FORGIVE ME IF I EVER HURT ANYONE OF YOU: CJI

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

With folded hands and teary eyes, Chief Justice Chandrachud, on his last working day as the 50th head of the Indian judiciary on Friday, sought forgiveness if he had hurt anyone. "If I ever hurt anyone of you, I would like to just say please forgive me for something which I didn't intend to ever say or do which may have hurt you," he said. Heading a four-judge ceremonial Bench, also comprising CJI-designate Sanjiv Khanna, Justices JB Pardiwala and Manoj Misra, which assembled to bid him farewell, the CJI expressed a deep sense of fulfilment, not only for the work accomplished but for the opportunity to serve the country. Justice Chandrachud stepped into the shoes of his illustrious father YV

Chandrachud, who served as the longest CJI between 1978 and 1985, on November 9, 2022 and will be demitting office on November 10, a Sunday. Later in the evening, speaking at the farewell function organised for him by the Supreme Court Bar Association (SCBA), the outgoing CJI said that he might perhaps be the most troled judge but that does not deter him and he respects his opponents. "I hope you know the amount of trolling I have received. I am probably the most troled judge across the system. I will only say a shayari - Mukhalif se meri shakhsyat sanwarti hai.. Mein dushmano ka bada ehtiram karta hu [Opposition makes my personality better, I respect my enemies very much]," he said, adding that the trolls will be unemployed from Monday next week.

Rich tributes were paid to him by CJI-designate Khanna and Bar leaders, including the Attorney General, the Solicitor General, SCBA president Kapil Sibal and others to mark the pivotal moment in India's judicial history. "You asked me what keeps me going. It is this court which has kept me going, because there is not a single day when you feel that you have not learned something, that you have not had an opportunity to serve the society. "And there is no greater feeling than being able to serve those in need and the people you would never meet, people you possibly do not even know, people whose lives you have the ability to affect without ever having seen them," a visibly emotional CJI said. In his address, CJI Chandrachud recounted his journey, from sitting in the last row of the court as a young law student to his time on the revered corridors of the SC. He reflected on the immense privilege of serving the country, emphasising that each day spent in the court was an opportunity to learn and grow in both legal knowledge and personal insight. "I was always aware of the overpowering presence of the greats of this court and the responsibility that came with sitting in this chair. But at the end of the day, it is not about the individual, it is about the institution and the cause of justice we uphold here," the CJI said. He spoke with admiration for his colleagues, particularly highlighting his time on the bench with Justices Pardiwala and Misra, noting the camaraderie and diversity of perspectives that enriched their collective work. The CJI also expressed his confidence in the future of the court, reassuring the legal community that his successor, Justice Khanna, whom he described as "dignified, stable and deeply committed to justice", would lead the court with equal dedication and vision. In a heartfelt conclusion, CJI Chandrachud expressed his gratitude to everyone who contributed to his journey, senior advocates, juniors, officers and staff, acknowledging that each one of them played a role in shaping his understanding of the law and life. Justice Khanna wished good luck to the CJI, saying, "He has made my task easy and tough. Easy because of the revolutions ushered in and tough because I cannot walk up to him. He will be sorely missed. His youthfulness is not known here only but also abroad. In Australia, there were so many who came to me and asked what his age was."

NSCN (IM) threatens to break ceasefire agreement

PTI ■ DIMAPUR

Naga insurgent group National Socialist Council of Nagaland (Isak-Muivah) NSCN (IM) has threatened to break its 27-year-old ceasefire agreement with the government and return to its "armed struggle" if its demands for a separate "national flag and constitution" are not met. The group, which carried out a violent insurgency in Nagaland soon after India's independence in 1947, entered into a ceasefire pact in 1997 before starting prolonged peace talks with the government's interlocutors. On August 3, 2015, the NSCN(IM) signed a framework agreement with the government in presence of Prime Minister Narendra Modi to find a permanent solution. In a statement released on Friday, general secretary of the group and chief political negotiator Thuingaleng Muivah said he and former chairman, late Isak Chishi Swu, went to the negotiating table for the resolution of the conflict through peaceful negotiation and also honouring the commitment of former prime ministers PV Narasimha Rao, HD Deve Gowda, Atal Bihari Vajpayee and others to resolve the issue through peaceful political negotiation, leaving aside armed movement. Accordingly, the political negotiations began on August 1, 1997 and since then more than 600 rounds of talks had been held without any pre-conditions both in India and abroad, leading to the signing of the framework agreement of August 3, 2015, he said. Muivah alleged that authorities and the leadership in the government have "deliberately betrayed" the letter and spirit of the framework agreement by refusing to recognise and acknowledge the Naga "sovereignty national flag and sovereign national constitution". He said the benchmark for a political agreement between the government and the NSCN must be according to the letter and spirit of the framework agreement wherein among others, the Naga "sovereign national flag and Naga sovereign national constitution" must be an integral part of the political agreement. Muivah said today or tomorrow, Naga's "unique history, sovereignty and freedom, sovereign territory, sovereign national flag and sovereign national constitution are non-negotiable".

Israeli soccer fans attacked, five hospitalised, 62 detained

AP ■ AMSTERDAM

Israeli fans and protesters clashed overnight after a soccer match in Amsterdam, leaving five people hospitalised and 62 arrested, police said Friday. Dutch authorities said attackers systematically targeted Israeli fans. It was not clear how the violence began. Dutch and Israeli leaders denounced the violence as antisemitic. Video also showed Israeli fans chanting anti-Arab slogans in the streets at some point. Amsterdam Mayor Femke Halsema told reporters Friday that the Dutch counter-terror watchdog said there was no concrete threat to Israeli soccer fans before the game. Peter Holla, the city's acting police chief, said at the news conference that the fans were "willfully attacked." Condemnation of the violence poured in from Jewish groups. Israel's foreign minister left on an urgent diplomatic trip to the Netherlands. Security concerns have shrouded matches with Israeli teams in multiple countries over the past year because of global tensions linked to the wars in the Middle East. The Amsterdam police said in a post on social media platform X that they have started a major investigation into multiple violent incidents. The post did not provide further details about those injured or detained in Thursday night's violence following the Europa League match between Ajax and Maccabi Tel Aviv.

J and K has had 10 terror attacks since October 16

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

The merciless killing of two Village Defence Group (VDG) members in the higher reaches of the Kishtwar district in the Jammu region has shaken the top brass of the security establishment, close on the heels of multiple attacks on the security forces and migrant workers since the formation of Omar Abdullah led popular government in the Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir. So far a total number of 10 incidents of terrorist violence have been reported across different areas of Jammu and Kashmir since October 16. Meanwhile, the dead bodies of two VDGs killed by terrorists were recovered on Friday from near a rivulet in the Pongdwari area in the Keshwar belt. "Two VDG members, Nazir Ahmed and Kuldeep Kumar from Ohli-Kuntwara, went missing in the upper reaches while grazing livestock," a police spokesperson said.

"My brother and Nazir were abducted and killed by terrorists. They were village defence guards and had gone to graze cattle as usual," Kuldeep Kumar's brother Prithvi, told a news agency. These VDGs form the backbone of the security grid in the entire Jammu region. By targeting them, terrorist handlers aim to demotivate them against participating in the ongoing anti-terrorist operations launched in the region to flush them out of their safe hideouts. According to official sources, 4,100 VDGs and 32,000 SPOs were engaged in Jammu and Kashmir, with different responsibilities for the protection of civilians and anti-terrorist operations under the direct supervision of district Superintendents of Police (SP). A massive cordon-and-search operation is also underway in Kishtwar to track down the terrorists responsible for the killings. The operation is concentrated in the Kuntwara, Ohli, and Munzla Dhar hilly areas of Kishtwar. Director General J and K Police Nalin Prabhat and Additional Director General of Police Jammu Anand Jain visited Kishtwar to review ongoing operations on Friday. White Knight Corps Commander Lieutenant General Navin Sachdeva also landed in Kishtwar and held a meeting with the Director General J and K Police to chalk out their counter strategy.

Make Congress 'Yuvraj' speak in praise of Savarkar: PM Modi

T N RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Seeking to drive a wedge among the Opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) constituents over their ideological differences, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday dared the MVA leaders to get Congress leader Rahul Gandhi speak in praise of the contributions made to the country by Veer Savarkar and Balasaheb Thackeray. Kick-starting his campaign for the State Assembly polls from north Maharashtra where he addressed election rallies at Nashik and Dhuke, PM Modi played the "Maharashtra self-respect and pride card", when he slammed the Congress leaders for denigrating Savarkar and the Shiv Sena (UBT) — which considered Savarkar as its icon — for allying with the grand-old party. Taking pot shots at both the Congress and Shiv Sena (UBT), the PM said: "In Maharashtra, Savarkar is a source of inspiration... They [Congress leaders] never allowed Marathi language to get the classical language status. But they abuse Savarkar regularly.

HARVESTING HISTORY Shahjahanpur farmer unearths cache of 1857 Revolt-era weapons

BISWAJEET BANERJEE ■ SHAHJAHANPUR

A farmer in Shahjahanpur, Uttar Pradesh, uncovered a surprising find while plowing his field - a hidden cache of historical weapons believed to date back to the 1857 Indian Rebellion. District authorities have secured the weapons, which are now stored in a safe repository, and have reached out to the Archaeological Department for further examination. District Magistrate Dharmendra Pratap Singh shared the details on Friday, "Babu Ram, a farmer from Dakkhia Parvezpur in Nigohi police station area, was plowing his field recently when he discovered an iron sword-like object beneath the soil. As he continued digging, he uncovered several more weapons buried underground." According to Singh, as the excavation continued, more weapons emerged from the soil. In total, the field yielded 23 swords, remnants of 12 matchlock rifles, one spear, and a dagger. The rifles discovered are heavily deteriorated, with only the barrels and some metal fragments intact, suggesting that termites may have consumed the wooden parts over time. Given the style of the gun barrels, experts believe they are indeed matchlock rifles. Upon learning of the discovery, district authorities dispatched a team led by the sub-divisional magistrate to the site. The recovered weapons have since been moved to the Nigohi police station for safekeeping. Dr. Vikas Khurana, Head of the History Department at Swami Shukdevanand College in Shahjahanpur, suggested that the weapons may be linked to the 1857 Indian Rebellion. "These weapons appear to have characteristics of Rohilla culture. It is possible that when the British forces advanced after defeating the rebels in 1857, the freedom fighters retreated to the forest and may have buried their weapons to avoid capture," Dr. Khurana explained. "Victorious armies typically do not hide their weapons, so it is likely these were hidden by the revolutionaries who were in retreat." Experts believe this discovery could provide valuable insights into the local history of the 1857 rebellion. Dr. Khurana further said, "If confirmed, these weapons could serve as a crucial link to the area's involvement in the first war of Indian independence. They offer a tangible connection to the courage and struggle of those who fought in the 1857 revolt." The district administration has written to the Archaeological Department to initiate a detailed analysis of the artifacts, which could confirm their historical significance and possibly shed light on the events of the 1857 rebellion in the region.

1.29L students benefit from multi-disciplinary studies in MP

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

Chief Minister Mohan Yadav said that the state has witnessed numerous innovations under the New Education Policy 2020. He encouraged universities to introduce their own innovations in higher education, as valuable experiments are always encouraged. Continuous efforts should be made to enhance the quality of education. Additionally, universities should conduct para-medical and nursing courses to expand opportunities in these essential fields.

Chief Minister Dr. Yadav highlighted that Prime Minister Narendra Modi views empowering capable youth as the cornerstone for building a strong nation. Reflecting this vision, the New Education Policy, spearheaded by Prime Minister Modi, incorporates numerous provisions aimed at equipping youth with knowledge and proficiency across multiple disciplines. Madhya Pradesh has implemented several innovative measures in higher education, including organizing key workshops on the Indian Traditional Knowledge in colleges and universities. The State government has also established an Indian Traditional Knowledge Apex Committee and a Task Force dedicated to advancing higher education. Students are now being provided education tailored to their interests, skills, and capabilities, placing the state at the forefront of higher education quality. Notably, Madhya Pradesh's gross enrollment ratio stands at 28.9 percent, surpassing the national ratio of 28.4 percent, marking a significant achievement.

