Our govt strengthened Constitution, asserts Modi

Says Cong repeatedly wounded it after tasting blood

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday alleged that the Congress, having "tasted blood", repeatedly wounded the Constitution while his government's policies and decisions since it took office in 2014 have been aimed at boosting India's strength and unity in line with the vision of the Constitution. Replying to a two-day debate in Lok Sabha on the 75th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution, he took a swipe at the past Congress governments, accusing them of planting "poisonous" seeds in the country's diversity to accentuate its contradictions and damage its unity. Training guns at the Nehru-Gandhi family of the Congress, he said they left no stone unturned to strike blows to the Constitution. "This family challenged the Constitution at every level," he said, adding that he was singling out the family as its members were in power for 55 years. Continued on Page 2

Revanth Reddy turns 'Robin Hood' of Congress

Many Congress insiders are in awe of the public image of the party's Telangana firebrand leader and Chief Minister Revanth Reddy. From taking bold decisions, be it arresting national icon Allu Arjun in his 'Pushpa Raj' avatar or launching HYDRRAA operations to fix 'concrete' blunders being committed from the dim past, Revanth seems to have mastered the art of impactful governance. HYDRRAA isn't just a disaster management authority, with the Revanth administration subtly rebranding it as one that will be involved in continual course correction of brazen violations in civic areas. In the process, Revanth has cemented his image as a go-getter in people's minds. Initially after the regime change, there were occasions when, due to a slip of the tongue (or perhaps Freudian slip), some called the CM 'KCR'. That stopped abruptly when HYDRRAA amplified its operations (perhaps not coincidentally) with another actor's N Convention. It looks as if Revanth has planted a flag emblazoned with unmistakable words: 'This is my era. Revanth's critics may pan the bulldozer-driven civic operations and high-profile confrontations as a PR gamble or stunts, but Congress cadre are thrilled. "Our leader isn't afraid of big names, and this shows he can't be tamed," a party insider shared, beaming with pride. Nationally, the Congress has begun branding Revanth as the legendary Robin Hood or the do-gooder with whom no one messes, when it comes to delivering what he believes is justice. The lightning speed with which his administration has acted on a stampede that caused one death is now being compared in political circles to the Bharatiya Janata Party's kid-glove approach towards handling of the Hathras stampede tragedy that had left 121 dead, with agonizingly delayed response from the BJP government. Going by whispers, Congress insiders are gloating over the stark fact that party moneybag DK Shivakumar may have been in currency for a while, but now Revanth is surely the man of the moment.

point of the public, weekends, instead of being time to unwind over Netflix-and-chill sessions, feature live political thrillers. Opposition leaders in political crosshairs are no longer unwinding on Fridays; they're watching their backs. The buzz is palpable, with people glued to news channels, waiting for the next twist in the tale. Revanth Reddy summed it up, best when he reportedly said, "I'm a star, and I have fans". His fan base is bound to expand in direct proportion to time for which he will keep the dramas as well as political potboilers alive and the people hooked to news channels as distinct from entertainment channels.

Rejoinders passé: FIRs become the norm

In Telangana, some of the Congress leaders have brought about a dramatic shift in how they deal with inaccuracies in media reporting. The age-old standard practice of issuing a rejoinder to the publication or channel first and then following it up with legal notices in the absence of a clarification has now been replaced with post-haste filing of police cases and registration of FIRs. This somewhat coercive approach has raised questions about press freedom and the boundaries of government intervention. A recent incident surrounding the Palana Vijayotsavulu celebrations enraptured people with breathtaking aerial maneuvers by the Indian Air Force's Suryakiran over the Hussain Sagar on Sunday. Nine jets took to the skies as the team of 13 highly skilled pilots wowed the crowd with intricate formations like loops, rolls, and heart-shaped patterns. However, to share another dil ke baat, the widely-anticipated Drone Show left many of spectators unimpressed. Interestingly, it was not a standalone misfire. The Drone Show, popularized by former CM K Chandrasekhar Rao and followed by AP CM Chandrababu Naidu, former AP CM YS Jagan, and even Revanth Reddy, was expected to be taken to the next level under CM Revanth's leadership. But the whole thing fell flat. Naturally, parallels were drawn. "The Air Show was mesmerizing; no one cared much about the drones after that," a spectator remarked. Even the roads mirrored the pull of the shows. Traffic, which had come to a standstill during the Air Show on Sunday, remained unaffected during the Drone Show on Monday.

Media support does not work always

If the situation demands, actors at times tend to overact in the absence of a script. The recent episodes involving Allu Arjun at Sandhya theatre during the premiere of Pushpa - 2: The Rule and Mohan Babu at their residence while dealing with Manchu Mohan Babu's tantrums are cases in point. According to cops, Allu's bid to spring a surprise caused the stampede that claimed a woman's life. Mohan Babu has a history of not thinking of a script when it comes to his impulsive and violent responses. No wonder he chose a mic to fracture a media person's jawbone. In both cases, the real life action clashed with the expectations of people and law-keepers. Media circles, political parties and lay people have differing opinions about the way the actors or their families treated the media. Some suggested that Mohan Babu's family should learn lessons from the manner in which Allu Arjun family treated media persons. Mohan Babu and company initially defended their attack on media personnel alleging that they had barged into his house and that he was confused as to who among the intruders were media personnel and who 'anti-social elements'. In contrast, Allu's family thanked the media for extending 'full support' in Allu Arjun's issue. Otherwise, some reasoned, the police would have arrested Mohan Babu's family members. The TG High Court however questioned what work the media had at Mohan Babu's residence? One senior scribe wondered why, despite media's supposed 'role', Allu Arjun went to jail and why Mohan Babu did not go to jail. Another scribe chipped in quite insightfully: 'Media support' doesn't work always. Only one party will be in power if media support works".

REPORTERS' DIARY

Vemulawada cattle issue illustrates this new trend. When a Telugu newspaper affiliated with the Bharat Rashtira Samithi published a report critical of the government, Minister Konda Surekha followed the traditional protocol by issuing a rejoinder. However, what happened next was unprecedented—an FIR was filed about the publication and also against individuals who had shared the report on social media. Among those named in the FIR were accounts like "BRS Party," "Federal TG," and "Sripaad," sparking concerns about the implications of distasteful (for the government) digital discourse. This isn't the only instance. Dileep Konatham, former Digital Media Director, found himself in a similar situation after sharing an image originally posted by a Telugu electronic media outlet. Instead of targeting the source, the government opted to extend its net to those amplifying the content. While the Congress administration defends these actions as measures to curb the spread of 'misinformation', critics see it as administrative overreach that bypasses established norms. Unlike rejoinders, FIRs and case do not allow room for amicable clarifications and dialogue. As this approach becomes the norm, it is not just journalists but also social media users who will find themselves walking on eggshells, if not paranoid about sharing or amplifying any report that might not sit well with the ruling establishment.

Weekend ka war: Revanth's arrest playbook keeps Telangana on edge

In Telangana, Fridays are no longer just dates saved for release of movies made with massive budgets. Real life excitement seems to have an edge in Telangana under the Congress regime, given headline-grabbing arrests. The Bharat Rashtira Samithi may have seen the writing on the wall, but Tollywood certainly couldn't envision it. From HYDRRAA's swift crack-downs to high-profile detentions, it seems the Sherlockian suspense begins on the weekend, leave alone relaxation. The strategy is simple yet impactful: arrest on Friday, ensuring the detainee spends the weekend in jail due to court holidays or 'normal' time taken for scrutiny of frantically obtained bail papers. BRS insiders admit they've grown accustomed to this routine. Alas Allu! Tollywood has become a cameo in the political narrative. From the stand-

Speaking at the event, the Chief Minister hailed Komuraiah as a warrior who stood at the forefront in the fight for justice and equality. fare schemes being implemented by the government, including farmer loan waivers and free electricity, while emphasizing the special attention given to marginalized communities. Referring to Kancha Ilaiah's perspective, he said, "This is not a feudal Telangana, but a Telangana of the Bahujans. Govt not providing relief package to Wayanad, says Priyanka

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Congress MP Priyanka Gandhi Vadera on Saturday accused the Centre of denying assistance to landslides-affected people of Wayanad due to politics and asserted that there should be no discrimination in times of natural disasters.

Her remarks came after MPs from Kerala, including Wayanad MP Priyanka Gandhi, staged a protest in Parliament premises Saturday, demanding a relief package from the Centre for landslides-hit Wayanad.

Staging their demonstration in front of the steps of the Makar Dwar, the MPs raised slogans calling for "justice for Wayanad". They also held a banner with "Justice for Wayanad, provide relief package for Wayanad" written on it.

Speaking with reporters, Priyanka Gandhi said, "We are very disturbed by the fact that the government is refusing to give a special package to Wayanad. We have gone to the home minister, we have written to the prime minister and to everyone possible, to declare that this is a calamity of a severe nature and to give a special package."

Similar large-scale destruction took place in Himachal Pradesh where the Congress is in power and there also they have been demanding for the longest time that the Centre provides assistance, she said. "In Wayanad, the whole country has seen the devastation, the pain and suffering of the people and yet just because of politics, the central government, in both cases, is refusing to give what is due to the victims," she said.

