15 bomb hoax threats received in a day

RAJESH KUMAR 📕 NEW DELHI

The pattern of domestic airlines receiving bomb threats to their flights continued for the fourth consecutive day as Air India got a threat for five flights -Mumbai-London (AI 129), Delhi - New York JFK (AI 119), a Chennai-Singapore and two domestic - IndiGo and Vistara threats for two flights each, were targeted in the similar manner on Thursday. Air India Express is also learnt to have got similar messages for six flights but a confirmation is awaited from the airline. Four of these flights were still on the ground, while three were airborne at the time when the threats were received. The number of flights that have received such threats is now close to around three dozen since Monday, forcing flight diversions and delays, piling up massive operational costs.

On Thursday a Mumbai-bound Vistara flight from Frankfurt with 147 persons on board was immediately taken to security checks on its arrival from Frankfurt following the Boeing 787 aircraft receiving a bomb threat. The flight, UK 28, was over Pakistan when it transmitted the code 7700, having 134 passengers and 13 crew onboard indicating a general emergency at around 6 am (IST) on Thursday, landed in Mumbai at approximately 7.45 am.

At the same time, an IndiGo flight operating from Istanbul in Turkiye for Mumbai also received a bomb threat and was taken to an isolation bay here for the security agencies to carry out a comprehensive security check. "The Vistara flight UK 028 operating from Frankfurt to Mumbai on October 16, 2024 was subject to a security threat received on social media," the airline said.

With the peaceful culmination of the Assembly polls in Jammu and Kashmir, Pakistan-based terrorist groups, operating in the Pir Panjal region, are once again planning to target security forces in the area.

Late Wednesday night, alert troops after observing suspicious movement of a group of heavily armed terrorists challenged them in the thickly forested area of Gursai top in Poonch. Taking advantage of the pitch-dark conditions and undulating hostile terrain the group of terrorists may have managed to flee the area. To track down their footprints, the security forces swiftly launched a massive search operation at Mohri Shahstar in the Gursai top area of Poonch district.

New flyovers, underpasses are pretty, but useless

BY RAJESH KUMAR

A s Delhi is grapples with increasing volume of traffic, the Central Road Research Institute (CRRI) in one of its report had suggested that construction of flyovers and underpasses, and widening roads or right of way are not better approaches and solutions to deal with congestion and heavy road traffic. The report found that new infrastructure projects like flyovers and underpasses can actually increase the number of cars on the road and worsen sustainability.

The report, titled: "Gradual sustainability approach for urban transport through subtle measures", highlights that within a few years of construction, such approaches have increased the number of personal vehicles on worsened roads and sustainability without reducing congestion. The report was based on a study conducted at five key

Metro stations in Delhi. understand the traffic То situation on the ground, the CRRI selected five key Metro stations - Karol Bagh, Laxmi Nagar, Kailash Colony, Lajpat Nagar and Inderlok - in the most crowded locations in the city that always see heavy traffic outside the premises. These are also stations where not only vehicle users face problems, but Metro users as well as pedestrians complain of discomfort in movement and safety issues.

The study has demonstrated that clearly parking related policies (including segregated parking lanes for cycle rickshaws and electricrickshaws) can result in improvement in vehicular speed by two to six km/h in the influence zone of the selected metro stations for all categories of motorised vehicles

Central Road Research Institute report suggests these add to the problem

This is expected to result in total daily savings of 593 litres of petrol, 103 litres diesel and 643 kg CNG, and total CO2e sustainable (equivalent) reduction of 3.5 segregation/shifting of on-street tonne/day in all the five metro parking, signal design, etc.) or similar to those that have been suggested, would result in stations. It is evident that the scenarios (viz.

significant reduction in fuel consumption and corresponding CO2e (equivalent) emissions. This report also shows that minor corrections on roads like improving facilities for improving facilities for sustainable modes, no new construction for vehicle users, implementing on-street parking, lane and segregated parking for cycles and e-rickshaws and better crossing facilities for pedestrians can reduce congestion.

Further, it is also suggested that for effective improvement measures (covered through alternate scenarios), the following areas need to be addressed while preparing traffic circulation plans: (i) On-street parking needs to be channelised and preferably on minor roads. (ii) Segregated parking lanes for cycle rickshaws and e-rickshaws. (iii) Redesign of signals, including 'no free left' turn and 'all red' phase around metro stations. (iv) Pedestrian crossing at-grade as well as through metro stations. (v) Alternative bus stops locations suited to traffic and road users. (vi) Providing bus stops with 'bus bays' only for roads with less than two-lane carriageway. (vii) Possibility to provide segregated pick-up/drop off zones underneath metro stations for taxis, private vehicles and autos. (viii) Explore potential spaces for utilisation of different road users, metro commuters. The Unified Traffic and Transportation Infrastructure (Planning & Engineering) Centre, the nodal agency for traffic planning for the National Capital has specific guidelines for road construction including desirable aspects such as drainage and pedestrian and cycling tracks. But frequently, footpaths, where they exist, turn into parking lots or are encroached upon, while the roads themselves have no consistency in terms of lanes, width or signage.

Soon after the oath ceremony, Haryana CM Nayab Singh Saini said that his government will "work with full energy for good governance, equality and welfare of the poor." Around 50,000 people witnessed the ceremony, with massive security arrangements and 14 LED screens set up for the public. Opposition leaders, farmers, 'Lakhpati Didis', and repre-sentatives from various social organisations were also invited. The BJP's choice of the day for the swearing-in ceremony is significant as it is Valmiki Jayanti. Sage-poet Valmiki is the author of the Hindu epic Ramayana and a revered figure, especially among Dalits.

The Council of Ministers, comprising 11 Cabinet ministers and two Ministers of State (Independent Charge), also took the oath of office in a 45-minute ceremony. All newly inducted ministers except Choudhary took oath in Hindi. Choudhary took oath in English. Each MLÁ greeted PM Modi after taking oath.

who took the oath as per their seniority were seven-time legislator Anil Vij, a prominent Punjabi-Khatri face; Krishan Lal Panwar, the six-time legislator belonging to the Scheduled Caste from Israna in Panipat district; four-time legislator Rao Narbir Singh, an Ahir leader from Badshahpur in Gurugram district; Mahipal Dhanda, a Jat legislator from Panipat (rural); and two-time lawmaker Vipul Goel, a Vaish community legislator from Faridabad. My Doors are Opened Round the Clock & Common Man can Approach ME with Their Issues: Saini Hours before the oath ceremony, Saini visited the Valmiki Bhawan and paid homage at Valmiki Temple on the occasion of Maharishi Valmiki Jayanti. He also offered prayers at a Gurdwara and the Mansa Devi temple in Panchkula.

Talking to reporters, Saini said, "It is a matter of good for-Valmiki. He worked to end the evils prevalent in the society and also gave a message to the society. Today it is my good fortune that I have got the opportunity to worship at the feet of Lord Valmiki. I extend my best heartfelt congratulations and best wishes to the people of the State on his birth anniversary."

"My doors are open round the clock and the common man can approach me with their can approach the with their issues. This morning, I met nearly 150 people at my resi-dence before coming to the temple," Saini told the media persons after paying respects to Maharishi Valmiki, his first public engagement where the temple priest presented him the Ramayana, one of the most popular epics of all time. Maharishi Valmiki Jayanti is celebrated to honour the birth of Maharishi Valmiki, the revered sage and author of the Ramayana.