Yadav has commended universities for offering multidisciplinary education and employment-oriented courses.

Recently, he held an in-depth discussion with Vice Chancellors and senior officials from the Higher Education Department on the current state of higher education in Madhya Pradesh. He emphasized the importance of encouraging students to explore other subjects through a multi-disciplinary approach.

Presently, around one lakh students in the state have gained education in arts and science alongside commerce. Additionally, 18,000 students from the Arts background have studied commerce and science subjects, and 11,000 Science students have taken up Arts and Commerce courses. Altogether, 1.29 lakh students have benefited from this multidisciplinary education approach in Madhya Pradesh.

The Chief Minister said that Madhya Pradesh is the leading state in the implementation of many points of the National Education Policy. The provision of a subject like agriculture at the graduate level in the higher education system has also achieved good results. Seven universities and 18 government autonomous colleges are offering course in B.Sc. agriculture. 1189 students are taking benefit of these courses. A maximum of 240 students are getting an education in farming at Vikram University, Ujjain. Five universities have taken the initiative to conduct pilot training courses and certificate courses in aviation in the state. The youth will surely get full benefit from these courses in terms of employment. Skill development is a top priority in the state's higher education sector. To foster innovation and entrepreneurship, 47 incubation centers have been established across the state. Among these, 16 are operating in government universities, 12 in private universities, and 19 in government autonomous colleges. The Union Ministry of Science and Technology has sanctioned Rs 5 crore for Devi Ahilya Vishwavidyalaya in Indore, while the Atal Innovation Mission of NITI Aayog has allocated Rs 2.5 crore to Rani Durgavati University's Incubation Center in Jabalpur for the Atal Community Innovation Centre. Caste-based polarisation taking place in Vijaypur bypoll

GIRISH SHARMA ■ BHOPAL

With caste-based polarisation taking precedence over political issues, the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) campaign in poll-bound Vijaypur is fast running into rough political weather.

The Congress candidate, Mukesh Malhotra, a member of the Sahariya tribal community, is concentrating on the 60,000 votes his community holds in the constituency and consolidating his position by wooing Gurjar votes.

The strategy has seen the Congress launch senior party leader Sachin Pilot into the attack. The young Gurjar leader from Rajasthan has already addressed two public meetings in Vijaypur, which has nearly 15,000

Gurjar votes. Though the constituency does not have a history of caste-based polarisation, political observers feel that the BJP will hold on to its share of Sahariya tribal votes unless there is a new trend of en-masse voting by the Sahariyas in favour of the Congress.

While still remaining guarded, they concede that this time there may be no smooth sailing for BJP candidate Ramnivas Rawat. A local Congress leader told The Pioneer that most of the electorate in the constituency is not educated and thus, they are not much concerned with Ramnivas Rawat changing party.

BJP prestige is at stake in this by-election as Forest Minister Ramnivas Rawat is in the electoral fray. Rawat belongs to the Gurjar community, and thus Pilot has been drafted into the campaign.

Sensing the situation, the BJP has altered its strategy and is now focusing on patriotism and the Hindu nationalist agenda as the core theme of its campaign. On Thursday, Chief Minister Mohan Yadav raised the issue of Bangladeshi infiltration in the country and said that illegal infiltration would not be tolerated.

State BJP president Vishnudutt Sharma took the opportunity to hammer home the pro-poor welfare agenda, and did not miss the chance to mention Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Seeking to underplay the issues raised by the BJP leaders, the Congress has maintained that the BJP is indulging in divisive politics. Senior Congress leader Digvijaya Singh, Leader of the Opposition in the State Assembly Umang Singhar, PCC Chief Jitu Patwari, and Sachin Pilot have campaigned in the constituency.

On the other hand, the BJP is leaving no stone unturned. Chief Minister Yadav has addressed seven public meetings so far, while State Assembly Speaker Narendra Singh Tomar and State BJP president VD Sharma have been camping in the area for the past three days.

With the campaign entering its final phase for the November 13 bypolls in the constituency, the battle for Vijaypur still remains pretty evenly poised, say political observers who are now forecasting a change in weather for the BJP.

Goods worth Rs 75 lakh gutted in massive fire

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

Goods worth tens of lakhs of rupees were gutted after a massive fire spread to engulf three cloth stores on the ground floor and a flat on the first floor at Sant Hirdaram Nagar in the state capital on Friday morning.

Fire officials confirmed that the fire, reported at around 5 AM, quickly spread to three fabric stores and a flat on the upper floors of the ill-fated building.

Preliminary enquiries have identified a short circuit as the primary cause. Goods worth Rs 75 lakhs were destroyed as a result of the fire, which took firemen around two hours to control. A dozen fire tender vehicles—including six fire engines—were deployed to control the blaze, said fire officer Iftikhar Ahmed. "Though the fire was brought under control in two hours, it took us another hour to completely douse the blaze and bring an end to the emanating smoke," he said.

The three-storey building has fabric stores on the ground floor and flats on the upper levels. While the first-floor flat suffered losses, the second-floor flat was lying vacant. The fire erupted at the cloth shop 'Mohini Textiles' and quickly spread to two other shops before rising upwards to engulf the flat, said bystanders.

Fortunately, no one was reported hurt, as the flats were locked at the time of the incident, they said. Goods worth lakhs were, however, gutted in the residential apartment.

Firemen said that the fire was regarded as the highest priority, as blazes in the area are always feared to spread out of control due to the presence of a large number of fabric stores in the busy marketplace. Fire service personnel experienced difficulties in bringing the flames under control, as the shutters at the shops were locked when the fire started.

Forest deptt plans to track elephant movement with satellite collars

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

In the wake of recent deaths of 10 elephants in Bandhavgarh Tiger Reserve (BTR), the Madhya Pradesh forest department plans to use satellite collars to track the movements of tuskers, an official said on Friday.

This initiative comes after four wild elephants were found dead in Sankhani and Bakeli under the Khatauli range of the BTR in Umaria district, on October 29, 30 and 31.

Chief Minister Mohan Yadav earlier announced that forest officials from Madhya Pradesh would be sent for training to other states with a high population of elephants.

Madhya Pradesh's additional principal chief conservator of forests (wildlife) L Krishnamoorthy said, "We have asked Tamil Nadu for two satellite collars, which are expected to reach MP this week. We will use them on two jumbos in BTR." He further said that the department plans to use satellite collars on all 150 wild elephants in the state.

This initiative comes after four wild elephants were found dead in Sankhani and Bakeli under the Khatauli range of BTR in Umaria district, on Oct 29, 30 and 31

Krishnamoorthy is the head of a nine-member Elephant Advisory Committee, which was formed two days ago to manage tuskers in the state, primarily focusing on their rescue and rehabilitation.

The probe into the deaths of the ten elephants had concluded that there was neurotoxin cyclopirozonic acid in their viscera, but it was not a case of 'poisoning'. Viscera reports suggested toxicity was due to the consumption of large quantities of Kodo millet plants, the senior official had said earlier.

Based on the probe team's report, the chief minister has suspended two senior reserve officials for alleged lapses.

Elect Rawat for the development of Vijaypur: Tomar

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

Addressing street meetings and public meetings in Ikloud, Arond, Agra and Umrikalan of Vijaypur on Friday, Madhya Pradesh Assembly Speaker Narendra Singh Tomar said that this Vijaypur by-election election is a different kind of election. Till now, BJP and Rawat were separate. But in this assembly by-election, BJP and party candidate and state government minister Ramnivas Rawat are together. Rawat is riding the wave of development. The public should not fall into the trap of Congress' loot express and open the doors of development of Vijaypur by making the BJP candidate victorious with a huge majority. Madhya Pradesh

Assembly Speaker Narendra Singh Tomar said that 107 kilometers of roads have been built in Vijaypur area. The work of construction of 253 km of roads is going on. Bharatiya Janata Party is the guarantee of development. The cooperation of all of you in the all-round development of the state is incomparable. He said that the BJP government does what it says. 1250 rupees per month is being sent to the accounts of 1 crore 29 lakh Laddi sisters. Congress party used to auction the land of farmers, never worked for the interests of farmers. Under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister

Mohan Yadav, the government is working to bring change in the lives of farmers. Congress ruled the country for years but did nothing in the name of development. Congress has worked to divide the country in the name of castes. It has tried to tear apart our social fabric. Congress did not do any work in Vijaypur in the name of development. Congress did not like Ram Mandir, Congress leaders oppose Sanatan. People should teach a lesson to Congress, which insults the sentiments of Hindus, by voting for BJP on 13 November. Congress is a guarantee of corruption, nepotism and appeasement. Madhya Pradesh Assembly Speaker Narendra Singh Tomar said that Congress is a guarantee of corruption, nepotism and appeasement. Former Congress Chief Minister Kamal Nath had made Vallabh a den of brokers. He was always busy with transfers. He had left the state at the mercy of God. Before 2003, the state was called a sick state, but since the BJP government has come, prosperity and happiness have spread all around in Madhya Pradesh. The BJP is the only party that runs welfare schemes for the public and works for the welfare of the poor and development in every field. We have to ensure participation in the development of the region by making the BJP win with a huge majority. On this occasion, the party's state minister Lokendra Parashar, senior leader Shaitan Singh Pal, district president Surendra Jat and Upendra Kumar Dixit along with party officials, public representatives and workers were present.

Kolkata HC orders recovery of Rs 19 cr from Health Directorate

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

Commotion prevailed at the directorate for health services in the state capital on Friday afternoon as a team armed with an order of the Kolkata High Court arrived to attach assets due to non-payment of claims amounting to over Rs 19 crore. Unruly scenes were witnessed as officials and employees fought off attempts to seize the properties belonging to the health department. The Kolkata High Court had ordered the attachment of assets after the directorate had failed to clear dues over the purchase of insecticides from a Kolkata based company in 2013. Though the original order was valued at Rs 50.7 lakhs, non-payment had resulted in penalties and interest taking the amount to Rs 19.34 crores. The legal representatives of the Kolkata based supplier however had to turn back after a lady officer present at the office told the legal team that there was no designated post for a health director at the premises hence legally the properties could not be attached. The company lawyer, Purnashish Bhuiya, later said that the matter will be brought to the notice of the district court, and the company will seek police protection to execute the order. "We were here to execute the seizure. However, the officer, Mallika Nigam Nagar, said that there is no post of 'Director of Health' here, thus preventing us from executing the seizure. We removed a few items and were given a written statement that this is not the Director of Health's office. The court has ordered the recovery of Rs 19.34 crore for the items, including the Rs 50.7 lakh worth of insecticides purchased from the company," said Bhuiya.

Resurrect crumbling democracy: Jitu

Bhopal: Accusing the ruling party of complacency, state Congress unit chief Jitu Patwari on Friday urged voters in both poll-bound constituencies—Vijaypur and Budhni—to resurrect crumbling democratic values by voting for party candidates. Patwari said that the government is led by leaders who have been in power for too long, and they are now entrenched in luxury and comfort. Patwari emphasised that, to wake up the BJP leaders in power, the voters should support the opposition Congress in these elections so that the people of the state can benefit. He claimed that the ruling party had made misleading promises to voters during elections. The Congress party leader questioned the provision of welfare initiatives that the BJP describes as guarantees by the Prime Minister. "Rs 3,000 per month was promised under the Laddi Behna scheme. However, this promise has not been fulfilled, and votes were manipulated by misleading these women. Additionally, the BJP had promised Rs 2,700 for wheat and Rs 3,100 for rice to farmers, but this too has not been provided," continued Patwari while advising the Chief Minister to address these issues. Criticising the policies of the state government, Patwari claimed that the BJP has stopped welfare schemes for the poor, scholarships for SC, ST, and OBC students, and funds for about 35 departments, leaving the entire state in distress.