CPRO Ayodhya Reddy on Twitter (X), the arrest stemmed from an unfortunate incident during the release celebrations of Allu Arjun's latest movie at Sandhya Theatre. While the theatre management had informed the police about the actor and crew visiting to watch the movie, Allu Arjun arrived in an open car to greet fans and passersby. This resulted in an unexpected crowd surge, leading to a stampede. Tragically, one woman lost her life, and her son is in coma. The police filed cases against all responsible parties, listing Allu Arjun as accused number 11 (A11). The CMO emphasized that the police handled the actor's arrest with utmost care. The government had approved special shows and enhanced ticket prices for the film as requested, and Chief Minister Revanth Reddy expressed happiness over Allu Arjun's positive comments on the state's anti-drug initiatives. The statement highlighted the government's commitment to supporting the film industry, including logistical assistance for movie shoots and product launches.

PNS ■ RANGAREDDY

To enable talented students to secure admissions in IITs, Principal Secretary for Municipal Administration and Urban Development Dana Kishore announced plans to establish a dedicated IIT coaching institute at the Social Welfare Girls' Residential School in Maheshwaram.

Attending the launch of the new Common Diet Menu at the school on Saturday, Dana Kishore emphasised the government's commitment to strengthening Gurukula schools across Telangana. He inspected classrooms, sanitation facilities, and interacted with students, joining them for a meal as part of the program.

Speaking on the occasion, Dana Kishore said the government has taken significant steps to revitalise welfare schools and improve their infrastructure. "This Gurukula school has produced students who scored exceptional marks, such as 980 and 974 out of 1,000. However, due to the lack of proper guidance and training, they could not secure admissions in IITs," he noted.

Highlighting the importance of IIT education, he added, "Over 30 per cent of IAS officers are IIT graduates, and students from institutions like the Indian School of Business receive lucrative salary packages from domestic and international companies. We aim to provide the same opportunities to our students by offering specialised coaching for IIT admissions."

Dana Kishore announced that a special health camp under the supervision of a gynaecologist will be conducted next Saturday for 550 students of the school and junior college. He also revealed plans to utilise Rs 60 lakh in CSR funds to provide mineral water facilities, benches, and other basic amenities.

The Principal Secretary emphasised the need to create a pleasant environment for students, announcing the establishment of a floral garden within the school premises. To identify and implement development projects, a committee comprising the Zonal Commissioner, RDO, CDPO, OSD, and the school principal will be formed.

Harish Rao visits ailing Gurukul student Leelavathi

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

Former Minister Harish Rao, accompanied by Opposition Leader Madhusudhan Chari and former ministers Sabitha Indra Reddy and Sunitha Lakshma Reddy, visited NIMS Hospital to meet Leelavathi, a student from a tribal Gurukul school at Tandur in Vikarabad district, who has been undergoing treatment after a food poisoning incident.

Harish Rao expressed deep anguish over the plight of the student and her family. He lamented that the girl, who should have been enjoying her school days with friends, was now lying silently on a hospital bed. "It is heartbreaking to see her in such a condition. I pray for her speedy recovery," he said.

The former minister criticised the Congress government for its failure to address recurring food poisoning incidents in welfare schools and hostels. He pointed out that on December 10, 15 students fell ill after consuming food at the Tandur tribal ashram school, and despite their deteriorating condition, they were kept in the hostel without proper medical care for four days.

Harish further highlighted the government's negligence in handling such crises, citing multiple incidents of food poisoning, dog bites, snake bites, and other avoidable mishaps in Gurukul schools. "The government's indifference has turned welfare schools into crisis centers.

Former minister T Harish Rao visiting ailing Gurukul student Leelavathi at NIMS Hospital in Hyderabad on Saturday

Chief Minister Revanth Reddy's promises to take strict action against those serving contaminated food have proven hollow," he said.

Drawing attention to the State's failure to ensure basic facilities, Harish criticised the government for withholding salaries for hostel staff, failing to clear pending bills, and neglecting essential needs such as warm water and proper clothing for students during winter. "Even in their own districts, government schools and hostels are left neglected. How many more lives need to be lost before this government wakes up?" he asked.

Harish also condemned the government's celebratory events amid ongoing crises in welfare schools. "The government's focus on publicity over student welfare is disgraceful. Instead of addressing these issues, they choose to blame wardens and principals for systemic failures," he added.

Harish demanded immediate measures, including shifting affected students to NIMS for better medical care if necessary. He also urged the government to provide financial and emotional support to Leelavathi's family, who are in distress over her condition. "It is time for the government to stop posing for photos and start delivering hot meals and proper care to these students," he said.

Slams govt for delaying salaries to Anganwadi workers

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

Former Minister T Harish Rao has strongly criticised the Congress-led Telangana government for its failure to disburse salaries to Anganwadi workers, retired teachers, and other employees on time.

In a scathing statement, Harish pointed out that despite promises of timely payments, salaries for 39,568 Anganwadi teachers and helpers remain unpaid even 14 days into the month, causing significant distress among the workforce. Harish highlighted that the government has not paid rent for Anganwadi centres for the past 10 months, adding to the hardships faced by workers. "This is the legacy of one year of Congress rule—unfulfilled promises and financial mismanagement," he said, accusing the government of neglecting those who play a critical role in community welfare. Retired teachers and employees have also been affected, with many unable to access their rightful retirement benefits. "Despite High Court directives, the government is withholding retirement benefits, forcing families to face severe difficulties," Harish said, calling it a betrayal of the trust placed by government servants.

PNS ■ MEDAK

Minister for Environment, Forest, and Endowments Konda Surekha announced that the Narsapur Urban Forest Park in Medak district would be developed as an eco-tourism destination. During her field visit on Saturday, the Minister toured the park, accompanied by District Collector Rahul Raj, DFO Joji, Medak Library Chairman Chilumula Suhasini Reddy, Narsapur RDO Mahipal Reddy, Tahsildar Srinivasulu, and other officials and public representatives.

The Minister and officials planted saplings and explored the forest exhibition, where they reviewed park-related details with the District Forest Officer. From the watchtower, the Minister admired the natural beauty of the forest and emphasised the government's commitment to making the park a major tourist attraction while increasing its revenue.

Minister Surekha directed officials to prepare a Detailed Project Report (DPR) for the park's development. She highlighted the rich history of Narsapur's forest, which has been a significant natural asset since the Nizam era. The park spans 600 acres within Medak district's 4,300-acre forest area. She announced plans for improved facilities, including guest houses, tourist cottages, reception centers, kitchens, and storage.

Infrastructure upgrades include check dams, a rock-filled dam, a 50-kilometer pipeline, and additional amenities for trekking and cycling. The minister detailed plans for a 685-meter trekking trail, a 700-meter cycling track, and a 50,000-liter water sump. The park will also become plastic-free, with enhanced play areas for children and a new main gate plaza.

The development strategy includes plantation projects, such as semi-mechanical planting across 10 acres, labour-intensive planting on 15 acres, and urban park plantation on 42 acres. Additional efforts include establishing youth-bearing plantations and improving production texture and finishing.

The Minister shared that the park has generated Rs 1.53 crore in revenue to date, with Rs. 35 lakh allocated for development and Rs. 18 lakh remaining as surplus. Over 1.12 lakh tourists have visited the park so far, and cottage construction is expected to boost this number further.

She emphasised the vision of Chief Minister Revanth Reddy to develop every forest area into an eco-tourism hub. "Just like Hyderabad's Botanical Gardens, Narsapur Urban Forest Park will be transformed into a model eco-tourism destination. The park's natural beauty, rich vegetation, birds, and wildlife will captivate visitors while providing a healthy and serene environment," she said.

Another attempt by farmers to march to Delhi foiled

PNS ■ SHAMBHU

Protesting farmers suspended their foot march to Delhi after some of them were injured on Saturday in teargas shelling and use of water cannons by Haryana security personnel, who foiled the agitators' third attempt in less than 10 days to cross the Punjab-Haryana border.

Farmer leader Sarwan Singh Pandher claimed that 17 farmers were injured in the action by the Haryana security personnel. "The two forums (of farmers' unions) have decided to call back our 'jatha' (group)," Pandher told reporters here.

"How are 101 farmers a danger to the law and order and peace of the country? You are debating the Constitution (in Parliament). Which Constitution allows the use of force against farmers," he asked. No discussion is taking place on the issue of farmers in Parliament, Pandher said. On the next course of action, he said a tractor march will be taken out in states except Punjab on December 16. A 'rail roko' protest will be held on December 18 from 12 noon to 3 pm in Punjab, he added.

The farmers under the banner of Samyukta Kisan Morcha (Non-Political) and Kisan Mazdoor Morcha have been pressing for various demands, including a legal guarantee for Minimum Support Price (MSP). They have also demanded that the Centre initiate talks with them to address their issues.

It was the third attempt by protesting farmers to march towards the national capital. Farmers had earlier made two attempts to cross the Shambhu border point on December 6 and December 8 but they were not allowed to proceed by security personnel in Haryana.

Ahead of the resumption of their march, the Haryana government had on Saturday suspended mobile internet and bulk SMS services in 12 villages in Ambala till December 17 "to prevent any disturbance of peace and public order".

Cong must earn its place as INDIA bloc leader: Omar

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Acknowledging growing discontent among INDIA bloc partners with the Congress, Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Omar Abdullah has asked the party to justify its leadership role in the alliance instead of taking it for granted.

Abdullah, while recognising the Congress' significant position as a pan-India party and the largest opposition in Parliament, emphasised that leadership "has to be earned" and cannot be taken for granted. He also suggested that the party should raise the issue of restoration of statehood in Jammu and Kashmir.

"By virtue of being the single largest party in Parliament, and also having the leader of opposition in both the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha, the fact that they have a pan-India footprint, which no other party can lay claim to, they are natural sort of leaders of an opposition movement," Abdullah in his first interview after becoming the chief minister in October.

Yet some of the allies feel disquiet because they feel the Congress is "not doing enough to justify it or to earn it or to keep it. That's something the Congress might wish to consider."