Saini further said that the new BJP government will work towards taking Haryana forward at a rapid pace under the lead-ership of PM Modi. The people of Haryana have shown faith in the Modi government's policies, he said on the assembly poll results. Saini said the BJP's 'Sankalp Patra' (poll manifesto) will be fully implemented. "Look at our 2014 Sankalp Patra and 2019 Sankalp Patra, we imple-mented them completely and now this Sankalp Patra will also be implemented by our government," he said.

Moreover, from losing his security deposit from the Naraingarh Assembly segment in 2009 to becoming Haryana

Chief Minister for the second time-all within a span of 15 years-it has been a meteoric rise for unassuming Saini. Saini cut his political teeth under RSS 'pracharak'-turned-politician Khattar in 1996. Rising from the ranks, Saini was appointed Ambala district secretary of the Bharatiya Janata Yuva Morcha (BJYM) in 2002. Later, he held the post of district president of the morcha before graduating as the Ambala dis-trict president.

Born on January 25, 1970 in Mizapur Majra, a village near Ambala, Saini, the OBC face of the saffron party, perfectly fitted into the Jat-non Jat narrative of the BJP. Saini was brought in March this year to counter the anti-incumbency wave against incumbent Manohar Lal Khattar for his nine-and-a-half-year helm. In his 56 days of governance, Saini claimed to have done so much development that Congress leader Bhupinder Hooda did in 10 years as the Chief Minister.

The BJP won the Assembly elections by winning 48 seats in the 90-seat Assembly of Haryana. The Congress won 37 seats, while the Indian National Lok Dal (INLD) secured two and three Independents were elected. All three have extended unconditional support to the government. Eight out of 10 ministers in the previous Saini's Cabinet faced defeat. The two who won were Mahipal Dhanda and Mool Chand Sharma. Saini won the Ladwa seat by 16,054 votes, defeating his nearest rival and Congress candidate Mewa Singh.

PNS CHANDIGARH

Punjab's Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) Sibin C on Thursday announced that the Election Commission of India (ECI) has released the schedule for by-elections in four crucial Assembly constituencies -Dera Baba Nanak (10), Chabbewal (SC-44), Gidderbaha (84), and Barnala (103).

Candidates must also be registered electors in any constituency within Punjab, and a certified copy of their electoral roll entry must be submitted to have launched intense campaigns to secure victories in these hotly-contested seats.

Scheduled for November 13, these by-elections hold immense significance for all major players — Congress, Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), and Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) as they vie for influence and dominance in the state's political landscape. Each party is adopting unique strategies, highlighting its strengths while trying to undermine its rivals, especially at a time when the Khalistani sympathizers have also announced to enter the electoral ring.

Congress: Revitalizing its Stronghold

The Congress, which has historically held three of the four seats, is approaching the by-elections with a sense of urgency, aiming to regain its lost ground. The party has called a meeting in Chandigarh on Friday, bringing key leaders together, including Congress in-charge Devendra Yadav and state unit Warring, to finalize candidates and chart their course of action. Having lost some of its MLAs to the Lok Sabha, the Congress faces the challenge of reasserting its presence in Punjab's legislative assembly.

The upcoming meeting is expected to focus on gathering feedback from the local constituencies, especially on potential candidates, and strategizing to counter the growing influence of AAP and BJP. The Congress high command is expected to announce the final list of candidates by October 21, ensuring ample time for campaigning. Warring, who previously represented Gidderbaha, has his eyes on ensuring the party's retention of this crucial seat hoping to secure party ticket for his wife Amrita. Meanwhile, Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa, a former deputy chief minister and Dera Baba Nanak MLA, will be crucial in the Congress' efforts to win back that constituency and is vying for party ticket for his wife.

BJP: Expanding its Influence, sans state party chief

For the BJP, the by-elections present an opportunity to expand its political base in Punjab, where it has traditionally struggled against the dominance of regional parties like the aggressive, appointing incharges for each seat and conducting a series of meetings to fine-tune its strategies.

However, uncertainty surrounding Sunil Jakhar's role within Punjab's BJP unit has raised concerns about the party's election prospects. Despite consistent denials from BJP leadership regarding Jakhar's rumoured resignation from his top post, his prolonged silence on the matter suggested underlying tensions within the state party. This ambiguity has sparked speculation about internal divisions, potentially weakening the BJP's campaign efforts ahead of the crucial bypolls. As Jakhar remains one of the party's most influential figures in Punjab, his lack of clear communication could prove to be a stumbling block for the BJP in rallying support and maintaining unity.

Senior BJP leaders Avinash Rai Khanna and Manpreet Singh Badal have already started campaigning in Gidderbaha and Barnala, reflecting the seriousness with which the party views these elections. BJP's in-charge for Gidderbaha segment, Avinash Rai Khanna, has been holding meetings with local party leaders, stating that the recent election results in Haryana have bolstered the president Amarinder Singh Raja Congress and SAD. The saffron morale of BJP workers in neigh-Warring, to finalize candidates party has become particularly bouring Punjab. bouring Punjab.

While the BJP did not win any seats in Punjab during the last Lok Sabha elections, it managed to secure a higher vote share than SAD, and the party is keen to build on this momentum.

Manpreet Singh Badal, a five-time legislator and former Finance Minister of Punjab, is widely seen as the BJP's likely candidate for Gidderbaha. Having represented the constituency in the past as a SAD candidate, Manpreet's deep connections to the region and his appeal among voters could prove to be significant assets for the BJP. Despite internal challenges, including a vigilance probe initiated by the AAP Government, Manpreet has become active in Gidderbaha, meeting supporters and reviving his grassroots network. His association with the Badal family adds a layer of political complexity, as he seeks to leverage both his family ties and his BJP affiliation to reclaim his influence in the region.

AAP: Consolidating Power

As the ruling party in Punjab, AAP faces the highest stakes in these by-elections. The party is looking to maintain its stronghold while countering the Congress' attempts to reclaim the lost seats. Having Punjab's political landscape. Despite having lost considerable won the Barnala seat in the previous Assembly elections, AAP ground over the years, SAD's has initiated a slew of developmental projects worth crores of rupees in the four constituencies, positioning these as tangible evidence of the government's achievements. However, AAP's momentum has been somewhat slowed by the Panchayat elections, which caused temporary disruptions in the party's election campaign. Nonetheless, the party leadership remains confident in its prospects. With the former Barnala MLA Gurmeet Singh Meet Hayer having moved to the Lok Sabha, AAP must now field a candidate capable of retaining this crucial seat. The party is banking on its ability to deliver visible results in governance, as well as leveraging its campaign on transparency, anticorruption measures, and social welfare programs.

At the same time, AAP is aware of the growing threat posed by the BJP and Congress in these by-elections. As the Election Commission has announced the implementation of the model code of conduct, AAP's leadership is expected to intensify its campaign in the coming weeks.

