CBI TO PROBE KOLKATA'S BESTIAL RAPE AND MURDER CASE

 \mathbf{I}^{n} a verdict welcomed by the medical fraternity which was fearing destruction of evidence by the State police in the brutal rape and murder of a resident doctor of RG Kar Medical College Hospital Kolkata, in the medical college's seminar hall, the Calcutta High Court on Tuesday ordered a courtmonitored probe by the CBI into the crime.

Ironically, R G Kar Medical Hospital was College considered till a few years ago the best medical college in eastern India. The Bench of Chief Justice TS

Sivagnanam and Justice Hiranmay Bhattacharya, hearing five public interest litigations (PIL) and a private plea, in its order directed the Kolkata Police to immediately hand over the case diary to the CBI official present in the court.

Other related documents are to be handed over to the Central agency by 10 am on Wednesday.

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee had on Monday set the State police a deadline till Sunday to crack the case failing which, she warned, she would consider transferring the case to the Central agency. The agitators demanding justice for the 31-year-old victim, however, took the Chief Minister's decision with a pinch of salt wondering whether she was giving the police some extra bit of time to tamper with or destroy evidence.

They also questioned her move to transfer Sandip Ghosh the principal of the RG Kar Medical College to the NRS Medical College.

"While passing the order, the court was particularly perturbed at the facts that the college authorities did not lodge any FIR and tried to let the crime pass as a suicide case whereas the police registered an unnatural death (UD) case,

.."there was clearly something in it and some people (the authorities) were trying to protect which could not escape the High Court justices' notice," Kaustav Bagchi, a BJP leader and a lawyer who is also one of the petitioners said.

The post-graduate student who was sleeping inside the seminar hall at the medical college after completing 36hours of work was on Friday morning found dead with her body in a semi-nude condition setting off massive protests by doctors across the State. Later, resident doctors in several cities in other States, too, joined the agitation for bringing the culprit/culprits to

Apparently, in a damage control exercise, the Kolkata Police immediately set up a special investigation team, and arrested one Sanjay Roy, a civic volunteer. However, the resident doctors said there volunteer. However, were other insiders with high connections involved in the

They also attacked the principal for calling him the fountainhead of "everything that is bad and deplorable in the college". The court on its part wondered why the Health Department transferred Ghosh to the NRS Medical resigning from his post following intense public outcry. The judges directed the Health Department to force the principal to go on long leave which he did by the end of the day.

The medical students across the State, including those of the RGKMCH, however, said they were not immediately calling off the 'cease work' stir and would take a decision only after a general body meeting. Welcoming the court order, Bengal Opposition Leader Suvendu Adhikari said his "next step would be to demand the resignation of the Health Minister Mamata who is also the Chief Minister." He said, "The BJP MLAs will start a dharna at the State Assembly from tomorrow seeking her resignation... because she had gone to the victim's house not to express her sympathy but to 'manage' her family... this Ghosh who is a real racketeer and is close to Dr SP Das, the family physician of the Chief Minister, and so he does whatever he wants... the principal and the TMC students union have held the college to ransom... the situation is almost the same in other medical colleges of the State... these are a den of corruption and everyone knows where the money goes... so Mamata gave the principal a reward posting him elsewhere after he

Punjab Govt planning to roll out 'Aapka MLA, Aapke Dwaar' scheme

MONIKA MALIK ■ CHANDIGARH

Punjab government is planning to introduce 'Aapka MLA, Aapke Dwaar' (your MLA at your doorstep) scheme — a new initiative by the aam Aadmi party (AAP) led state government designed to strengthen public engagement and address local issues more effectively

Discussed and announced by Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann during a strategic meeting with the legislators in Chandigarh on Tuesday, the initiative is aimed at bringing the elected representatives closer to their constituents by encouraging them to visit their respective constituencies, neighborhoods, and villages to directly engage with residents and resolve their con-

The scheme is planned on the lines of the State Government's ambitious 'Sarkaar Aapke Dwaar' initiative, where government officials visited villages to address people's grievances. The new program shifts the focus to MLAs, making them more accessible and accountable to the people who elected them.

AAP-led Puniab Government's 'Sarkaar Tuhade Dwar' initiative is a transformative step towards making governance more accessible and people-centric. The scheme brings essential government services directly to the citizens by setting up service camps across the State. These camps act as convenient points of contact, allowing people to address their grievances and access services without the need to visit government

'Sarkaar Tuhade Dwar' aimed at bridging the gap between the administration and the public, promoting transparency and accountability within the government. By decentralizing service delivery, the initiative empowers the citizens and ensures that their voices are heard in the governance process.

The scheme is designed to streamline bureaucratic processes, reduce corruption, and enhance public satisfaction. By bringing services to the doorsteps of the people, the Punjab Government ensures that the benefits of its programs reach even the most vulnerable and marginalized sections of

This citizen-focused approach fosters a more inclusive and equitable society, where every individual has equal access to the resources and services they need. Under the scheme, the Chief Minister has himself led the camps at various places, personally listening to the people's grievances, issuing on-the-spot directions to the officials concerned, while also taking direct feedback from the people to improve the government's functioning and formulating its

Former Minister and AAP MP from Sangrur Gurmeet Singh Meet Hayer, who also attended the meeting, stated that the scheme reflected the Government's commitment to ensure that public servants remain closely connected with the citizens they serve. He emphasized that this initiative is a critical step in fulfilling the government's duty to address the challenges faced by the people of Punjab.

