DND flyway will remain toll-free: SC

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday ruled that the Delhi-Noida-Direct (DND) flyway will be toll-free as it dismissed a plea by a private firm challenging the 2016 decision of the Allahabad High Court order asking it to stop collecting toll from commuters. The decision will benefit lakhs of people who commute daily on the flyway. A Bench of Justices Surva Kant and Ujjal Bhuyan held that awarding a contract to private firm Noida Toll Bridge Company Ltd (NTBCL) to collect toll from commuters plying on the DND flyway was unjust, unfair and arbitrary.

There is no reason for the collection of user or toll fee to continue. We hold that the agreement (for toll collection) is invalid," the bench said. It pulled up the NOIDA authority for delegating toll collection to private firm NTBCL, which did not have any prior experience and said it has resulted in unjust enrichment.

Heavy snowfall, shabdeg, and kangris... 'Chillai Kalan', begins in J and K

mid the persistent dry and cold Aweather, the Jammu and Kashmir region is ready to face the 40-day-long harshest winter period of 'Chillai Kalan', beginning from the intervening night of December 20 and December 21. This period of Chillai Kalan, which begins with Winter Solstice spans from December 21 to January 31, marks the apex of Kashmir's severe winter. Chillai Kalan is also known as "Shahenshah-e-zamistan." Chilla-i Kalan is a Persian term which means "major cold" while the intense cold conditions are known as 'Jaada' in North and East India. During Chilai Kalan, the chilling cold increases further, while heavy snowfall and temperatures well below freezing point cause water bodies and even water taps in homes to freeze. In this 40-day period, nights are chilly and day temperatures are in single digits.The winter games at the skiing resort of Gulmarg are held during this period. During Chillai Kalan, many Kashmiri families prepare 'Shabdeg' on the first day of 'Chillai Kalan'. Meat is slow cooked with turnips and spices in an earthen vessel during the night intervening December 20-21, to mark the onset of the coldest phase of the season. During its 40 days, the Chillai Kalan leaves no chance to put people through the most difficult of hardships. Generally, however, due to the icy winds in Chillai Kalan, the entire valley is gripped by severe cold. The ongoing cold wave is said to reach its peak with Kashmir's mountains covered in snow for weeks, and the famous Dal Lake also reaching freezing point until the end of January.

Kashmir's winter pans out in three stages starting with a 40-day intense period from December 21 (locally called Chillai Kalan) followed by 20 more days which are less intense (Chillai Khurd) and then 10 days of mild cold (Chillai Bache). Chillai-Kalan is the 40-dav period of harsh winter in Kashmir that begins December 21 and ends on January 31.

According to meteorological reports, this year's Chillai Kalan will begin with a cold wave, and temperatures are expected to dip significantly across the Kashmir Valley. The Meteorological Department has also predicted that there could be light to moderate snowfall in the coming days, especially in the higher reaches of the valley. The plains are likely to experience a drop in minimum temperature of minus office said.

to According the India Meteorological Department (IMD), in South Kashmir, Pahalgam, which also serves as one of the base camps for the annual Amarnath Yatra, registered a low of minus 8.2 degrees Celsius, down from the previous night's minus 6.8 degrees Celsius.

It said Gulmarg, a tourist spot popular for skiing, logged a minimum of minus six degrees Celsius, a degree down from the previous night. A hamlet on the outskirts of Pampore town, Konibal, was the coldest weather station in the valley as the temperature, which may cause minimum settled at the low of frost. Ex-CM OP Chautala passes away at 89; Hry Govt declares 3-day state mourning

PNS CHANDIGARH

Indian National Lok Dal (INLD) supremo and former Haryana Chief Minister Om Prakash Chautala passed away in Gurugram on Friday at the age of 89 after a cardiac arrest.

Born on January 1, 1935, in a village near Sirsa, he was the son of Chaudhary Devi Lal, a significant figure in Indian politics who served as Deputy Prime Minister and played a crucial role in the establishment of Haryana as a separate state in 1966.

Chautala's political career spanned several decades, during which he served as Chief Minister for four terms: briefly in 1989-1990 and again from 1999 to 2005. He has also been a seven-time MLA.

A five-time Haryana chief minister Chautala was a tall figure in Haryana and Indian politics and a prominent leader of the Jat community, but his career was marked with controversies and jail term.

Born into an influential political family, Chautala was the eldest son of former deputy prime minister Devi Lal and ĥeaded INLD, a party founded by his father. Though Chautala could never match the stature his father enjoyed, he was known for his sharp political acumen and wit despite not being well-educated. Chautala served as chief minister of the state for five terms, though it was between 1999 and 2005 that he enjoyed a full term. In between, right from 1989 to July 1999, he served intermittent terms in office

When Devi Lal became deputy prime minister in the Janata Dal government in 1989, it was Chautala who became the chief minister. He remained MLA for six terms and was elected for the first time in 1970 from Ellenabad from Sirsa, what was considered a stronghold of the Chautala family. He also represented Narwana, Uchan, Darba Kalan and Rori.

Chautala's younger brothers Pratap and Ranjit Chautala also remained MLAs while another brother Jagdish's son Aditya Devi Lal is a sitting INLD MLA. Chautala's two sons Abhay and Ajay and their sons are also into politics. Chautala had a fair share of controversies.

In 1990, Meham assembly seat remained in national news after large-scale violence. The opposition had then accused Chautala of trying to force his victory there. The episode became infamous in Haryana's politics as "Meham Kand". Later, the polls on the seat had to be postponed three times.

The Meham incident occurred following the killing of a rebel Lok Dal leader and seven others in the violence which ensued.

Between 1989-91, Chautala served as chief minister for short terms. It was in 1999 that he enjoyed a full term. During this, the BJP was an ally of the INLD, though it was not part of the government. The INLD remained an ally of the NDA at the Centre then but the ties broke before the 2005 Haryana assembly polls.

He served as chief minister from December 1989 to May 1990, July 12 1990 to July 17, 1990 and from March 1991 to April 6, 1991 and again between July 1999 to February 2005.

After 2005, the INLD never came to power in Haryana and its graph over the years continued to slide following electoral reverses

December 2018, In Chautala's elder son Ajay Chautala floated Jannayak Janta Party (JJP) after a vertical split in the INLD following a family feud. The JJP, later extended support to the BJP in 2019 when the saffron outfit fell short of majority in the assembly polls. But the alliance broke in March 2024 when the BJP replaced Manohar Lal Khattar with Nayab Singh Saini as chief minister. The major setback for Chautala came when he was jailed in 2013 in connection with a teacher recruitment scam. At that time, Chautala, his son Aiav and 53 others, including an IAS officer, were convicted and sentenced in the case of illegal recruitment of 3,206 junior basic teachers in 2000 when the INLD was in power.

They all were sentenced to varying jail terms in the case by special CBI court in January 2013. While serving a 10-year prison term in a teacher recruitment scam case, Chautala was released from Delhi's Tihar Jail in July 2021. At that time, he was already out on parole.