AMU minority status: SC defers question to new bench, overturns earlier judgment

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court (SC) on Friday in 4:3 majority judgment deferred the question of Aligarh Muslim University's (AMU) minority status to a new three bench and overruled the 1967 judgment that said the university cannot be considered a minority institution since it was created by a Central law. The majority judgment authored by CJI DY Chandrachud, also on behalf of Justices Sanjiv Khanna, JB Pardiwala and Manoj Misra, said, "The view taken in Azeez Basha (1967 verdict) that an educational institution is not established by minority if it derives its legal character through a statute, is overruled." Before pronouncing the judgment by bench, CJI Chandrachud said there were four separate opinions, including three dissenting verdicts. The majority verdict headed by the CJI laid down tests for considering the issue of AMU's minority status. The outgoing CJI asked the case's judicial records to be placed before the regular bench, after receiving instructions from the new CJI on the administrative side, for deciding the issue on the minority status besides adjudicating appeals against a 2006 verdict of the Allahabad High Court. In his dissent, Justice Surya Kant opined the reference of the matter to a seven-judge bench by a division bench of the SC was incorrect. Justice Dipankar Datta too echoed a similar sentiment saying it might set a "dangerous precedent". "A two-judge bench tomorrow may say I doubt the basic structure (Kesavananda Bharati verdict). I refer it to a 15-judge bench. This is what would happen if we accept the majority opinion. Can it be done?" asked Justice Datta. Justice Datta in the concluding part of his verdict wrote, "In terms of clause 5 of Article 145, it is my firm opinion that not only do the references do not require an answer, it is also declared that AMU is not a minority educational institution and that the appeals seeking minority status for it should fail." Pronouncing a separate opinion on the matter, Justice Satish Chandra Sharma agreed with the two other dissenting judges on the point of reference. "The establishment of an institution by the minority is necessary for the said minority to claim right of administration under Article 30 (of the Constitution)," he opined. Article 30 of the Constitution deals with right of minorities to establish and administer educational institutions. "I would like to make it very clear that my judgement is neither an assenting nor a dissenting judgement. It is my personal opinion based upon the law, the judgements cited and the arguments and the facts on the subject," clarified Justice Sharma. The issue of AMU's minority status has been caught in a legal maze for the last several decades. The SC had on February 12, 2019, referred to a seven-judge bench the contentious issue. A similar reference was made in 1981. The fabled institution, however, got back its minority status when the Parliament passed the AMU (Amendment) Act in 1981.

The Congress-led UPA government at the Centre had moved in appeal against the Allahabad High Court's 2006 verdict. The university filed a separate petition against it. The BJP-led NDA government informed the SC in 2016 that it would withdraw the appeal filed by the erstwhile UPA dispensation. It had cited the apex court's 1967 judgment in the Basha case to claim that AMU was not a minority institution since it was a central university funded by the government. In 1967, a five-judge Constitution Bench in the S Azeez Basha Vs. Union of India said AMU was a Central university and couldn't be considered a minority institution.

President Murmu bats for prompt legal action against corrupt

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

Asserting that delay or weak action encourages unethical people, President Droupadi Murmu on Friday said prompt legal action against corrupt is extremely important. Addressing the vigilance awareness week function of the Central Vigilance Commission (CVC), she said properties worth over USD 12 billion have been seized in the last ten years under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA). President Murmu said trust is the foundation of social life and the source of unity. "Public trust in the government's work and welfare schemes is the source of power for governance. Corruption is not only an obstacle to economic progress, it also reduces trust in society. It adversely affects the feelings of fraternity among people. It also has a widespread impact on the country's unity and integrity," the president said. She said every year on Sardar Patel's birth anniversary on October 31, "we take a pledge to keep the country's unity and integrity intact." "This is not just a ritual. It is a pledge to be taken seriously. We all have a collective responsibility to fulfill it," the president said. Murmu said prompt legal action against the corrupt is extremely important. "Delay in action or weak action encourages unethical persons. But it is also necessary that every action and person should not be viewed with suspicion. We should avoid this. Keeping in mind the dignity of the person, no action should be motivated by malice. The objective of any action should be to establish justice and equality in the society," she said. President Murmu said a comprehensive approach will have to be adopted to eradicate corruption. "We will have to go to the root of this disease. It will not be effective to cure it only through symptoms. The eternal values of the Indian society like integrity, ethics, compassion and transparency have to be strengthened. There is a need for strengthening of these life values," she said. Citing Direct Benefit Transfer (DBT) and e-tendering, she said the Centre has taken several measures to check corruption. President Murmu said if any work is done with the right spirit and determination, success is certain. "Some people considered uncleanness to be the destiny of our country. But strong leadership, political will and contribution of citizens have brought good results in the field of cleanliness. Similarly, to consider the elimination of corruption as impossible is a pessimistic attitude of some people, which is not right," the president said. She expressed confidence that the government of India's policy of 'zero tolerance against corruption' will eradicate the roots of this malice. President Murmu said that morality is the ideal of Indian society. "When some people start considering accumulation of things, money or property the standard of a good life, then they deviate from this ideal and resort to corrupt activities. Happiness lies in living life with self-respect by fulfilling the basic needs," she said. The president said in "our society, integrity and discipline are considered the ideals of life". About 2,300 years ago, Megasthenes (ancient Greek historian) wrote about Indian people that they dislike indiscipline and follow the law, she said. "There is simplicity and austerity in their lives. Similar mentions have been made by Fa-Hien about our ancestors. In this context, this year's theme of CVC 'Culture of Integrity for Nation's Prosperity' is very apt," President Murmu said. Probity watchdog CVC observed the vigilance awareness week from October 28 to November three, this year. Along with the vigilance awareness week, the commission organises a three-month campaign on preventive vigilance which has been undertaken by the ministries, departments, organisations of the Central government from August 16 and will continue till November 15. The five focus areas of the campaign are capacity building, identification and implementation of systemic improvement, up-dation of circulars, guidelines, manuals, disposal of complaints received before June 30, 2024 and dynamic digital presence. Central Vigilance Commissioner Praveen Kumar Srivastava and Vigilance Commissioner A S Rajeev, among others, were present at the event.

Manipur violence: Fresh arson, attacks in Jiribam

PTI ■ IMPHAL

At least six houses were torched and residents of a tribal village were attacked by a group of armed militants in ethnic strife-torn Manipur's Jiribam district, police said on Friday. The incident occurred on Thursday evening in Zairon Hmar village after the group of militants set the houses on fire, a senior officer said. "Preliminary reports suggested that several villagers managed to flee during the attack and took shelter in nearby forest. At least six houses were severely damaged due to the arson. An investigation is underway," he said. Kuki-Zo organisations claimed that a woman, a resident of the village, was killed during the attack but the report of death has not been confirmed by the district police. Manipur has been rocked by ethnic violence since May last year and over 200 people were killed. The violence erupted on May 3 after a 'Tribal Solidarity March' was organised in the hill districts to protest against the Meitei community's demand for Scheduled Tribe (ST) status.

Military museums to be digitally linked soon: CDS

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■
NEW DELHI

Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) General Anil Chauhan on Friday said work is underway to virtually link the various military museums to one e-platform under a project that aims to spread awareness about India's glorious military heritage. In his keynote address at the inaugural ceremony of the second edition of the Indian Military Heritage Festival here, the CDS also pitched for creating military fiction work that combines literary fiction with military events of the past to make them more accessible to the masses. "We, in the armed forces, with an intent to spread awareness of our glorious history and heritage, have initiated a project of e-linking of our military museums. We already e-linked about eighteen of these military museums, and shortly we are going to e-link all 47-48 military museums. So, they will be available at one site, you need not have to go there," General Chauhan said. The CDS said, "We are also thinking of e-linking all the war museums" to a national platform, so that it would be available to people, who wish to visit these sites virtually. Similarly, to familiarise people with military valour, a hybrid model has been adopted for "battlefield tourism", he added. "This includes online links of various battlefields where the armed forces have fought, and actual field tours of those battlefields will also be organised for those wanting further information on the exploits of the Indians armed forces in these theatres of war," the CDS said. The event also witnessed the launch of Project Shaurya Gatha which is an initiative of the Department of Military Affairs and think-tank USI. The project aims to conserve and promote India's military heritage through education and tourism, it said. The festival aims to engage global and Indian think-tanks, corporations, public and private sector undertakings, non-profit organisations, academicians, and research scholars focusing on India's national security, foreign policy, military history and military heritage. The CDS, underscoring the importance of art in war said, the British not only practised the art of war but also patronised art works related to war. Sir Stanley Spencer served as an official war artist in World War 1 and World War 2. His works depicted daily lives of soldiers and emotional toils of the war," he said. The British in India had also developed a company school of painting that depicted daily and military lives. The CDS also recalled the contribution made by Colonel Arul Raj, whose paintings adorn the walls of military establishments from the South Block to Manekshaw Centre. Perhaps, there is a need to create a catalogue or organise a retrospective exhibition of his art works, he said. The CDS further emphasised that military literature plays a significant role in preserving and interpreting experiences, values and ethos of the military. Poetry and prose, each offer a unique insight into the military experience, he said. "What I think is missing is the military fiction or the art fiction part of it. When I was very young, I remember authors like Manohar Malgaonkar and his books like 'Distant Drum', 'A Combat of Shadows', 'Spy in Amber', where he combines military historical events along with fiction to make it easily readable for the ordinary audience, or the citizens. That I think is missing in the Indian context and we need to do more about it," the CDS said.

Haryana minister refutes Opposition parties' claims of shortage of DAP fertiliser supply

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ CHANDIGARH

Refuting opposition parties' claims that there was a shortage of Diammonium Phosphate (DAP) fertiliser in the state, Haryana minister Shyam Singh Rana said the government has taken proactive steps to ensure adequate supply to farmers.

Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare Minister Rana accused opposition leaders of spreading misinformation on the supply of DAP fertilisers in the state to "mislead the farming community".

The Haryana government is committed to maintaining an uninterrupted DAP supply to support a successful Rabi season, he said.

On Thursday, senior Congress leader Randeep Singh Surjewala blamed the BJP for the shortage of DAP fertilisers, saying the crisis was caused by a reduction in the fertilisers' import and stock, as well as slashing subsidies on it.

In a statement, Rana said contrary to Surjewala's assertions, the Haryana government has already released 2.38 lakh metric tonnes (MT) of DAP, meeting a significant portion of the total 3.48 lakh MT required for the ongoing Rabi season, which runs from September 24 to March 25. The minister said wheat and mustard crops, covering approximately 24 lakh hectares and 10 lakh hectares respectively across the state, have been well-supported with fertiliser stocks so far.

The agriculture minister referred to departmental data, emphasising that the state's DAP supply is on track with last year's requirements.

superphosphate (SSP). Haryana has received 65,200 MT of NPK and currently holds a stock of 26,041 MT. SSP supplies are also abundant, with a current stock of 71,380 MT across districts, the minister said.

He also denied Surjewala's allegations that there was any police action against farmers in Uchana and rubbished claims of unrest among farmers in Narwana, Guhla Cheeka and Kaithal.

No such incidents occurred as per ground reports and no police involvement against farmers was reported, Rana claimed.

Rana also dismissed baseless accusations that DAP was being distributed through police stations in Bhiwani, Charkhi Dadri and Narnaul. He emphasised that local officials in these areas have reassured farmers of sufficient DAP stock while efforts were underway to address any concerns.

During the previous Rabi season, 2,29,086 MT of DAP was consumed. As of November 7 this year, Haryana has received 1,71,002 MT which includes releasing stocks of 53,970 MT of fertilisers till October 1, he said.

Currently, 26,497 MT of DAP is available in various districts, with an additional 14,574 MT expected to arrive by November 11, Rana said.

Six people arrested for allegedly raping college student in Odisha

PTI ■ CUTTACK/BHUBANESWAR

Six people, including a minor, were arrested for allegedly raping a 19-year-old college student several times and video-graphing the act in Odisha's Cuttack district, police said on Friday.