Still, Abdullah praised former Congress president Sonia Gandhi, describing her as a leader of unparalleled stature within the opposition alliance. "When the INDIA bloc comes together, she plays an important leadership role," he added.

Jharkhand to be taken forward by strengthening all sections of society: CM

PNS ■ SAHIBGANJ (JHARKHAND)

Jharkhand Chief Minister Hemant Soren on Saturday said his government would take the state forward by strengthening all sections of the society.

Soren said his government made all efforts to empower women in the state.

Jharkhand became the first state in the country, which has increased the monthly financial assistance to women to Rs 2,500 from Rs 1,000 under 'Maiyan Samman Yojana', the CM claimed.

Soren was speaking at a government function at Bhojnadih in Sahibganj, where he inaugurated and laid the foundation stones for 331 projects worth around Rs 350 crore for Sahibganj and Pakur districts.

He also distributed assets worth around Rs 187 crore among beneficiaries of various government schemes in the two districts.

The CM said that the people of Jharkhand have again elected 'Abua Sarkar (our government)' and voted for the state's dignity, development of tribals, farmers, workers, women and protection of 'jal, jungle and jamin' (water, forest and land).

"The state's mineral resources strengthen the country's economy but there has not been any change in the lifestyle of the poor, tribals and original inhabitants of the state. Jharkhand remained backward. We will all work together to delete the stigma of backwardness and take the state forward by strengthening all sections of the society," Soren said.

The CM said his government made all efforts to strengthen women in the state.

"We have linked more than 50 lakh women with the 'Maiyan Samman Yojana' under which Rs 1,000 assistance was given to them. Jharkhand has become the first state in the country, which is honouring the struggle of women by increasing monthly assistance amount from Rs 1,000 to Rs 2,500," he said.

NEW DELHI ASSEMBLY SEAT

Kejriwal faces off against sons of former CMs

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The prestigious New Delhi Assembly seat is likely to witness a fierce electoral contest with sitting MLA and AAP supremo Arvind Kejriwal pitted against the sons of former Delhi chief ministers as the BJP and Congress candidates.

Parvesh Verma, the son of former Delhi chief minister Sahib Singh Verma, on Saturday told PTI that he has been asked to prepare for contesting from the New Delhi constituency. The Congress has already announced its candidate Sandeep Dikshit on the seat. He is son of three-time former Delhi chief minister Sheila Dikshit.

Speaking at an event earlier on Friday, Kejriwal rejected the rumours that he was going to shift from the New Delhi seat to some other constituency in the upcoming assembly elections which are due in February next year. "There will be no change. I will contest from New Delhi seat and Chief Minister Atishi from Kalkaji," he said when asked about the possibility of changing seats by them.

Referring to Dikshit and Verma, the AAP supremo said they are the sons of former chief ministers and claimed himself to be an "Aam Aadmi".

The former Delhi chief minister asserted that the contest in the New Delhi constituency will be a battle between the "CM sons and the common man".

'Need systemic solution to stubble burning'

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Vice President Jagdeep Dhanekar emphasised the need for a systemic solution to stubble burning, stating that our negligence endangers people's lives.

Addressing the National Energy Conservation Day function, Dhanekar said the national capital suffers every year due to hazardous environmental conditions arising out of stubble burning. Society needs to embrace innovation and seek a systemic solution rather than leaving it to individuals, he added.

"The system must come of age...Just imagine our lack of attention. Our negligence is putting us in jeopardy in several ways. One is our health. Second, loss of hours of work. Third, disruption of normal life. And fourth, we need to take care of our children.

"You can't go to school on this day because pollution is very high, and therefore, everyone must converge to contribute," Dhanekar stated.

He also called for finding a systemic solution to stubble burning, saying it should not be left to individuals.

"Climate change, the crisis...The threatening problem obliterates social barriers. Rich or poor, urban or rural. We must act together, or we perish together," he noted. Referring to ethos and traditional wisdom, Dhanekar said, "Our civilisational wisdom is a heritage, and I would say, in a sense, survival manual, encyclopaedic, for this climate emergency.

Mahakumbh: NGT gives UP govt time to submit sewage plan

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The National Green Tribunal has allowed time for the Uttar Pradesh government to place on record a "comprehensive sewage management system" plan for the upcoming Mahakumbh mela.

Admiral Tripathi is scheduled to hold talks with Indonesia's top defence brass, including Defence Minister Lt Gen Sjafrin Sjamsoeddin (retd), Commander of Indonesian Armed Forces Gen Agus Subiyanto, and Navy Chief Admiral Muhammad Ali, officials said.

particularly maritime security, joint training initiatives, and exploring avenues for further strengthening the operational collaboration between the two navies," the Indian Navy said. Paracetamol linked to side effects in digestive tract

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Paracetamol, a common over-the-counter medication, may increase the risk of gastrointestinal, heart- and kidney-related complications among adults aged 65 and above, a new study has found.

Taken commonly for treating mild-to-moderate fever, paracetamol is also the first drug recommended for treating osteoarthritis -- a chronic condition causing pain, stiffness and swelling in the joints due to wear-and-tear -- as it is considered effective, relatively safe and accessible.

However, some studies have provided evidence to contest the effectiveness of paracetamol in relieving pain while others have shown increased risks of gastrointestinal side effects, such as ulcers and bleeding, from prolonged use. The latest study, conducted by researchers from the University of Nottingham, UK, found that paracetamol use was linked to a 24 per cent and 36 per cent increase in risk of peptic ulcer bleeding (bleeding due to ulcer in the digestive tract) and lower gastrointestinal bleeding, respectively.

Taking the drug may also increase the risk of chronic kidney disease by 19 per cent, heart failure by 9 per cent and hypertension by 7 per cent.

"This study shows a significant incidence of renal, cardiovascular and gastrointestinal side effects in older people, who are prescribed acetaminophen (paracetamol) repeatedly in the UK," the authors wrote in the study published in the journal Arthritis Care and Research. "Due to its perceived safety, paracetamol has long been recommended as the first line drug treatment for osteoarthritis by many treatment guidelines, especially in older people who are at higher risk of drug-related complications," said lead researcher Weiya Zhang from the University of Nottingham's School of Medicine.

"Whilst further research is now needed to confirm our findings, given its minimal pain-relief effect, the use of paracetamol as a first line pain killer for long-term conditions such as osteoarthritis in older people needs to be carefully considered," Zhang said. For their analysis, the researchers looked at health records of 1,80,483 (1.80 lakh) people repeatedly prescribed paracetamol (more than two prescriptions within six months).

Their health outcomes were compared to those of 4,02,478 (4.02 lakh) people of the same age who were never prescribed paracetamol repeatedly.

Data from the Clinical Practice Research Datalink-Gold was analysed for the study.

"Due to its perceived safety, paracetamol has long been recommended as the first line drug treatment for osteoarthritis by many treatment guidelines, especially in older people who are at higher risk of drug-related complications."

"DAK SEWA IS JAN SEWA"

Dept of Posts to go digital soon: Scindia

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Union Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia on Saturday said the Department of Posts is going through a business process restructuring exercise to transition to a digital platform as he asserted that Dak Sewa is Jan Sewa (postal service is public service).

Speaking on the occasion of the 50th Foundation Day of Indian Post & Telecommunication Accounts and Finance Service, the minister said the shift is particularly relevant in the context of e-commerce growth, positioning the department to lead in this emerging business avenue.

"Our department is going to go digital. Our department is going through a business process restructuring exercise, where we will transform ourselves in the days to come into a logistics corporation, where we must become the leaders in the world, with a new business avenue that is growing in terms of e-commerce," he said.

He noted that the Department of Posts today is the largest distribution network across the world, with 1,64,000 post offices.

"We serve the common man...Not only officers sitting in Dak Bhawan, but my grameen (rural) Dak Sewak... who on the field goes from house to house...he is the epitome of the slogans -- Dak Sewa is a Jan Sewa," he said.

The digital transformation aligns with India's broader goals of bridging the digital divide and enhancing access to information for all citizens, he said.

India has made remarkable strides in telecommunications, achieving a penetration rate exceeding 86 per cent, the minister said, adding that innovation, inclusivity, and security should be taken as guiding principles for future developments.

"The minister further spoke on the transformative journey of the telecommunications sector over the past 50 years and acknowledged the critical contributions of various stakeholders."

"We were dependent fully on foreign technology. We were limited to the landline phones...we were used to manual switching systems, and mobile technology was a very, very distant dream, and in that environment, it is this cadre (IP&TAFS) that has formed the very backbone of our telecom sector, strengthening us financially and empowering us to look at new fields of development," he said.

It will be a quantum leap for the country as it moves from terrestrial networks to non-terrestrial networks, he added.

He said the country has experienced remarkable growth in internet and broadband subscriptions over the past decade.

"10 years ago, we had 250 million internet subscribers. Today, we have 954 million internet subscribers. Every single person in this country would only consume 1 GB of data. Today, the average GB of data consumed is 20 GB. Broadband subscribers have increased from 60 million to 924 million."

"India followed the world in 4G, it marched with the world in 5G, and it will lead the world in 6G," Scindia reiterated his statement.

RBI raises collateral-free agricultural loan limit to Rs 2 L

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has enhanced the collateral-free loan limit for farmers from Rs 1.6 lakh to Rs 2 lakh, effective January 1, 2025, a move aimed at supporting small and marginal farmers amid rising input costs.

The new directive instructs banks nationwide to waive collateral and margin requirements for agricultural and allied activity loans up to Rs 2 lakh per borrower.