Later in May 2022, he was again sent to the Tihar Jail after he was awarded a four-year jail term in a disproportionate assets (DA) case. Like before, he was lodged in jail number 2 and became the oldest inmate in the prison at 87.

In August 2002, the Delhi High Court suspended the fouryear sentence to Chautala during the pendency of his appeal against the conviction in the DA

During the INLD government in 2002, Chautala-led dispensation came under fire from various quarters when nine farmers died in police firing on agitating farmers at Kandela village in Jind district.

In the full-fledged term as chief minister, Chautala's "Sarkar Aapke Dwar" programme was a major initiative of the INLD government. The chief minister visited every village, asking people about their needs and taking decisions on the spot while acting on their demands. At the ripe old age of 82, Chautala passed his higher secondary examination in the first division, while serving out a 10year sentence in the Tihar Jail.

The Haryana Government declared a three-day state mourning from Friday as a mark of respect to former CM Chautala. "The State Government has decided to observe a three-day state mourning that is December 20-22. During this period, the national flag will fly at half-mast throughout the state on all buildings where it is flown regularly. All state government functions stood cancelled and there would be no official entertainment during this period," an order issued by the Haryana chief secretary's office said.

The Haryana Government has also declared Saturday as a public holiday in all state government offices as a mark of respect to the departed soul. Chautala will be accorded a state funeral at 3 pm at Teja Khera farm in Sirsa Chandigarh: Haryana Irrigation and Water Resources Minister Shruti Choudhry on Friday urged the National Water Development Agency (NWDA) to prioritize the construction of the Mavi Barrage near Panipat. Highlighting its significance, she stated that the proposed barrage could supply more water to Rajasthan than the Hathnikund Barrage, while also providing additional water resources to Haryana. The Irrigation Minister presented this demand during the 38th Annual Inter-State River Linking Meeting, held virtually under the chairmanship of Union Minister of State for Jal Shakti Raj Bhushan Choudhary. Choudhry emphasized that Haryana lacks adequate water storage facilities on the Yamuna river, which flows through the state. She said that during the monsoon season, surplus water from the Yamuna river flows wastefully into the Bay of Bengal. The construction of the Mavi Barrage as part of the Sharda-Yamuna Interlinking Project would secure additional water for Haryana, ensuring sufficient resources for both irrigation and drinking water.

Punjab AAP Holds Protest Against Amit Shah's Remarks on Dr. Ambedkar

PNS CHANDIGARH

The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Punjab leaders staged protests across the state on Friday against Home Minister Amit Shah's "derogatory" remarks about the architect of the Constitution, Dr. Bhimrao Ambedkar, in Parliament. AAP leaders strongly condemned Shah's statement, calling it an insult to the Constitution's creator.

District leaders, office bear ers, MLAs, and ministers of AAP, along with hundreds of party workers, staged demonstrations outside BJP's district headquarters in Jalandhar, Pathankot, Bathinda, Mansa, Ludhiana, Faridkot, Moga, and other cities. They submitted memorandums to the respective Deputy Commissioners against Amit Shah and also burned his effigies while raising slogans against him. In the memorandum, the party termed Shah's remarks as an insult to the nation's democracy, the Constitution, and its architect. They demanded that the central government take action against the Home Minister and remove him from the cabinet. AAP leaders also accused the Bharatiya Janata Party of harboring hatred towards Dr. Bhimrao Ambedkar and the Constitution, alleging that the BJP-led central government aims to dismantle the Constitution created by Baba Saheb.

The Aam Aadmi Party has ensured the display of pictures of Baba Saheb Bhimrao Ambedkar and Shaheed Bhagat Singh in all government offices in Delhi and Punjab.

Speaking to various media outlets during the protest, AAP leaders said that Amit Shah, through his statement, has not only insulted Bhimrao Ambedkar but has also disrespected the entire Dalit community. Dr. Ambedkar gave political and social rights to the oppressed and exploited people of society through the Constitution and empowered them economically. Amit Shah's statement has caused despair among the country's Dalit community. The BJP must clarify its stance on this issue and immediately apologize to the Dalit community.

An AAP leader from Jalandhar said that it is extremely unfortunate that the country's Home Minister mocked Baba Saheb Bhimrao Ambedkar, the architect of the Constitution, in Parliament. Nothing could be more tragic than this

The BJP wants to destroy the Constitution because it fears Dr. Bhimrao Ambedkar's ideology. The BJP also hates the Dalit community and is a party that supports Manusmriti.

An abhorrable practice

The SC's observation on witchcraft practices is a timely reminder that women still face humiliation under various pretexts

n a landmark observation, the Supreme Court of India recently described the victimisation of women under accusations of witchcraft as a 'blot on the constitutional spirit.' The case before the apex court, involving egregious acts of abuse and violence against women in Bihar's Champaran district, has brought the spotlight on the persistent issue of witch-hunting in the country. The court's remarks emphasise the urgent need to eradicate such practices that undermine the dignity, equality and human rights enshrined in the Constitution of India. The bench, comprising Justices CT Ravikumar and Sanjay Karol, was dealing with a petition concerning a disturbing incident that occurred in early 2020. Women were publicly assaulted, disrobed, and accused of witchcraft. One of the accused individuals, Lakhpati Devi, along with others, faced charges for these heinous acts. Reportedly there was police apathy towards the victim. The apex court expressed its shock and dismay at the brutality of the acts and the apparent indifference of the legal machinery. Such incidents, the court observed, are a direct affront to the dignity and rights of women, particularly in rural areas where equality remains a distant goal. The court highlighted the role of superstition, patriarchy, and social control in perpetuating witch-hunting practices. It called for the eradication of these regressive beliefs, which often target vulnerable women such as widows and the elderly. Indeed, such practices stand in stark opposition to the scientific temper mandated by the Constitution. Unfortunately these are not isolated cases but are rampant in rural India. The Constitution of India guarantees justice, liberty, equality and dignity for all citizens. Practices like witch-hunting undermine these principles and perpetuate a culture of discrimination and violence against women. What is more shocking is the apathy of the government in such cases who are equal partners in crime. The court reiterated that the responsibility of investigating and adjudicating authorities is heightened in cases involving violations of human dignity. The Supreme Court also criticised the state for not challenging the High Court's non-speaking order, which granted a stay on the proceedings. The bench's observations underscore the need for a multi-pronged approach to address witch-hunting. This includes strengthening laws to explicitly criminalise witch-hunting and ensuring stringent punishment for perpetrators. Besides, promoting scientific temper and educating communities about the illegality and immorality of witch-hunting. But most important is establishing support mechanisms for survivors, including legal aid, rehabilitation, and psychological counseling. The government machinery also need to be sensitised in dealing with such cases. The Supreme Court's remarks serve as a clarion call to address the deep-seated issues of superstition and patriarchy that enable witch-hunting. The victimisation of women under such baseless allegations is not merely a social evil but a constitutional failure.