In addition to unveiling the Aapka MLA, Aapke Dwaar' scheme, the meeting included a comprehensive review of ongoing projects across various regions of Punjab. Discussions centered on the progress of sev-

Government's purview, which are vital for improving the state's infrastructure. The review also touched upon recent FIRs filed in key urban centers like Ludhiana and Jalandhar, reflecting the government's focus on law and order issues.

Another key topic during the meeting was the upcoming Panchayat elections. While details from the MLAs remained limited, there is a widespread anticipation that the State Cabinet will give the green light for these elections during its meeting scheduled for Wednesday. Punjab Government has already communicated to the High Court that the Panchayat elections will be held in September.

The 'Aapka MLA, Aapke Dwaar' scheme is expected to enhance the relationship between elected representatives and the public, ensuring that government initiatives and actions align more closely with the needs and aspirations of the people. By fostering direct communication between MLAs and their constituents, the scheme aims to make governance more responsive and effective, addressing the concerns of the people in real-time. This initiative is seen as a significant step towards making the government more accessible and accountable, reinforcing the democratic principle that elected representatives should serve the people who elected them.

Hry CM inaugurates & lays foundation stones for 600 projects worth Rs 3400 Crores in Panchkula

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Haryana Chief Minister Nayab Singh Saini on Tuesday inaugurated and laid the foundation stones for 600 projects worth Rs 3400 crore across the state through video conferencing during a statelevel programme in Panchkula. On the occasion, the Chief Minister inaugurated 220 projects worth Rs 1190 crores and laid the foundation stones for 380 projects costing Rs. 2210

Addressing the gathering, Saini said, "Following the mantra of 'Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Prayas, and Sabka Vishwas', the State Government has reaffirmed its commitment to ensure equitable development in Haryana.

During the programme, he also handed over appointment letters to 104 TGT-Punjabi and 3878 Group-D candidates. He congratulated the selected candidates and their families, highlighting that their hard work has made it possible to get government jobs on a merit basis.

During the event, Saini launched a portal for Mukhya Mantri Gramin Awas Yojana-Expansion. Under this scheme, plots of 100 yards will be provided in villages and 50 yards in Mahagram villages to those who do not own land. He criticized the previous government for its discriminatory practices in allotting plots, stating that they failed to provide possession or documentation, leaving people struggling. The present state government has rectified this by giving plot possession to those who were previously denied.

The Chief Minister said that this is the 10th event where projects have been inaugurated or foundation stones laid online, adding up to a total of 2891 projects worth Rs. 24,221 crores. These projects include roads, water facilities, health institutions, schools, colleges, power stations, canals, drains, and bridges, benefiting various aspects of connectivi-

The Chief Minister emphasized that infrastructure is a crucial measure of development. The simultaneous inauguration and foundation-laying of these projects reflect a vision of comprehensive development across all sectors. Before 2014, Haryana was marred by despair, distrust, and regionalism. The present state government has prioritized merit over favoritism, ensuring job transparency and efficiency, said Sh. Nayab Singh Saini.

Saini said that before 2014, etting a job was nearly impossible for youths, but now jobs are provided transparently. special PMLA court in A Special Times

A Jalandhar on Tueesday convicted Ranjit Singh Kandola, a notorious Punjab-based drug dealer, and his wife Rajwant Kaur on money-laundering charges. The court sentenced Kandola, also known as Raja Kandola, to nine years in prison, while Kaur was ordered to serve three years behind bars.

The case stemmed from a massive narcotics bust in June 2012, where Punjab Police seized drugs valued at approximately Rs 200 crore from a syndicate alleged to be operated by Kandola and his associates. The Enforcement Directorate (ED) initiated the money-laundering probe following this seizure, eading to the recent convictions.

Kandola's criminal entertication and international reach. According to the ED, Kandola was orchestrating a racket to manufacture 'Ice' (a party drug) using methamphetamine and ephedrine, while also sourcing heroin from across the Pakistan border. The extensive investigation revealed Kandola's involvement in drug distribution across Punjab, Delhi, and other major

The Court's decision marked a significant milestone in the case, which had been under judicial scrutiny for several years. Kandola, currently imprisoned in Delhi's Tihar Jail, had a tumultuous legal history. He was initially arrested by Punjab Police in June 2012 but managed to escape custody later that year. He was subsequently rearrested in Delhi. The prosecution presented a detailed case, showing that Kandola's network extended beyond Indian borders, with connections to drug trafficking operations in Canada, Australia, and the United States. The ED's chargesheet, filed in 2015, detailed Kandola's illicit activities, including money laundering linked to his drug trafficking operations.

The court's judgment also addressed the involvement of Kaur, who was sentenced to three years in prison. Both Kandola and Kaur were fined -Kandola received a penalty of Rs one lakh, while Kaur was fined Rs 25,000. Their son, Bally Singh, was acquitted in this case, marking a partial relief for

The case's complexity was compounded by earlier judicial challenges. In December 2023, a District and Sessions Judge had acquitted Kandola and 13 others, citing procedural flaws, including the involvement of an investigating officer who was not appropriately ranked to handle an NDPS case. This ruling highlighted issues within the investigation process, which had led to calls for a more rigorous legal approach.

Adding to the case's intrigue, another investigating officer, Inderjit Singh, faced accusations in a separate drug smuggling case, further complicating the legal landscape.