SAD: Seeking Revival

SAD, which once held Gidderbaha for decades, is looking to regain its footing in leadership remains optimistic about its chances in these byelections. Party leaders have been actively touring the four constituencies to gauge the political pulse and assess potential candidates. Jagmeet Singh Brar, a former Congress leader who joined SAD but was later expelled, has announced his intent to contest from Gidderbaha. Brar has a long history of contesting elections against the Badal family and has consistently garnered significant votes. His presence in the by-elections adds an intriguing dynamic to the race, particularly as he is now associated with the newly-formed Punjab United Regional Forum. Brar's decision to enter the race could split the traditional SAD vote base, posing a challenge to both SAD and BJP. With by-elections set to take place in less than a month, Punjab's political parties are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts to secure these four critical seats. While Congress seeks to rebuild, BJP aims to expand, AAP strives to retain its hold, and SAD works towards regaining lost ground. The stakes are high, and the political drama is just beginning to unfold.

Stiell pointed out that at COP29, nations will have the opportunity to decide on contributions, but he cautioned against renegotiating the Paris Agreement. Some developed nations propose broadening the list of contributors to include emerging economies like China and certain Gulf states, a move that developing countries argue undermines equity principles and shifts responsibility away from those historically responsible for emissions. "More work also has to be done to rapidly ramp up funding for adaptation and get international carbon markets working for everyone. We must fund a new generation of national climate plans," he added.

preliminary investigation A preliminary incompany violence in Bahraich, which resulted in one death and significant property damage, has pointed to intelligence failures and evidence of a planned conspiracy as key factors behind the unrest.

The report, now under review at the DGP headquarters, highlights major lapses by the Local Intelligence Unit (LIU) and Mahsi Circle Officer Rupendra Kumar Gaur. As a result, Gaur has been temporarily relieved of his duties, with Ravi Khokhar appointed as the new Circle Officer of Mahsi.

The report further criticizes the Bahraich LIU for failing to anticipate the potential for unrest on both Sunday and Monday. A separate, detailed report on the LIU's shortcomings has been submitted to the state intelligence headquarters. It points out that the LIU lacked connections with key local figures in the affected areas

Jaishankar holds a mirror

At the SCO Summit, S Jaishankar urges regional powers to tackle terrorism, extremism and separatism

t the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) Summit held in Islamabad, India's External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar took the opportunity to deliv-Arrived as External Arrived in the erosion of trust in the region. His address focused on the principles outlined in the SCO Charter, underscoring the need for genuine cooperation, respect for sovereignty and an uncompromising stance against the 'three evils' of terrorism, extremism and separatism. Jaishankar's remarks came at a time when India's relations with China and Pakistan have reached a nadir. The minister subtly pointed out the prevailing trust deficit, stating, "If trust is lacking or cooperation inadequate, if friendship has fallen short and good neighbourliness is missing somewhere, there are surely reasons to introspect and causes to address." His words alluded to China's unilateral border violations along the Line of Actual Control and Pakistan's use of cross-border terrorism as state policy. A central theme of Jaishankar's address was the urgent need to combat terrorism, extremism and separatismthe 'three evils' that, according to him, have plagued the region. He argued that these threats undermine peace and stability, which are prerequisites for development. Without addressing these issues, the prospects for economic growth, trade, connectivity and people-to-people exchanges remain bleak. Jaishankar's participation at the Islamabad summit marked a significant moment in India's diplomatic strategy.

Despite the strained relations, his address indicated India's willingness to engage in dialogue-provided that the foundational issues of trust and security are addressed. The summit showcased the growing rift between India's expectations for regional conduct and the policies pursued by some of its neighbours. It remains to be seen whether China and Pakistan will introspect on Jaishankar's remarks or continue to pursue policies that hinder regional integration. India's position remains clear: trust must be restored through actions that respect the sovereignty and security of all nations. The ball is now in the court of its neighbours to demonstrate a commitment to peace and stability. In his address, Jaishankar effectively used the SCO platform to hold a mirror up to China's border aggressions and Pakistan's sponsorship of terrorism, laying bare the challenges to regional cooperation. His words served not just as a critique but as a call for renewed commitment to the principles of the SCO Charter, signalling India's firm stance on upholding peace and good neighbourliness. The question now is whether China's and Pakistan's leaders will see the reflection and act accordingly, or if the region will continue to grapple with a status quo marked by distrust and discord.

AI: Redefining learning in the 21st Century

VINAYSHIL GAUTAM

Teaching methods and workplace demands are evolving rapidly, pushing educational institutions to adopt new paradigms that keep pace with the changing times

t is now being increasingly recognised that artificial intelligence and technology use are going to alter the nature of learning, as few things have in the last 100 years. The fundamental nature of change and its pace is nothing new if one goes back over six or seven decades ago.

The digitisation process altered the nature of learning numerals. The use of calculators rendered memorising multiplication tables substantially irrelevant. There was a sea change that has only increased its reach and depth with each passing decade. From calculators to the computerisation and successive upward scaling of computerisation competencies rendered not only the tables and the algorithms only marginally relevant, but even the log tables became a matter of history.

After some initial reluctance to allow a mechanical instrument into the classroom and the examination hall, the nature of learning was adjusted to the new realities. The machine-added reality became the new paradigm. The nature of learning changed slowly but surely from working through one's memory to getting used to machines and their algorithm. The orientation changed from falling back on mental collaborations to machine-led solutions. Changes in technology also needed learning but of a different order.

The dualism of specialisation was more in demand for staying current in the employment market. Indeed, machines started competing with each other in a manner of speaking and a classical example would be the different technology modes used in the manufacture of a jet plane (Ilyushin) in Russia and the technology used in a Boing aircraft.The new realities required a new approach to what could be termed as 'new learning'.

The nature of teaching arithmetic, mathematics, and more all underwent a change, and a revolution bigger than many had hit the classroom. The nature of this revolution shift. It will be useful to continuing revolution, and today, it confronts the learner through various forms of artificial intelligence, also. The notions of mechanical search have not only revolutionised the search for information but even rendered encyclopedias decoration pieces in fancy drawing rooms.

They have now, perhaps, become a showcase of how learning used to be not so long ago. All this has implications not only for the classroom but also for the workplace. The exact manifestation of this is not clear, but the rumblings go on. Whereas earlier on, learning organisations used to pay equal focus on how to teach. Now the focus is equally on what and how to teach. The pressure in both the classroom and the workplace is equally intense, calling for a paradigm shift. TO PUNCH THROUGH organisations is nothing new. As a proposition, the need to keep reinventing oneself has been commonplace. Not so long ago, the focus was on keeping the mind open. Much of that has now metamorphosed into almost a new paradigm: keeping the TODAY, LEARNING mind growing. Enhancing of skills and competencies REQUIRES THE continues to be a defining COMPETENCE TO trait of a learning organisation. It is simply not possible APPRECIATE THE to confine oneself just to NEW AND EMERGING 'keeping the mind open'. Today, learning requires the PATTERNS OF competence to appreciate the new and emerging patterns TECHNOLOGY. NOT of technology. Not so long SO LONG AGO, ago, literacy was important to the use of a machine because LITERACY WAS one had to punch through the alphabet. IMPORTANT TO THE Now the situation has USE OF A MACHINE reached a context where even if one does not have the expanding every day.