Revisiting the Places of Worship Act

PRAFULL GORADIA

The Places of Worship Act, 1991, was enacted to maintain the religious status of sites as of August 15, 1947 but there is misunderstandings about its purpose ow the Places of Worship Act (1991) is being dealt with at present is due to many not being aware of how and why the Act came about. Evidently, the then Prime Minister PV Narasimha Rao (1991-96) in his heart of hearts was a staunch Hindu. He was anxious to contribute to help solving the then existing-or festering-problem at Ayodhya. Most developments that took place at the Janmasthan on December 6, 1992, spoke of Rao's silent participation in the cause of Ram Lalla.

The most clinching evidence of the Prime Minister's contribution was indicated by the facts when I left Ayodhya on that momentous day. It was 5:45 pm; all the three domes of the Babri edifice had been brought down. All the ten walls were still standing and so was the rest of the structure. Soon after we sat in our car to proceed to Lucknow, my companions and I heard on the transistor radio that the Uttar Pradesh government of then chief minister Kalyan Singh had been dismissed by the Centre, and Governor's rule imposed.

That meant whatever was done thereafter was the handiwork directed by someone at the Centre. At the Centre, even the then-home secretary Madhav Godbole is on record saying that he did not know a thing about what was happening and had learnt about it only through the radio and television.

This author has not met not knows anyone who has claimed that he has seven even a photograph of the edifice walls without their domes. At 10 pm that very night, PM Narasimha Rao addressed the nation on television, wherein he assured the people of India that he would rebuild the Babri Masjid as soon as possible. This gave the impression that the entire edifice had been destroyed. The walls were tall and thick as was the style of the architecture of the 16th cen-The chabutara around the walls was also solid and tall, this happened under Central apart from being large. Even the domes, which had been the most vulnerable part of the structure, nowhere in power after 5:45 took selected men of the Uttar Pradesh Public Works Department (PWD) to bring them down, an endeavour that began in the morning and lasted till 4:30 pm when the last dome fell. I came to know that they were men of the PWD, from two of the five photographers whose cameras had been smashed and they beaten up and left with bleeding faces. The photographers thought they were obliging the karsevaks, whereas for government servants, being photographed would have cost them their jobs

A lady IPS officer who was second-in-command at Ayodhya on that day, in answer to my query told me later that the police had instructions not to intervene unless lives were in danger; presumably, not property. She assured me that there were 15,000 paramilitary personnel in readiness at Faizabad, just 4 km away. Incidentally, she added there were consummate numbers of bulldozers in the nearby vicinity, along with their operators. Evidently, all these preparations were deployed to see the end of the Babri edifice over the next 60 hours. Indeed, an enormous thing to accomiish, in such a short time. All rule. To restate, the Kalyan Singh government was pm on December 6. It is only after being aware of these facts can one appreciate the need for the Places of Worship Act. PM Rao, being a Congressman, had to preserve his 'secular' image.

The abovementioned legislation implies how much the Rao government cared to protect the character of every EVIDENTLY. place of worship as it existed THESE AFGHANS on August 15, 1947. Ayodhya had to be the exception as it HAD BROUGHT was then an object of litigation in the Supreme Court of India. Normally, while legislating, it SOME ARCHITECTS is taken for granted that anything sub judice has its own WITH THEM, rules. But Ayodhya was clearly brought under a provision of being excluded from the WHO BUILT A SIGNIFICANT ambit of the Act, presumably because it was sub judice. NUMBER OF Nevertheless, it was specifically kept out; in fact, it was a sep-BUILDINGS, arate clause if the Act. INCLUDING Consequently, when being dealt with in the courts, never MOSQUES was Ayodhya, particularly the Janmasthan, mentioned even once in the context of the > Places of Act. The thrust of this submission is that this act need not be taken seriously. What this statement means is that a legitimate difference must be made between genuine places of worship and those edifices or structures that are the outcome of dacoity. There are edifices that were either directly converted from temples to mosques like the Adhai Din Ka Jhopda, about a furlong away from Ajmer Sharif. Three temples were confined into one within 60 hours, or two-anda-half days, so that the invader Mohammad Ghori would be able to pray there on his return from the decisive Second Battle of Tarain in 1192 AD.

There was no time to erase the Hindu structure. The pristine design has survived till this day. There are many such examples until the Lodi Dynasty conquered north India. Evidently, these Afghans had brought some architects with them, who built a significant number of buildings, including mosques.

How can the courts refuse to hear and try a case when someone petitions against daylight dacoity of a temple, which is either converted immediately like the one described above in Ajmer, or brought down and rebuilt like the Jama Masjid in Ahmedabad? Surely, dacoities can't be condoned out of hand? On the other hand, genuine cases of mosques having become victims of Hindu mischief can be kept out of the courts under the Places of worsnip Act. (The writer is a well-known columnist, an author and a former member of the Rajya Sabha; views are personal)

The key to tackling food security and climate change

Climate-Smart Agriculture emerges as a transformative solution, combining sustainable practices with strategies to mitigate emissions and secure food systems he demand for food is steadily increasing due to dietary changes and the growing global population. Currently, approximately 690 million people-or 8.9 per cent of the world's population-suffer from hunger. By 2050, the world will need to produce nearly 70 per cent more food to sustain an estimated 9 billion people, which makes food security an increasingly critical challenge. Climate change further exacerbates this problem, intensifying the environmental impacts of food production. Agriculture, while essential, is also a major contributor to the climate crisis, generating between 19 per cent and 29 per cent of global greenhouse gas emissions.

Economic losses from natural disasters are also rising globally, and the agriculture sector is particularly vulnerable. According to the United Nations Office for Disaster Risk Reduction (UNISDR), disaster-affected nations experienced direct economic losses of $2,908 billion between 1998 and 2017, with climaterelated calamities accounting for 77 per cent of these losses. In recent years, the impacts of climate change on agriculture have become more pronounced. For example, India is projected to experience up to a 9 per cent reduction in key crop yields nationwide between 2010 and 2039 due to climate change. Regional impacts could be even more severe, with potential losses of up to 35 per cent for rice, 20 per cent for wheat, 50 per cent for sorghum, 13 per cent for barley, and 60 per cent for maize

Climate change adversely affects food production and supply chains while accelerating the degradation of already fragile ecosystems. To counter these challenges, it is imperative to adopt Climate Smart Agriculture (CSA) practices, which aim to mitigate the adverse effects of climate change on agriculture while sustainably enhancing pro-ductivity and income. CSA integrates sustainable agricultural practices and rural development goals, contributing to broader objectives like better environmental management and hunger reduction, as outlined in the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs). Climate-Smart Agriculture Practices in India:

India is actively adopting Climate-Smart Agriculture (CSA) practices to combat climate change's impact on agriculture. These include conservation agriculture techniques like zero-tillage to boost yields and reduce emissions, agroforestry to enhance biodiversity and resilience, and precision farming technologies such as GPS and GIS to optimise resources. Water management strategies like drip irrigation improve efficiency, while efficient livestock management boosts revenue and product quality. Solar power is increasingly used for irrigation, reducing reliance on fossil fuels. Practices such as crop diversification, rotation with legumes, and the cultivation of climate-resilient varieties enhance sustainability, while integrated pest management and crop residue management minimise chemical use and pollution, ensuring long-term agricultural and environmental health. Challenges to Climate-Smart

Agriculture in India: Despite its numerous benefits, the adoption of CSA practices in India faces several challenges. Climate Variability: Rising temperatures, erratic rainfall, and diminishing water resources threaten to lower crop productivity by 10-40 per cent by the end of the century. Rising sea levels, cyclones, and storm surges endanger agricultural lands, especially in regions like the Sundarbans, Kerala, and Tamil Nadu. High Costs: Implementing CSĂ methods often involves significant financial investment, which can deter farmers. Policy and Regulatory Barriers Inadequate policies and restrictive regulations hinder widespread CSA adoption. The adoption of climate-smart agriculture is no longer optional but an urgent necessity

OPPOSITION TARGETS AMIT SHAH

Madam - The Opposition claimed Home Minister Amit Shah had insulted B.R. Ambedkar. Accusing the Congress Party of opportunism, Shah charged then-Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru with belittling Ambedkar, asserting that his resignation from the Cabinet would have no effect on the government. Shah also pointed out that when Ambedkar contested a Lok Sabha by-election in Bombay, the Congress not only fielded a candidate against him but Nehru personally campaigned to ensure Ambedkar's defeat.

Amit Shah hammered home the point about Congress singing paeans to Ambedkar only after it suffered multiple drubbings in elections, remarking the party now opportunistically chanting, "Ambedkar, Ambedkar, Ambedkar... itna naam Bhagwan ka lete toh janmo tak swarg mil jata." The Opposition seized upon this admittedly poorly framed sentence to accuse Shah of insulting Ambedkar. Of course, this interpretation was far from the truth. Nevertheless, Shah's clumsy construction provided the Opposition with an opportunity to embarrass him. Shah's response during Tuesday's debate was a trenchant critique of the Congress Party. This frontal assault left Congress members squirming, with only feeble attempts to counter Shah's barbs. The Congress's lip service to Ambedkar continues to find few tak-

DEBATE ON SIMULTANEOUS ELECTIONS

Madam — The proposal of holding simultaneous elections is fraught with a lack of clarity in its implementation and practicality for a country as vast and diverse as its expanse. The proposal has several loopholes, like midterm polls and the President's rule, and there is a lack of consideration for regional parties as well. Primarily, the proposal fails to address how precisely the central govern-

he article 'From Kothari to NEP' presents a good analysis. No doubt, there is a conscious attempt made to undermine Indian education with long-term planning to subjugate the youth to be religiously oriented instead of scientifically and technologically excelling sections. The NEP has no provision to improve the standard of education and make it globally competitive. Still, the cream churned out migrants to countries abroad in search of fabulous pack-tions for the nation's 96.88 crore voters at the same time, as such a gargantuan exercise will be practically challenging to execute considering India's demography. Also, conducting all the elections in the same year becomes a major federal issue because it would force current state legislatures to shorten or lengthen their terms to make the election dates coincide with the national deadline.

The attempt to impose an artificial cycle of elections and restrict electoral choice compromises the spirit of democracy, which is a direct threat to the constitutional recognition of India as a democratic republic. A rushed and illconceived policy can produce unprecedented challenges to the polity of the

Madam — In the recent verdict, the Supreme Court of India, instructed the Uttar Pradesh as well as the Haryana government to impose the blanket ban on ment plans to hold simultaneous elec- the firecrackers in order to tackle the ages and incentivised talent recognition. Medical colleges are growing in number, but the standard suffers due to insufficient expert teaching professionals, and focus has shifted to pecuniary aspects rather than imparting knowledge. Privatisation of education has its toll in terms of knowledge and employability, besides denying the aspiring poor its accessibility. The government coming up with programmes to part with skills to graduated youth is a clear example of this fact. The avaricious private players are producing marks without knowledge and degrees without employable skills. Astrology is a subject that could be learnt by anyone at anytime and anywhere but need not be a part of the curriculum in university. Therefore, there is a dire need to study the whole system and make education an objective one rather than a tool to hasten the process of communalisation.

menace of air pollution. Today, depleting air quality is among the biggest troubles for the majority of Indian cities. But the million-dollar question is, does such a blanket ban really work to control the air pollution problem in the Indian cities? Often the things that are banned officially were black-marketed unofficially.

This is the actual reality of almost every thing banned so far, be it crackers, liquor, or anything else. The extent of air pollution is so huge that even anti-pollution measures like Stage IV of GRAP failed to meet the very commitment. The behavioural changing approach is the need of the hour; more and more awareness has to be established in this regard along with more and more ecological improvement initiatives for tackling this very menace of depleting air quality. Let's us all walk the talk with respect to the circular economy and sustainable practices to improve nature in a real sense. Kirti Wadhawan | Kanpur

UNLOCKING LIFE'S TRUE POTENTIAL

Embracing faith, cultivating humility and awakening spiritual awareness can elevate life

am well and truly surprised that good people don't turn to God more actively than doing some rituals, going to a religious place participating in some festivals, etc. They probably are not realising what they are missing. God is ever so keen to take us in His team. He needs lots of us either to act as His 'nimitta' (instrument) as Arjuna was for a specific purpose or just be active mediums. Good people are best placed to be mediums for God's bounties to be given to other good people. They form the bulk of people, who support the working of the Creation. And they are amply rewarded for their 'karmas" (acts). For example, farmers are crucial for keeping humanity well-fed. Teachers are crucial for educating the masses.

Parents keep the Creation going by giving birth to children and then rearing them till they can be useful citizens. Doctors look after the health of people. Workers take the load of manual requirements of humanity. Good officers fulfil the administrative requirements of our societies. Priests enable us to be in contact with God. I can go on with policemen, shopkeepers, bankers, etc. They all benefit by doing so.Why aren't these actively pursuing a good connection with God? They can gain much more.

The first reason has to be a lack of faith due to widespread ignorance. The common man, even the educated class, is hopelessly unaware of all the benefits one can gain by taking shelter from God, who owns everything. We get attracted to the richest, the most powerful, the very famous, etc., but ignore the real owner of all, omnipotent, omniscient and omnipresent God. To top it all, God controls everything. The richest normally try to accumulate more, and many have some money to give to charity, but God has everything to give; you just have to become deserving.