Yadav highlighted Billa's extensive criminal history, noting that he had been involved in over 10 cases related to drug trafficking. The decision to relocate Billa to Dibrugarh Jail aimed at curtailing his influence and disrupting his smuggling operations. Mann, in his letter, emphasized the vital role that agriculture plays in the lives of Punjabi farmers, describing land as "like a mother" to them. He highlighted that land is not just a physical asset but a primary source of livelihood and cultural significance for the farming community. The Chief Minister assured Gadkari that the Punjab Government fully acknowledged the importance of NHAI projects for both national development and state progress. He noted that the Government has been proactive in facilitating these projects, barring a few exceptions where challenges have arisen.

Indian agriculture set to benefit from good monsoon and PM Modi's release of climate-resistant seeds

India's agricultural sector, the cornerstone of its economy, is set to benefit from a double dose of positive news this monsoon season. With forecasts predicting a normal to above-normal monsoon and Prime Minister Narendra Modi's recent announcement of 109 climate-resistant seed varieties, the outlook for the country's farmers is brighter than ever. These developments not only promise a significant boost for agriculture but also hold the potential to ease inflationary pressures—a key concern for both policymakers and the general public. A favorable monsoon is expected to drive agricultural growth in India, with a report from India Ratings predicting a 4.3% increase in FY25, up from 1.4% in FY24. The monsoon plays a critical role in sustaining food supply, which in turn satisfies consumer demand and helps stabilise food prices. Additionally, a good monsoon increases rural incomes, which can stimulate demand for fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG). Monsoon rains are vital for Indian agriculture, particularly for the kharif crop season, which includes staples like rice, maize, and pulses. With nearly 60 per cent of India's farmland being rain-fed, a good monsoon often translates to a successful harvest. This year's normal to above-average rainfall has raised hopes for a bumper crop season. A successful monsoon reduces the need for costly irrigation solutions, helping farmers save on input costs. As a result, rural incomes are expected to rise, driving consumer demand in villages and small towns, which are vital engines of the country's economic growth.

Against this promising backdrop, Prime Minister Modi's release of 109 climate-resistant seed varieties marks a significant step towards securing India's agricultural future. These seeds have been specially developed to withstand the growing challenges posed by climate change, including erratic rainfall, prolonged droughts, and rising temperatures. By enhancing crop resilience, these seeds aim to ensure stable yields even in adverse weather conditions. The introduction of these seeds is a forward-looking initiative that aligns with the government's broader agricultural strategy, which emphasises sustainability and self-reliance. These seeds are expected to reduce crop losses due to unpredictable weather, providing farmers with a safety net and helping to stabilise food production. This could lead to a more consistent food supply. In recent years, inflation, particularly driven by volatile food prices, has been a persistent concern for the Indian economy. A good monsoon and the adoption of climate-resistant seeds could bring much-needed relief to consumers, especially those in lower-income brackets who are most affected by rising food costs. During his second term, Prime Minister Modi had promised to double farmers' incomes a goal that was challenging to achieve at the time. However, that target now seems within reach. The combination of good rainfall and resilient seed varieties could be the key to realising that vision and securing a prosperous future for Indian agriculture.

Finding fault with the US for internal failures.

The narrative of an 'American hand' in political unrest in South Asia sells, even as the root cause of instability often lie with its own politicians he United States of America did not have a significant role in the run-up to the independence of the Indian subcontinent from the British Raj. Indeed, the Gadar Party started as a San Francisco-based anticolonial organization, as did the New York-based India Home Rule League founded by Lala Lajpat Rai, but the Government of the USA had remained largely oblivious of the subcontinental developments. It was only in the post-World War 2 tensions between the competing 'blocs', when the Cold War started in earnest, that the USA went into overdrive to control the subcontinental narrative.To further its interest, the USA had backed military dictators in Pakistan, and undemocratic monarchies in Afghanistan and Nepal, while remaining decidedly hostile towards India.

Washington DC tellingly overlooked the genocidal conduct of the Pakistani Generals in what later became, Bangladesh. Americans were instrumental in harnessing toxic religiosity by creating the Afghan mujahedeen, the curse of which continues to this date. Pakistan was a 'Major Non-NATO Ally' and did most of its bidding in the region. The end of the Cold War with the implosion of the Soviet Union in the early 90s coincided with the rise of China as the new principal enemy. This led to a recalibration of allies and enemies, which eventually warranted a more pro-India outlook from Washington DC, even though an unnatural alliance with Pakistan persisted owing to the necessities of Afghanistan and tackling religio-

