has played 22 T20Is for his national side and picked up as many wickets.

Ireland's left-arm fast-bowler Josh Little, who had a great ICC Men's T20 World Cup last year claiming 11 wickets in seven matches, including a hat-trick against New Zealand, is a part of the Pretoria Capitals set-up and is all excited to be a part of the SA20.

Medium-pace Vijaykumar Vyshak came up with his maiden five-wicket haul in first-class cricket to set up Karnataka's seven-wicket win over Chhattisgarh in a Ranji Trophy Group C match here on Friday.

Resuming day four on 35 for 2 and with a lot of work to do to save the match, Chhattisgarh were rocked by Vyshak's superb effort. He struck the first blow of the day by removing the first innings centurion Ashutosh Singh for 18.

Only Amandeep Khare (50) and Mayank Verma (46) provided resistance as the other batters did not stay long enough at the crease.

Skipper Harpreet Singh Bhatia, the key in the Chhattisgarh batting line-up was bowled by K Gowtham (2/41) as the visiting team faltered.

Vyshak struck a crucial blow by bowling Khare. Later, he removed Shashank Singh, Ajay Mandal and Sourabh Majumdar to finish with 5 for 59.

In another match in Thiruvananthapuram, Goa upset Kerala by seven wickets thanks to an impressive bowling performance, especially off-spinner Mohit Redkar, who finished with 6 for 73 in the second innings.

Kerala was bundled out for 200 in the second innings, leaving Goa 155 for a win.

Ishan Gadekar (67 not out) and Siddhesh Lad (33 not out) saw Goa home with a 68-run fourth-wicket partnership.

'Situations you are put in don't define you but decisions you take to deal with them do'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

A year ago Shikha Pandey was unexpectedly left out of the Indian team and the pacer's comeback for the T20 World Cup next month has also come out of nowhere, leaving her "pleasantly surprised."

The 33-year-old last played for India on the tour of Australia in October 2021 and was an integral part of the team in the lead up to the 2022 ODI World Cup in New Zealand.

So, being dropped from the team came as a big setback but the former Indian Air Force officer found solace in getting back to the grind of domestic cricket where she excelled and got close with her Goa teammates. Time spent with former Australia captain Belinda Clark Down Under also contributed immensely in her comeback bid.

With the selectors falling back on the experience of Shikha after testing a few youngsters, there will be additional pressure to perform but she is up for the challenge.

"I try to take one day at a time. Short term goals help me a lot. There is always pressure to perform and I am hoping I am better equipped this time around."

"I did well in the domestic circuit this season and was happy with how I was going. I got a very positive feedback from my coaches at Zonals and challengers. Yeah I was pleasantly surprised," the 33-year-old told PTI.

Shikha is at the NCA in Bengaluru along with her India teammates and will be leaving for South Africa on January 11. The World Cup will be preceded by a tri-series involving India, West Indies and hosts South Africa, beginning January 19.

The experienced fast bowler forced her way into the Indian team after a stellar domestic season in which she picked up 20 wickets in 16 games at an average of 13.45.

Besides the support of her family, Shikha said her Goa teammates helped her tide over the tough times.

"I have always loved coming back and playing for my state side. Even when I wasn't away on international duties, I would never miss a chance to play alongside my state team mates."

Sarfraz leads Pak to thrilling draw with NZ

AP ■ KARACHI

Sarfraz Ahmed continued his red-hot form with a thrilling century to help Pakistan draw a nail-biting second and final Test against New Zealand as the series ended 0-0 on Friday.

The 35-year-old Sarfraz, who also struck half-centuries in his three previous innings after being recalled for the series following a near-four year absence, made 118 before the last-wicket pair hung on in dimming light for 21 balls to take Pakistan to 304-9, just 15 runs shy of its victory target.

Rain dampens Australia's hopes of South African series sweep

AP ■ SYDNEY

Inclement weather threatens to derail Australia's bid of a series clean sweep against South Africa and a confirmed place in the world test championship final as the third and final test against South Africa at Sydney Cricket Ground appears destined for a draw.

After rain and bad light delays across her first two days, consistent, and at times heavy, rain meant no play was possible at all on Friday. It left Australia unable to add to its imposing first-innings score of 475-4 and Usman Khawaja stranded on his overnight score of 195 and tantalizingly close to his first double century.

Australia now has the dilemma of deciding how many runs it needs and then how much time it needs to bowl out South Africa twice to win in the two remaining days on a pitch not yet offering the expected assistance for the spinners.