According to the agriculture ministry, the decision comes in response to the rising input costs and the need to improve credit accessibility for farmers.

"This measure will significantly benefit over 86 per cent of farmers who are small and marginal landholders," the statement said.

Banks have been instructed to implement the guidelines swiftly and ensure widespread awareness about the new loan provisions.

The move is expected to facilitate easier access to Kisan Credit Card (KCC) loans and complement the government's Modified Interest Subvention Scheme, which offers loans up to Rs 3 lakh at a 4 per cent effective interest rate.

The initiative is seen as a strategic step to enhance financial inclusion in the agricultural sector, providing farmers with much-needed financial flexibility to invest in agricultural operations and improve their livelihoods.

Agri experts view the initiative as a critical step towards enhancing credit inclusivity and supporting agricultural economic growth, addressing inflationary pressures on farming input costs.

Bihar gets over 3,800 proposals for setting up industries: CS

PNS ■ PATNA

Bihar has received more than 3,800 proposals for setting up factories in the state since it floated a progressive industrial investment promotion policy in 2016, proving to be a pivot for its rapid development, its Chief Secretary Amrit Lal Meena said.

Bihar Industrial Investment Promotion Policy, 2016, offers a slew of incentives to investors that range from interest subvention to reimbursement of State GST, stamp duty waiver, export subsidy and concessions for transportation, power, and land fees. It also created a State Investment Promotion Board to approve investment proposals.

"From 2016 till now, in the last nine years, there has been a massive response from the industry because of the promotional policy, and subsequently, sectoral policies have been approved by the government. So, from different sectors, there are over 3,800 proposals for consideration of a state industrial promotion board and 3,100 proposals have been accorded first-stage approval," he said.

Over 780 industries are operational, providing employment to about 34,000.

"Rs 8,000 crore worth of investment has come (so far)," he said, adding that the industries are mainly from the food processing, textile, manufacturing, renewable energy, IT and cement sectors.

The state has created a land bank of over 3,000 acres to be provided to set up industries. Bihar is also offering about 2.4 million square feet of ready-to-move plug-and-play industrial sheds, equipped with all basic infrastructure requirements, situated in industrial areas across the state. These are available for any industry at a fixed rate.

China keen to invest USD 1 billion in Pakistan

PNS ■ KARACHI

A Chinese business delegation has met with President Asif Ali Zardari here and expressed interest in investing USD 1 billion to establish a medical city in Pakistan, according to a media report. Pakistan has held strong bilateral relations with China which has supported it through many investments and development projects such as the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor project which was termed as a "lifeline" for the country's economy.

The delegation of Chinese investors during a meeting with Zardari on Thursday outlined their plans to invest USD 1 billion into creating the medical city in Karachi's Dhabaji Economic Zone which is outside Pakistan's biggest city and financial hub. The medical city would be Pakistan's first fully integrated pharmaceutical and medical ecosystem.

Korangi Association of Trade and Industry (KATI) which is tasked with the running of the Dhabaji Economic Zone said in a statement that the pledge by the Chinese investors is an example of the growing economic ties between the two countries.

The meeting which was also attended by Sindh Chief Minister, Syed Murad Ali Shah and the Chinese Consul General was held after successful negotiations between the Sindh government and the conglomerate of Chinese investors.

ED restitutes assets worth Rs 4,025 crore

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The ED has restituted assets worth Rs 4,025 crore of the erstwhile Bhusan Steel and Power Limited to JSW Steel following approval from the Supreme Court, the federal probe agency said on Saturday.

JSW Steel was the successful resolution applicant to the assets of the insolvent company under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) of the Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP).

These assets were earlier attached by the federal probe agency under provisions of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) in an investigation against Bhusan Steel and Power and its pro-motors on charges of alleged bank loan fraud and "diversion" of those funds for personal investments.

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) said the restitution of assets worth Rs 4,025 crore was made under Section 8(8) of the PMLA (restitution pending trial), read with Rule 3A of PMLA Restoration of Property Rules.

E-commerce to adopt Safety Pledge to protect online consumers

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Major e-commerce platforms such as Zomato, Ajo, and Ola will adopt a Safety Pledge on National Consumer Day on December 24 as part of steps to enhance product safety for online shoppers.

The voluntary commitment, announced by the Department of Consumer Affairs, aims to detect and prevent the sale of unsafe and spurious products on digital marketplaces, an official statement said. A committee chaired by consumer activist Pushpa Girimaji developed the pledge after extensive stakeholder consultations in November 2023.

With India projected to have 500 million online shoppers by 2030 and currently hosting 880 million internet users, the initiative addresses critical challenges in the rapidly expanding e-commerce landscape. The pledge requires platforms to cooperate with statutory authorities and raise product safety awareness among sellers.

"The unique nature of e-commerce, where physical product examination is impossible, makes this safety initiative crucial," the department said.

The move aligns with the Consumer Protection Act, 2019, which mandates protection against hazardous products and unfair trade practices.

E-commerce entities are now duty-bound to ensure product standards and consumer safety.

Sonowal to launch cargo promotion scheme

PNS ■ KOLKATA

Union Shipping and Waterways Minister Sarbananda Sonowal is scheduled to flag-off three cargo vessels from here on Sunday, launching a new Cargo Promotion Scheme and Scheduled Cargo Vessel Services along National Waterways 1 and 2, with routes to Varanasi, Patna, and Guwahati.

The Guwahati-bound cargo vessel will follow the Indo-Bangladesh protocol route, which has so far remained unaffected despite the ongoing unrest in the neighbouring country.

The cargo vessel headed to Patna will carry gypsum, while the one bound for Varanasi will transport coal, and the one to Guwahati will carry cement, officials said.

Inland Waterways Authority of India (IWAI) officials told PTI that trade via the protocol route has not been disrupted despite the political unrest in Bangladesh.

has declined over the past year due to several factors.

Sagar Khastagir, an Indo-Bangladesh trade analyst, pointed out that the transportation of fly ash—a key commodity for cement plants in Bangladesh—has dropped by nearly 35-40 per cent in recent months.

"This decline is linked to a slowdown in infrastructure development in Bangladesh, following the fall of the Hasina government and the resulting political instability," he said, adding that delays in payments are also affecting vessel operators.

He noted that under normal circumstances, over 3,000 vessels used to annually transport fly ash, but both the volume and the number of vessels have declined due to the ongoing political and financial challenges.

Former FIEO (Federation of Indian Export Organisations) Eastern Region chairman Sushil Patwari, however, claimed that while there have been no significant disruptions in trade, the business volume has taken a hit because of broader economic challenges.

'India needs strategic approach for int'l taxation treaties'

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The suspension of the MFN (most favoured nation) clause by Switzerland underscores the need for India to adopt a more consistent and strategic approach to international taxation treaties, think tank GTRI said on Friday.

This suspension introduces tax challenges for Indian firms operating in Switzerland, particularly in sectors like financial services, pharmaceuticals, and IT, it said.

They will now have to pay a 10 per cent tax on dividends and other incomes, up from the earlier 5 per cent, effective January 1, 2025.

It said that proactive negotiations to clarify and harmonise interpretations of treaty provisions are essential to safeguard Indian firms' interests abroad.

Additionally, India must ensure that its treaty frameworks reflect contemporary business realities, particularly in the digital and service sectors, to reduce tax uncertainties and promote global competitiveness, the Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI) said.

The Swiss government has suspended the most favoured nation status (MFN) clause in the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement (DTAA) between India and Switzerland, potentially impacting Swiss investments in India and leading to higher taxes on Indian companies operating in the European nation.

According to a December 11

India must ensure that its treaty frameworks reflect contemporary business realities, particularly in the digital and service sectors, to reduce tax uncertainties and promote global competitiveness, the Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI) said statement by the Swiss finance department, the move follows the Supreme Court of India last year ruling that the MFN clause doesn't automatically trigger when a country joins the OECD if the Indian government signed a tax treaty with that country before it joined the organisation.

GTRI founder Ajay Srivastava said the suspension of the MFN clause is a setback for Indian firms operating in Switzerland.

Previously, Indian companies benefited from a reduced tax rate of 5 per cent on dividends and other incomes, thanks to Switzerland's earlier application of MFN benefits.

With the reversion to a 10 per cent residual rate starting January 1, 2025, these firms face higher tax liabilities, reducing their competitiveness compared to businesses from countries still benefiting from MFN provisions, he said.

The Supreme Court judgment sets a precedent that could influence how India handles similar clauses in agreements with other trading partners, he said, adding that if disputes over MFN interpretations persist, Indian businesses could face similar challenges in other jurisdictions, potentially deterring outbound investments.

"The suspension of the MFN clause by Switzerland and earlier issues with Australia underscore the need for India to adopt a more consistent and strategic approach to international taxation treaties," Srivastava said.

CELEBRATING THE RICH CULTURE OF NORTHEAST INDIA

The Ashtalakshmi Mahotsav 2024 brought the traditions, art, and flavours of the eight northeastern states to the national stage, celebrating their unparalleled cultural richness at the Bharat Mandapam in New Delhi, says ABHI SINGHAL

The Ministry of Development of North Eastern Region (DoNER) took a remarkable step in celebrating and showcasing the diverse culture and vibrant traditions of Northeast India. In an effort to bring the essence of this unique region closer to the heart of the nation, the Government of India concluded the first edition of the Ashtalakshmi Mahotsav, a festival that honoured the unparalleled cultural heritage of the eight northeastern states. Held in the national capital Delhi, the event resonated with the lively spirit, colours, and flavours of the region, leaving an indelible impression on visitors.