The woman lodged a complaint with the Badambadi police station in Cuttack, alleging that the accused people, including her boyfriend, raped her. The college student claimed that she had gone to a cafe within Purighat Police Station limits in Cuttack during the Dussehra festival to celebrate her birthday, and her boyfriend, allegedly with help of the cafe owner, captured in his phone some of their intimate moments there.

They blackmailed the woman by showing her those intimate videos and raped her several times, Cuttack DCP Jagmohan Meena told reporters.

Based on the complaint lodged on November 4, the boyfriend of the woman, the cafe owner, a boy and three others were arrested during the next two days, he said. They have been booked under various sections of the BNS, IT Act and Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe (Prevention of Atrocities) Act. The police also recovered the videos from their mobile phones which were sent to the State Forensic Science Laboratory in Bhubaneswar for examination, the officer added.

Meena said in a press conference that the accused persons have sexually assaulted the victim twice. The DCP appealed to any woman, who is being blackmailed, to come forward and lodge a complaint without any fear and hesitation. Law Minister Prithiviraj Harichandan in Bhubaneswar said that the government will ensure that the culprits are punished.

Palakkad by-election: Tension rises amid party conflict and allegation

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ PALAKKAD

Resentment in the Indian National Congress over the selection of party candidate, ire among the CPI(M) cadres against the decision of party leadership to field a political turncoat who was abusing Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan, party state secretary MV Govindan and other leaders and the intra party turf war between leaders in the BJP have made the November 20 by-poll for the Assembly constituency in Palakkadu a keenly contested fight.

The Palakkad Assembly seat fell vacant following the resignation of sitting member Shafi Parambil who was elected from the Vadakara Lok Sabha constituency in the 2024 General Election. Parambil won the 2021 Assembly election by a whisker scraping past E Sreedharan, the Metro Man who was fielded by the BJP. While Parambil, who has been representing Palakkad Assembly constituency since 2011, polled 54,079 votes (38.06 per cent), Sreedharan, a first timer sprang a surprise by polling 50, 220 votes (35.34 per cent). The CPI(M) candidate was relegated to the third place, polling 36,433 votes (25.64 per cent). Parambil who had won the 2016 election with a majority of 17,483 votes, had to content with just 3,859 votes. What is of interesting is that the Hindutva party's vote percentage had shown gradual increase over the last three elections.

In 2011, the BJP candidate polled 19.86 per cent while the 2016 election saw the Hindutva brigade's share increasing to 29.08 per cent. Nothing surprising in the CPI(M) deciding to field P Sarin, who crossed over to the Marxist camp because the party high command denied him the candidature to contest the by-poll. Sarin, a medical doctor-turned-civil servant-turned Congressman was firmly of the view that he should have been given the party ticket from Palakkad and he alleges that Shafi Parambil "manipulated" the selection process of candidate.

The CPI(M) leadership's decision to field Sarin, a suave and civilized face in the hustings has caused a lot of heart burning among the cadres. Then there is the corruption charges against Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan and his daughter Veena Mohammed Riyaz, who is under probe by the Serious Fraud Investigation Office under the Ministry of Corporate Affairs in connection with charges of kick back linked to a black sand mining company. The alleged suicide of Naveen Babu, additional district magistrate of Kannur because of the public humiliation meted out to him by the CPI(M) belle PP Diya has turned many fellow travelers against the party. If these votes are cast on the lotus symbol, the BJP is likely to make its presence felt in the Legislative Assembly. But fir that to happen, the Hindutva party has to show some semblance of unity and cohesion. "as on today, the BJP resembles a rudderless ship," said P Sujathan, author and veteran editor of Kerala Kaumudi. What has upset the Congress workers is the party leadership opting for Rahul Mamkoottathil hailing from Adoor in Southern Kerala as the candidate from Palakkad overlooking the interests of local talents. Moreover, Rahul using derogatory terms against Kalyanikutty Amma, spouse of late Congress leader K Karunakaran has antagonised party faithful for whom the latter was an obsession. The Palakkad by-election is poised for a keen finish as the three main contenders viz the Congress, the CPI(M) and the BJP facing handicaps of similar nature. Every day brings in reports of Congress workers leaving the party to join the CPI(M) and vice versa.

New kind of 'Jihad' in Karnataka through Waqf Board, alleges Union Minister Pralhad Joshi

PTI ■ BALLARI (KARNATAKA)

Union Minister Pralhad Joshi on Friday alleged that a new kind of "jihad" is taking place across Karnataka with the Waqf Board claiming ownership of lands belonging to farmers, temples and others. Hitting out at the Congress government headed by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, he said the ruling party has reached "height of appeasement politics," and alleged that it has in a way made appeasement of minorities its "goal."

"Across the state a new kind of Jihad is happening through Waqf. Looking at the conduct of the Congress party and Siddaramaiah, they come across as hypocrites," Joshi told reporters here. Congress leaders are claiming that BJP had promised in its manifesto that it will protect the Waqf properties, he said. "Yes. We had said. It is on record...What we have said is existing Waqf properties that have been encroached upon and looted by senior Congress leaders will be saved." "They (Congress leaders) have taken illegal gratification worth thousands of crores (of rupees) from these lands, in the form of lease and rent," Joshi alleged. The Anwar Manippady report says that Waqf properties have been misused by senior Congress leaders, Joshi said. "We had said that we will protect those lands. What are you (Congress govt) doing now? lands of Mutts and temples are being claimed by Waqf. I'm asking Siddaramaiah, what are you trying to do?" Joshi asked. "This is a big conspiracy. For the Congress party, the state and country don't matter. They have a soft corner for terrorists...What is happening? What has happened to the Congress party, have they lost their mind?" he asked. Manippady, as the then chairman of the Karnataka State Minority Commission, had prepared the report and submitted it to the government in March 2012 when the BJP was in power. It was later tabled in the legislature. "What is now happening (now) is, using Waqf, lands belonging to farmers, individuals, temples, Mutts, and in some cases entire villages, are being claimed," Joshi alleged. There were allegations by a section of farmers from Vijayapura district that their lands were marked as Waqf properties. Similar charges have surfaced from a few other places subsequently, and also by some organisations and religious institutions like Mutts.

With the row escalating, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, directed officials that all notices issued to farmers be immediately revoked, and any unauthorised amendments in land records without due notice must also be nullified. Joshi also claimed that the Congress government in the state is now preparing to withdraw cases booked in KG Halli and DJ Halli riots cases, in which a Congress Dalit MLA's house was burned. "I have credible information that they are withdrawing those cases also." He pointed out that in spite of the ban on Students' Islamic Movement of India (SIMI) and the court upholding it, 125 cases against them were withdrawn by the Congress government earlier. Also, criminal cases filed in Hubballi riot incidents involving a mob attack on the police in 2022, including those booked under Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA), were withdrawn recently.

Tourism Department says Goa attracting travellers from new international destinations through charter flights

PTI ■ PANAJI

The Goa Tourism Department has said that the state is increasingly attracting international travellers from a growing number of countries. The department in a media statement issued here has said that new charter flights from key markets, including Russian cities Moscow and Ekaterinburg, London, Uzbekistan, and Kazakhstan, support international arrivals. A Polish charter flight is set to arrive in the coastal state on November 8. These flights signify Goa's appeal beyond beach tourism, drawing visitors to the state's scenic hinterlands and popular sites like Dudhsagar falls, it said. To enhance international accessibility, Goa is focused on securing better direct connectivity with key overseas markets and collaborations with major airlines and international travel platforms are underway, the tourism department spokesman said. "However, establishing robust direct international connectivity requires further support from the government of India, which we are actively seeking to make Goa an even more attractive, accessible, and globally connected destination," he added. The spokesman said that while global travel faced unprecedented disruptions due to the COVID-19 pandemic, impacting foreign tourist numbers worldwide, Goa's international tourism is on a steady path to recovery. "In 2023, foreign tourist arrivals rose to over 4,50,000, a significant increase from pandemic lows, as travel restrictions eased and global mobility improved," he said. According to the department, Goa saw over 8 million domestic visitors in 2023. The spokesperson also downplayed comparisons between destinations in Goa and countries like Sri Lanka. Such comparisons may yield an inaccurate perspective, he said. "Goa does face some challenges. For example, limited scheduled international air connectivity. The state government is working closely with the Centre to relook at point of call and additional seat entitlement for Goa, to establish more robust international connections," he said.

J and K Assembly session ends, BJP legislators hold mock session after staging a walkout

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

The five-day-long maiden session of the Jammu and Kashmir Legislative Assembly ended on a stormy note on Friday. The main opposition, Bharatiya Janta Party (BJP) staged a walkout from the House in the first half of the session after some of its members were marshaled out of the house again while they were protesting against the passage of a resolution over the special status. As the house reconvened on Friday it witnessed acrimonious scenes for the third day in succession. A few members from the PDP and Peoples Conference attempted to display a banner in the house while BJP MLAs raised slogans like 'Pakistani agenda nahi chalega'. As chaos prevailed some of the BJP MLAs jumped into the well of the House following which Speaker Abdul Rahim Rather directed that they be marshalled out. Soon after they were evicted, other BJP MLAs walked out of the House in protest. The house proceedings went on smoothly as other members participated in the discussion on the Lieutenant Governor's address. Later, BJP legislators held a mock session on the lawns of the Jammu and Kashmir Assembly. Speaking one by one the BJP legislators described the House resolution on the restoration of special status as "illegal" and "unconstitutional". BJP leaders said the mock assembly was to protest against the National Conference which had "hijacked the House". "The House is hijacked by the NC. We won't allow this to happen. A constitutional crisis has been brought about by the NC. They have violated the rules," BJP MLA Balwant Singh Mankotia said. In the second half of the day, NC president Farooq Abdullah attended the Assembly proceedings from the Speaker's gallery. "I see a very prominent personality Dr Farooq Abdullah in the Speaker's gallery. I request all members to join me in welcoming him," Speaker Abdul Rahim Rather said. Meanwhile, Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Omar Abdullah on Friday expressed disappointment over the recent criticism of his party's resolution in the Legislative Assembly, stating that those who had previously congratulated and supported him for bringing Article 370 resolution had now started accusing the NC of compromising. In an address to the assembly, Abdullah said that bringing any resolution that would never be accepted in Parliament was foolish. He stated that such resolutions should instead force Parliament to reconsider the issue. Referring to the growing controversy surrounding the resolution, Abdullah urged young political leaders to be cautious of the influence of social media platforms, especially WhatsApp and Facebook.

CM Pema Khandu urges police to help government in ending 'bandh' culture

PTI ■ ITANAGAR

Arunachal Pradesh Chief Minister Pema Khandu on Friday exhorted police personnel to help the state government in ending the bandh culture by implementing the existing laws. Addressing the 52nd Raising Day of the Arunachal Pradesh Police at Indira Gandhi Park here, the CM said his government will never tolerate bandh culture in the state which has adverse effects on the society and the people. "The state police should strictly implement all the existing laws to curb the menace. Bandh is not the ultimate solution to place grievances. Organisations should adopt other means to place their grievances before the government.

Bandh has a negative effect on the society and the state incurs heavy loss due to a strike," Khandu said. Appreciating the state police for its glorious journey despite various challenges, Khandu said his government had invested a lot in the past nine years to strengthen the force. Referring to drug abuse as a curse to the state, the chief minister called upon the police to deal with the problem strictly.

"In the last nine years, 1,678 vehicles were provided to the department, besides implementing the comprehensive surrender policy. The government has also installed CCTVs in all the police stations and established a battalion of National Disaster Response Force at Hollongi where as many as 1,100 volunteers were trained to help the government during disaster," the chief minister said. He added that seven women police stations are already functional in the state and more are in the pipeline. As many as 2,993 posts under various categories were created and the recruitment process was completed to strengthen the state police, Khandu said. The government had instituted the Arunachal Ratna award to honour police officials, who made supreme sacrifice on duty, by providing ex gratia of Rs 50 lakh. The chief minister appreciated the state police for peaceful conduct of the recently concluded Assembly and Lok Sabha elections in the state and for maintaining law and order. Khandu added that the state cabinet recently approved changing the nomenclature of the Special Investigation Cell (Vigilance) to the Anti-Corruption Bureau to curb and check all sorts of corruption in the state. The cabinet also gave its nod for granting special grades to police constables and assistant sub-inspectors to ensure timely career progression, he said.