For a variety of reasons, including the continuing 'War on Terror' in Afghanistan, the Middle East, and Iran, to now the latest Israel-Palestine War, perceptions of America within the Ummah (Islamic World), made it naturally unsavoury. This often makes the USA the prime suspect for anything that went wrong in Tehran, Kabul, Damascus, Islamabad to even Dhaka. Invariably the Americans are seen to be partaking in Samuel P Pakistani 'establishment' tak-against the Ummah. Americabashing is a latent and potent undercurrent that is tapped by various political parties in the Islamic countries of the region like Pakistan, Afghanistan, Maldives or Bangladesh, even if the same is genuinely warranted or not. There is no denying that America has had WHILE IT IS TRUE an amoral past with many missteps and convenient overlook-THAT DHAKA UNDER ing of events, but it is equally true that many political parties have twisted and even extrapolated the same to suggest outsized agendas for Washington DC because they know that such a spiel feeds into the popular and basic instincts of their citizenry. In Pakistan, amidst the turf wars between the Military 'establishment' and Imran Khan's Tehreek-e-Insaaf government, the wily Imran Khan dialled up a phoney 'cypher' controversy entailing a foreign power i.e., the USA. This move sought to conflate two enemies (one already imagined i.e., USA, and the other requiring some context i.e. Pakistani Military) to apportion a disproportionate role for the Americans, as it was safe and popular to do so. The Americans have historically had a say in Pakistani affairs, but the ouster of Imran Khan had more to do with the opposed to the Americans or even the Pakistani 'establishment, as done earlier. Now, after the self-created tinderbox-like situation and the subsequent implosion, Bangladesh's former Prime believed to have drummed up the US hand in the recent coup. While it is true that Dhaka under Hasina had adopted a belligerent stance and even cosied up to its nemesis i.e., China, by accepting Beijing's overtures -Bangladesh was not China's bunny in the same way as Pakistan is, nor was it poised to go that way, either. It is true Hasina had declined the American request for a Military base in its Saint Martin Islands, but that was more out of good sense given the societal sentiments that prevailed and good local pol-

The only thing that riled out Hasina was the routine concerns expressed by the USA undemocratic, intolerant and authoritarian (which she was) - but other than these concerns, both Hasina and the Americans had a common enemy in religious-extremist forces that threatened the interests of both sides. Hasina also amplified her American rhetoric as it was without any accompanying risks and could endear her to Bangladeshi society, as the Ummah has been wounded by emotions of the Palestine war, and the tacit role of the USA. Hasina's purported accusation of the USA plotting regime change in Bangladesh (in her undelivered speech) needs to be read contextually. His supposed stance that she'd be in power if she had given away, "Saint Martin and Bay of Bengal", is more theatrical than factual as Bangladeshis (especially youth) had genuinely tired of

If anything, the forces that have come to power reflect the sort of spirit and religious tenor that militates against American preferences. Hasina's exit has more to do with her hubris and excesses than with America working overtime to dislodge her. America is just a convenient (though often justified) enemy in Islamic countries and those who are inelegantly bumped out resort to blaming the USA hand on the rebound e.g., Pakistan earlier, Bangladesh now.

The quest for real freedom in a divided society

VINOD BEHAL

Real liberation comes from transcending divisions and recognising our spiritual identity, a path that leads to peace, harmony, and tranquility ore than seven decades after we attained independence from the British, we are still enslaved- trapped in the bondage of caste, creed, religion, regionalism etal. This has created deep fissures in society, destroying the democratic fabric of amity, harmony and peaceful co-existence. All this is there because as individuals, society and a nation, we have not attained real or to say ultimate freedom that promotes peace, harmony and happiness.

What is real or ultimate freedom? It is a state of not being enslaved to physical senses, to mind and its desires. It means breaking free from toxic thoughts and the vices associated with it. We need freedom from prejudices of caste, creed and religion, greed and selfishness, anger and animosity, hate and hostil-

But then why are we failing to achieve real freedom and how can we attain it? Real freedom is eluding us because we are facing an identity crisis. We don't know our real identity. low beings and this dis- ourselves in a pure state of

In reality, we are spiritual beings (having soul-based identity) in body form. But we make a fallacy of treating ourselves as a body and this unreal world as the real

The basic nature of our material existence is bondage and when we act upon the material desires of the mind and senses, we often take to unwise and unholy acts which lead to our sorrows and sufferings. Because of duality, we tend to discriminate against fel-

MOTHERS HAVE BIG HEART

Madam — In the world of sports, where records are measured in meters and seconds, Nadeem's Olympic gold throw of 92.97 meters and Neeraj's silver throw of 89.45 meters are remarkable feats. Yet, they pale in comparison to the "universal affection javelin throw" of infinite meters launched by their mothers. The media captured a heartwarming moment as both mothers wished their sons not just victory and medals, but everlasting friendship and affection.

Indeed, the true champions here are the mothers of Nadeem and Neeraj, whose boundless care and love transcend international borders, setting a new record for the longest "affectionate and harmonious javelin throw" of infinite meters. Kudos to these incredible women for their unparalleled contribution to the spirit of sportsmanship and humanity. PV Madhu Nivriti | Secundrabad

LESSONS FROM WAYANAD Madam — The recent landslides and floods in Wayanad, Kerala, have drawn global attention, reminding us of the ongoing vulnerability of our planet to natural disasters such as earthquakes and floods.Our Earth has always been a haven of beauty and abundance, providing a diverse range of species and natural resources like majestic mountains and expansive oceans. For millennia, Mother Nature has been humanity's nurturing cradle. I recall the massive floods of the early 1990s, which devastated regions in Tamil Nadu, including infiltration into India, exacerbating the Korkai, Tiruchendur, Tuticorin, and the effects of natural disasters. These events underscore the urgent need to harmonise human activities with the Earth's natural systems. Overexploitation of resources has pushed our planet to its limits, disrupting its balance. To address this, it is essential to regulate high-rise construction in earthquake-prone areas and shift focus from building concrete jungles to fostering green, sustainable landscapes. Regions like Korkai, Tiruchendur, Tuticorin, Tirunelveli, Marthandam, Nagercoil, and Kanyakumari in Tamil Nadu serve as examples of how humans and nature can coexist harmoniously. FROM RIFTS TO RESOLUTION

It is very important to recognise that the world shall change when I change

BY RAJYOGI BRAHMAKUMAR NIKUNJ JI

e all know that conflicts are a part of our everyday life and they form in our close relations, at a societal level & on an international level. Very often we see conflicts leading to aggression, hostility and war. However, conflicts can also be a stepping stone leading to change and wisdom; if we learn to handle them constructively. Since relationship conflicts are inevitable, learning to deal with them healthily is extremely crucial because when a conflict is mismanaged, it can harm the relationship. But when handled respectfully and positively, it provides an opportunity for growth, ultimately strengthening the bond between two people.