The festival's name, "Ashtalakshmi," has been derived from the eight northeastern states namely Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Meghalaya, Manipur, Nagaland, Mizoram, Tripura, and Sikkim, which were often referred to as the "Ashtalakshmi" or the eight forms of prosperity. These states played an important role in enriching India's cultural, social, and economic fabric, making them indispensable contributors to the nation's diversity. True to its name, the festival served as a lively celebration of the region's unparalleled beauty, artistic heritage, and deep-rooted traditions.

The Ashtalakshmi Mahotsav 2024 was a three-day event held from December 6th to 8th at the Bharat Mandapam in New Delhi. The event provided a grand platform to showcase the region's thriving textile industry, elegant artisanal crafts, and distinct Geographical Indication (GI) products. It was a unique opportunity for the audience to engage with the intricate artistry and cultural richness of the northeastern states.

The festival's inauguration was graced by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, whose presence underscored the government's commitment to promoting and uplifting the northeastern states. The opening day featured an impressive array of performances and exhibitions, offering a glimpse into the vibrant artistic traditions of the region. A key highlight of the day was a spellbinding performance by the renowned Shillong Chamber Choir, whose unique fusion of traditional and contemporary music set a magical tone for the festival. The choir's soulful melodies were accompanied by traditional dance performances and folk music, providing an alluring and enriching cultural experience for the attendees.

One of the major attractions of the Ashtalakshmi Mahotsav was the food journey through the region's diverse cuisines, each dish telling a story of its own. Visitors had the opportunity to savour an array of flavours that beautifully captured the essence of the Northeast. Assam's simple yet delectable offerings included rice, fish curry, and traditional pitha. Arunachal Pradesh presented its flavourful rice-based dishes like Thukpa and Zan, often prepared with locally sourced ingredients like bamboo shoots. Manipur delighted the crowd with healthy delicacies such as Eromba and Singju, which highlighted the region's love for fresh vegetables and aromatic spices. Nagaland's bold flavours took centre stage with dishes like smoked pork and Akhuni, while Mizoram's milder but equally delicious offerings included Bai and smoked pork. Tripura brought forth an exquisite blend of Bengali and indigenous influences with dishes like Wahan Mosdeng and Mui Borok. Meghalaya's hearty preparations, such as Jadoh and Dohneiiong, resonated with the region's rich culinary heritage, and Sikkim's popular Phagshapa and Momos emphasised fresh ingredients and simple yet delightful flavours. Together, these dishes created a vibrant gastronomic experience, allowing visitors to relish the authentic taste of Northeast India.

The second day of the Mahotsav continued to captivate audiences with a mesmerising blend of music and artistry. Pangpari, a talented singer-songwriter from Aizawl, Mizoram, enchanted the audience with her emotive blend of pop, indie, and jazz. Her heartfelt performance seamlessly merged modern music with traditional influences, offering a soulful experience. Following Pangpari was Sofiyum, a Lepcha folk fusion band from Gangtok, Sikkim, that enthralled the crowd with its unique blend of traditional Lepcha folk songs and contemporary musical styles. Their performance beautifully illustrated the importance of preserving cultural heritage while adapting it to modern sensibilities.

The day also featured the Eastern Elements Unplugged session, an innovative musical experience that fused the Blues with Raga jazz, delivering a fresh perspective on regional music. The performances underscored the Northeast's incredible ability to adapt its traditional art forms to contemporary frameworks, creating something entirely unique and memorable.

A major highlight of the festival was the Ashtalakshmi Fashion Show, which celebrated the rich textile heritage of Northeast India. Curated under the creative direction of renowned fashion stylist and show director Prasad Bidapa, the fashion show presented a stunning amalgamation of traditional handlooms and contemporary designs. The event emphasised sustainable fashion, highlighting eco-friendly and ethically produced garments as a part of the growing global discourse on sustainability.

Prominent designers from the region showcased their creations, each bringing their unique vision and dedication to preserving the Northeast's sartorial traditions. Jenjum Gadi from Arunachal Pradesh mesmerised with nature-inspired, gender-neutral designs. Bambi Kevichusa from Nagaland showcased her exquisite bridal wear while promoting sustainable craftsmanship. Richana Khumanthem from Manipur collaborated with local weavers to present garments that told stories of the region's weaving traditions.

Other notable designers included Patricia Zadeng from Mizoram, who focused on uplifting female artisans, and Daniel Syiem from Meghalaya, whose work highlighted the indigenous fabric Ryndia. Karma Sonam Bhutia from Sikkim revived the traditional art of nettle-weaving, while Priyanka D Patwari from Assam and Jyotsana Dev Verman from Tripura brought their distinct styles to the event. Together, these designers painted a vivid picture of the Northeast's creative and cultural potential.

The final day of the Ashtalakshmi Mahotsav was a fitting conclusion to the three-day celebration, featuring a series of breathtaking performances. Basavdutta Chongtham (BASAV) from Manipur attracted the audience with her emotive vocals and poetic storytelling, while FeatherHeads Haokui, a Tangkhul Naga folk band, delivered lively renditions that celebrated the oral traditions of the Tangkhul tribe. Adding a traditional touch was the graceful Peacock Dance (Kaa Kingnara Kingnari) from Arunachal Pradesh, which showcased the beauty and elegance of Tai Khanti culture. The festival's final act, Imnainla Jamir, an exceptional electric guitarist from Nagaland, brought a modern twist to the celebration. Her performance blended Western music with Indian influences, embodying the fusion of tradition and innovation that defines the artistic spirit of Northeast India.

The Ashtalakshmi Mahotsav not only celebrated the traditions and cultural heritage of Northeast India but also provided a significant platform for these states to gain broader national recognition. Through its rich array of performances, exhibitions, and culinary delights, the festival strengthened the cultural bonds between India's diverse regions and highlighted the immense potential of the northeastern states. It was a tribute to the spirit and resilience of the people of the Northeast India, whose contributions continue to enrich the nation's cultural and social fabric.

OPENING VISTAS OF SOCIAL IMPACT VIA ART DESIGN CULTURE COLLECTIVE

The Pioneer brings you an exclusive glimpse into the groundbreaking event, where India's cultural icons gathered to celebrate the powerful intersection of art, design and social impact at the launch of the Art Design Culture Collective, presented by KHUSHII NGO.

On the evening of December 12th, the storied house became the epicenter of artistic brilliance and purposeful philanthropy. The inaugural event of the Art Design Culture Collective (ADCC), organised by KHUSHII NGO, transcended the boundaries of a typical art gathering. This invite-only evening united India's cultural luminaries, patrons and visionaries for a celebration that seamlessly blended art, design and humanity. With its gilded chandeliers, historic architecture and an air of exclusivity, it provided the perfect stage for an unforgettable night, setting the tone for the days to come.

At the helm is Rahul Kumar, a Fulbright Scholar with a master's degree in arts from the USA. With works that have graced Sotheby's auctions and are featured in collections like the Kiran Nadar Museum of Art, Rahul's eye for talent and innovation is unmatched. For him, it is a labour of love and a clarion call for the future of Indian art. Among the luminaries gracing the inaugural evening of the Art Design Culture Collective was Vandana Luthra, the iconic founder of VLCC and vice chairperson of the NGO, Khushii. She shared her thoughts: "For 21 years, I have dedicated myself, nurturing it like my own child, alongside Khushii, which has also been a labour of love. My connection stems from my deep affection for children. As a grandmother to four, I've always valued the importance of fostering growth in the younger generation. Today, more than ever, I believe that empowering the future begins with education and that empowerment extends beyond academics to include mental health and holistic wellness." She further added, "Khushii's programs were a natural progression of this vision, particularly given the pressures children face in today's world. Even in early education, the competitive atmosphere can weigh heavily on young minds. Drawing from personal experience—having faced similar challenges as a child—I recognise the value of support systems such as child psychologists and counselors. These professionals not only help children navigate their emotions but also guide parents in understanding and addressing their children's needs. Counseling, both for children and their parents, fosters healthier relationships and equips families to manage the complexities of modern life. Through Khushii, I hope to continue empowering children and their families, ensuring a brighter, more balanced future for the next generation." No event celebrating Indian art would be complete without the presence of Shabana Azmi and Javed Akhtar. As ambassadors, this revered couple brought their unmatched gravitas and passion to the gathering. Akhtar reflected on the power of art: "Art is like a flag—it begins with society and has the ability to unite people, even without an established group. But for it to truly resonate, it needs a clear mission and presence in society. Once established, it reaches beyond its immediate circle and begins to inspire a wider audience." Azmi, speaking on the role of art in today's world, remarked, "In an age where resources are abundant, we must view art as a contribution to society, not as a luxury. It is only through such a perspective that we can inspire a new generation of creators, who can produce fresh and meaningful content." The couple also lauded the work of Ngo, which is currently educating over 240,000 children. Azmi shared, "What is truly remarkable about Khushii is its focus on mental health. Many children today are overwhelmed by the pressures of exams and competition. We often overlook the emotional toll this takes on them." Their involvement underscored mission to intertwine creativity with societal change, ensuring that art is not just a visual experience but a catalyst for social transformation. The night reached new creative heights with a talk by celebrated designer Sussanne Khan. Chronicling her journey through the ever-evolving world of design, Khan captivated the audience with her tales of resilience, innovation and inspiration. Her narrative of melding modern aesthetics with timeless Indian elements provided a window into her artistic process. Khan began, "In today's world, I believe that spaces should not be designed based solely on trends or external influences but rather with a focus on the needs and lifestyle of the people who live or work there. As a designer, I see luxury as a deeply personal concept. For some, it lies in simplicity—creating spaces that embrace sustainability and harmonise with nature, where the natural environment becomes a form of luxury. For others, it may be defined by cutting-edge technology and innovation. Ultimately, luxury is subjective, shaped by the unique preferences and aspirations of each individual we design for." Central mission is its partnership with Kinship for Humanitarian Social and Holistic Intervention in India, founded by cricket legend Kapil Dev in 2003. In an exclusive conversation, Kapil Dev reflected on the importance of both mental and physical well-being, especially for younger generations. "As a sportsman, I have always believed in the power of physical activity to alleviate stress," he said. "Today, with children and young people so engrossed in gadgets, it's critical to encourage them to step away, get moving and embrace an active lifestyle. Physical activity is essential not just for the body, but for the mind." The evening's literary highlight was the much-anticipated book launch of The Serengeti: Wild Wonders of Africa by Rajan Kapoor. Guests were enthralled by Kapoor's visual journey through the untamed landscapes of Africa, accompanied by conservationist Dr. Rajiv Bhartari's compelling insights on the urgent need to preserve wildlife. The book, a confluence of stunning photography and evocative storytelling, reminded the audience of humanity's shared responsibility to protect the planet's fragile ecosystems. In a nutshell, the opening night of the Art Design Culture Collective was a triumph of vision, artistry and purpose. It set the stage for what promises to be an extraordinary journey over the coming days—a journey where creativity meets compassion and where every moment inspires change.