The second reason has to be the overinflated ego of practically everyone. It is hard to accept that God is too big to comprehend and we are too small to accept. But that is reality. By closing our eyes like a duck we don't do ourselves any favour. And we remain sitting ducks against 'karmaphalas', which surely manifest and cause havoc in the lives of all, barring a few, who have taken shelter in God. The third reason is keeping poor company. Who do we like to spend time with? Those who criticise one and all and who can tell jokes of the kind you know. Public image is another handicap. Only the losers turn to God. We don't have to; we will manage. Surely, this management ends in painful death only. Devotees of God and their lives on a high and are assured of better birth also. Then spiritual activities do not enthuse; they appear so childish. We would rather be grown-ups and be subservient to fellow beings, who are likely to exploit us as much as possible. So we don't get started and lose out. This article is an open invitation to fence sitters if they chance to read it. I will cite a few amazing benefits if one does that. There will be great cleaning of the self both internally and externally. Such are the powers of spiritual activities. One will become dutiful and most likely begin to live by dharma. One will not limit oneself just to knowing spiritual truths but will also implement them in life. If a painter knows how to paint and does not paint, what is he or she likely to gain? The Creation has been designed to smoothen the lives of devotees.

Philippines: The broken promise of democracy

The resurgence of the Marcoses, the entrenchment of the Aquinos, and the dominance of families like the Dutertes show the enduring grip of oligarchy

he 1987 Philippine Constitution, crafted in the aftermath of the 1986 People Power Revolution, was supposed to mark the dawn of a new democratic era. The ousting of Ferdinand Marcos Sr., after decades of corruption, repression, and dynastic rule, was a victory for the Filipino people, or so they were told. Yet, the Constitution, supposedly a tool for disman-tling the oppressive old order, contains a glaring, unimplemented clause: Article II, Section 26, which bans political dynasties. Nearly four decades later, this promise remains a cruel joke, the prohibition nothing more than a symbol of a nation shackled by its feudal past. Political dynasties thrive unabated, and the Philippines remains trapped in a cycle of oligarchy, where power is passed down like a family heirloom, not earned through democratic means. The rise of Corazon Aquino, the "hero" of People Power, has proven to be a double-edged sword.

While she restored democracy in name, she failed to eradicate the dynastic forces that had long plagued the country. Instead of dismantling the Marcos empire and the dynasties that thrived in its wake, Aquino's presiaency paved the way for a new set of rul throne. The irony is staggering: Aquino, the DISARM THE VERY symbol of resistance to Marcos, was unable to disarm the very forces that helped prop up the dictatorship. Her administration's failure to enact meaningful reform paved the way for the Marcos family's return to power, with Ferdinand "Bongbong" Marcos Jr.'s rise in 2022 exposing the unyielding grip of dynastic politics, illuminating the eternal truth behind the words of José Rizal, a true revolutionary executed by the Spanish in ADMINISTRATION'S Manila: "The Filipino is not a slave of the Spanish Government. He is a slave of his FAILURE TO ENACT own people."The Marcoses, who plundered billions from the nation's coffers, are not the only ones to have manipulated the system to their advantage. Under Cory Aquino, the promise of land people they claim to defend. The hypocrisy of the political elite is stag-gering, with families like the Marcoses and the Aquinos using their histories of violence and corruption as stepping stones to further entrench their power. But the Aquino-Marcos rivalry is only the tip of the iceberg. In Mindanao, the Duterte family's hold on power predates Rodrigo Duterte's presidency, with a history of death squad killings and iron-fisted rule. As mayor of Davao City, Duterte ruled with an iron fist, silencing dissent and using extrajudicial executions to rid the streets of perceived enemies.

His presidency, marked by a brutal war on drugs that left thousands THE IRONY IS dead, further entrenched the dynas-STAGGERING: tic system, where political power is synonymous with violence and AQUINO, THE synonymous with violence and impunity. were slaughtered in cold blood in a bid to eliminate electoral competition

And yet, despite the horrific nature of the crime, justice has been slow and incomplete, as political dynasties use their influence to shield themselves from the consequences of their actions. In regions like Cebu and Ilocos Norte, political dynasties such as the Osmeñas, Garcias, and Fariñases manipulate elections and use their wealth to maintain control, treating public office as their domain. This cycle of violence and impunity, where the ruling class prioritises their interests, extends to the economic realm, with families like the villagers growing their wealth through political power. The system persists due to cultural deference to family authority, weak institutions, and pervasive poverty, with voters often coerced into supporting the very dynasties that sustain their suffering.

Foreign powers, particularly the United States, have long been complicit in this system. During the Marcos era, the US provided crucial The Macapagal-Arroyo family, meanwhile, turned corruption into an art form. Gloria Macapagalsupport to a regime known for its human rights abuses, all in the name of anti-communism. This foreign Arroyo's presidency was marred by patronage emboldened the scandal after scandal—from the "Hello Garci" election fraud to the Marcoses and set a dangerous precedent for other dynasties, who NBN-ZTE broadband deal, which saw billions in kickbacks siphoned continued to seek validation and support from foreign powers. The off to the ruling elite. Despite the interplay between domestic power struggles and international interests further deepens the fractures within the Philippines, exacerbating the country's internal divisions. The Philippines' educational system, which fails to foster critical thinking or civic engagement, ensures that the cycle of dynastic rule will continue. Schools produce citizens ill-equipped to challenge the status quo, while the media, often co-opted by powerful families, serves to protect the interests of the elite. Social media, too, has become a tool for dynasties to spread propaganda, rehabilitate their tarnished images,

The current political spectacle cen-tred around Vice President Sara Duterte's public threats against President Marcos, is a stark reminder of how fragile the Philippines' democracy truly is. The alliance between the Marcoses and the Dutertes, forged during the 2022 election, is now on the brink of collapse. What once seemed like a partnership between the North and south's ruling classes has devolved into a bitter feud, exposing the cracks in a political system built on corruption, nepotism, and violence.

This is not a battle for the people's interests, but a struggle for control between two families, each vying for supremacy in a system that has failed its citizens. This feud is not just political-it has geopolitical ramifications. Marcos' pivot towards the US and his opposition to China's claims in the South China Sea have reignited regional tensions, while Duterte's pro-China stance during his presidency deepened divides the Philippines' political system is not just figurative. The 2009 Maguindanao Massacre, orchestrated by the Ampatuan clan, remains the deadliest attack on journalists in history. Fifty-eight people, including 32 journalists, within the Filipino elite.

This divergence in foreign policy has intensified the rift between the Marcos and Duterte families, as they seek to align themselves with opposing global powers.

The Philippines, caught between these imperial rivalries, faces not only internal political decay but external pressures that threaten to destabilise the nation further. As the midterm elections approach, this dynastic battle threatens to unravel whatever semblance of governance remains. Marcos seeks to consolidate power, while Sara Duterte faces the looming threat of impeachment. Yet, the Duterte family's influence, particularly in Mindanao, ensures that this battle will not stay within the confines of parliament. The streets could erupt, worsening societal divides.