BJP targets Mamata's women voter base with Annapurna Yojna promise

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

In an apparent bid to dent the woman vote bank of Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, much of which hinges on her women-centric schemes, the Bengal BJP too has gone to town (red villages) peddling its patent Annapurna Yojna plan so as to lure the better half of the Bengali society to its fold ahead of 2026 Assembly elections. Union Home Minister Amit Shah on October 27 inaugurated the party's membership drive in the state. Christened "Amar Poribar, BJP Poribar (My Family, BJP family)," the special drive aims at netting one crore members by the year end. In fact party state president and Union Minister Sukanto Majumdar in an organisational meeting in Burdwan asked the cadres to explain to the homemakers the Rs 3,000 scheme under Annapurna Yojna prompting the TMC leaders to ask if he had already forgotten the oath of office administered by the President when he became a Union minister. Majumdar asked the workers to "go to people and ask them to be BJP members... if they ask why... Tell them that bringing BJP means bringing Narendra Modi to office... and if that happens in Bengal then women would be able to get the benefit of Annapurna Yojna." He also asked the workers to fill up the BJP's membership form so as to become the beneficiaries of the Annapurna Yojna that entailed a monthly receipt of Rs 3,000. Accordingly, the subaltern BJP leaders have instructed their foot soldiers to go house-to-house promising Rs 3,000 under Annapurna Yojna should they join the saffron party, insiders said. Incidentally a similar campaign was made by State Opposition Leader Suwendu Adhikari in 2023 Panchayat elections - albeit with a limited success - when he said that if BJP came to office, they would implement Annapurna Yojna in Bengal, providing Rs 3,000 per month to each beneficiary. To feed a cash and industry-starved state Mamata Banerjee had quite successfully introduced a "dole politics" in Bengal through what she called "janomukhi" (pro-people) schemes - like Kanyashree, Rupashree and not least Laxmir Bhandar - reaping rich electoral harvests in successive years, said political analyst BN Chakraborty. The BJP expects that its proposal to offer thrice the amount paid by the TMC government via Laxmir Bhandar could be its trump card. TMC government directly transfers Rs 1,000 - which was earlier Rs 500 - to the bank accounts of eligible women. Apart from Laxmir Bhandar, Mamata Banerjee runs a highly popular scheme called Kanyashree aimed at disincentivising marriage till at least the age of 18 by offering scholarships to the girls. To match Kanyashree the Chief Minister has also devised Rupashree for women who have come of age by providing them a one-time grant of Rs 25,000 during marriage.

Rape capital

Despite countless promises and policies, the capital continues to fall short on women's safety

In yet another harrowing incident that highlights Delhi's persistent reputation as the "rape capital" of India, a young woman was allegedly gang-raped by three men near the busy ITO chowk. On October 10, 2024, the survivor, a community leader and researcher from Puri, Odisha, was assaulted and then abandoned near the Sarai Kale Khan area. It would take more than three weeks for Delhi Police to apprehend the suspects in what was an elaborate and challenging investigation. This case, though one among many, casts an intense spotlight on Delhi's persistent challenges with women's safety. Despite widespread public outrage, nationwide protests, and even legislative reforms spurred by the 2012 Nirbhaya case, the city remains one of the most dangerous places for women. This incident underscores the gaps in ensuring safety, accountability, and justice for women, despite heightened scrutiny and the promises made over the years. In the wake of the Nirbhaya gang rape, public demands for justice led to significant legal reforms, including amendments to the Criminal Law in 2013. These included harsher punishments for sexual offenders and the establishment of fast-track courts. The Delhi Police increased surveillance, deployed women patrol teams, and set up additional helplines. However, cases like this illustrate that systemic changes alone haven't proven sufficient to curb these crimes. Although police presence has increased, patrols are often sparse in secluded areas where many such crimes occur.

There are also challenges with delayed response times and gaps in the training and sensitivity of law enforcement officials towards victims of sexual violence. Crimes against women are frequently dismissed or downplayed, especially in cases where victims are perceived as "easy targets." The perpetrators in this case allegedly targeted the survivor believing she was mentally unwell. Many survivors face severe trauma, which impacts their ability to recount details of the assault or pursue legal recourse effectively. While authorities in this case took extraordinary steps to support the survivor, such efforts are still rare. Establishing accessible and widespread trauma-informed support systems is crucial for the safety and wellbeing of survivors. This horrific incident should prompt a critical examination of the measures that have failed Delhi's women. Reforms need to extend beyond legal frameworks and involve deeper societal and systemic changes. Expanding surveillance to cover secluded areas, introducing real-time monitoring could enhance response times and deter potential offenders. Law enforcement must receive adequate training in trauma-informed approaches, victim sensitivity, and rigorous investigative procedures. Transforming societal attitudes towards women and sexual violence is critical. Public campaigns and educational programmes that challenge stereotypes and promote empathy can help change the culture that enables such violence.

India's AI dilemma: Balancing innovation with job security

As AI transforms industries globally, it also raises concerns about job displacement in India, especially within sectors like IT, management and creative fields

Artificial intelligence (AI) is reshaping industries across the globe and India is no exception. The introduction of AI promises growth opportunities, new business models, and enhanced competitiveness in the global market. However, it also raises significant concerns, especially around job security. This is particularly true for workers in sectors perceived as more susceptible to automation, such as IT, management, writing, and entertainment. The duality of optimism for AI's potential and anxieties over job displacement is a pressing issue for India as it seeks to balance these perspectives. In the business sector, AI is primarily used to automate routine tasks and streamline management functions, resulting in improved decision-making capabilities. Middle management roles are especially vulnerable to automation as AI takes on complex tasks, such as supply chain, data, and customer management, with minimal human intervention. By optimising these operations, companies achieve greater control and efficiency, but at the potential cost of middle-management jobs. Similarly, the creative industries are feeling the impact of AI. Fields such as modeling, advertising, voice acting, and content creation face increasing competition from AI-generated graphics, voices, and written content. AI models are now advanced enough to produce realistic images, draft coherent articles, and even mimic human voices, reducing the need for human involvement in creative tasks. This shift leaves specialists in these areas concerned about future employment prospects. The challenge lies in adapting to these changes, harnessing the benefits of AI while mitigating job loss. The Indian government recognises the implications of

AI on job creation and is actively working to address these challenges. One of its main strategies is to focus on human capital development and workforce preparedness. Initiatives like the Pradhan Mantri Kaushal Vikas Yojna (PMKVY) aim to upskill a significant portion of the population, emphasising AI, machine learning, and robotics. These initiatives intend to create new job opportunities in AI while managing its impact on the workforce. The private sector is also contributing to this effort. Major Indian IT firms, such as Infosys, Wipro, and Tata Consultancy Services (TCS), have launched extensive upskilling programmes to prepare their employees for the digital future. Infosys, for instance, has developed a global training initiative to help its workforce keep pace with advancements in AI and other emerging technologies. These transformation-focused programs prioritise skills in AI, cloud computing, and data science, equipping workers to stay relevant in a rapidly evolving job market. Some companies are also finding ways to integrate AI that enhance, rather than replace, human productivity. Transitioning to an AI-driven economy has its benefits and challenges. On one hand, AI is expected to spur economic growth and innovation, creating new opportunities. On the other hand, it raises concerns about job security and the redistribution of work. Addressing these challenges requires a collaborative effort among workers, businesses, and the government. For workers, adaptability is key, requiring a willingness to acquire new skills and embrace evolving work environments. For businesses and policymakers, there is a shared responsibility to invest in reskilling initiatives and create jobs that align with AI-driven changes. By prioritising human capital and fostering a proactive approach to workforce development, India can position itself to benefit from AI while minimising the risk of widespread job displacement. India 2047: Towards a unified developed nation

J S RAJPUT

Achieving 'Viksit Bharat' will demand a collective effort to foster religious harmony, address environmental threats and navigate global tensions

India awaits 2047 as it aspires to become one of the developed nations, and obviously, that would mean striving, sincerely and collectively for the welfare of each of its citizens. Hopefully, in the Viksit Bharat, none would need a free ration, and freebies doled out as allurement for votes would become history. It would also unhindered availability of potable water, clean air, an all-weather roof over their heads, and freedom from a 'no-work-to-do' situation. Hunger, ill health and malnutrition would become history! India would have a system of education that would ensure equality of access and success at the same level for the children of the Lutyens zone and those in the Jhabua Village!

Education shall no longer remain a 'necessary utopia! Moving in this direction necessitates getting rid of communal disharmony and socio-cultural exclusion of every kind. We expect a nation that no longer suffers the minority-majority concerns! Having seriously studied various aspects of social cohesion and religious amity - or social and religious cohesion and amity - in India, there is no escape from acknowledging that it is a very complex conundrum of communal curvatures that are resistant to various well-intentioned initiatives to smoothen it out.

posed by climate change, a sharp deterioration of man-nature relationships, and ever-increasing violence in various forms and formats. The futility of the peace-making efforts by those whose economic interests require greater production of lethal weapons, and their sale and consumption is no longer a hidden secret. The tensions, turmoil and anxiety that all of this creates are now being experienced everywhere, particularly in the West, which accepted the refugees and intruders with open arms, many of them are now repenting their policies of the past! The rise of distrust and apprehension constitutes greater danger than sporadic violence the instances of which are increasing in European nations. These examples give some indications of the world before the young of today, and those who would wield power tomorrow!

There are human values that are common to every religion, and these could become the ground for cementing comradery without in any way interfering with the ways of faith and religious practices. The global rise of fundamentalism, terrorism, and fanaticism, and the consequent expansion of distrust, oppression and seclusion are certainly not conducive to a better life for the people, no matter how many more gadgets are made available in their homes. Sadly enough, it was very clear at the turn of the millennium that in days ahead, things would get tougher for leadership to handle, and the very survival of the human race would be at stake. In the third decade of the 21st century, humanity and the planet Earth confront the challenges

India is a major Asian nation that suffers from a huge influx of illegal migrants, and most of them get support from several political parties. It is clear that this support is based purely on communal considerations, and is certainly not in the national interest. It adds to the fragile relationship that has existed all along, was fuelled during the freedom struggle and led to the partition of

India, the possibility of achieving social cohesion and religious amity remained elusive. The two-nation theory was elaborated in an oft-quoted speech of Sir Syed Ahmad Khan in his Meerut speech delivered in March 1888, his view of the scenario that may emerge after the British leave: "Is it possible that under these circumstances two nations - the Mohammadans and the Hindus - could sit on the same throne and remain equal in power? Most certainly not." Sir Syed was one of the most respected and admired of the leaders of the Muslim community who had opened the doors of modern education for them, and hence, the enlightened Muslim youth adored him. The essence of the above represented the prevailing sentiments of the Muslim community, and these were perpetuated by those who opposed the views of Sir Syed on modern education. They, however, grabbed the idea of two nations! Subsequently, in the same lecture, Sir Syed elaborates his views further: the principle of a representative government is 'that it is government by a nation, and that the nation in question rules over its own people and own land.' It is as simple as that: there could be no possibility of any representative government elected by Hindus and Muslims together ever ruling over India consisting not only of the nations of Hindus and Muslims but others who should also constitute nations of their own. Indian democracy establishes that communal harmony is possible, and the two communities are equally enlightened to work together. While Sir Syed deserves and gets praise for his futuristic outlook on modern education and its dire need to uplift the Muslims, it would certainly remain a matter of serious debate whether his definition of two nations did create a lasting impact on the psyche of the community that persists even today. The doctrine of the two-nation theory finally got buried with the formation of Bangladesh, and emerging multi-religious societies in Europe. If there is one nation that could present a functional model of religious unity it is India, the Hindus and the Muslims of India. Nowhere else, the equality of all religions is so deep-rooted in thought and deed as in the ancient Indian culture. It could be revived by the hereditary dialogical tradition which has excelled historically. (Professor Rajput works in education, social cohesion and religious amity. SC UPHOLDS MADARSA ACT