"I think it'd be pretty harsh if he (skipper Pat Cummins declared) straight away," Khawaja said after play was abandoned on the prospect have being stranded on 195. "I don't think that's going to happen."

"We could go out there and get a few more runs really quickly or we could declare pretty much straight away."

Consistent rain swept through the Sydney area from early Friday morning and the gaps in the rainfall were not sufficient for ground staff to prepare the field and the match to resume. Shortly after the scheduled tea break, umpires abandoned the day's play.

The forecast appears more favorable for the final two days of the test, although some light showers are forecast for Saturday.

Cricket calendar was sent to PCB on Dec 22, Sethi's comments baseless: Asian Cricket Council

PTI ■ KUALA LUMPUR

The Asian Cricket Council (ACC) on Friday hit back strongly at Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) chairman Najam Sethi "vehemently denying baseless allegations" of unilateral decision making levelled against its president Jay Shah with regards to the continental body's two-year programme.

The ACC, in its statement, categorically stated that PCB were sent the itinerary on December 22, 2022 along with other member nations but no communication came from the latter's side.

On Thursday, Shah had announced the ACC calendar 2023-24 and pathway structure for the continental body along with ODI Asia Cup slated in September. However, the calendar didn't have the host country's name as BCCI secretary Shah had already said last October (2022) that the tournament will be shifted out of Pakistan as India won't be able to travel.

Sethi's predecessor Ramiz Raja had then made a counter-threat of pulling out of the ODI World Cup being held in India later this year.

Sethi, who is back in the hot seat, had reacted sharply to BCCI supremo Shah's announcement of ACC itinerary on twitter.

"Thank you Jay Shah for unilaterally presenting ACC structure & calendars 2023-24 especially relating to Asia Cup 2023 for which Pakistan is the event host. While you are at it, you might as well present structure & calendar of our PSL 2023! A swift response will be appreciated," Sethi's sarcasm-laden tweet wasn't lost on anyone. The ACC led by Shah, on the day, released a strongly-worded statement calling out PCB chairman's bluff.

"It has come to our knowledge that PCB Chairman Najam Sethi has made a comment on the ACC President (Shah) unilaterally taking the decision on finalising the calendar and announcing the same. The ACC wants to clarify that it has followed established due process," ACC said in its statement.

In fact, the statement also shared the timeline with the media which effectively means that the PCB chairman was lying.

The calendar was approved by its Development Committee and Finance & Marketing Committee in a meeting held on December 13th, 2022. The calendar was then communicated to all the participating members individually, including Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB), via an e-mail dated December 22nd, 2022," it further stated.

Qatar to host next season of Legends League Cricket Masters from Feb 27

IANS ■ DOHA

The Qatar Cricket Association will be hosting the next season of the Legends League Masters — the international edition — of Legends League in Doha, Qatar from February 27 to March 8, 2023, the organisers announced on Friday.

Top legend cricketers across the globe will be featuring in this mega event. After Qatar hosted the world's best ever FIFA World Cup finals in 2022, the country's cricket board will be trying to recreate a similar atmosphere for all the fans of the game around the world.

As per organisers, this season will have eight matches, which will be played at Asian Town international Cricket stadium. "We at Qatar Cricket association feel elated to host Legends League cricket second season. We always strive for excellence in sports and are trying to make Qatar a sports-friendly destination."

RONALDO LATEST STAR TO END CAREER IN SOCCER OUTPOST

AP ■ WASHINGTON

Cristiano Ronaldo is not the first soccer superstar to head off to one of the world's supposed minor leagues in the latter years of his career.

The temptation for one last huge payday, to be a trailblazer in a nation looking to boost its standing in the sport, or just to try something different often can be too big to resist. Not every player bows out right at the top like Zinedine Zidane — even if the France great was sent off in the last game of his career, the World Cup final of 2006.

Others, like Pelé, Johan Cruyff, Zico, Xavi Hernandez, and now the 37-year-old Ronaldo at Saudi Arabian club Al Nassr, find themselves prolonging their careers at unlikely soccer outposts usually for vast amounts of money.

Here's a focus on a few of them, across five different countries:

PELE

It was a move that changed U.S. Sports history. Pelé, the Brazil great and owner of an unprecedented three World Cup winners' medals, signed for the New York Cosmos in 1975 after being wooed by the team for four years.

Pelé's 2 1/2 seasons there — he earned $2.7 million, according to the Cosmos' then-general manager Clive Toye — put U.S. Soccer on a path to hosting the World Cup in 1994 and launching Major League Soccer two years later. The Cosmos' average attendances nearly tripled in Pelé's first year and continued to grow.