Patent risks: Key strategies for businesses amid rising litigation costs

Businesses today must adopt proactive strategies like Freedom-to-Operate searches and patent liability insurance to mitigate risks and protect their inovations n November 2024, a US jury ruled in favour of Netlist, a company specialising in computer memory and storage solutions, ordering Samsung to pay $118 million in damages for willfully infringing Netlist's patented technology. This follows an earlier verdict in April 2024 where another jury found Samsung guilty of similar patent infringements, award-ing $303 million to Netlist. Together, these penalties amount to $421 million-an extraordinary sum that could destabilise even the most established organisations.

In India, the Delhi High Court recently delivered a landmark judgment favoring the plaintiff, Antenna Inc., in a patent infringement case against Mobi Antenna Technologies.

AMIT SINGH

The court issued a permanent injunction against the defendant and ordered them to pay damages of USD 26.04 million (INR 216 crores) to compensate for the plaintiff's loss of profits due to the infringement. Protecting Intellectual Property: A recent American survey highlights the substantial financial commitment of research-based organisations in the pharmaceutical sector. The annual R&D budget in to unforeseen and costly litigathis industry often runs into hundreds of millions or even billions of dollars. The cost of developing a new drug ranges from $314 million to $4.46 billion, depending on the thera-peutic area and assumptions used in data modeling. These figures emphasise the immense investments required in R&D, making intellectual property (IP) protection and preemptive strategies essential. In contrast, R&D expenditures in non-pharmaceutical sectors are generally lower. However, extensive patenting is increasingly common, posing risks for companies introducing new processes or products without adequate precautions. A company might unknowingly infringe on a competitor's patent, leading tion. Patent disputes can result in significant delays, financial losses, and reputational damage, even when unintentional. Escalating Costs of Patent Litigation: The median cost of litigating a patent lawsuit through trial ranges from $600,000 for cases with less than $1 million at stake to $3.625 million for cases involving over $25 million. Similar trends are observed in India, where litigation and settlement costs are substantial. Sometimes, defendants find themselves embroiled in patent litigation due to unintentional or inadvertent infringement. In such cases, the defendants are essentially victims, underscoring the need for safeguards to prevent unnecessary legal disputes. Tools to Mitigate Patent Infringement Risks: Patent Liability Insurance One effective safeguard against the financial risks of unintended patent infringement is patent liability insurance. This insurance, provided by specialised firms, helps cover legal expenses and damages arising from unintentional infringement. While popular in several countries, its adoption is steadily growing in India. Freedom-to-Operate (FTO) Another cost-effective tool to minimise patent infringement risks is a Freedom-to-Operate (FTO) search. This process evaluates whether a new product or process infringes on existing patents, enabling informed business decisions and reducing the likelihood of legal disputes. Many compa-nies conduct FTO searches before initiating new R&D projects to mitigate financial and reputational risks.

An FTO search involves ana-lyzing granted and pending patents to form a techno-legal opinion on whether a product, process, or service infringes existing IP rights. These searches can be conducted using free databases provided by intellectual property offices, with directories available on the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) website. When Patents Block Freedom to Operate If an FTO search reveals conflicting patents, companies have several options: 1.Licensing Agreements: Companies can negotiate inlicensing or purchase patent rights to gain access to the necessary technology. 2.Patent Pools: Collaborative agreements among companies in the same technological field allow shared access to patents, resolving disputes and controlling costs, especially for essential products like medicines

3.Designing Around: Companies can modify exist-Around: ing processes or products to avoid infringement.

Steps to Minimise Litigation Risks: Regardless of the strategy chosen, it is crucial for companies to address patent infringement risks early in the research and commercialization process. Proactive measures such as in-licensing, cross-licensing, patent pooling, and designing around can help avoid future disputes. A systematic FTO search before launching a new product is indispensable for minimizing infringement risks. While an FTO search cannot completely eliminate the possibility of litigation due to limitations in patent databases and search expertise, it significantly reduces potential

It was the second deadly incident involving migrants in the past week, as authorities in Athens brace for a spike in arrivals as a result of wars in the Middle East. Seven migrants were killed and dozens are believed to be missing after a boat partially sank south of the island of Crete over the week end - one of four rescue operations during which more than 200 migrants were rescued. The search south of Crete around the tiny island of Gavdos was called off Wednesday.

Venezuelan opp member leaves Argentine diplomatic compound

AP MEXICO CITY

One of the six members of Venezuela's political opposition who have been sheltering for nine months in the Argentine diplomatic compound in the capital, Caracas, abandoned the premises Thursday Two people familiar with the situation at the facility confirmed to The Associated Press that Fernando Martínez left the President Nicolas Maduro of

was home. The people spoke on the condition of anonymity for fear of retaliation. The conditions under which Martinez left the compound were not immediately clear. Since late November, the group has denounced the constant presence outside the residence of Venezuelan intelligence service agents and police. It has also accused the government of ambassador's residence and cutting electricity and water services.

> The government has denied the allegations.

Those who remain at the Argentine ambassador's home include the campaign manager and communications director of opposition powerhouse Maria Corina Machado. The government of President Javier Milei allowed them into the compound in March after authorities loyal to the ruling party issued warrants for their arrest, accusing them of pro-moting alleged acts of violence to destabilize the country. Martínez was involved in a parallel government that the opposition created after Maduro's widely considered sham reelection in 2018 and participated in negotiations between the opposition and the government. He was minister of communications and transportation in the 1990s.

Turkiye, Russia engage in delicate manoeuvre over Syria after Assad's downfall

AP MOSCOW

The rapid downfall of Syrian leader Bashar Assad has touched off a new round of delicate geopolitical manoeuvring between Russia's Vladimir Putin and Turkiye's Recep Tayyip Erdogan.

With the dust still settling from the stunning events in Damascus, the outcome for now seems to be favouring Ankara, which backed the victorious rebels, while Moscow suffered a bruising blow to its international clout.

"In the game of Czars vs. Sultans, this is Sultans 1 and Czars 0," said Soner Cagaptay, director of the Turkish Research Program at the Washington Institute. "Far from being allies, Turkiye and Russia are competitors. And in this case, Turkiye has outsmarted Russia. The Assad regime's demise

Six entities pay ₹ 3.49 crore to settle front-running trade case with Sebi

PTI 🗖 NEW DELHI

Six entities, including Samir Kothari and Jitendra N Kewalramani, has settled with Sebi in a case pertaining to the suspected front-running of trades by paying ₹ 3.49 crore towards settlement charges.