Madam — Recently, the Supreme Court, in its landmark judgement has upheld the constitutional validity of Uttar Pradesh Board of Madarsa Education Act 2004, reversing an Allahabad High Court ruling that it was unconstitutional." The Madarsa Act provides a legal framework for these institutions in UP. The Allahabad High Court had said in its judgement that the Act made it compulsory for students to study Islam and more modern subjects were made optional, which is a violation of the right to free compulsory education under Article 21A of the Constitution. By upholding the educational rights of minority communities in Uttar Pradesh, the Supreme Court has now confirmed the state can regulate the madarsa education board to ensure standards of excellence. Also, SC observed that though minorities have a right under Article 30 of the Constitution to establish and administer madarsa to impart religious or secular education, the right is not absolute. SC has also said that so long as the regulation is reasonable and rational, states can regulate aspects of education in minority institutions without violating their rights to handle the administration. At the same time, in a significant move, SC has struck down a part of the Madarsa Act's section 9 which allows the Board to grant degrees as it is against UGC norms. In general, the SC verdict not only safeguards the right of madarsa students to pursue education but also affirms the constitutional principles that protect religious minorities and their educational institutions. Gambling's global impact

Gambling, casinos, and betting, once limited and far less accessible, have now become available 24 hours a day through social media, mobile phones, and gambling apps. In the past, individuals had to travel and stand in queues to participate in such activities. This easy access has significantly accelerated the harmful impact of gambling. To date, an estimated 450 million people worldwide have faced negative consequences, including severe financial losses, deteriorating physical and mental health, broken family relationships, and, tragically, suicide. These alarming trends paint a grim and toxic picture of our global future. The issue doesn't spare any age group. Research shows that 15.8 per cent of adults are addicted to gambling, with an even higher rate of 26.4 per cent among adolescents. Given the severity of the situation, it is imperative for the world to introduce and implement comprehensive strategies to address this crisis. Learning from the past, it must act decisively to safeguard future generations and build a healthier, safer society. Jakir Hussain | Kanpur assassination attempts and becoming President again is a massive turnaround and achievement, and it would be an understatement to call Trump a proverbial phoenix. He is now the oldest person in US history to be elected president. He may have been out of power from 2020 to 2024, but he was never away from America's psyche. Either you love him or hate him, but he is here to stay. His main poll planks were reviving the US economy, vanishing inflation, and illegal immigration, and all these seem to have resonated with US voters. Moreover, this verdict cannot be construed against Kamala Harris, it is more against the Joe Biden administration. She hardly had 100 days to prepare, campaign, and fight. The world would hope that Trump walks the talk and plays a big role in ending the war in Ukraine-Russia. Trump's policies would be keenly watched because if he follows America's first policy, then Indian exporters in textiles, pharma and automobiles may feel the pinch and H1-B rules could further

be tightened, which could mean Indian IT professionals and companies will be adversely impacted. Bal Govind | Noida DELHI CONGRESS NYAY YATRA Madam — The Delhi Congress commenced a month-long 'Nyay Yatra' on November 8, with the goal of tending to residents' concerns and advocating for governmental action. Senior leaders such as Mallikarjun Kharge, Rahul Gandhi, and K C Venugopal have been invited to spearhead the troop, which will traverse all 70 Vidhan Sabha constituencies. This was disclosed by state unit chief Devender Yadav. Congress workers will engage with locals to listen to their concerns and collect suggestions. Running until December 4, the campaign will showcase a variety of community members and act as a precursor to the upcoming Assembly elections. TRUMP 2.0: IMPACT ON INDIA

Trump's return could offer India a pivotal role in global tech and manufacturing

KUMARDEEP BANERJEE

The third time is a charm, as the saying goes and we are not talking about PM Modi coming back to power for three consecutive terms, but his close friend, the 47th President of the US, Donald Trump. Having successfully dodged a couple of bullets (quite literally), impeachments, and felony charges, President Trump, triumphed over the collective choice of the most powerful economy in the world the United States of America. While the right-wingers across the globe, including in India celebrated his victory, as a literal victory for the "RIGHT" and what they saw as the tyranny of the so-called "left" liberals, President Trump 2.0 is most likely to be more nuanced than his version one. What it means for India is a mixed box of chocolates which can be bitter or boldly sweet depending on the pick.

President-elect Trump is known to be a hard negotiator, particularly on trade topics and he has famously described India as one of the highest offenders on this front. He is a businessman with decades of experience and has a transactional approach to trade, something not alien to Indian politicians particularly, from the Western regions. Trump's presidency 1.0 and the humongous growth in India-US bilateral commercial relations, plus a business-oriented Indian government at the centre, for now over a decade, has also served as a training ground for several tough negotiators to emerge from the bureaucratic class in India. Therefore, while officials in the government are aware of the tough negotiations ahead with the US on trade-related matters or import tariffs or say restrictions, they are hopeful, of finding a middle path given their familiarity with the President's style of functioning.

The dragon in the room would be cagey, as President-elect Trump in the run-up to the elections has vowed to impose stiff tariffs on imports from China. This may be great news for India, especially with the current government's focus being on making Bharat the manufacturing hub for electronics hardware, at least for the region.

Indian bureaucrats pushing the manufacturing envelope are deeply aware, that developing India into a hub, is a long-term game that may outlive the current regimes in DC and Delhi. They are also acutely aware that, by allowing friendshoring to India, by large US companies in the China plus one model, Trump will have an advantage. He could negotiate this card by pressuring India to buy perhaps more hydrocarbons or defence technology from the US. While the technology partnership was not primarily the centrepiece of India US bilateral relationship under Trump 1.0, his successor Joe Biden created a delectable topping with cooperation on critical and emerging technologies as an important element of the partnership. Initiatives such as iCET (initiative for critical and emerging technologies) which are directly monitored by the heads of both countries have put an unwavering sanctity to the tech partnership between the two democracies.

President Trump could either encourage US tech to keep fulfilling India's avowed target of being the next global electronics manufacturing hub while holding it as a bargaining chip, or, he may find a creative solution to persuade some of these companies to shift back some of their factories to domestic shores. The latter possibility seems unlikely as Donald Trump has, traditionally been a huge supporter of creating more jobs for Americans in the old manufacturing sectors. Much of President Trump's technology policy is likely to be curated by his biggest donor and tech czar Elon Musk. Elon Musk has business interests in China where he has some of his largest Tesla factories, besides, he has been trying to enter the Indian automobile market with little success. His other business interests including satellite-based telecommunication services, have struggled to start bearing in India. Many of these factors would determine the crucial next four years of the Modi-Trump era.

Trump's return: A radical shift in US foreign policy

K S TOMAR

As Donald Trump returns to the White House, he may redefine the boundaries of American leadership and influence in an increasingly multipolar world

Trump's return to the White House in 2024 sparks a torrent of questions about the future of NATO, the American economy, relationships with allies, and the trajectory of the Ukraine war. Trump's previous tenure exhibited a strong tilt toward "America First" policies, frequently challenging long-standing global alliances and multilateral commitments. A Trump-led presidency, therefore, could dramatically shift the geopolitical landscape, leaving allies like NATO in uncertainty, reorienting America's economic policies, testing India's balancing act, and redefining China relations.

The Future of NATO: Endurance or Erosion? NATO, the cornerstone of Western defence since 1949, stands as a central topic of speculation with Trump's return. During his presidency, Trump questioned the alliance's relevance, particularly its financial obligations, going as far as to imply a possible US withdrawal if members didn't contribute "their fair share." This stance generated unease among NATO allies, who rely on the US for critical defence resources, particularly amid heightened Russian aggression. As Trump resumes office, his approach to NATO could undergo even bolder recalibration. The European defence structure, largely dependent on the US, might face significant strategic and funding shifts, possibly prompting European powers to take on more defence responsibilities. A reduction in US military and financial support for NATO might embolden adversarial actors, especially Russia. A scaled-back US commitment could mean vulnerabilities for Eastern European countries like Poland and the Baltic states, which depend on NATO's security umbrella to counter Russian expansionism. The impact on NATO, therefore, hinges heavily on Trump's strategic decisions regarding alliance burden-sharing and his capacity to persuade European allies to increase their defence expenditures.

The Global Stakes: A Pivotal Crossroads The implications of Trump's return extend far beyond America's borders. With China's rise and Russia's ambitions continuing to shape global security dynamics, Trump's foreign policy choices will carry weighty consequences. His transactional approach to alliances, "America First" economics, and unpredictable stance on defence alliances could reshape international relationships, with traditional allies rethinking their reliance on US support. His handling of NATO's commitments, the Ukraine war, and relations with global powers like India and China will determine the future stability of Western influence and the global balance of power.

China and India: Competing powers: Under Trump, the US-China relationship could revert to one defined by rivalry, as he has consistently advocated a tough stance on China's trade practices and global ambitions. Trump may reassert his strict tariffs on Chinese goods and impose even tighter restrictions on Chinese companies operating in the US, aiming to curb China's influence in areas like technology and manufacturing. For India, Trump's return poses a mix of opportunities and challenges. His administration was notably warm toward India, fostering stronger economic and defence ties through agreements such as the "2+2" Dialogue. A renewed focus on countering China could make India a key strategic partner, particularly in the Indo-Pacific. Trump might offer India more defence cooperation or technology transfers, potentially strengthening India's military and economic positioning in Asia. However, India's balancing act between the US and Russia—given India's defence ties with Moscow—could be complicated if Trump takes a firm stance against the Ukraine conflict. India's careful neutrality on the Russia-Ukraine issue might attract scrutiny, with Trump possibly expecting more alignment with US strategic priorities.

Economic Fallout-America's Financial Future: Trump's economic approach has traditionally leaned toward protectionism, focusing on restoring jobs, renegotiating trade deals, and limiting dependence on foreign supply chains. This economic philosophy could be reinvigorated if he returns to the Oval Office, with potential implications for trade, inflation, and employment in the US. One possible outcome is the continuation or even intensification of tariffs on China, aimed at reducing the US trade deficit. However, these tariffs historically contributed to increased costs for American consumers and businesses, raising prices on imported goods and creating inflationary pressures. Another protectionist push could have similar consequences, forcing Americans to pay more for everyday products as companies pass on tariff costs. Trump's "America First" approach could also mean tax reforms or incentives for companies to manufacture domestically. This reshoring could create jobs but would also drive up production costs due to higher wages, potentially making US goods less competitive internationally. Furthermore, a rigid stance on trade could strain relations with economically integrated allies, with Trump demanding trade terms perceived as fair to the US, which could disrupt existing agreements and introduce new economic tensions globally.

Allies under Pressure: A Reshaped Global Order? The Trump administration's approach to alliances was often unpredictable, blending close relationships with some leaders while alienating others. His "transactional" foreign policy style prioritised immediate gains over long-standing partnerships, which led to fractures with allies. Now Trump's return could mean intensified pressure on allies to prioritise bilateral deals over multilateral cooperation, transforming relationships with the EU, Japan, South Korea, and other allies. Trump's policies toward Europe might manifest in demands for favourable trade deals or concessions on defence spending. For Japan and South Korea, his re-emergence could signal heightened pressure to contribute more to their defence arrangements, potentially testing their security alliances with the US. Even Middle Eastern allies, like Saudi Arabia, could face new expectations under a Trump administration more interested in specific, tangible returns on US support rather than abstract commitments.

The Ukraine War: A Fractured Consensus? Trump's return to the White House could introduce an alternative perspective on the Ukraine conflict, deviating from the largely unified Western support for Ukraine. Trump has openly criticised high US financial aid to Ukraine, signalling his belief that European countries should shoulder more of the burden.