His career took off with Chameli (2003), where his evocative lyrics stood out and marked the beginning of a remarkable journey. Over the years, he has penned unforgettable songs for iconic films such as Jab We Met, Love Aaj Kal (both 2009 and 2020 versions), Rockstar, Tamasha, Raanjhanaa, Highway, Jab Harry Met Sejal and Atrangi Re. Each project has showcased his versatility, from the soul-stirring Kun Faya Kun in Rockstar to the heartbreakingly tender Agar Tum Saath Ho in Tamasha. Hits like Tum Se Hi, Matargashti, Raabta, Hawayein, Chaka Chak and Tu Chahiye highlight his ability to adapt to a wide range of genres and moods. His lyrical genius extends beyond romance, delving into themes of self-discovery, spirituality and unspoken emotions, as seen in tracks like Phir Se Ud Chala (Rockstar) and Rait Zara Si (Atrangi Re).

As The Pioneer connects with the maestro for our special segment, the lyricist behind the iconic songs reflects on the immense love and appreciation he has received for his work. "It's a good feeling when you do something seriously, and people respond positively," he shares with a smile. "It's not just one or two songs that I'm proud of; I believe all three of my songs should have my lyrics. I have that much faith in them." For Kamil, the recognition he receives is more than just validation—it serves as a constant source of motivation and inspiration to keep creating.

When it comes to his collaboration with the legendary AR Rahman, his gratitude is evident. "Working with Rahman sir is like going to music school—no, it's more like a spiritual school. You learn so much from him, not just about music, but about life and how to approach it with a deeper sense of understanding."

One of the most significant lessons Kamil has taken away from Rahman is how to handle both criticism and praise with grace. "Rahman sir has this incredible ability to take it all—good and bad—with composure. He has a unique, non-fear attitude. There's always pressure to make a song a hit, but Rahman sir stays calm and focused and without that pressure, you can truly enjoy the work you're doing."

Irshad Kamil recalls a memorable moment working with AR Rahman on the song Tu Kya Jaane from Amar Singh Chamkila. While working late at Rahman's studio, Kamil was about to leave when Rahman insisted they stay and continue working. Despite being exhausted, Kamil complied and within 15 minutes, a line came to him: "Tu Kya Jaane Mere Yaar, Chup Chup Takhti Hoon, Rehna Sakhti Hoon." Rahman immediately loved it, and the song became a cherished creation. Kamil fondly remembers how Rahman's determination and sweet insistence helped bring the song to life.

The Atrangi Re fame also fondly remembers another magical musical

I never anticipated that Agar Tum Saath Ho from Tamasha, Ranjhanaa songs or Shayad would resonate so deeply with people. The song becomes the audience's once it's out there. You can't force it or tell people to like it. The credit also goes to the listeners and the collectors who, in their own way, embrace and elevate the song moment: the creation of Vidaah Karo. "I remember sitting with Imtiaz and Rahman sir, and Rahman ji was playing the piano. He suddenly said, 'Lights kamm kar dete hai'—and as he began composing, I started writing the lyrics. Vidaah Karo came out of that magical sitting."

For the Mausam songwriter, every song is like a child and each one must be treated with care, depending on its nature. "Every song is different. When you write an emotional song, the process is different from that of a dance number. With a dance number, we usually get the composition first, and then the lyrics follow. You look for that one line—the refrain—that becomes the song's hook, the headline of the piece. But in emotional or romantic songs, it's all about the feel. The thought behind the lyrics matters more than the words themselves. When I first listen to a composition, I hear it 20 to 25 times to understand the approach. It's important to align myself with the mood of the music and understand where the song is taking me. Once the thought is clear in my mind, the words start to flow naturally. It's a seamless process—feeling the composition and enhancing it with the words."

Reflecting on his experience, the Raabta fame reveals a thoughtful perspective on creativity and the unpredictability of success. "I remember once reading a quote by Charles Dickens when he was asked about the message in his novel. He said, 'Message? Why message? I'm not a postman, I'm a writer.'" Kamil chuckles before continuing, "That resonates with me a lot. When you're working on something, you're not thinking about whether the song will be a hit or a flop, or whether it will be a classic. You're focused on capturing the essence of the song in the moment, within the circumstances you've been given. Your job is to write with honesty and integrity. That way, later, you don't look back and think, 'I should have made this part better.'" Speaking about his long-standing collaboration with filmmaker Imtiaz Ali, the Highway lyricist highlights the musical synergy they share. "Imtiaz is a very musical director. He tries to create magic on-screen, both visually and emotionally," Kamil says.

Recalling the making of Tamasha's iconic Agar Tum Saath Ho, the Kun Faya Kun lyricist reveals, "Initially, a different song was shot for that scene. But when Rahman sir and I saw the visuals, we felt something was missing in the song. The visuals were so touching, and we kept trying again and again to reach their emotional depth. It's directors like Imtiaz, Anurag Basu, Sanjay Leela Bhansali, and Anand L Rai who value music deeply and understand its importance in storytelling."

Reflecting on some of his most cherished works, Kamil shares, "There are so many songs close to my heart. In Raanjhanaa, I love Aise Na Dekho, but I feel it didn't reach as many people as it deserved to. Similarly, in Oo Meherama and Tanhaa Joh are personal favourites out of the many. Sometimes, despite the effort, a song doesn't receive the appreciation it deserves when the film releases, but later, it finds its audience. For instance, Seedhe Saadha Saara Saadha from Aakrosh is now trending with reels being made, though it went unnoticed at the time."

He remains humble about his contributions to the industry. "I don't think I have a legacy of my own," he chuckles. "I just try to do my best with every project. Time is the true judge of one's work."

Looking ahead, Irshad Kamil has an exciting lineup of projects, including Baby John, Sky Force in January, Chhava and Kesari 2. With his unwavering dedication to storytelling through music, Kamil continues to leave an indelible mark on the hearts of audiences.

PN\HYDERABAD

The Pioneer had the privilege of interacting with Chanchalpathi Dasa, gaining unique insights into the Chandrodaya Temple's groundbreaking vision, where spirituality, sustainability and modernity converge to reshape the future of devotion in the sacred town of Vrindavan, where the stories of Lord Krishna's divine pastimes echo through every temple and alleyway, a monumental structure is taking shape. The Chandrodaya Temple, envisioned as the tallest religious structure in the world, is not just an architectural marvel but also a spiritual beacon. It is a project that seeks to harmonise devotion, heritage and modernity on a scale never before seen.

At the heart of this transformative endeavour is ISKCON (International Society for Krishna Consciousness) and one of its leading voices, Chanchalpathi Dasa, Vice Chairman of ISKCON

Bangalore. In an exclusive conversation with us, Dasa shared his insights into the purpose, philosophy and aspirations behind the temple. "This temple is going to be more than a place of worship. It is a cultural and spiritual complex to present the timeless teachings of Krishna," Dasa began, outlining the project's purpose. Towering over 700 feet, the temple will not only become a record-breaking landmark but also serve as a "center to attract people from all over the world to experience Vedic culture and Krishna consciousness."

Dasa emphasised that the temple's primary goal is spiritual upliftment. "We want to introduce the world to the glories of Vrindavan and the message of the Bhagavad-gita, which is so relevant for humanity today," he explained. Once a tranquil town steeped in spirituality, Vrindavan has faced challenges with urbanisation and ecological degradation. The temple, Dasa believes, will play a pivotal role in addressing these issues.

"Our goal is not just to build a temple but also to contribute to Vrindavan's restoration. We want to revive the spiritual sanctity of this place by promoting Krishna bhakti and ecological sustainability," he said. ISKCON's initiatives include planting trees, cleaning the Yamuna riverbanks and creating infrastructure that supports both pilgrims and residents.

An immersive experience Unlike traditional temples, the temple is designed to offer a multidimensional experience. "It's going to be an immersive experience. The temple will feature exhibits, sound and light shows and interactive spaces to help people understand the teachings of the Vedas in a contemporary way," Dasa shared. One of the highlights will be the "Vedic Planetarium," a unique feature that will explore the cosmology described in ancient scriptures. "It's an opportunity to blend spirituality with science, to show people the profound knowledge contained in our scriptures," he said. Building such a massive structure while preserving its spiritual authenticity has been no small feat. "The architectural design combines traditional elements with state-of-the-art technology. This is a once-in-a-lifetime project, and we're determined to get it right," Dasa remarked.