Any kind of conflict has two dimensions, internal and external. Internal conflicts arise when the mind and intellect are moving in opposite directions and external conflicts are caused when people or situations confront us and we are not sure how to cope with them. Some people view conflicts as an opportunity for a change and some see it as a natural global phenomenon. But others feel that conflicts are avoidable through better communication but they are frightened of the process. Due to this fear, they hold themselves back and content themselves by making a peace contract or a deal. However, such solutions are very temporary and can be seen as a band-aid solution, which might be effective for the short term only. We all know that conflicts ought to be resolved by use of intellect or reasoning because when conflicts are allowed to develop unhindered without intervention or when the parties involved fuel the conflict, it often happens that the conflict evolves negatively. And that is why people seek guru's or senior's advice when they are faced with conflicting decisions. But the irony is that with all the information and advice that is available to us, we are unable to resolve matters because there is an acute implementation paralysis. We must not forget about the fact that the best source of judgement is a person's intellect because nobody can understand his feelings, situations and capabilities to deal better than his self.

We may seek advice from an experienced person, however, the sense of joy or security that we feel on hearing good advice is only temporary because it is not real. Just like the feeling of joy derived from thinking of eating something delicious is unreal, real joy comes only after eating the thing. We too have to undergo an experience to make it real. Remember! conflict triggers strong emotions and can lead to hurt feelings, disappointment, and discomfort. When handled in an unhealthy manner, it can cause irreparable rifts, resentments, and break-ups. But when it is resolved healthily, it increases our understanding of one another, builds trust, and strengthens our relationship bonds. A growing body of research has shown spirituality as a great antidote for all kinds of conflicts. Spirituality is like the medicine that heals the root of the disease and not just the symptoms. It is the only means that gives us complete solutions to conflicts. From a spiritual perspective, the most powerful value needed for conflict resolution is 'respect'. This is because most of the people don't wish to negotiate when they have material power. Therefore, there's an urgent need for those to realize and respect their inner powers. Similarly, faith is also a very important element in conflict resolution, it is the key to mutual understanding. For global conflicts, world shall change when I change. Hence, people should not wait to be told that they need to change, instead, they should realise it themselves. (The writer is a spiritual educator & popular columnist, views are

As the rupee weakens and inflation rises, strategic economic reforms to boost domestic manufacturing and reduce import dependency are urgently needed

he rupee hit a record low against the US dollar on August 5th and was trading at 84.09 per dollar. This is the biggest fall ever seen in the rupee and the rupee has reached its all-time low. If the currency of any country is stronger than other currencies, then the country is considered strong. In this globalized world, the value of every country's currency against the US dollar not only impacts the economy of that country but also affects the prices of many things in Rupee has Fallen 20 Times since Independence: The rupee has fallen almost 20 times since independence; in 1948, 1 dollar was equal to 4 rupees. At that time there was no debt in the country, then when the first five-year plan was implemented in 1951, the government started taking loans from foreign countries and then the value of the rupee also started decreasing continuously.

The continuous outflow of foreign funds from financial markets and crude oil has increased pressure on the rupee. The economy around the world has seen two major shocks - the COVID-19 pandemic and the Ukraine, Israel conflict. India is also not untouched by this. Today, the condition of currencies in major markets around the world is weak.

Dollar as King: According to the International Standard Organization list, there are a total of 180 currencies around the world, but among them, the American currency 'Dollar' has become a global currency. The price of most of the things exported is paid in dollars. Today the dollar is involved in 80 percent of the world's trade. The US dollar has the status of a global currency, which is why the value of the rupee against the dollar shows whether the Indian currency is strong or weak.

The falling value of the Rupee affects Common People: When the rupee becomes cheaper against the dollar, it has a direct impact on the economy.

The falling value of the rupee brings inflation. Rising prices could accelerate inflation, which is already high. In such a situation, everything from the life of the common man to businessmen and government will be affected by the value of the rupee. The decline in global activity, investors' decision to invest money in sate global markets and increasing tension in global politics are among the main reasons behind the fall of the rupee. Even if we do not take seriously the fall and rise of a few paise in the rupee, they have a big impact on our lives.