With the conflict consuming billions of dollars in American aid, he may choose to reduce US involvement, putting pressure on European allies to increase their support and potentially compelling Ukraine to consider negotiations. A Trump-led administration might seek to avoid confrontation with Russia, which could weaken Ukraine's position on the battlefield. Trump's emphasis on diplomacy over confrontation with Moscow could affect NATO's cohesion, with some members potentially favouring a stronger stance against Russia while the US takes a more hands-off approach. This scenario could embolden Russia, who might see a shift in US leadership as a chance to pursue more aggressive tactics in Ukraine or even attempt to influence other former Soviet territories.

The fate of the Ukraine war, therefore, would depend largely on Trump's approach—whether he chooses to maintain US support for Kyiv or pivot toward encouraging negotiations, potentially shifting the course of the conflict and signalling a new era of US-Russia dynamics. In many ways, Trump's presidency would signify a recalibration of American foreign policy, returning to his brand of nationalism mixed with pragmatism.

However, this approach could generate friction with allies, alter the global economy, and challenge existing diplomatic norms. Whether this path will foster a stronger, more self-reliant US or an isolated and fragmented world order remains to be seen. As Trump is poised to start second term, his return promises to redefine the boundaries of American leadership and influence in an increasingly multipolar world.

Expanding healthcare for India's elderly: A new phase for PM-JAY

Comprehensive healthcare needs of India's rapidly growing elderly population require further policy evolution, aiming for a holistic, sustainable healthcare system for the aging citizens

India is home to a significant elderly population, with approximately 138 million people aged 60 and above, including more than 10 crore individuals over the age of 70. This segment of the population has unique and pressing healthcare needs. As people age, they are increasingly susceptible to multiple chronic conditions that require specialised care and consistent medical attention. According to the Longitudinal Ageing Study of India (LASI), every fourth Indian over 60 years and every fifth Indian over 45 years reports poor health. Additionally, 75 per cent of the elderly have one or more chronic diseases, and 40 per cent experience disabilities. 1 in 4 elderly individuals has multi-morbidity, with diabetes and cancer rates rising, particularly in urban areas. As per the Global Health Estimates data of 2019, non-communicable diseases such as ischemic heart diseases, stroke, and diabetes are leading causes of disability-adjusted life years (DALYs) lost among individuals over 60. This highlights the growing need for specialised treatments and consistent medical attention for age-related disorders. The rising prevalence of hypertension, heart disease, and respiratory issues among the elderly increases the need for hospitalisation and specialised care, placing immense pressure on healthcare providers and overwhelming the elderly and their families. The financial burden associated with recurrent hospital visits and treatments is a significant challenge. Also, India's current medical inflation rate, standing at approximately 14 per cent which worsens the healthcare difficulties confronting the elderly. Escalating medical costs, including those for hospitalisation, doctor consultations, and medications, make it increasingly challenging for this vulnerable population to access necessary care. Inflation, coupled with the high cost of living, leaves many elderly individuals struggling to afford even basic healthcare services. Additionally, as medical inflation continues to rise, insurance companies are compelled to cover higher expenses for medical procedures and treatments. This, in turn, results in increased premiums for policyholders. For many elderly individuals, these higher insurance costs compound the financial burden, deepening the overall healthcare affordability crisis. While the expansion of the Ayushman Bharat Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana

(AB PM-JAY) is a significant step towards improving healthcare access, covering an additional 6 crore individuals from 4.5 crore families, and focusing on seniors aged 70 and above, several challenges persist in the insurance market. Current insurance products are limited, particularly for individuals over the age of 70. Pre-existing diseases (PED) such as diabetes, cardiovascular conditions, and cancer often result in waiting periods or outright denial of coverage. Furthermore, insurance premiums for senior citizens are substantially higher due to the associated health risks, making insurance unaffordable for many. Denial of insurance based on PED, combined with exorbitant premiums, often forces elderly individuals to rely on personal savings or government schemes, leaving them without adequate financial protection against serious illnesses. According to the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), India's elderly population is projected to nearly triple by 2050, reaching 320 million. This demographic shift will necessitate more comprehensive solutions to safeguard the well-being of the nation's senior citizens. While the expansion of PM-JAY is a welcome development, it does not fully address the broader geriatric needs of India's aging population. AB PM-JAY is largely limited to inpatient care. The scheme does not cover outpatient services, which make up a considerable portion of healthcare costs. Research published in the International Journal of Preventive Medicine shows that outpatient care accounts for 40-80 per cent of health expenditures in India. Consequently, even with the enhanced insurance coverage, many individuals may continue to face out-of-pocket expenses for treatments that do not require hospitalisation. There is an urgent need to expand coverage to include services such as long-term care, outpatient services, mental health support, palliative care, and rehabilitation, which are essential for ensuring the well-being of the elderly. Additionally, the government must focus on reducing financial barriers to healthcare, such as high insurance premiums, and ensuring the inclusion of PED coverage without long waiting periods. (The writer is senior consultant at Enira Consulting; views are personal)

Philippine President signs new laws to secure sea territory

AP ■ MANILA (PHILIPPINES)

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos Jr signed two laws on Friday reaffirming the extent of his country's maritime territories and right to resources, including in the South China Sea, where the new laws clash with Beijing's extensive territorial claims. The move angered Beijing, and China's foreign ministry said it summoned the Philippines ambassador to China to lodge a "stern protest." The ministry condemned the move as an attempt to "solidify the illegal ruling of the South China Sea arbitration case through domestic legislation." Confrontations between Chinese and Philippine coast guard and naval forces in the disputed sea passage have spiked alarmingly since last year. That has sparked fears that the United States — Manila's longtime treaty ally — may get drawn in a major conflict.

The laws, called the Philippine Maritime Zones Act and the Philippine Archipelagic Sea Lanes Act, were signed by Marcos in a nationally televised ceremony attended by top military and national security officials. They further cement Manila's rejection of China's claims to virtually the entire sea pas-age, and stipulate jail terms and stiff fines for violators. "These signal our resolve to protect our maritime resources, preserve our rich biodiversity and ensure that our waters remain a source of life and livelihood for all Filipinos," Marcos said. Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Mao Ning said the move "seriously infringes on China's territorial sovereignty and maritime rights and interests in the South China Sea." "China strongly condemns and firmly opposes it," she said.

In a new national map it released last year, the Chinese government demarcated its claim to virtually the entire South China Sea with vague dash lines that drew protests and rejections from rival coastal states and government, including Malaysia, Vietnam, Taiwan, Indonesia and the Philippines.

The maritime zones act demarcates key parts of the Philippine archipelago's territory and outlying waters where it has full sovereignty and sovereign rights under international law and the 1982 UN Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS), Philippine officials said. Those zones include the country's Exclusive Economic Zone, a 200-nautical-mile (370-kilometer) stretch of water, where a coastal state like the Philippines has exclusive rights to tap energy and other resources. Foreign ships and aircraft have an internationally recognised right known as "innocent passage" to pass through such a zone, as long as the coastal state's security would not come under threat. The archipelagic sea lanes act allows the Philippines to designate sea lanes and air routes in the archipelago where foreign ships and aircraft could transit under its regulation and in compliance with international law. "These legal instruments solidify our territory and enhances our ability to protect our country against any infringement," National Security Adviser Eduardo Ano said.

Marcos said the laws comply with international law and the UNCLOS, but many of their provisions stand in stark contrast to Beijing's claims in the South China Sea and would likely be rejected and defied by China. It's unclear how the Philippines could enforce the laws, which take effect 15 days after their publication in the government's official gazette or in a newspaper, given China's increasingly aggressive actions to push its claims.

Copies of the laws signed by Marcos were not immediately available but a final version of the maritime zones bill stated that "all artificial islands constructed within the Philippine EEZ belong to the Philippine government." China has transformed seven disputed reefs into what are now missile-protected island bases, including the Mischief Reef, which lies within the Philippines' Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). The law based the Philippines' maritime rights on UNCLOS, Philippine laws and a 2016 international arbitration ruling that invalidated China's extensive territorial claims based on historical grounds. China refused to participate in that arbitration, rejected the ruling and continues to defy it.

Its massive coast guard, navy, air force and suspected militia fleets have used water cannons, military grade lasers and dangerous sea and air maneuvers to intimidate rival forces it accuses of straying into what Beijing calls its territory. Washington has repeatedly warned that it's obligated to defend the Philippines, its oldest treaty ally in Asia, if Filipino forces, aircraft or ships come under an armed attack in the disputed waters.

China approves $840b plan to boost slowing economy

AP ■ BEIJING

China on Friday approved a 6 trillion yuan ($839 billion) plan to help local governments refinance their mountains of debt, in the latest push to rev up growth in the world's second largest economy. The plan will be implemented over the next three years, Xu Hongcai, vice-chairman of the National People's Congress's financial and economic committee, said at a news conference Friday.

Finance minister Lan Fo'an estimated that the hidden debt of local governments was 14.3 trillion yuan ($2 trillion) at the end of 2023. Hidden debt refers to debt that has not been disclosed publicly. Lan said 2 trillion yuan would be allocated each year from 2024 to 2026 to help local governments resolve their debts. He estimated that the amount of hidden debt will drop to 2.3 trillion yuan ($320.9 billion) by the end of 2028. Officials also said Friday that the ceiling to issue special bonds will be raised to 35.52 trillion yuan ($4.96 billion) from 29.52 trillion yuan ($4.12 billion) for local governments. Lan said that the implementation of such a large-scale replacement measure indicates a "fundamental shift" in China's approach to debt restructuring and said that China's government debt risk was "controllable."

Analysts have called for bold, multi-trillion-yuan measures to reinvigorate the world's second largest economy, which has yet to bounce back fully from the COVID-19 pandemic. Local government debts have ballooned partly due to high spending and low tax revenues during the pandemic, but also due to a downturn in the property industry, since sales of land use rights, a key source of local government revenue, have sagged. The central bank loosened restrictions on borrowing in late September, sparking a stock market rally, but economists say the government needs to do more to ignite a sustained recovery.

Government officials have indicated that could come at this week's meeting of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress, which must give official approval to any new spending.

The economy has shown signs of life in the past two months. Purchase subsidies offered to people who trade in old cars or appliances for new ones helped auto sales rebound in September. A survey of manufacturers turned positive in October after five straight months of decline, and exports surged 12.7% last month, the largest increase in more than two years. For most of the year, the ruling Communist Party appeared more focused on addressing long-term structural issues with the economy rather than short-term ones. Previous steps to boost the economy were piecemeal, seemingly aimed at keeping the economy afloat rather than sparking a robust recovery. In recent weeks, the party has signaled a growing concern about the economy's sluggishness as it tries to meet its goal of achieving growth of around 5% this year. The central bank's monetary easing was followed by government pronouncements that it still has ample funds to pump into the economy.

Still, the longer-term goals of transforming China into a high-tech and green energy economy seem likely to remain the chief aims of the Communist Party, which doesn't face election pressures like the ones that toppled the Democrats and swept Donald Trump's Republicans to power in America this week.

Comptroller and Auditor General inaugurates sports complex in Ranchi

PTI ■ RANCHI

Comptroller and Auditor General of India Girish Chandra Murmu on Friday inaugurated a sports complex here and dedicated it to the people of the country. The complex has been constructed for CAG's cricket, football and hockey teams. The CAG has a pool of talented sportspersons and its teams play in tournaments against the best teams in the country like that of railways. "Therefore, a dedicated centralised sports facility, where the teams can practice on a regular basis, has been created at Ranchi," a CAG official said. The facility will be solely dedicated to sports promotion where competitive sports, not recreational, can be held. It will work as a hub for all the outdoor sports disciplines where local players can also practice. Facilities for indoor disciplines like badminton and table tennis are proposed to be taken up in the near future. The recruitment of sportspersons under sports quota was resumed in the Indian Audit and Accounts Department in 2010 with a goal to bring laurels to the Indian Audit & Accounts Department (IA&AD) in five disciplines - hockey, cricket, football, badminton and table tennis. Since 2010, the IA&AD has recruited 1,493 meritorious sportspersons in these five disciplines. As many as 211 sportspersons were recruited in 2023.