The change in the gamut of learning is important because if one can solve problems without being able to write, there indeed is a revolution in the entire paradigm of learning. The proposition, therefore of a learning organisation is undergoing several fundamental reformula-tions. There was a time in the 20th century when technology altered the nature of distance, and now there seems to be an emerging approach to technology that can alter the nature of time itself. Time present and time future are ready to merge into each other through technological interventions, allowing one to pass through a time machine, even if only temporarily. These are fundamental postulates and need rethinking far more deeply than what we have been able to do at prese (The writer is a well-known management consultant of international repute; The views expressed are personal)

INDIA-CANADA TENSIONS RISE

Madam — The Indian government has once again officially denied the allegations of the murder of Khalistani supporter Hardeep Singh Nijar levelled by the Canadian government. Not only this, it has also taken diplomatic revenge by ordering the Canadian ambassador in India and other officials to leave the country. Have we reached the lowest point in diplomatic history in our relations with Canada? Is it possible that all diplomatic relations between India and Canada come to an end? In some circles of India, even senior journalists of international affairs believe that Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau is playing all these games to save his chair.

Is it really true that the Canadian Prime Minister, due to his lust for power, is hellbent on ending diplomatic, political and business relations with India? I think this story is not so simple that it will remain just a story of the chair. Because many Sikhs have been murdered in the same way all over the world, for which the governments there have blamed India. For example, in Lahore, Pakistan, on 6 May last year, Paramjeet Panjwar was shot dead, and the Indian government was also blamed for it. Okay, let's assume that Pakistan is our enemy, so it can make false allegations against us. But the United States of America is our friend. It has also made a similar allegation against us. It had alleged that an Indian citizen was involved in the conspiracy to murder Khalistani separatist Gurpatwant Singh Pannun in New York. Therefore, the Canadian government should also present evidence if it has it in the International Court of Justice and not just raise the issue by holding press conferences

The worst part is that we are vitiating and spoiling our mental health despite warnings of being too much glued to our mobile phones, social media, late-night lifestyle, and orientation of ourselves, isolation and so many companies over a span of five years. This helps youth to gain exposure to real-life business environments in different areas for a year. Internship schemes are as old as industrialisation as the means to perpetuate skill sets. With rapid mechanisation, it was losing impetus and formalisation

A pilot for the scheme in 2024-25 was kicked off last week with internship opportunities in 24 sectors, including energy, hospitality, auto, and banking and financial services. Companies are expected to bear the cost of training and 10 per cent of internship costs from their corporate social responsibility (CSR) funds. Major corporations over the years have been focusing on health, education and women empowerment. This new internship scheme hopefully should not affect their continued funding.

The seat went vacant while her brother Rahul Gandhi got elected to Lok Sabha also from Raebareli in Uttar Pradesh in the general elections. When the elected members who hail from the same place have not used to visit their constituencies, , where is the question of Priyanka serving the people of Wayanad once she gets elected? One should recall the promise of the Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi that he vowed that the Congress would construct 100 houses for those who lost their dwellings in the landslides at Chooralmala and Mundakkai during his visit on August 2, 2024. Winning elections matters most for the leaders and by consolidating the dynastic politics, the Congress can increase their numbers on the floor by wooing the voters but there is no justification to serve the people of the constituency in a real sense.

hat is this Big Picture, that finds mention in spiritual talks? Simply stated, it means to know something in its totality. For example, we wish to know about ourselves in great detail, i.e. who we are; where have we come from; where are we going; and so forth. These and many more questions can be answered if we go to the source of everything, i.e. God, who is everything. (The Bhagavad-Geeta 7.19) We, souls, are His parts (15.15); we exist eternally; we are presently in material bodies. This happened because that is all we qualified for. There are superior planets like Heaven and, of course, the Vaikuntha - God's planet (15.6). How are we judged? It is purely based on 'karmas' (our acts), both material and spiritual. Most of us are engaged mainly in material acts. We may have a slight percentage of spiritual acts like occasional visits to a temple, hearing a spiritual talk, etc. These count but are not enough to go to the highest planet, i.e. the Vaikuntha. We keep on getting born on the earth's planet with an occasional visit to Heaven.

What is the role of God in all these? God is the creator of all that we see; He is its controller also. Logically, God must know the Big Picture. He does; God is omniscient. He knows past, present and future also. Just as our present is the result of our past, our future will be the result of our present. God is aware of how we will use our free will because that is influenced by our nature - part of our fate. As the Creation is to last for a very long time, control must be exercised to ensure its continuity. God does that. He uses the Divine Authority to assist Him; it works under His superintendence. (9.10) They in turn reward and punish us based on our karma. There is nothing like chance, whatever happens to us is already preordained. In short, there are three levels of control. God is the head. Then comes the Divine Authority and, lastly, it is the material nature, which has been set in motion by God.

That is how we have seasons, rains, etc. We must live in synchro-

Empower urban local bodies for climate resilience-Despite their economic importance, most urban areas are ill-prepared for the growing risks of climate change; these local bodies must be trained to fight climate changes

ities are centres of economic growth, contributing around 63 per cent to India's GDP while housing approximately 36 per cent of its population. This urban population is expected to reach 50 per cent by 2050, further intensifying the challenges cities face from extreme weather events such as heatwaves, floods, and droughts as recently witnessed in Wayanad, Chennai, New Delhi and other cities. According to a study by IIT Gandhinagar, the proportion of urban areas exposed to extreme weather events is set to increase significantly as global temperatures rise beyond 1.5°C above preindustrial levels. While the growing vul-nerability is felt across rural and urban centres, the multiplier effect of damage caused to urban infrastructure, lives and livelihood on the larger socio-economic conditions as cities drive national GDP. Moreover, most of the cities are illequipped to tackle these climate risks. A lack of clearly mandated roles in climate CLIMATE RISKS. A response, insufficient financial allocations, and limited institutional capacities exac- LACK OF CLEARLY erbate this challenge. To enable transformative, city-led climate action, it is essential to align Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs) and Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) with the specific needs and capacities of cities. This requires designing enabling frameworks to help urban areas build climate resilience. Without such frameworks, cities may struggle to cope with mounting climate risks. India has played a very proactive role in shaping policy and strategies for climate change mitigation and adaptation. The country's early adoption of environmental policies can be traced back to the Environmental Protection Act of 1986, a direct result of the United Nations EXACERBATE THIS Conference on Human Environment (Stockholm Conference) in 1972. This laid the foundation for key initiatives such as the National Action Plan on Climate Change (NAPCC) in 2008 and the National Adaptation Fund for Climate Change (NAFCC) in 2015. India has also spearheaded international efforts, including the establishment of the International Solar Alliance (ISA) and the Coalition for

Disaster Resilient Infrastructure (CDRI).

At the sub-national level, 34 States and Union Territories have prepared State Action Plans on Climate Change (SAPCC) to address state-specific vulnerabil-ities in line with the NAPCC framework. Although the concept of situ vul Climate Action Plane of city-level Climate Action Plans (CAPs) is relatively new in India, cities are developing these plans to address local risks such as heatwaves, water scarcity, and flood-ing for example, Mumbai, Coimbatore, Rajkot, Siliguri, and Udaipur.

These climate action plans are often in collaboration with international networks like C40 cities supported by global donor agencies. However, a major limitation remains: Urban Local Bodies (ULBs) do not have a clear mandate to respond to climate challenges. While the 74th Constitutional Amendment Act of 1992 assigns ULBs certain responsibilities, such as urban forestry parastatals, with no centralised body to oversee or coordinate these efforts.