The fall in the rupee has a direct impact on the country's economy, due to which import of petroleum products will become expensive and freight transportation will become expensive. This will have a direct impact on the inflation of every essential item. There is a sudden increase in all loans taken in foreign currency and the interest paid on them. Studying abroad will also be expensive. Why the Rupee is falling: The value of the rupee completely depends on its imports more than it exports. India is one of the major importers of crude oil and imports about 80 per cent of the oil, undoubtedly the rising prices of crude oil Government Steps: The government is indeed striving to create a competitive, dynamic environment to provide sustained economic growth and enhance its relevance in international trade, PM Gati Shakti, National Single Window Clearance, GIS-mapped Land Bank, Production-Linked Incentive (PLI) etc. The manufacturing sector is expected to ben-TRILLION efit from the implementation of recent policies like the PLI (HS-84, nuclear reactors, boilers, scheme. Its results are also visible in some areas, the development of coronavirus vaccines by Indian companies is a vivid example of indigenous talent. India has rapidly made its place in the Ease of Doing Business index released by the World Bank. Ileda's EDB rank was 134th in the year 2014, whereas in the year 2023, it has become 63rd. India is ranked 40th in the Global Competitiveness Report Index published by the Genevabased World Economic Forum, where it was ranked 60th in 2014. But all these reforms in the government will have to move strategically towards controlling imports and increasing exports. This is the time to effectively implement the 'Make in India' program which even after nine years is far behind in its effective contribution. Despite being the fifth largest economy, India contributes barely 1.6% to world exports. A primary objective of the campaign was to increase the share of the manufacturing sector in the Indian GDP to 25 per cent by 2022 although it has remained between 14 to 16 per cent in the last 9 years. During the coronavirus pandemic, there was publicity that the companies leaving China were going to come to India, however, most of these companies have shifted their base to Vietnam, Taiwan, Thailand etc. and only a few have come to India. Every year crores of laptops, desktops and servers are sold in India, in which motherboards memory models and chips are being imported. We are dependent on other countries for these compo-

Even today, most of the items are not being produced but are being assembled. There is no justification for the import of Harmonized System products mechanicai e parts), and HS-85 (electrical machinery) as most of these items can be produced locally. PLI schemes should be extended to MSMEs and emerging industries to increase exports.

The 15 per cent corporate tax rate for new investment in manufacturing should be extended to all industries including the service sector. The expansion and use of new-age technology applications such as Artificial Intelligence (AI), Internet of Things (IoT) and Machine Learning (ML) require tax incentives on capital or operational expenditure. The govsummit, there has been talk of setting up an economic corridor at the international level.

The manufacturing industry in India remains flawed due to the poor infrastructure of the country. Compared to China, which spends 20% of its GDP on infrastructure development, our country spends only 3%. Way Forward: At a time when the value of the rupee has crossed Rs 84 per US dollar, the role of 'Make in India' becomes very important. According to the International Labor Organization (ILO), India may face a shortage of about 29 million skilled workers by 2030. The economy needs more than policy window dressing to increase manufacturing activity. We need to understand that just passing bills and organizing investor conferences will not be enough to promote industrializa-

The manufacturing sector is constrained by large amounts of paperwork, be it labour, land or environmental clearances, stringent regulations and policy. Taxation and customs policies are complex to such an extent that it is cheaper to import things like medical equipment rather than manufacture the equipment domestically. India can make itself the next 'global factory' in tne tuture, which is already fed up with China and is looking for alternative manufacturing hubs. There is a need to free the manufacturing sector from cumbersome rules.

Certainly, the fall of the rupee against the dollar can be controlled through such effective steps. Also, if we start using indigenous goods then the cost of importing foreign goods will be saved. For India to become a $5 trillion economy by 2025, we need to export at least $2.5 trillion worth of goods and services, as exports currently contribute

The strength of sisterhood: How women's circles empower and change lives

Women groups foster empowerment, drive economic progress, and challenge societal stereotypes, proving that together, women can achieve anything umans are inherently social beings, and L women, in particular, thrive on social connections. This insight struck me during a recent celebration of Hariyali Teej, a Hindu festival dedicated to women. On this day, women don traditional attire, enjoy special foods, and revel in music, reflecting the profound significance of women's gatherings in our cultural history. Hariyali Teej exemplifies the value our ancestors placed on women's circles. These gatherings not only provide joy but also reinforce the unique strength women possess. This power is deeply rooted in their ability to manage and share energy, which flourishes through communal interactions. Women need to connect with their feminine essence and the best way to nurture this strength is by bonding with other women. Such connections are crucial for self-discovery and empowerment.

The concept of Shine Theory, coined by journalist Ann Friedman and businesswoman Aminatou Sow, encapsulates this idea: exceptional women support each Historically, women have passed wisdom and experience through communal practices, whether through household chores or cultural rituals. For example, traditional activities like grinding spices together in Indian families or crafting quilts in Alice Walker's The Color Purple symbolize unity and shared strength.

Everyday interactions among women not only ease the burden of tasks but also preserve cultural traditions and create a space for emotional exchange. These interactions form a vessel of healing and transformation, extending beyond personal growth to effecting positive change in their communities.