The project's scale has attracted top talent from around the world, including architects, engineers and artisans dedicated to realising this vision. While deeply rooted in the bhakti tradition, the temple is being built with an inclusive spirit. "The message of Krishna consciousness is universal. It is not limited to any one religion or community. It is about understanding our eternal nature and our connection to God," Dasa explained. He emphasised that the temple is open to people of all faiths. "We want everyone to feel welcome, to experience the joy of devotion and the peace it brings."

Reflecting on the relevance of this project in today's world, Dasa said, "Krishna's message is timeless. His teachings on dharma, devotion and detachment are solutions to the problems we face in modern life. This temple is an effort to share those teachings with the world in a way that resonates with them."

Transforming lives Beyond its physical structure, the temple is poised to have a profound social impact. Through educational programs, healthcare initiatives and community outreach, ISKCON aims to uplift the lives of people in and around Vrindavan. "We believe in serving humanity as a service to God. Whether it's feeding the hungry, educating children, or protecting cows, every act of service is an offering to Krishna," Dasa said.

As the temple rises higher each day, it stands as a testament to what faith, vision and determination can achieve. For Chanchalpathi Dasa and his team, the journey is as sacred as the destination. "This temple is not just a building. It's a symbol of our devotion, our aspirations, and our commitment to Krishna," he said.

Set to redefine Vrindavan as a global spiritual destination, the temple embodies a timeless message in a modern world: that devotion is limitless, and so is the potential of humanity when guided by divine purpose.

Reviving Krishna's spiritual homeland In a reflective moment, Dasa shared a story that highlights the profound vision of Sri Prabhupada, the founder of the International Society for Krishna Consciousness (ISKCON). "Rupa Goswami was deep in his scholarly work when Prabhupada sat with a group of Western disciples, delivering a class on one of Goswami's texts. In this session, Prabhupada expounded on the concept of Yukta Vairagya—the idea of using material resources for spiritual purposes. Prabhupada noted that Western society's tendency to build towering skyscrapers could be redirected for spiritual benefit. Rather than constructing buildings for personal indulgence, he suggested these skyscrapers could be used to create towering temples for Krishna. These structures, Prabhupada envisioned, would become spiritual havens, promoting Krishna consciousness globally."

This vision, rooted in Prabhupada's teachings, has evolved over time and is beginning to take shape in projects such as the Heritage Tower. The tower, set to rise beyond its 70-foot frame, is designed to be more than just a building. The project includes biodiversity parks, reflecting Vrindavan's sacred forests and Krishna's divine pastimes. According to Dasa, the Heritage Tower seeks to recreate the sacred ambience of Braj—the region where Krishna spent his youth—integrating nature, spirituality and history into a cohesive experience. Braj is home to twelve sacred forests or kananas, each tied to Krishna's divine activities. Vrindavan, for example, was known for its abundance of Tulasi plants, while Talva was renowned for its palm trees. Yet, the essence of these sacred forests has been compromised by poverty, invasions, and natural calamities. "The ambition of the project is not merely to recreate these forests but to revive them in their original glory," said Das. "The project plans to feature dioramas and miniature depictions of Krishna's pastimes, allowing visitors to experience the stories that unfolded in these sacred spaces. The aim is to restore their spiritual essence and offer visitors a deeper connection to Krishna's 5,000-year-old heritage."

Ecological sustainability and spiritual integrity A core aspect of this project is ecological sustainability. Beyond the biodiversity parks, the entire design incorporates environmental consciousness, from renewable energy sources to a zero-waste approach. The Heritage Tower strives to balance spirituality with environmental stewardship, offering spaces where visitors can enjoy nature while learning about Krishna's teachings.

However, preserving the space's spiritual integrity amid modern development is another challenge. Religious sites often become commercialised tourist attractions, but the mandir intends to maintain its sanctity as a place of devotion. Das explained, "The Heritage Tower will feature educational components like the Bhagavad Gita Expo, which will offer profound spiritual insights and practical applications for daily life. This balance of education and entertainment—referred to as 'edutainment'—aims to engage visitors on both intellectual and spiritual levels." Additionally, an International Youth Center will address contemporary issues such as loneliness and depression, particularly among young people in the digital age. By offering spiritual teachings and life skills training, the center will help youth navigate personal challenges and foster healthier, more fulfilling lives.

The Science and Spirituality Expo will further bridge the gap between reason and faith, presenting scientific perspectives on spiritual practices to demonstrate that the two can coexist harmoniously. Lastly, the project will emphasise the preservation of India's cultural heritage through courses in traditional arts and performances that showcase the region's rich spiritual traditions. These cultural initiatives will ensure that the spiritual and artistic heritage of India is passed on to future generations. Through these layers of innovation, the Heritage Tower aspires to be more than just a physical structure—it aims to be a living space of spirituality, environmental sustainability and cultural preservation, reviving Krishna's homeland's spiritual traditions in the modern world.

A VOICE FOR YOUTH AND CONGRESS

BALMOOR VENKAT'S JOURNEY FROM BEING A STRIPLING IN HYDERABAD TO BECOMING A PROMINENT LEADER IN TELANGANA POLITICS IS ONE MARKED BY SEVERAL MILESTONES OF RESILIENCE AND PASSION. DESPITE PERSONAL HARDSHIPS, INCLUDING LOSING HIS FATHER AT A YOUNG AGE, VENKAT PURSUED MEDICINE TO FULFIL HIS MOTHER'S DREAM BEFORE DISCOVERING HIS TRUE CALLING IN STUDENT ACTIVISM. IN A CONVERSATION WITH NAVEENA GHANATE OF THE PIONEER, HE SHARES HOW HE ROSE THROUGH THE RANKS OF THE NATIONAL STUDENTS' UNION OF INDIA AGAINST ODDS TO BECOME A STAND-OUT CHAMPION FOR YOUTH AND EDUCATION

EARLY LIFE AND EDUCATION

I was born and raised in Hyderabad, immersed in its vibrant culture and dynamic pace of life. My schooling began at Gitanjali High School, where I studied from LKG to fifth grade, before moving to Brilliant Grammar High School in Narayanaguda for classes five through ten. Later, I pursued my first year Intermediate education at Little Flower Junior College, Uppal and the second year at Narayana College. Fulfilling my mother's dream, I joined MBBS in Chalmers Anand Rao College, securing a seat in management quota. I lost my father Madan Mohan Rao in an accident when I was in my sixth class. Yet, his influence during my early years has stayed with me till today. My mother Padma Rao worked tirelessly as a chemist, running a medical shop to ensure we had everything we needed. Watching her resilience taught me the importance of perseverance and sacrifice. Although I was brought up in the city, my roots lie in Karimnagar, the native place of my grandparents. My brother Rahul has completed engineering and runs a business of polymer drums manufacturing unit. I was briefly married but due to my political career, resulting in cases being filed against me, we have separated. When we recollect anything from the past, with one good moment, I have 10 bad moments in my past. I am a fitness freak and used to do workout until a year ago. I am a professional bodybuilder. But after my rib injury, I stopped. The cops beat me during an agitation and six of my ribs got fractured. Doctors advised me to take rest for 3 years.

MY MOTHER'S SUPPORT AND HER ONLY RULE

Although my mother's dream was to see me do medicine, I found my calling in student activism. Throughout my journey in student politics, my mother never stopped me from pursuing what I was passionate about. She understood my drive and the importance I placed on making a difference. However, she did set one clear rule for me: I should never do anything that could tarnish the name of our family or society. She would often remind me that my father never smoked or drank alcohol and she expected me to uphold the same standards. Her words resonated deeply with me. Even as I navigated the often-chaotic world of politics, I kept her advice close to my heart. I knew that every action of mine would reflect not just on me but also on her as my mother. I was always mindful of how society might perceive her, especially as a single parent who had worked hard to raise me. This sense of accountability kept me grounded and ensured that I never crossed any ethical boundaries, no matter how intense the challenges became. My mother's unwavering support and her principles have been a guiding force throughout my life.

VENTURING INTO STUDENT POLITICS

My journey began during my Intermediate years (2009-10) when I joined the National Students' Union of India (NSUI). There is no such post as Intermediate college president. But I was deemed to be Intermediate college president. In 2011, the Congress was in power in the (erstwhile AP) state. I became increasingly drawn to its ideology and its youth organization, NSUI. What fascinated me most was the democratic election process within the organization. Unlike other groups, in which leadership roles were handed out by senior leaders, NSUI required candidates to contest elections and secure membership support from colleges. This participatory structure was new to me and deeply inspiring. Initially, I encouraged two of my friends to contest for leadership roles in the Hyderabad district. However, they weren't as enthusiastic about politics and questioned why I wasn't contesting myself. Their response made me realize that perhaps I was the one who truly wanted to take the plunge. My social circle was large, and I was actively involved in various student issues, which gave me the confidence to step forward. Contesting for the post of district president wasn't easy. There were ideological debates and even confrontations with others vying for leadership roles. I decided to run for the position myself.

FREEDOM AND OPPORTUNITIES IN NSUI

What drew me to NSUI was the freedom it offered. Unlike other organizations and youth wings of parties like Bharat Rashtra Samithi, NSUI didn't impose restrictions or autocratic practices. Even as a state president, I had the liberty to question the Congress party itself—a privilege explicitly mentioned in the organization's framework. This openness resonated with me, especially as a young leader eager to make a difference. Initially, it wasn't about ideology for me. It was about creating a space where I could act independently, address real issues, and bring about meaningful change. By April 15, 2015, I was elected as the first NSUI state president after Telangana's formation. Representing 10 districts, my role allowed me to work on a larger scale, connecting with students and addressing their concerns. My journey with NSUI spanned nearly a decade, marking a critical phase in my political career.