Additionally, national climate policies such as the Net Zero by 2070 target and NDCs do not mandate the collection of city-level greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions data, limiting the ability to undertake data-driven climate actions. As India transitions towards a more urban future, with 50 per cent of the population estimated to live in cities by 2050, amid rising climate risks, the devolution of powers to ULBs for climate governance becomes crucial. Empowering local governments through the principle of "climate subsidiarity"—which ensures that climate action is undertaken at the most appropriate level by adequately resourced and empowered agencies-can be a key step toward achieving climate resilience and national climate goals. One such long-term measure often suggested by experts involves amending the ment green mobility projects, and undertake other climate-resilient initiatives.

Institutionalising climate gover-nance at the local level is only the first step. Local governments must also be given clear and measurable targets, necessitating the localisation of NDCs and SDGs. Incorporating cities into future updates of the NAPCC and SAPCC would allow for a more bottom-up approach to planning adaptation and mitigation strategies.

Furthermore, establishing a centralised decision-making body at the city level would facilitate better collaboration among city agencies, ensuring a more coordinated response to climate risks. As global and national conversa-tions on climate action gain momentum, it is imperative to build a similar focus at the subnational level to ensure tangible results. The dynamism seen at the national level must be replicated in cities, towns, and districts, which are at the frontline of cli nisation with it to have a healthy life. Our all acts must be 'yukta', i.e. appropriate according to the highest principles known as 'dharma'. These rules have been formulated by God Himself. The Big Picture won't be complete without a detailed description of our souls and how we can get help from God to improve our lives. We are many, eight billion plus on the earth planet itself. Surely, we are small and need help all the time, especially from God, who only knows the Big Picture. We are relocated after the present lifespan is over, which is preordained. Quality of life is all-important for all of us.

Unfortunately, we seek it from material objects, which are never satisfied. We must serve other souls to be served in turn by others. How can we improve the quality of our lives? We must begin by accepting the reality. This is where the Big Picture enters our lives, whatever we can know with our limitations.

This includes accepting the Cosmic Design, and having faith in God and His System. We should try to be good in whatever we do; we generally know what that is. We must be useful to others, otherwise the world would not have any use for us. We need to be tolerant, because the earth planet is no heaven, but is not a concentration camp either. One can have a reasonably good life.

Aurangzeb: A contested legacy shaping India's political discourse

The portrayal of Aurangzeb as a ruthless oppressor reflects a blend of folk tales and myth rather than a verified account of his reign

◄he figure of Aurangzeb remains deeply embedded in India's contemporary political and cultural landscape, reflecting a blend of historical memory, myth and modern political rhetoric. Consequently, there's a prevalent notion that contemporary Indian Muslims are somehow connected, either by ancestry or ideology, to the Mughal emperor's legacy, which is accused of inflicting harm on India's cultural and religious heritage. This view draws heavily on VS Naipaul's concept of India as a foreign invaders, including Muslim rulers who allegedly dismantled the country's glo-rious past. Yet, the belief in deliberate, systematic destruction by Muslim conquerors is not a continuous historical memory nor entirely grounded in verified historical records. Instead, it reflects deep emotional and cultural wounds, often fueled by present-day anti-Muslim sentiments. Historically, Aurangzeb was the last significant Mughal ruler, governing much of the Indian subcontinent for nearly five decades. His reign is marked by controversies, such as imprisoning his father, Shah Jahan, his perceived orthodoxy, and the inability to con-"wounded civilisation," endursolidate the Deccan region ing centuries of subjugation by into the Mughal Empire.

Central to the debates on Aurgangzeb is the question of his motivations and policies. Some historians, such as Sir Jadunath Sarkar, argue that his primary aim was to establish an Islamic state in India by enforcing Sharia law and converting the population. Pakistani historian Ishtiaq Husain Qureshi asserts that Aurangzeb's policies were intended to preserve Muslim dominance and to maintain the empire's unity.

This included discouraging religious pluralism that could undermine Muslim hegemony in a state where they were responsible for defence and administration. However, Aurangzeb's actions were not always consistent with the idea of enforcing an Islamic state. For example, while he did destroy certain Hindu temples, including the Vishwanath temple in Banaras, there is little evidence supporting the claim of a widespread, systematic campaign of temple destruction. Many temples, like those in Vrindavan, continued to receive royal patronage. The destruction of some temples appeared more politically motivated than religiously actions against local rebellions or defiant rulers. Aurangzeb's revival of the jizya tax in 1679, a levy on non-Muslims, further complicates the interpretation of his policies. While some scholars, like Sarkar, view this as an attempt to pressure Hindus into conversion, others argue that the tax was intended more as a political tool to rally support from conservative Muslim factions.Its reinstatement after two decades of the rule suggests it was not a priority-driven solely by religious zeal but rather a measure aimed at consolidating power during times of conflict, particularly against the Rajputs and Marathas.

Qureshi contends that Aurangzeb sought to reverse the damages caused by Akbar's driven, often tied to punitive more liberal policies, which had integrated Hindus into administrative roles. Ironically, the number of Hindus in government service increased during Aurangzeb's reign, reaching 33 per cent by 1689, despite the emperor's reputation for religious intolerance. Dr RP Tripathi view Aurangzeb's actions as primarily politically motivated, aimed at consolidating power in a diverse and vast empire. His policies, while sometimes harsh, were not necessarily born from a deep-seated animosity toward Hindus. Instead, they reflected the complexities of ruling an expansive and multi-ethnic empire where shifting political, social, and military factors required adaptable strategies. Modern scholarship increasingly emphasises the need to view Aurangzeb beyond simplistic labels of heroism or villainy. His reign is better understood within the broader context of socio-economic, cultural, and political dynamics of the time. While his orthodox leanings and authoritarian tendencies shaped some of his policies, his actions also mirrored the challenges of ruling a fragmented and turbulent subcontinent. Aurangzeb's legacy, thus, remains a complex and contested chapter in Indian history. It serves as a reminder of the intricate interplay between history and politics, and how the past is continuously invoked to influence the present.

US stealth bombers target underground bunkers of Yemen's Houthi rebels

AP DUBAI

US long-range B-2 stealth bombers launched airstrikes early Thursday morning targeting underground bunkers used by Yemen's Houthi rebels, officials said. It wasn't immediately clear what damage was done in the strikes.

However, there are no previous reports of the B-2 Spirit being used in the strikes targeting the Houthis, who have been attacking ships for months in the Red Sea corridor over the Israel-Hamas war in the Gaza Strip. The Houthis' al-Masirah satel lite news channel reported airstrikes around Yemen's capital, Sanaa, which the group has held since 2014. They also reported strikes around the Houthi stronghold of Saada. They offered no immediate information on damage or casualties.

US Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin said in a statement that the B-2 bombers targeted "five Yemen. The strike also appeared to be an indirect warning to Iran, the Houthis' main benefactor, which has targeted Israel with ballistic missile attacks twice over the past year. The B-2 would be used in any American attack on hardened Iranian nuclear facilities like Natanz or Fordo given it is the only aircraft in service that can drop the GBU-57, known as the "Massive Ordnance Penetrator." 'This was a unique demonstration of the United States' ability to target facilities that our adversaries seek to keep out of reach, no matter how deeply buried underground, hardened, or fortified," Austin said. Austin and the US military's Central Command offered no immediate assessment on the damage done. However, Central Command said in a statement that initial assessments suggested no civilians

The Red Sea has become a battlefield for shippers since the Houthis began their campaign targeting ships traveling through the waterway, which once saw $1 trillion of cargo pass through it yearly. Houthis have targeted more than 80 merchant vessels with missiles and drones since the war in Gaza started in October 2023. They have seized one vessel and sunk two in the campaign that has also killed four sailors. Other missiles and drones have either been intercepted by a US-led coalition in the Red Sea or failed to reach their targets, which have included Western military vessels.