In modern settings, such as other to shine even brighter. neighborhood gatherings or workplace environments, the same principles apply. Despite the often harsh competitive dynamics driven by stereotypes, supportive women's circles offer a vital source of relief and rejuvenation. Unfortunately, societal narratives and media perpetuate the myth that women are inherently competitive and unsupportive of one another. This stereotype undermines the historical practices of women uplifting each other and fosters unhealthy rivalry. Recent initiatives aim to counteract these negative dynamics by promoting women's economic empowerment. The Union Budget for 2024-25 proposes establishing working women hostels and supporting women-led self-measures are designed to enhance financial stability and provide economic opportunities for women, particularly in rural areas. The goal is to transform women into "Lakhpati Didis," or those with an annual income exceeding INR 1,00,000, while also encouraging sushelp groups (SHGs). These tainable livelihoods and encouraging more women to improved living standards. The emphasis on SHGs high lights the importance of collective unity and mutual support among women. These groups not only provide economic benefits but also foster a strong network of women who support each other's growth and success. By engage in such supportive environments, we can pave the way for greater economic prosperity and gender

Sheryl Sandberg, former COO of Meta Platforms, emphasizes the power of women supporting women in her book, Lean In: Women, Work, and the Will to Lead. She dispels the myth that women don't support each other, arguing that collaboration among women is key to achieving remarkable success. Successful women often have the backing of other women who help them reach their goals. To overcome systemic discrimination and internalized biases, women must challenge the societal pressures that pit them against each other. By rejecting stereotypes and fostering genuine support, women can create spaces where they feel safe to express themselves, show vulnerability, and receive the support they need.

Ultimately, female friendships and communal support not only inspire personal and spiritual growth but also enhance collective strength and performance. Women's circles provide a crucial platform for sharing energy, ideas, and support, enabling women to achieve their full potential and contribute positively to their communities.  $P^{akistan's \ ruling \ coalition}_{has \ hailed \ the \ arrest \ of \ former \ ISI \ chief \ Lt \ Gen \ (retd.) \ Faiz$ Hameed in connection with a housing scheme scandal but jailed former premier Imran Khan's party decided to stay neutral and termed it the army's "internal matter".

Hameed served as the director general of Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI) from 2019 to 2021, when Khan was prime minister and was accused of meddling in political affairs at his behest

According to the army, he was arrested on Monday by military authorities and court martial proceedings were initiated against him under provisions of the Pakistan Army Act for alleged misuse of authority. His arrest followed a probe into complaints against him by the owner of Top City Housing Society over an alleged raid at mer premier Khan's Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) party chairman, Barrister Gohar Ali Khan, said the army is a disciplined and organised institution with its own procedures for dealing with both serving and retired officers, the Dawn newspaper reported.

However, members of the ruling Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N), including Information Minister Attaullah Tarar, Senator Irfan Siddiqui, Senator Afnan, Rana Sanaullah as well as Pakistan People Party (PPP) leader Qamar Zaman Kaira, were more open in their views on the move, with Tarar calling it a "right decision".

"Action against Faiz Hameed would have been taken on the basis of investigation," the minister said.

Pointing out that only a brief announcement had been made by the military spokesman about the ex-ISI DG, Senator Siddiqui said, "When investigation will go forward, his (Hameed's) political meddling will also be proved."

Siddique quoted PTI founder Khan as saying that Hameed had supported his party inside Parliament by getting legislation passed and meeting the required number of members in the National Assembly. He said Hameed also remained involved in the general elections by backing the PTI. The senator said the former ISI chief had controlled the media and politicians and tried to control the judiciary as well.

Sanaullah alleged that Hameed was involved in "political meddling" and on his instruction the Faizabad sit-in was staged by a religious group, choking the main arteries of the federal capital for weeks. Sanaullah said action against him was taken in the light of the Supreme Court's order in the private housing scheme, Top City, whose owner filed a petition in the apex court last year, accusing Hameed of misusing his authority.

The owner stated in the petition that on May 12, 2017, at the behest of Gen Hameed, IS officials raided the top city office and his house and seized valuables, including gold, diamonds and money. Hailing the military's internal accountability system, PPP leader Qamar Zaman Kaira said an inquiry had confirmed multiple violations by Hameed that prompted the initiation of disciplinary proceedings under the Pakistan Army Act.

Pak's anti-terrorism court rejects bail plea of Bushra Bibi in 12 cases

n anti-terrorism court in An anti-terrorism compared the bail application of Bushra Bibi, the wife of jailed former prime minister Imran Khan, in 12 cases related to the May 9 violence of last year which erupted when the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf founder was arrested in an alleged corruption case.

Anti-terrorism court (ATC) Rawalpindi Judge Malik Ejaz Asif on Monday after hearing the plea of Bushra Bibi, 49, said that a thorough investigation was required in her case and subsequently dismissed the bail appli-

The judge also ordered that the investigation in her case should be completed in seven days. Bibi was seeking bail in FIRs registered in various police stations in Rawalpindi.

Khan and Bushra were present in the court along with dozens of other accused who have been named as suspects in the May 9 violence that left more than 100 people dead.

The violence started after the Pakistan Rangers arrested Khan inside the premises of the Islamabad High Court in a corruption case.

The PTI supporters allegedly targeted civil and military installations, including the residence of the Pakistan Army's IV Corps Commander in Lahore and the General Headquarters in Rawalpindi, across the country following Khan's arrest.

The court later adjourned the hearing of the May 9 cases until August 22.

Meanwhile, Islamabad High Court (IHC) Justice Minagul Hassan Aurangzeb referred to the IHC Chief Justice a petition seeking details of the cases against the wife of the former prime minister. The court also asked the superintendent of Adiala Jail to decide on the complaints of Bibi against the administration strictly following the jail manual.

Khan, 71, has been imprisoned at Rawalpindi's Adiala Jail for more than a year now upon his conviction in multiple cases. Bushra is also jailed along with Khan faces several cases and has been convicted in a few. Though the former-cricketer-turned politician had secured bail or his conviction was set aside, he has not been released.