He scored 37 goals in 64 matches in the North American Soccer League and did all the PR work required in his mission to make soccer mainstream and underpin a surge in youth participation.

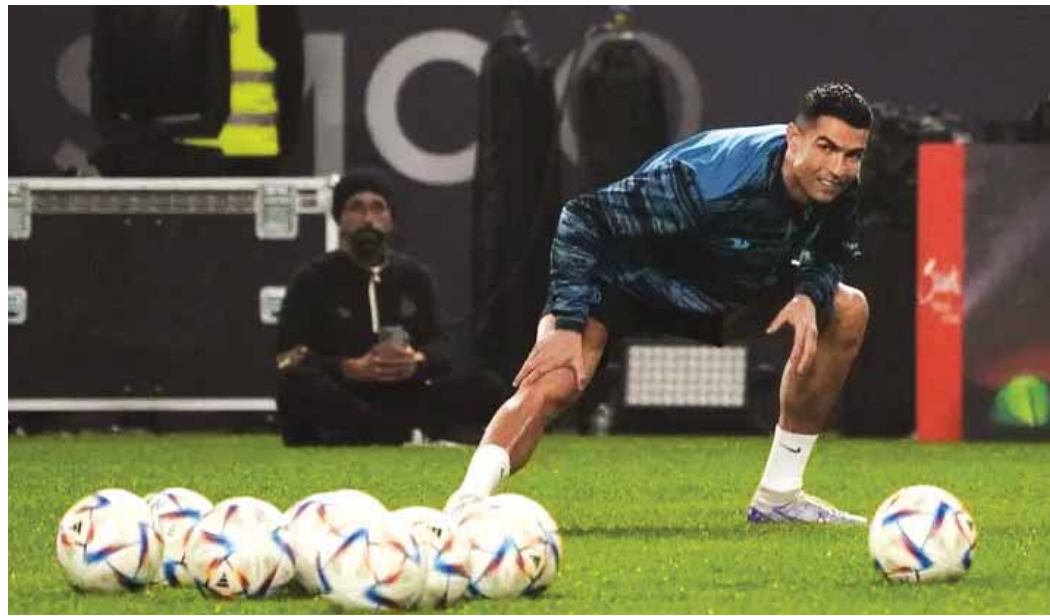

"We would not be where we are today," MLS Commissioner Don Garber said, "if it wasn't for Pelé deciding to come to the United States."

So many top players have since made their way to the U.S., typically to end their careers and for lifestyle reasons: Franz Beckenbauer, Johan Cruyff, George Best, David Beckham and Thierry Henry, to name just a few.

ZICO

Zico is almost as fondly remembered in Japan as he is in his native Brazil. After two highly successful spells at Flamengo, either side of two years at Udinese in Italy, the playmaker quit his playing career, only to come out of retirement at the age of 38 to help usher Japanese soccer into professionalism.

He played for four seasons at Kashima Antlers from 1991-94, a period which took in the inauguration of the J-League in 1993. Zico remained in Japan until 2006, staying at Kashima as its technical director and then coach before becoming the national team's coach for the four-year cycle up to the 2006 World Cup.

He has since been elected into Japanese soccer's Hall of Fame and is known as the "God of Football" in Japan. Along with England great Gary Lineker, who also played in Japan at the start of the league, Zico is regarded as a key figure in the development of Japanese soccer and its growth in popularity.

XAVI HERNANDEZ

Xavi wasn't the first star player to land in Qatar's top league but he might have had the most prominence, given he arrived midway through 2015 — at age 35 — on the back of being the Barcelona captain who lifted the Champions League trophy weeks earlier.

The league had been running for more than 40 years by that point and, since the turn of the century, had enticed high-profile players such as Marcel Desailly, Pep Guardiola and Gabriel Batistuta in 2003 and 2004 and Raúl González in 2012.

Even Brazil great Romário came over to the tiny, oil-rich emirate to play, if only for three games in 2003 at a reported cost of $1.5 million for Al-Sadd, Qatar's biggest club. That was before Qatar, in 2010, won the right to host the 2022 World Cup.

DIDIER DROGBA

In 2012, Chinese clubs made a concerted push to attract top stars to its highest league — the Chinese Super League — after getting over the fallout of a corruption scandal that damaged its reputation.

Not enough, though, to dissuade Didier Drogba to sign for Shanghai Shenhua as perhaps the biggest draw of this first batch of leading players that also included Nicolas Anelka. Drogba, then aged 34, was a huge deal at the time, not least because the Ivory Coast striker had just led Chelsea to its first Champions League title by scoring a late equalizer in regulation time and then the clinching penalty in the shootout of the 2012 final.