The rebels maintain that they target ships linked to Israel, the US or the United Kingdom to force an end to Israel's campaign against Hamas in Gaza. However, many of the ships attacked have little or no con nection to the conflict, including some bound for Iran.

The Houthis also continue to launch missiles targeting Israel and have shot down a number of US military MQ-9 Reaper drones. The rebels have threatened new attacks in response to Israel's ground invasion of Lebanon and its killing of Hezbollah leader Hassan Nasrallah

The description and locations named by the Houthis on Thursday correspond to known underground bases operated by the rebels, who have been locked into a stalemated war with a Saudi-led coalition since 2015 that's decimated the Arab world's poorest nation.

The Houthis have refurbished tunnels that once held Scud missiles for Yemen when it was ruled by strongman Ali Abdullah Saleh during his 33year reign, according to an analysis in April by the International Institute for Strategic Studies. Those sites include the al-Hafa and Jabal Attan military bases, the former Presidential House and the Yemen state television compound in Sanaa, analyst Fabian Hinz wrote. The Houthis have built what appears to be their own large scale tunnel network near Saada as well, Hinz added. The fact that the Houthis began constructing major new installations after the agreement of the cease-fire with the Saudi-led coalition suggests that the group is focused on entrenching themselves and bolstering their military capabilities," he wrote. Iran similarly relies on a network of under ground missile bases. The nuclear-capable B-2, which first saw action in 1999 in the Kosovo War, is rarely used by the US military in combat as each aircraft is worth some $1 billion. It has dropped bombs in Afghanistan, Iraq and Libya as well. The aircraft are based at Whiteman Air Base in Missouri and typically conduct long-range strikes from there, though some B-2s were in

I represent a new generation of leadership: Kamala Harris

PTI WASHINGTON

US Vice President Kamala Harris on Wednesday said she represents the next generation of leadership and her presidency would be different from that of her boss President Joe Biden and Republican rival Donald Trump.

"My presidency will not be a continuation of Joe Biden's presidency. Like every new president that comes in to office, I will bring my life experiences, my professional experiences, and fresh and new ideas. I represent a new generation of leadership," Harris said in an interview to Fox news channel.

"I, for example, am someone who has not spent the majority of my career in Washington, D.C. I invite ideas, whether it be from the Republicans who are supporting me, who were just on stage with me minutes ago, and the business sector and others, who can contribute to the decisions that I make about," she said.

Israeli Army says it may have killed Hamas chief Sinwar

AP JERUSALEM

¬he Israeli military said Thursday it was looking into whether Hamas' top leader Yahya Sinwar was killed in a military operation in Gaza, while an Israeli airstrike on a school sheltering displaced Palestinians killed at least 15 people, including five children, according to Gaza's Health Ministry.

The military said in a statement that three militants were killed during operations in Gaza, without specifying where or elaborating further. It said the identities of the three were so far not confirmed, but it was "checking the possibility" that one of the three was Sinwar.

Sinwar was one of the chief architects of Hamas' attack on Israel on Oct. 7, 2023, and Israel has vowed to kill him since the beginning of its retaliatory campaign in Gaza. Throughout the war, Sinwar has been in hiding. For years Hamas' top figure in Hamas, Sinwar was chosen as its top leader following the assassination of Ismael Haniyeh in July in an apparent Israeli strike in the Iranian capital

Tehran. Israel has also claimed to have killed the head of Hamas' military wing Mohammed Deif in an Hamas' airstrike, but the group has said he survived. The report came as Israeli forces continued a more than week-old major air and ground assault in the Jabaliya refugee camp in northern Gaza, where the Âbu Hussein school was hit Thursday. Fares Abu Hamza, head of Gaza Health Ministry's local emergency unit, confirmed the toll from the strike and said dozens of people were wounded. He said the nearby Kamal Adwan Hospital was struggling to treat the casualties. "Many women and children are in critical condition, he said. The Israeli military said it targeted a command center run by Hamas and Islamic lihad inside the school. It provided a list of around a dozen names of people it identified as militants who were present when the strike was called in. It was not immediately possible to verify the names. Israel has repeatedly struck tent camps and schools sheltering displaced people in Gaza.

The Israeli military says it carries out precise strikes on mil itants and tries to avoid harming civilians, but its strikes often kill women and children.

Israel launched its campaign in Gaza to eliminate Hamas after the militants stormed into southern Israel on Oct. 7, 2023, killing some 1,200 people, mostly civilians, and abducting around 250 others. Some 100 captives are still inside Gaza, about a third of whom are believed to be dead. Israel's offensive has killed over 42,000 Palestinians, according to Gaza's Health Ministry. It does not differentiate between civilians and combatants but says women and children make up a little more than half of the fatalities. Northern Gaza was the first target of Israel's ground invasion nearly a year ago and has suffered the heaviest destruction of the war, with entire neighborhoods in Gaza City and other towns reduced to rubble. Most of the population fled after Israel issued evacuation orders in the open ing days of the war, but about 400,000 are believed to have remained despite the harsh

China prefers Harris over Trump as US president, says top official

PTI BELJING

China will prefer Kamala Harris to Donald Trump as the next US presidential considering that bilateral ties deteriorated sharply during the latter's presidency leading to serious confrontation, a senior member of the Chinese national advisory body said on Thursday.

The Chinese government prefers not to comment on the US presidential election because it doesn't want to be accused of interfering in American domestic politics, Jia Qingguo, member of the Standing Committee of the national advisory body CPPCC said. The Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference (CPPCC) is a key component of the state governance system and a distinctively Chinese political institution.

The views of the Chinese general public are divided over Harris and Trump, but "I would prefer Harris because of the bad expe-rience with Trump. We don't want to have that experience again," he told BBC in a rare comment voicing Beijing's preferred choice in the US presidential election.

During Trump's presidency, the relations declined sharply and the two countries ended up in serious confrontation. "From China's point of view, US Vice President Kamala Harris, who has worked under President Biden, represents the continuity," he said. Trump, during his Presidency was quite emotional and spread a lot of bad information about China, said Jia, who is also the Director of the Institute of Global Cooperation and Understanding of the Peking University. "We have problems with the Biden admiration too," but Biden inherited a lot of tough measures initiated by Trump against China for the reasons of domestic politics and perhaps out of his ide-ological conviction, he said, adding, "Under Biden, the US policy towards China is more sta-ble, predictable."

"We are re-engaging with each other. Officials are meeting with each other, talking about issues," which he said is stabilising the relations.

While following a tough policy towards China, including firm-ing up US policy to challenge Beijing's claims over the disput-ed South China Sea and Taiwan and restricting China's ambitious move to export its electric vehicles, Biden, however, has maintained regular dialogue with President Xi Jinping to keep the tensions under control

'Broken immigration system needs to be repaired'

PTI WASHINGTON

The United States has a broken I immigration system that needs to be repaired, Vice President Kamala Harris said on Wednesday in a rare interview with the Republican-leaning news channel during which she sparred with its popular host. Harris made these remarks in an interview with Fox News anchor Bret Baier.