The other entities that settled the matter with the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) are Kuntal Goel, Jitendra N Kewalramani HUF, Dipika J Kewalramani and Pallavi Shailesh Nayak, Sebi said in the order on Thursday. Apart from the settlement amount, Sebi's committee placed other conditions to settle the case. These included disgorgement of unlawful gain totalling ₹2.06 crore along with 12 per cent interest per annum from the date of the impugned transaction to the date of filing of the settlement application for disgorgement to be paid by Samir Kothari, Kuntal Goel and Jitendra N Kewalramani. Also, the six entities will voluntarily debarred themselves from the securities markets for six months. The order came after Sebi received four separate settlement applications from the applicants in March 2024, proposing to settle the instant proceedings through a settlement order "without admitting or denying the allegations". "It is hereby ordered that the proceedings initiated against the applicants, vide show cause notice dated January 24, 2024, is disposed of," Sebi's tlement order. Chief General Manager

Santosh Shukla said in the setthere was any violation of the Sebi conducted an investigation to ascertain whether (Prohibition of Fraudulent and Unfair Trade Practices) provisions of PFUTP rules by certain entities during the period from January 2021 to October 2022. Pursuant to the investigation, a common show cause notice dated January 24, 2024, was issued to certain entities, including the applicants. The SCN alleged that the applicants and other noticees were consistently placing orders ahead of Bharat Kanaiyalal Sheth Family Trust, Ravi Kanaiyalal Sheth Family Trust and Arjun Discretionary Trust and Arjun Discretionary Trust (collec-tively referred to as the Big Clients) in the equity (cash) segment of NSE and were squaring off the same.

Further, Jitendra, who was the authorised person of Angel One was, directly or indirectly, in possession of the details of the impending orders to be placed by the big clients.

Accordingly, during the investigation period front running trades were allegedly executed by him in his own trading account and the trading accounts of certain entities, including the applicants (except Kuntal Goel and Samir Kothari), who were all related/associated to him during the probe period. Sebi also alleged that Jitendra was connected to Kothari through an employer-employ-ee relationship, while Kuntal, who possessed the informa-tion of the impending trades of the big client is connected to Samir Kothari by way of to Samir Kothari by way of frequent calls leading to Jitendra having access to the non-public-information-ofthe-impending orders of the big clients.

The rest of the notices/ applicants were, directly or indirectly, in possession of the details of the impending orders to be placed on behalf of the big clients, through Jitendra, who then placed orders in clients' accounts to generate abnormal profits.

Therefore, the regulator alleged that the noticees have contravened the PFUTP norms.

Thereafter, the applicants filed revised settlement terms which were approved by Sebi's High Powered Advisory Committee (HPAC). Apart from remitting the disgorgement amount, individ-ually, Jitendra N Kewalramani paid ₹ 64.29 lakh, while Kuntal paid ₹ 55.90 lakh, and ₹57.20 lakh each paid by Kothari, Jitendra Ń Kewalramani HUF, Dipika J Kewalramani and Pallavi Shailesh Nayak.

Bihar has potential to become major growth engine: Minister

PTI 📕 PATNA

B^{ihar} Industries and Tourism Minister Nitish Mishra on Friday asserted that the state is poised to play a key role in the country's growth engine, as he announced a record Rs 1.8 lakh crore investments across sectors, more than triple the amount received at its maiden investor meet last year. Detailing the investment proposals received at the end of the two-day 'Bihar Business Connect 2024' investor summit, Mishra said several memorandums of under-standing (MoUs) entailing investment of over Rs 1.8 lakh crore have been signed. Sun Petrochemicals will invest Rs 36,700 crore in renewable energy, including pump hydro and solar plants. Adani Group is looking to invest Rs 20,000 crore in setting up an ultra-supercritical thermal power plant. Besides, the group also announced investment towards expanding the cement capacity as well as in sector. At the summit, leading companies such as NHPC (Rs 5,500 crore for renewable energy sector), SLMG Beverages (Rs 3,000 crore for food processing sector), Shree Cements (Rs 800 crore in general manufacturing category), and Haldiram Snacks Pvt Ltd (Rs 300 crore for food processing sector) also inked

MoUs with the state. The state government is committed to develop Bihar into a major destination for investment in the country. I express my heartfelt grati-tude to all those who participated and became a part of this new journey of Bihar... I am fully confident that Bihar has the potential to become a major growth engine of the country. We signed MoUs with different investors worth Rs 1.80 lakh crore in different sectors... It's a huge achievement for Bihar," Mishra said. Our Prime Minister Narendra Modi has already said that Bihar is advancing... We are moving ahead strongly in that direction," he asserted.

Speaking on the occasion, Deputy Chief Minister Vijay Kumar Sinha said Bihar is the "land of history and future of the country". "After Independence, large investments were made in Jamshedpur (which was then a part of united Bihar) and Rohtas. Bihar has always been providing an industrial base," Sinha said.

"Today, Bihar is also working in the field of exploration of heavy mines and minerals... In Jamui and Rohtas, Gaya and Jehanabad," he added. Bihar Chief Minister, Nitish Kumar, who was scheduled to address the concluding day of the summit, could not attend the event due to illness, officials said.

The state's Energy Minister Bijendra Prasad Yadav, however, read out a message on behalf of the CM.

"The Bihar government has made several policies for development of industries. It is a matter of happiness that now you (investors) are working towards the development of Bihar. I am confident that people of the state will receive the benefits of the environ-ment that is being created for industrial development in the state," the chief minister's message said. Bandana Preyashi, Secretary, Industries Department, said compared to last year, the state received significantly more investment proposals in the 2024 summit.

'Last year, the sum was Rs 53,000 crore. Investments will be made in food processing and general manufacturing, health, information technology, logistics, plastics and rubber, real estate, renewable energy, textiles, leather and hospitality and skill development sectors," she said.

t would be wrong to say that I - like many other admirers of Ustad Zakir Hussain - am not shocked and mourning the demise of the maestro on December 15, 2024. But while there are countless messages on social media from those who are offering their tributes and remembering the maestro's greatness, it is a moment to also remember Zakir Hussain for his humility despite his multiple accolades and achievements. I must also convincingly add that it would further be wrong to say that the world of 'taal' and 'rhythm' fell silent on December 15, 2024, as Ustad Zakir Hussain breathed his last in San Francisco at 73, leaving behind an unparalleled legacy in the realm of music. For decades, his hands transformed the tabla from a classical Indian percussion instrument into a universal language, one that bridged the East and the West, traditional and contemporary, music and magic. It can, however, be said that while the 'taals' and 'taranas' seem momentarily muted, Zakir Hussain's music continues to echo in the hearts of millions.

Born on March 9, 1951, in Mumbai, Zakir Hussain was the son of Ustad Alla Rakha, another tabla virtuoso. From a young age, Zakir was destined for greatness, showing an uncanny ability to master the intricacies of rhythm. His music wasn't just a recital of beats - it was a dialogue, a dance, a spiritual experience. Even as a child prodigy, he bore the weight of his father's towering legacy with grace, eventually shaping his own path and taking 'tabla' to a realm previously unimaginable.

akir Hussain revolutionised the art of tabla playing, elevating it from its conventional role as a supporting instrument to a soloist's pride of place on the world stage. With a profound understanding of tradition and heritage, he seamlessly blended his technical virtuosity with creative improvisation, crafting performances that transcended genres and boundaries. His hands moved like poetry, crafting rhythmic patterns so intricate and yet so accessible that even the untrained ear could sense the brilliance of his craft.