Drogba called it a "leap into the unknown," with Shenhua chairman Zhu Jun willing to pay Drogba a reported $300,000 a week to help drag his team up the league and Chinese soccer officials hoping it would boost the country's hopes of becoming a major global player.

ALESSANDRO DEL PIERO

Del Piero, the majestic Italy World Cup-winning forward, is comfortably the biggest name to have played in Australian soccer after his two years with Sydney FC (2012-14) on what was described by the club as the "largest professional sporting contract in Australian history" -- a reported $2 million a season.

Del Piero scored 24 goals in 48 games but, as a rare superstar to play soccer in Australia, said his greatest satisfaction was aiding the growth of the game Down Under as TV viewership and Sydney's attendances swelled.

A record 35,000 spectators watched the 38-year-old Del Piero's debut, Sydney's membership grew beyond 10,000, and the club's chairman, Scott Barlow, said it lifted the "A-League onto the world stage."

No other player, past or present, in the A-League comes close to matching Del Piero's gravitas — former Liverpool and England striker Robbie Fowler had short stints at two Australian clubs before the Italian's arrival, and Dwight Yorke spent a season at Sydney before that so, in a sense, it has been a missed opportunity in a country where rugby league and cricket is king.

Australian soccer did get a timely uplift at the recent World Cup in Qatar when the national team reached the last 16.

DIDIER DROGBA

In 2012, Chinese clubs made a concerted push to attract top stars to its highest league — the Chinese Super League — after getting over the fallout of a corruption scandal that damaged its reputation.

Not enough, though, to dissuade Didier Drogba to sign for Shanghai Shenhua as perhaps the biggest draw of this first batch of leading players that also included Nicolas Anelka. Drogba, then aged 34, was a huge deal at the time, not least because the Ivory Coast striker had just led Chelsea to its first Champions League title by scoring a late equalizer in regulation time and then the clinching penalty in the shootout of the 2012 final.

DIDIER DROGBA

Drogba called it a "leap into the unknown," with Shenhua chairman Zhu Jun willing to pay Drogba a reported $300,000 a week to help drag his team up the league and Chinese soccer officials hoping it would boost the country's hopes of becoming a major global player. Drogba lasted six months before returning to Europe with Galatasaray in a messy split and China never has managed to compete with Europe as a go-to league.

The Bayern Munich team flew to Qatar on Friday for its winter training camp amid uncertainty over the club's contentious sponsorship agreement with the Persian Gulf country.

State-owned Qatar Airways' lucrative advertising deal is due to expire at the end of the season and there is pressure on the Bavarian powerhouse from its own fans not to extend it. Many Bayern supporters feel it's damaging to the club's reputation to take money from a country associated with human rights abuses.

The issue has long been a source of contention between Bayern and its own fans, who have consistently campaigned against the sponsorship agreement. Members of the Bayern ultra-fan groups, Munich's Red Pride and Club No. 12, displayed banners at games condemning what they say is the "sports washing" of human rights abuses in Qatar through Bayern's publicity for the sheikhdom.

"We continue to stand by our position that we're absolutely against an extension of the sponsorship agreement," Alexander Salzwegler from Club No. 12 told The Associated Press this week.

In contrast to previous years, it's no longer about an early termination, which would have been more than complicated, but not extending the sponsorship."

Bayern did not respond to requests for comment.

Fans previously called on Bayern to prematurely end the sponsorship deal. The club's 2021 AGM ended in tumult and anger when members booed the club's directors for refusing to discuss the issue.

Buhler successfully completes Stage 5 of Dakar Rally

PTI ■ HA'IL (SAUDI ARABIA)

Hero MotoSports Team Rally rider Sebastian Buhler successfully completed Stage 5 of the Dakar Rally 2023, finishing the 650km gruelling stretch with the 13th fastest time here. The German was the best among three Hero riders competing in the event, and was followed by Argentina's Franco Caimi in 18th and Botswana's Ross Branch in 21st position in the Rally GP Class.

Buhler and Branch had to start later in the day towards the back of the group due to the time losses in the previous stage but the duo negotiated the sandy tracks and vast expanses of dunes and camel grass, displaying fine manoeuvring skills. The tracks were broken and were made worse by competitors who went earlier. But Buhler rode well, finishing just 14 minutes behind the stage winner, and improved his overall rank to 18th in his category.

"The stage was tough as it was full of off-piste sections and broken tracks. I started towards the back of the group due to my issues in the previous stage, so the route was in a bad condition, making it physically demanding. Overall, the bike was running well, so I had fun and I'm looking forward to the coming stages," said Buhler.