Baier repeatedly pressed the Democratic presidential nominee on illegal immigration, taxpayer support for gender transition surgery and other areas that closely aligned with former President Donald Trump's regular attacks against her. With 20 days before the election, Harris tried to defend her record on immigration and the economy. On being asked how many undocumented immigrants have illegally entered the US under the Biden-Harris administration. Harris did not give a number. Harris responded: "Bret, let's just get to the point, OK? The point is that we have a broken immigration system that needs to be repaired."

So, your Homeland Security Secretary said that 85 per cent of apprehensions," Baier interjected. "I'm not finished. We have an immigration system," Harris tried to continue with her answer. "It's a rough estimate that 6 million people have been released into the country," the Fox News anchor interrupted again.

"And let me just finish. I'll get to the question. I promise you. I was beginning to answer," the vice president pleaded.

When you came into office, your administration immediately reversed a number of Trump border policies. Most signifi cantly, the policy required illegal immigrants to be detained through deportation, either in the US or in Mexico. And you switched that policy. They were ... released from custody awaiting trial. So instead, included in those were a large number of single men, adult men, who went on to commit heinous crimes. So looking back, do you regret the decision to terminate Remain in Mexico at the beginning of your administration?" Baier asked again. "At the beginning of our administration, within practically hours of taking the oath, the first bill, practically within hours of taking the oath, was a bill to fix our between. We recognised from day one that this is your first question. It is a priority for us as a nation and for the American people. Our focus has been on fixing a problem. From day one, then, we have done a number of things, including addressing our asylum system and putting more resources, getting more judges, what we needed to do to tighten up penalties and increase penalties for illegal crossings, and what we needed to do to deal with points of entry between border, entry points," she said. "We worked on supporting what was a bipartisan effort, including some of the most conservative members of the United States Congress, to actually strengthen the border. That border bill would have put 1,500 more border agents at the border, which is why I believe the Border Patrol agents supported the bill. It would have allowed us to stem the flow of fentanyl coming into the United States, which is a scourge affecting people of every background, every geographic location in our country, killing people," she said.

The review also found more systemic issues at the agency such as a failure to understand the unique risks facing Trump and a culture of doing "more with less"

The 52-page report issued on Thursday took the Secret Service to task for specific problems leading up to the July 13 rally in Butler as a well as deeper one within the agency's culture. It recommended bringing in new, outside leadership and refocusing on its protective mission.

failure to secure the building near the rally that had a clear line of site to where Trump was speaking and the multiple communications problems that hindered the ability of the Secret Service and local and state law enforcement to talk to each other.

The failure to secure a complex of buildings, portions of which were within approximately 130 yards of the protectee and containing numerous positions carrying high-angle line of sight risk, represents a critical security failure," the report said.

The panel faulted the planning between Secret Service and the local law enforcement, and said the Secret Service failed to ask about what was being done to secure the building: "Relying on a general understanding that the locals have that area covered' is simply not good enough and, in fact, at Butler this attitude contributed to the security failure." The panel also cited the fact that there were two separated command posts at the Butler rally: one with various local law enforcement and another with the Secret Service: "This created at the highest level, a structural divide in the flow of communications.

There were other communications problems.

The Secret Service had to switch radio channels because radio traffic of agents protecting first lady Iill Biden at an event in Pittsburgh was popping up on the channels of agents covering the Butler rally. The panel also noted that all the law enforcement personnel on the ground were using a "chaotic mixture" of radio, cell phone, text, and e-mail through out the day to communicate.

UN seeks probe into attack on Afghan migrants by Iranian border forces

AP DUBAI

United Nations expert is Acalling for an investigation into reports that an attack by Iranian security forces on the border with Afghanistan killed and wounded migrants.

Iran has denied any shooting took place Sunday near Saravan, a town in the country's restive southeastern province of Sistan and Baluchistan, which borders Taliban-ruled Afghanistan.

However, anti-Afghan migrant rhetoric has escalated in Iran in recent months as Western sanctions grind down its economy, with the country's police chief claiming some 2 million migrants would be deported in the next six months. The Taliban said on Thursday they will provide updates once their investigation into the reported attack is complete. Their chief spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid said earlier that rumours were circulating Afghans on the Iran border. The information has not yet been confirmed. The necessary decision will be taken after clarification of the matter," he said on social media platform X.

HalVash, an advocacy group for the Baluch people that is broadly focused on Iran, has issued a series of reports over the shooting, citing two unnamed witnesses to the attack and others claiming a death toll that ran at least into the dozens, with more wounded. It published images of what appeared to be several corpses and others with gunshot wounds. HalVash alleged Iranian security forces used both firearms and rocket-propelled grenades in the attack.

The Associated Press has been unable to independently confirm the attack. Verifying information remains difficult in Sistan and Baluchistan, which for decades has been home to cross-border

On Wednesday, Iran began to push back on the reports. Gen. Reza Shojaei, a commander of the provincial border guard, called the reports of a shooting "basically false". Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said on Thursday that support from his embattled nation's Western allies is key to his "victory plan" to end the country's devastating war with Russia as he laid out details of the plan to European Union leaders.

The man once heralded as the architect of Mexico's war on drug cartels was sentenced to more than 38 years in a U.S. prison on Wednesday for taking massive bribes to aid drug traffickers.

Genaro García Luna, Mexico's former secretary of public secu-rity, was convicted by a New York jury in 2023 of taking millions of dollars in bribes to protect the violent Sinaloa cartel that he was supposedly combating. He is the highest-level Mexican government official to be convicted in the United States.

At least 250 students were arrested on Thursday in Rawalpindi for violence during protests against an alleged oncampus rape in a Lahore college as the agitation spread to other cities of Punjab province in Pakistan.

The protests erupted on Monday in at least four boys' and girls' campuses of the pri-vately-owned Punjab Group of Colleges following social media reports that a female student at the Gulberg girls' cam-pus in Lahore had allegedly been raped by a security guard in the institution's basement. Police claimed they have the suspect in custody, but he has denied the allegation.

Punjab Chief Minister Maryam Nawaz has blamed jailed former prime minister Imran Khan's Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) party for spreading fake news on social media and said that no such incident had taken place.

On Wednesday, a large number of students held demonstrations in Jehlum, Faisalabad, and Gujrat, demanding justice for the alleged rape victim. On Thursday, protests spread to Lahore, Rawalpindi, Gujrat, Attock, Sargodha, and Vehari districts of Punjab. The student protesters ransacked a college building in Rawalpindi, forcing police to fire tear gas to disperse them. Later, 250 students were taken into custody, the police said. The police said legal actions were being taken against those involved in disrupting peace. The guilty would be punished, they added.

"Police personnel have been deployed at various locations across the city," Rawalpindi Police said on X, adding that it was fully prepared to deal with any law and order situation. "Parents are requested to keep their children away from illegal activities. The future of chil-security guard yesterday (Wednesday)," a senior police official told PTI on Thursday. He said Azhar Hussain, the security guard, was killed during the violent attack by students.

"A murder case has been registered against about 200 students," he said.

The police have also registered cases against over 400 students for attacking and damaging the chain of Punjab group of colleges owned by Dunya media group in Gujrat.

Maryam has vowed to deal with the protesters with an iron hand and said those spreading fake news on social media would be arrested.