THE SHIFT TO NATIONAL SECRETARY

In 2018, I was 'promoted' to the position of NSUI national secretary -- a move I initially saw as a demotion. Certain political dynamics in Telangana led to my transfer to Delhi. Some leaders believed my presence in Telangana might disrupt their plans; so, I was strategically moved. While I accepted the position, I remained determined to serve my state. After taking up the role, I had the opportunity to meet Rahul Gandhi. During our interaction, I expressed my

YOUNGEST MLC

I've always believed that until the age of 30 or 35, we can fight on the field with full energy and aggression. Beyond that, the role transitions to guiding and strategizing. With this mindset, I aspired to work at the national level to help the Congress party form a government in Delhi. I was one of the top three contenders for the position of NSUI national president and even had an interview with Rahul Gandhi for the role. However, Rahulji said they were seeking someone under 30, and I had just crossed that mark by two months. During this time, I expressed my desire to be placed where I could continue fighting against the ruling party. I rejected suggestions of roles like chairman positions in corporations, as I felt they lacked meaningful work. I wanted to enter the legislature and work in the Assembly, but many senior leaders were vying for MLC roles, and my aspirations seemed far-fetched. Despite this, Rahul Gandhi, KC Venugopal, and other leaders recognized my efforts and nominated me as an MLC, making me the youngest MLC in Indian political history at 30 years and 10 months. It was a proud moment, especially since the youngest MLC in Gujarat was 33. Walking into the Legislative Council for the first time was daunting. I felt the weight of responsibility, knowing any mistake could lead to criticism of my maturity or capability. In my first session, I remained quiet, observing and learning the proceedings. Learning quickly is one of my strengths, and I soon grasped how to question policies effectively and what issues could or couldn't be raised. Senior leaders like Jeevan Reddy were instrumental in guiding me through this process.

CONTESTING FOR YOUTH CONGRESS PRESIDENT POST

I had contested the Youth Congress elections with a clear vision of strengthening the party at the grassroots level. Over the past decade as NSUI state president, I have built strong connections with the youth of the party, identifying and nurturing loyalists who shared my commitment to the Congress. I believed that as Youth Congress president, I could place these dedicated individuals in positions that would benefit the party, such as securing local body polls' tickets and nominations. During the process, I emphasized to the national leadership, including Rahul Gandhi, that my intention was not personal ambition but to strengthen the party's structure. While others view positions like Youth Congress president as stepping stones to becoming an MLA or MLC, I saw it as a platform to ensure Congress' longevity and stability. I pointed out that if I were focused on personal gains, I would have confined myself to one constituency, like some of my colleagues. Despite facing conspiracies and even opposition from within the party, I remained committed to ensuring the party's progress. With 88 cases spread across 16 districts, I endured challenges that few others in my position faced. Ultimately, I conveyed my intentions to KC Venugopal, Rahul Gandhi, and senior leaders like Bhatti Vikramarka, reaffirming my readiness to work in any capacity for the party's growth. Regardless of the outcome, my priority has always been Congress and its future.

desire to return to Telangana, feeling that my work in my home state was far from complete. Rahul Gandhi's guidance and support reaffirmed my commitment to the Congress party's vision. Eventually, I resigned as NSUI national secretary to refocus on my responsibilities in Telangana. In fact, they had made NSUI state presidents of Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Uttar Pradesh and me from Telangana as national secretary. Those of Chhattisgarh and Madhya Pradesh also resigned just like me. While states like Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh avoided elections by directly appointing state presidents, Telangana held a full-scale election because of Captain Uttam Kumar Reddy and his obligations. I contested for the presidency across 33 districts and emerged victorious in 29 of them. My panel secured a resounding victory, with the highest margin in the country—3,400 votes against my opponent's 1,200. Despite this success, my journey wasn't without hurdles. My results were initially put on hold due to allegations that I wasn't a regular medical student. This claim led to 4-5 months of scrutiny and cross-verification, delaying the official declaration. However, truth prevailed and my dedication to the role was recognized.

FIGHTING FOR STUDENTS' ISSUES

From the beginning of my political career in NSUI, I have felt the pressure of being a new entrant and the weight of expectations. This was especially evident during my first tenure as NSUI state president. The work I accomplished during that period was immense—I conducted Padayatras, Bus Yatras, and Campus Chalo Yatras, travelling across the state four times within my first four years. I visited every Assembly constituency, raising student and youth issues and addressing grassroots concerns. However, the COVID-19 pandemic brought significant challenges. While most people stayed indoors, I took the initiative to fight for students' and youth rights through digital platforms. I conducted YouTube live sessions, filed legal petitions, and used social media to amplify critical issues. To date, I have filed 54 writ petitions and PILs in the High Court, highlighting my commitment to advocacy even during unprecedented times.

THE NINE-YEAR MBBS JOURNEY

Balancing my responsibilities in NSUI with my education was no easy task. Completing my MBBS degree, supposed to take six years, ended up being a nine-year journey. By 2016, I should have graduated, but my involvement in politics often took precedence over academics. I missed exams frequently, postponing them to the following year. Despite the delays, I persisted, finally completing my course in 2018. Even after finishing the academic portion of my MBBS, I couldn't declare myself a doctor immediately, as I hadn't completed my mandatory internship. During the by-election, this became a point of contention. I couldn't include my MBBS qualification in my affidavit and had to list my highest completed qualification as Intermediate. It wasn't until 2020, after attending college three days a week to meet the biometric requirements, that I finished my internship and officially became a doctor. I fulfilled my mother's long-cherished dream. While I have no plans to pursue a super-specialty degree, I carry the satisfaction of honouring her wishes and balancing the demands of both my political and academic journeys.

HIGHEST NUMBER OF CASES IN THE STATE

I believe I hold the record for the highest number of cases in the state. My first FIR was registered on August 22, 2015, during a national call for a farmers' protest. Danam Nagender, the then-Congress in-charge, tasked me with blocking buses, specifically at the Secunderabad Bus Depot, one of the largest in the state. That day, I was new to large-scale agitations and didn't know how to handle the chaos that followed. While organizing the boycott, the situation escalated. Some people began pelting stones at buses, and all those actions were attributed to me as I was leading the protest. On that single day, eight FIRs were registered against me. It was a daunting experience, and I didn't know how to navigate such legal battles. Initially, the idea of even one FIR was terrifying. However, as the cases piled up, I gradually grew accustomed to the legal challenges. This became so frequent that my meetings and discussions would sometimes take place at the police station itself. My supporters and visitors knew that finding me at the police station was as likely as meeting me anywhere else. Till date, I have faced 84 cases, with some still pending resolution. Slowly but surely, the fear turned into a sense of purpose. My first arrest and remand came after the first wave of COVID-19. On social media, I openly challenged (former chief minister K Chandrababai Reddy) KCR and declared that I would come to Pragati Bhavan, climb the gates, and protest against the government's inaction. True to my word, I jumped the gates of Pragati Bhavan during an agitation, leading to my arrest along with 36 others. We were remanded and spent two days in jail during the pandemic. By that time, I already had around 20 cases against me and had come to terms with the fact that fighting for change requires resilience and courage.

INFLUENCE OF CONGRESS IDEOLOGY

My entry into politics was driven purely by passion. Initially, I was deeply interested in student politics, but my perspective broadened after an unforgettable interaction with Rahul Gandhi in 2018. What was supposed to be a brief 15-minute meeting turned into a 4-hour-long conversation. It was during this interaction that I began to understand the larger vision of the Congress party and the depth of its ideology. Adding to this influence was my familial connection to T Purushotham Rao, a stalwart of the Congress party and a key figure in the Telangana agitation of 1962. A three-time MLA from Telangana Praja Samithi, he was married to my grandmother's first cousin. He explained how the party works. Growing up in Hyderabad, I was largely unaware of caste divisions or regional differences. However, my grandfather helped me understand how Congress embodies this very spirit of inclusivity and unity. He explained that while Hyderabad thrives on these ideals, rural areas and districts often grapple with caste-based distinctions. Coming from the Velama community, which is largely associated with the BRS (formerly TRS), I have faced suspicion from colleagues and peers. In meetings, people would look at me with skepticism, wondering if I aligned more with my community and gave information to BRS than the party. This perception often left me feeling isolated, and during sensitive or closed-door discussions, I would voluntarily excuse myself to avoid any misunderstandings. I've often thought about how different my journey might have been if I had belonged to a politically influential caste like the Reddys or BCs.

CONTESTING THE HUZURABAD BY-ELECTION

In 2021, I contested the Huzurabad by-election, a decision that raised many eyebrows. At just 28 years old, I stepped into an election that garnered national attention. Contesting the Huzurabad by-election was a pivotal moment to prove my loyalty to the Congress party amidst doubts about my dedication. Despite the high stakes, and with seasoned leaders avoiding the contest, I stepped forward at the age of 28, driven by the need to show my commitment. Winning wasn't my priority; it was about demonstrating that I could campaign effectively and represent the party with courage. Post-election, I worked tirelessly to strengthen the Congress in Huzurabad by enrolling 34,000 members, forming mandal committees, and building grassroots support. However, I realized that focusing solely on one constituency wouldn't help the party's revival. My efforts extended statewide, mobilizing youth and ensuring that the Congress' survival in Telangana became a long-term reality. Revanth Reddy said in front of media after I lost in the Huzurabad by election: "Venkat will become leader for party and state"—a word given in front of state.