Thapa, Hussamuddin clinch gold medals as Services defend crown at national boxing

PTI ■ HISAR

Favourites Shiva Thapa and Mohammad Hussamuddin powered their way to remarkable victories and bagged gold medals in their respective weight categories at the men's National Boxing Championships here on Friday.

Defending champions Services Sports Control Board (SSCB) topped the rankings with 10 medals.

Record six-time Asian medalist Thapa of Assam had a pretty comfortable day at office as he defeated 2021 World Youth Championships bronze medalist Ankit Narwal of Railways Sports Promotion Board (RSPB) to win by unanimous decision in the 63.5kg final. But SSCB pugilist Hussamuddin had to toil hard to prevail over 2016 World Youth champion Sachin of RSPB in the 57kg final.

Having suffered defeat in last year's final, the two-time Commonwealth Games bronze medalist showcased brilliant tenacity to emerge victorious on Friday with a 4-1 scoreline.

Narender (+92), 2022 Asian Championships bronze medalist, received a walkover in his final bout against 2022 Commonwealth Games silver medalist Sagar, who could not participate in the contest due to a minor injury.

Alongside Hussamuddin and Narender, the pugilists of SSCB stole the show on the final day of the tournament as the team successfully defended its crown with a total of six gold, one silver, and three bronze medals.

Bishwamitra Chongtham (51kg), Sachin (54kg), Akash (67kg), and Sumit (75kg) were the team's other gold medalists.

Bonzi shocks Zandschulp, seals maiden ATP Tour final appearance

AP ■ PUNE

tenacious Benjamin Bonzi knocked out second seed and world number 35 Botić Van de Zandschulp in a gripping three-setter to reach his maiden ATP World Tour final here on Friday.

Keeping the intensity throughout, world number 60 Bonzi prevailed over Zandschulp 7-6(5) 6-7 (5) 6-1 in an intense semifinal of the Tata Open Maharashtra at the Balewadi Stadium.

With his win, Frenchman Bonzi prevented a rare all-Dutch final as earlier in the day, the Netherlands' Tallon Griekspoor ousted eight seed Russian Aslan Karatsev 7-6(4) 6-1 in the first semifinal.

It was the first win for Bonzi in three meetings with the Dutch.

Djokovic advances to face Medvedev in Adelaide semis

AP ■ ADELAIDE

Novak Djokovic beat Denis Shapovalov 6-3 6-4 at the Adelaide International on Friday to set up a semifinal with Daniil Medvedev.

The combined ATP-WTA event is a warmup for this year's Australian Open, which the top-seeded Djokovic missed last year after being barred from the country because he was not vaccinated against COVID-19.

Medvedev, the runner-up last year to Rafael Nadal in the Australian Open, defeated fellow Russian Karen Khachanov 6-3 6-3 on Friday.

"It's never easy to play your compatriot," Medvedev said. "I'm happy that I managed to really raise my level, especially in the end of both sets, and really happy to be through to the semis."

Medvedev is the 2021 US Open champion, but has lost twice in the finals in Australia — and in 2021 it was against Djokovic.

"For sure I played well last year and I'm playing well right now," Medvedev said. "To be honest, that's all that matters. In order to win a slam, or be in the final, you have to be at your best for seven matches."

"I managed to do it once and I was really close last year," he added.

"And that's what I'm going to try to do again in a few weeks in Melbourne."

Pranesh becomes India's 79th chess Grandmaster

PTI ■ STOCKHOLM

MPranesh clinched the title in the Rilton Cup, the first tournament of the FIDE Circuit, here to become India's 79th chess Grandmaster. The 16-year-old Pranesh crossed the 2500-rating threshold and became a GM, having completed his three norms before the Rilton Cup.

To become a GM, a player has to secure three GM norms and cross the live rating of 2,500 Elo points. Seeded 22nd, the Indian made a clean sweep of the field in Stockholm, winning eight games and finishing a full point ahead of IM Kaan Kucukarsari (Sweden) and GM Nikita Meshkovs (Latvia) as the tournament concluded late on Thursday.

He topped the standings with eight points. Tamil Nadu player Pranesh topped the charts in the tournament, which brought together 136 players representing 29 national federations. Compatriot R Raja Rithvik, a GM, finished eighth with six points. Pranesh is now the early leader of the FIDE Circuit with 6.8 circuit points. The one who accumulates the most points by the end of the year qualifies for the 2024 FIDE Candidates.

He is trained by renowned coach RB Ramesh, who said, "Pranesh is a very practical player. Hard working, raw talent..."