Hundreds of people were killed in Bangladesh in the incidents of violence that erupted across the country following the fall of the Hasina government, taking the death toll to more than 1,000 since the massive protest by students against a controversial quota system in government jobs first started in mid-July. After taking over on August 8, Bangladesh's interim govern-

The late September floods that killed more than 240 $\,$ people in Nepal were driven by rainfall made about 10 per cent more intense by humancaused climate change, a rapid analysis by a team of leading scientists said on Thursday. The analysis by World Weather Attribution (WWA) also underscored the urgent need for Nepal to limit development in low-lying, riverside areas of Nepali cities to prevent and protect people from future floods. WWA is a collaboration of international scientists that analyses and communicates the possible influence of climate change on extreme weather events, such as storms, extreme rainfall, heat waves, and droughts.

The floods in Nepal followed three days of extreme rainfall starting September 26. As records were broken across central and eastern Nepal, with some weather stations recording more than 320 mm on September 28, massive floods and landslides claimed at least

India's logistics cost will come down to single-digit in two years: Nitin Gadkari

Union Road Transport and Highways Minister Nitin Gadkari on Thursday said India's logistics cost will come down to single-digit within the next two years. Addressing an event organised by NITI Aayog, Gadkari said the ministry is constructing several highways and expressways, which will help reduce India's logistics cost. "Within two years, we are going to reduce our logistics cost to 9 per cent," he added. According to quick estimates of the economic think tank National Council of Applied Research Economic (NCAER), logistics costs in India ranged between 7.8 per cent to 8.9 per cent of GDP for the fiscal 2021-22.

Gadkari said there is huge potential for India to export alternative fuels and biofuels. He also pointed out that lowquality coal is useful for making methanol. The minister added that India is making significant strides in the biofuel sector, especially in methanol.

Further, Gadkari said he aimed to make the Indian automobile industry number one in the world. Last year, India had overtaken Japan to become said.

the third-largest automobile market in the world, only behind the US and China, he Gadkari added

Gadkari highlighted that The size of India's automobile industry rose from Rs 7.5 lakh crore in 2014 to Rs 18 lakh crore in 2024 and this industry is creating a maximum number of jobs, materials like recycled tyre powder and plastic are being utilised in road construction, which helps in the reduction of bitumen import. He also emphasised how the Gadkari spoke about the stubble-burning problem in Punjab and Harvana. He said that right now, "we can process one-fifth of the Parali, but with better planning, we can reduce the seasonal air pollution from stubble-burning by using parali as raw material for alternative fuels." The minister said that India needs to move ahead with a policy which is cost-effective, indigenous, import substitute and employment-generating to address the major issues of rising pollution and fossil fuel imports.

BUOYANT NEW ZEALAND FACE UPBEAT WEST INDIES IN T20 WORLD CUP SEMIFINAL

PTI SHARJAH

Buoyant New Zealand will seek to continue their inspirational run in the women's T20 World Cup when they face the West Indies in the second semifinal here on Friday.

New Zealand has undoubtedly been the story of the tournament so far in which they got the better of Asian sides India and Sri Lanka to make the final four from Group A, putting behind their 10-match losing streak before the competition.

With her towering presence, Sophie Devine has rallied the Kiwis troops impressively. Their success story features solid contributions at the top from Georgia Plimmer and veteran Suzie Bates, along with the all-round threat posed by Amelia Kerr further down the order.

Kerr has been at the forefront of the Kiwis attack with 10 wickets and 85 runs in what has been a largely low-scoring tournament, providing New Zealand with a lot of impetus. Rosemary Mair has also been at the helm of New Zealand's success in this World Cup with seven wickets on slow pitches of the UAE.

Eden Carson set up the tone for New Zealand's high profile clash against India and the Kiwis will hope that the right-arm spinner is at the top of her game against the West Indies, who are coming off a huge win over England. Hayley Matthews' West Indies topped Group B and like New Zealand they also lost one game in the group stage, but overall the winners of the 2016 edition have put together robust performances. The West Indies have qualified for their first semifinal since hosting the tournament in their back yard in 2018, while the biggest moment for the Caribbean side arrived in this edition when they pipped England in their last group stage match. The West Indies had lost 13 matches in a row against England before the two teams met in their last Group B fixture, but their run-chase of 142 showed no signs of mental fatigue against this opponent. Matthews teamed up with the young Qiana Joseph to shut England out of the tournament with a rapid 102-run stand in which both the batters brought up their respective halfcenturies.

While Matthews is the only Caribbean batter to have crossed the 100-run mark in the competition, Sarah Taylor and Deandra Dottin remain vital cogs in their batting. Spinners Afy Fletcher (8 wickets) and Karishma Karishma Ramharack (5 wickets) have been the most successful bowlers for the Caribbean side. New Zealand hold upperhand against the West Indies when it comes to bilateral record, having won 15 out of 23 matches so far with two tied games and one without a result.

The winner of this contest will take on the triumphant team from the first semifinal, to be played in Dubai on Thursday between the six-time winner and defending champions Australia and South Africa.

Vivaan had come up with a score of 120 out of 125 in the qualification round to enter the six-man finals.

Earlier, Naruka, the 26-yearold from Rajasthan, shot 43 in the six-man final, earning third place, while Italy's Tammaro Cassandro and Gabriele Rossetti took home the gold and silver with scores of 57 and 56, respectively.

Naruka made it to the finals by scoring 121 out of 125 in the qualification round. Sonam Maskar had won a silver in the women's 10m air rifle on Tuesday and Akhil Sheoran clinched a bronze in the men's 50m rifle 3 positions on Wednesday.

Naruka and Maheshwari Chauhan had settled for a fourth-place finish in the skeet mixed team event at the Paris Olympics after losing the bronze medal match to China.

Pogba ready to give up money to play for Juventus again after doping ban

AP MILAN

Paul Pogba says he's ready to F give up money to play for Juventus again. The Serie A club may not want him, though, or need him.

Pogba recently had his fouryear ban for doping reduced to 18 months after appealing to the Court of Arbitration for Sport, meaning the France World Cup winner will be free to resume his career in March 2025.

Juventus has not been overly enthusiastic about welcoming him back but Pogba says that is the only club he is thinking about playing for.

"I am ready to even give up money so that I can still play for Juve," he said in an interview with Italian sports daily Gazzetta dello Sport. "I want to return."

Juventus sporting director Cristiano Giuntoli and new coach Thiago Motta are dubious about whether Pogba can return to the top level after being out for so long since testing positive for testosterone in August last

who said he "felt like a caged lion" for the past year, has been training hard on his own and is ready to prove them wrong.

"I am a Juve player now. That is all I have in my mind today," he said. "I don't have to talk. What I do on the pitch will do my talking and then Thiago Motta will judge with his own eyes, based on what he sees.

Talk is nice, but I want to play and I want to be the best one at Juve and in the France team.

But not only has Juventus changed coach since Pogba was banned, it has also changed strategy. It has brought in fresh new Juventus for 105 million euros ($113 million) in 2016, returned to the Bianconeri as a free agent in 2022.

He signed a contract worth eight million euros ($8.7 million) a year - plus two million ($2.2 million) in bonuses - but injuries limited him to just eight Serie A appearances in his second spell at the club before his ban.

The judges who cut Pogba's ban acknowledged the lack of intent but suggested the 2018 World Cup winner should have taken more care about his treatment in Florida.

'What I did wrong was not looking at what a professional gave me. I repeat, a professional," Pogba said gave Like a lot of soccer players,