His collaborations with artists across the globe are a testament to his genius. With guitarist John McLaughlin, he cofounded the band 'Shakti', a pioneering force in fusion music that blended Indian classical music with jazz and rock. His work with Mickey Hart of the 'Grateful

Dead' in 'Planet Drum' brought Indian innovations. He viewed the tabla as not percussion to global prominence, winning a Grammy for Best World Music Album in 1992. He had the remarkable ability to connect disparate musical traditions, forging symphonies that spoke to the universal spirit of humanity. Whether performing with Ravi Shankar in a sitar-tabla 'jugalbandi' or jamming with Yo-Yo Ma's 'Silk Road Ensemble', he approached each with reverence and curiosity, breaking barriers without ever diluting the essence of the tabla.

WHAT PARAMPARA (LINEAGE) MEANT FOR THE USTAD

espite his global persona, Zakir Hussain remained deeply rooted in Indian musical traditions. His performances were steeped in the wisdom of centuries, carrying forward the parampara (lineage) of the Punjab gharana while infusing it with his own just an instrument but a storyteller, capable of expressing every shade of human emotion - from the ecstatic to the meditative. His renditions of complex 'talas' ('teental', 'jhaptal', and 'rupak tal') revealed his mastery of rhythm and timing, yet what set him apart was his ability to infuse each beat with life and soul. Even as he experimented with cross-cultural sounds, Zakir Hussain never let the tabla lose its identity. He saw fusion as a dialogue rather than a compromise, where traditions could coexist and enrich one another.

In his lecture-demonstrations, Zakir Hussain often spoke about the spiritual dimension of music. For him, the tabla was a medium of devotion and transcendence, a way to connect with the divine. It is this depth of understanding that lent his performances an ethereal quality, leaving audiences spellbound.

A LESSON IN HUMILITY Hussain's akir fame was unparalleled, yet his humility Iremained his most endearing quality. Despite receiving countless accolades, including the Padma Vibhushan, Padma Bhushan, Padma Shri, Sangeet Natak Akademi Award, Kalidas Samman, the United States National Heritage Fellowship, and the Grammy Awards, he carried himself with the grace and simplicity of a true artist. He was equally at ease performing in the grandest concert halls of the world and in intimate 'baithaks' (gatherings). He often attributed his success to his gurus, his parents, and his fellow musicians, never once allowing his stature to overshadow his respect for the art form. "I am just a student," he would say, even as the world hailed him as a master. He viewed music, like life, as a journey rather than a destination and won the love and admiration of millions of fans worldwide. His recordings, whether solo albums like Making Music or collaborations like Friday Night in San Francisco, remain timeless treasures. Zakir Hussain's artistry lies in his unparalleled ability to create magic through jugalbandis with luminaries of dynamic companion, engaging in profound musical dialogues with Pandit Hariprasad Chaurasia's flute, Ustad Amjad Ali Khan's sarod, Pandit Shivkumar Sharma's santoor, L. Subramaniam's violin, and Ustad Bismillah Khan's shehnai. These collaborations celebrated the interplay of rhythm and melody, captivating audiences with performances that evoked joy, wonder, and reverence. Zakir Hussain also collaborated with maestros like Ustad Ali Akbar Khan (sarod), creating harmonies that bridged the spiritual and the artistic. In recent years, he extended his genius to a new generation, performing with Niladri Kumar (electric sitar), Rakesh Chaurasia (flute), and Kala Ramnath (violin), proving his tabla transcends time and tradition. These jugalbandis were not mere performances but soulful exchanges, transforming the stage into a realm of divine musical ecstasy.

Zakir Hussain's tabla seamlessly complemented the soul-stirring renditions of legends like Pandit Bhimsen Joshi, Kishori Amonkar, Pt. Birju Maharaj, and Pt. Rajan-Sajan Mishra. With Pandit Jasraj, his intricate rhythmic patterns enriched majestic 'khayal' performances, blending melody and rhythm to captivate audiences. Equally remarkable were his collaborations with Girija Devi, Dr. M. Balamuralikrishna, Pt. Ajoy Chakraborty, and Ustad Rashid Khan, where his tabla brought depth to 'thumris', 'kritis', and other 'gayaki angs', enhancing their emotive essence. With humility and brilliance, he elevated vocal accompaniment and the rhythmic artistry of 'ghungroos', setting unparalleled standards in the interplay of rhythm and melody.

LEGENDS NEVER DIE

nd as we remember the legend, it was he who transformed the tabla Linto an instrument of infinite possibilities, inspiring countless musicians to explore its depths. His students, many of whom are now torchbearers of the art form, continue to carry forward his teachings, ensuring that the rhythms he created will never fade. In the words of the maestro himself: "Music is a prayer. It's a conversation with the universe. It's infinite, just like the spirit of the human soul." Wah Ustad... Wah... ! We will never miss saying this. Farewell.

Tough task awaits Chennaiyin FC against Mumbai City

PTI MUMBAI

Seeking to bridge the gap with the top six, visiting Chennaiyin FC will have their task cut out when they take on fancied hosts Mumbai City FC in their Indian Super League match here on Saturday

The Islanders have an impressive record against being Chennaiyin FC. unbeaten in their last nine ISI meetings.

Mumbai have won and drawn twice in their last five matches, and are currently occupying the seventh spot with 17 points from 11 games. Chennaiyin FC are ninth in the table, having garnered 15 points from 12 matches but their previous five outings have seen them succumb to a loss thrice. Neither of them are too far off the sixth-placed Jamshedpur Mumbai City have hit the FC, who have 18 points from 10 matches. The Petr Kratky-coached team have offensively, scoring the fourth-least goals in the season (14) so far, whereas the Marina Machans better them in this metric with 17 strikes.

Mumbai City have fared better at the back, keeping the third-most clean sheets (4) in the league, conceding only 13 goals, as opposed to the 18 of the Chennaivin FC.

Mumbai City FC have not conceded in their last three ISL games. If they manage another clean sheet, it will mark their longest streak since 2018. Interestingly, Chennaiyin have netted merely once in their previous three games in the competition.

season, the second-highest tally behind Odisha FC (9 struggled times). Last season, they set a single-season high of 10. While it does show that they are constantly on the lookout for creating chances in the final third, the frontline will have to come together to convert these opportunities with greater consistency. Chennaiyin FC have lost their last two away games, failing to score in both. The last time the Marina Machans went on a longer losing run away from home was a stretch of four games between December 2023 and February 2024, which included a 0-3 loss to Mumbai City FC (December 28, 2023). To get their season back on track, a positive result here would be important.