Talking to journalists in Adiala jail while appearing for a hearing in a case of alleged corruption last week, Khan warned that the incumbent government led by Shehbaz Sharif would not last for more than two months. During his conversation with the media, he also referred to the comments he made earlier regarding the May 9 riots. He said that a wrong perception was created and that he had sought an unconditional apology. He also clarified that he would apologise if the PTI activists were found involved in the violent protests. He said that his party wanted justice in the May 9 events, elaborating on his offer to initiate dialogue, and adding that he made the offer to hold talks only for the sake of the country.

"I will not strike any deal no matter how many cases they register against us," he said, adding that a deal is sought by those who had committed any wrongdoing. He also clarified that he has not received any offer for negotiations

The Philippine government ▲ said Tuesday it has filed a diplomatic protest against Beijing after Chinese jets flew dangerously close and fired a volley of flares in the path of a Philippine air force patrol plane over a disputed shoal in the South China Sea.

The Chinese air force jets' hostile actions against the Philippine military's NC-212i light transport plane Thursday over the Scarborough Shoal was the first such aerial encounter since high-seas hostilities between Beijing and Manila in the busy seaway started to flare last year.

Philippine military chief Gen. Romeo Brawner Jr. did not report any injuries or damage but condemned the Chinese actions, which he said could have had tragic consequences

"If the flares came into contact with our aircraft, these could have been blown into the propeller or the intake or burned our plane," Brawner told reporters. "It was very danger-

Yemen's Houthis seize UNHR office in Sanaa

Yemen's Houthi rebels stormed the headquarters of the United Nations' Human Rights Office in the capital, Sanaa, seizing documents, furniture and vehicles, a senior UN official said Tuesday. The seizure was the latest move in a crackdown by the Houthis on people working with the UN, aid agencies and foreign embassies. The crackdown comes as the Iranian-backed rebels have been targeting shipping throughout the Red Sea corridor over the Israel-Hamas war in the Gaza Strip. The rebels took over the UN Human Rights Office's premises in Sanaa on August 3, after forcing UN Yemeni workers to hand over belongings, including documents, furniture and vehicles, UN Human Rights Chief Volker Turk said in a statement

"Ansar Allah forces must leave the premises and return all assets and belongings immediately," Turk said, using the official name of the Houthis. A spokesman for the Houthis didn't return phone calls and messages request-

The UN's Human Rights Office said it had suspended the office's operations in Sanaa and other Yemeni areas controlled by the Houthis following the June crackdown campaign. But it still operates in the parts of Yemen controlled by the internationally recognized government. In June, the Houthis detained more than 60 people working with the UN and other NGOs, according to the UN Human Rights Office. Among the detainees were six workers with the Human Rights Office, who joined two of their colleagues detained by the Houthis in November 2021 and August 2023, it said. Days after the arrest campaign, the rebels said they had arrested members of what they called an "American-Israeli spy network." The Houthis issued what they purported to be videotaped confessions by 10 Yemenis, several of whom said they were recruited by the US Embassy in Yemen. The UN Human Rights Office said one of its staffers who was detained earlier appeared in a video in which he was forced to confess to allegations, including of espionage, the office said. The Houthis' claims could not be independently verified.

US-backed Syrian fighters carried out a rare attack in eastern Syria, striking at three posts manned by pro-government gunmen and claiming that they killed 18 of them in a major escalation near the bor-

Lebanon's militant Hezbollah group in Beirut and the political leader of the Palestinian Hamas group in Iran. Israel was blamed for both attacks, and Iran and Hezbollah have vowed to retaliate.

Ponting backs Australia to hand India 3-1 defeat in Border-Gavaskar Trophy

PTI DUBAI

Ricky Ponting believes Australia will have a "point to prove" after two straight Test series defeats at home against India and backed the Pat Cummins-led side to win the five-match Border-Gavaskar Trophy 3-1 come November-December.

India, who have returned victorious in both their previous Test assignments Down Under with identical margins of 2-1, will take on the world No.1 Australia in a five-Test series starting on November 22

"It's going to be a competitive series. Australia has got a bit of a point to prove against India in Australia on the back of what happened the last the last two series here," Ponting told 'The ICC Review. "We are back to (having) five Tests as well, which is the other really important thing about this series. It has only been four Tests the last couple of time. We didn't even get desired coach for Olympics: Ashwini

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Indian doubles badminton specialist Ashwini Ponnappa on Tuesday said she received little to no individual finanance from the sports ministry in the build up to Paris Olympics and even her request for a coach was turned down ahead of the just-concluded Games.

The Sports Authority of India (SAI) had come out with a document, detailing the financial support provided to the Parisbound Indian athletes.

It mentions that Ashwini was provided Rs 4,50,000 under TOPS and Rs 1.48.04.080 under Annual calender for Training and Competition (ACTC), which included the procurement of Game Ready recovery equipment, international competitions and sparring partner in the Tokyo cycle.

Ashwini, 34, has been one of the top Indian doubles player, having won a gold, a silver and a bronze in the Commonwealth Games 2010, 2014 and 2018 respectively.

She has also competed in the London and Rio Olympics with Jwala Gutta. Detailing the Rs 1.48 crore spending, a SAI source said: "The Rs 1.48 crore has been spent on her on travel, stay, food, competition fee, DA in all the competitions that she participated in as part of