Rupee falls five paise to hit new all-time low of 84.37 against US dollar

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Declining for the third straight session, the rupee dropped 5 paise to hit a new lifetime low of 84.37 (provisional) against the US dollar on Friday, weighed down by persistent foreign fund outflows and a muted trend in domestic equities. Forex traders said the US Federal Reserve's recent decision to cut interest rates signals a shift in the global financial landscape. Moreover, with Donald Trump's tax and trade policies influencing global markets, volatility could re-enter the rupee's trajectory. At the interbank foreign exchange, the rupee opened at 84.32 against the US dollar. During the session, the local currency touched a high of 84.31 and a low of 84.38. It finally settled at 84.37 (provisional), a loss of 5 paise against its previous close. On Thursday, the rupee slipped 1 paise to close at a fresh lifetime low of 84.32 against the US dollar. In the last three sessions, the local unit has lost 28 paise against the greenback. The rupee hit a record low on account of extending sell-off in the domestic markets and continuous foreign fund outflows. Overnight gains in crude oil prices also weighed on the rupee, said Anuj Choudhary, Research Analyst at Sharekhan by BNP Paribas. However, the softening of the US Dollar Index cushioned the downside. The dollar softened as the US Federal Reserve cut interest rates by 25 bps in line with street estimates. The Fed Chair Jerome Powell said in his presser that the US economy was strong and some downside risks seemed to have diminished. In its latest monetary policy announcement, the US Fed reduced its benchmark rate by 0.25 basis points to a target range of 4.5 per cent-4.75 per cent.

In its accompanying statement, the Fed adopted a neutral-to-dovish tone, acknowledging balanced risks in inflation and employment. "We expect the rupee to trade with a negative bias on overall strength in the US dollar and weak domestic markets. FII outflows may also weigh on the rupee. However, any intervention by the Reserve Bank may support the rupee at lower levels," Choudhary added. Meanwhile, the Dollar Index, which gauges the greenback's strength against a basket of six currencies, was trading 0.01 per cent lower at 104.50. Brent crude, the global oil benchmark, fell 1.10 per cent to USD 74.80 per barrel in futures trade. In the domestic equity market, the 30-share BSE Sensex fell 55.47 points, or 0.07 per cent, to close at 79,486.32 points, while Nifty declined 51.15 points, or 0.21 per cent, to settle at 24,148.20 points. Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) were net sellers in the capital markets on Thursday, as they offloaded shares worth Rs 4,888.77 crore, according to exchange data.

Reliance Power shares drop 5 pc, hit lower circuit limit

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Shares of Reliance Power Ltd fell by 5 per cent on Friday as the company and Reliance NU BESS Ltd have been debarred from participating in Solar Energy Corporation of India Ltd (SECI) tenders for three years for allegedly submitting fake documents. The stock tanked 4.99 per cent to Rs 41.47 - its lower circuit limit - on the BSE. On the NSE, shares of the firm dropped 5 per cent to hit the lowest trading permissible limit for the day at Rs 41.58. In a note, SECI said, "Based on the examination of documents submitted by Maharashtra Energy Generation, now known as Reliance NU BESS (for a project), it was discovered that as per the tender requirements, the endorsement of the Bank Guarantee against EMD (issued by a foreign Bank), as submitted by the Bidder, was fake." The issue is related to the RfS issued by SECI for setting up 1000 MW/2000 MWh Standalone BESS Projects under tariff-based competitive bidding. Since the above discrepancy was discovered subsequent to the e-reverse auction, SECI was constrained to annul the tendering process. SECI said it has debarred Reliance Power and Reliance NU BESS from participating in tenders issued for a period of three years. As per the tender conditions, the above submission of a fake document as part of its response to RfS rendered the bidder eligible for debarment from future tenders issued by SECI.

Ageing Kohli, Rohit must rekindle youthful mindset to rediscover lost glory: Greg Chappell

PTI ■ MELBOURNE

As Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma prepare for one of their career's defining challenges in Australia in the upcoming Test series, former India head coach Greg Chappell believes the two stalwarts can "rekindle" the energy and focus of their youth to rediscover their lost glory. Wounded by an unprecedented 0-3 home series defeat to New Zealand, India will look to defend the Border-Gavaskar Trophy in the marquee five-match Test series in Australia beginning on November 22. According to Chappell, the ageing Sharma and Kohli must summon the same drive and focus that once marked their prime years if India hopes to reclaim its form on foreign soil. Reflecting on a conversation with Indian legend Sachin Tendulkar in 2005, Chappell shared insights into the hurdles players face as they age. Tendulkar had sought Chappell's perspective and asked "Greg, why does batting become harder as you get older? Surely it should get easier?" "I explained to him that the mental demands of batting intensify with age," Chappell wrote in a column for 'Sydney Morning Herald'. "Batting gets harder because you realise how hard it is to make runs at this level and how difficult it is to maintain the mental focus that is required to be successful," the Australian batting legend wrote. He said "it's not the eyesight or the reflexes that drop off when a players starts ageing but 'it's the intense focus that is required that becomes harder to sustain." "When one is younger, the mind is focused on making runs. As you age, the opposition has put work into finding your weaknesses, and you are more aware of the conditions and the situation of the game. "As a young player, you don't worry about the conditions or the situation of the game, you only see the ball and how to make runs," Chappell wrote, describing Rohit, Kohli and Australian batting stalwart Steve Smith as the "giants" of current times. "If you want to play like you did as a younger player, you have to rekindle the attitude and the thought processes that you had as a younger player. That is the greatest challenge for the ageing player," Chappell had explained to Tendulkar. Chappell said the upcoming five-match Test series in Australia "will be as much a battle of wits and endurance as it will be of skill, with each player needing to summon the drive and adaptability of their younger selves." "This sentiment captures what Sharma, Kohli and (Steve) Smith will confront this series. They know that opposition teams have scrutinised their techniques, studied their weaknesses and developed strategies specifically to exploit even minor chinks." Against New Zealand, Kohli endured his lowest-ever aggregate in a home Test series where he batted at least six times, scoring only 93 runs at an average of 15.50, with one half-century. This poor run has lowered his Test average to 47.83 from a peak of 55.10 in October 2019 -- the first time it has dipped below 48 since November 2016. He has dropped out of top-20 batters in ICC Test rankings for the first time in a decade. The Kohli dropped eight spots to 22nd in the rankings while Rohit slipped to 26th. "For Kohli, the task is one of rejuvenation. Known for his unmatched intensity, passion and high standards, Kohli's recent travails will have annoyed him," Chappell wrote. "The aggressive mindset that propelled him to greatness must now coexist with patience and focus. He enters this series hungry to reiterate his authority as India's most formidable batsman of his generation." For Rohit, according to Chappell, the challenge lies in balancing his aggressive instincts with the calculated caution that Test cricket demands.

KL Rahul's horror run continues as India A suffer another top-order collapse

PTI ■ MELBOURNE

KL Rahul's horror run with the bat continued as he got out in a bizarre fashion to leave India A at a shaky 73 for five on the second day of the second unofficial Test against Australia A here on Friday. Seeking to open the batting for India in case skipper Rohit Sharma skips the first Test against Australia in Perth, Rahul endured a disastrous outing in the tune-up to the Border-Gavaskar Trophy and managed just 14 runs across two innings, having got out for 10 in India A's second innings. Abhimanyu Easwaran's struggles against the moving ball also did not help India A's cause as they led by only 11 runs with half the side back in the dressing room in their second innings. After bowling out India A for 161 on the opening day, Australia A managed 223, not a total the home team had hoped for, but it still gave them a substantial first-innings lead of 62 runs. Coming out to bat for the second time in the game, the Indian top-order disappointed again as the Australian bowlers struck some vital blows to help their team inch closer to a series sweep. Australia A won the opening match by seven wickets. Looking completely out of sorts, Rahul was bowled in a bizarre fashion after facing 44 balls at the Melbourne Cricket Ground. Rahul misjudged a tossed up delivery and offered no shot as the ball ricocheted off his pads to hit the stumps, leaving the batter embarrassed while he walked back to the dressing room. Getting bowled between the legs has compounded his woes ahead of the blockbuster series. Abhimanyu, who was picked as a backup opener for the upcoming five-match rubber Down Under, also failed to deliver, following his first-innings duck with a 17 from 31 balls. The Indian top-order struggled against quality spin and pace, leaving them at 56/5 early in the second innings. Wicketkeeper-batter Dhruv Jurel (19 batting) and Nitish Kumar Reddy (9 batting) ensured there was no further setback by negotiating the remaining overs before the stumps were drawn for the day.

Kiran George enters semifinals of Korea Masters

PTI ■ IKSAN CITY (KOREA)

India's Kiran George continued his spectacular run in the Korea Masters badminton tournament as he stormed into the men's singles semifinals with a straight-game win over fifth seed Takuma Obayashi of Japan here on Friday. The 24-year-old, ranked 41st, beat world number 34 Obayashi 21-14 21-16 in just 39 minutes to register yet another upset win in the BWF World Tour Super 300 event. George runs into Thailand's top seed and world number five Kunlavut Vitidsarn -- who won 21-15 21-11 against Liu Liang of China -- in the semifinals on Saturday. The Indian had beaten third seed Chi Yu Jen of Chinese Taipei in the pre-quarterfinals. George, the lone Indian shuttler competing in the tournament, was in control of the match throughout. After 1-1 scoreline, he was always in the lead in the first game. When George zoomed to 15-6 lead, Obayashi made a brief resistance, closing down the gap to 12-16. But that was all the Japanese could do as George notched four straight points to take the first game. The second game was a much closer affair as the duo breathed down each other's neck. George was initially 7-3 ahead but Obayashi fought back to make it 8-8. After that, it was a neck-and-neck contest. But from 17-16, George grabbed four straight points to seal the second game and the match.

Rauf and Ayub star in Pakistan's resounding nine wicket win over Australia

AP ■ ADELAIDE (AUSTRALIA)

Fast bowler Haris Rauf took 5-29 and Saim Ayub scored 82 runs as Pakistan defeated Australia by nine wickets in the second one-day international on Friday. Australia was 163 all out in 35 overs against Rauf's relentless pace and left-hander Ayub smashed six sixes and five fours as Pakistan cruised to 169-1 in 26.3 overs to level the three-match series. Former captain Babar Azam (15 not out) clinched the victory with a pulled six off Adam Zampa with Abdullah Shafique staying unbeaten on better than run-a-ball 64 which featured four boundaries and three sixes. The series decider will be played at Perth on Sunday with Australia resting five frontline players to prepare for the five-match home test series against India, starting from Nov. 22 at

Perth. The opening pair of Ayub and Shafique had been criticized for run of low scores in test matches, but both blunted the Australian pace with a match-winning stand of 137 runs after Pakistan kept faith on the duo in the white-ball format. Ayub took his time against Hazlewood and Mitchell Starc before he grew in confidence and flicked Pat Cummins, Starc and Aaron Hardie for sixes and also smashed Zampa for two big hits. The left-hander, who made his ODI debut at the Melbourne Cricket Ground on Monday, got a reprieve just before reaching a half century when Zampa dropped a sitter at third man, but he offered a tame catch at short third man just when he looked set for a century. Earlier, Rauf, who nearly pulled off a victory for Pakistan in the first game, found the outside edges of the bats consistently by hitting the right lengths. Captain Mohammad Rizwan took five catches -- four off Rauf's bowling -- and could have had a sixth had he not dropped a top-edge off Zampa (18) before Australia was dismissed after Pakistan won the toss and elected to field on a lively Adelaide wicket. Shaheen Shah Afridi (3-26) provided the breakthrough inside the first power play. Jake Fraser-McGurk hit three crisp boundaries on the off side in Naseem Shah's first over to get Australia rolling before Afridi's twin strike pushed back Australia. Afridi dropped Matt Short at deep fine leg when the ball burst through his hands to the boundary but the left-arm fast bowler made amends when he had Short caught at covers after trapping Fraser-McGurk plumb leg before wicket.
