

OPINION 6 THE STEADFAST DIPLOMAT WHO CRAFTED INDIA'S FOREIGN POLICY

WORLD 9 DONALD TRUMP PLANS MILITARY SHIFT FOR DOMESTIC POLICY

MONEY 10 GOVERNMENT IMPOSES IMPORT RESTRICTIONS ON POCKET LIGHTERS

Published From DELHI LUCKNOW BHOPAL BHUBANESWAR RANCHI RAIPUR CHANDIGARH DEHRADUN HYDERABAD VIJAYWADA

Late City Vol.160 Issue 277 *Air Surcharge Extra if Applicable

LUCKNOW, MONDAY OCTOBER 14, 2024; PAGES 12 ₹4

the pioneer

Established 1865

www.dailypioneer.com

WE COULD HAVE SCORED MORE: FARUKH CHOUDHARY 12 SPORTS

BABA SIDDIQUE ASSASSINATION AFTERMATH

Now political bullets fired

T N RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

The assassination of Baba Siddique has shaken Maharashtra's political landscape when the State is preparing to go for Assembly elections. With the Opposition uniting against the ruling party and demanding accountability, the implications of this murder in the financial Capital of the country is certainly to resonate in the election campaign which has already begun. Political analysts suggest that the incident may significantly influence voter sentiment, as safety and security are paramount concerns for citizens of Mumbai. The Uddhav Thackeray-Sharad Pawar and Congress combine Opposition is likely to capitalise on the incident terming it as complete breakdown of the law and order of the Eknath Shinde-led National Democratic Alliance (NDA) regime in the State. Opposition parties, including the Nationalist Congress Party (Ajit Pawar faction) which is part of the ruling coalition, and Congress which in Opposition have condemned the assassination since Congress is Siddique's parent party where he began his political career, while Ajit Pawar's faction was his current party. Deputy Chief Minister

Security personnel outside the residence of Baba Siddique where his body is kept, in Mumbai, Sunday

Devendra Fadnavis, who also holds the position of Home Minister has come in for severe criticism and his resignation has been sought citing a failure to ensure public safety. Siddique had moved from Congress to NCP's Ajit faction recently, and he enjoyed a good rapport in all the political parties of Maharashtra which includes two breakaway factions of the Shiv Sena and NCP. The Mumbai police arrested two persons in connection with the brutal murder of the three-time MLA Baba Siddique on Saturday, even as Maharashtra deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis hit out at NCP chief Sharad Pawar for demanding his resignation over Siddique's murder. Identifying the two arrested persons as Gurmil Baljit Singh, a native of Haryana and Dharamraj Kashyap from Uttar Pradesh, the police said that the third suspect Shiv Kumar, was on the run "We are on the lookout for the third accused," a senior police officer said. Meanwhile, mothers of both accused have said that they were not aware of what their sons were up to and had not been in contact with them. Gurmil Singh's family said that it disowned him 11 years ago and it called for exemplary punishment for his actions. Meanwhile, under flak from the Opposition parties over Siddique's murder, Fadnavis - who holds the State Home portfolio - slammed Sharad Pawar for demanding his resignation. "I think he (Sharad Pawar) only wants power. Even after such a serious incident, there is a lust for power in his eyes while we are only concerned about Maharashtra. We want to look at Maharashtra. Progress is to be achieved and Maharashtra is to be kept safe. They want to look at the power only and talk."

Continued on page 8

Navratri ends, nightmares begin

SAUMYA SHUKLA ■ NOIDA

On the eve of Vijayadashami, when the National Capital worshipped the Goddess Durga, and celebrated the divine femininity vanquishing evil, this reporter who had gone to cover the festivities, faced hooliganism and harassment by drunkards in Uttar Pradesh's Noida Sector 75. The incident that took place near a dense well guarded residential area on Saturday night, was a sign that hooligans who consider festivals an excuse to drink and drive are back on the roads after a nine-day Navratri break. The streets were bustling with people who were out enjoying Ramilas and Ravan Dahan the effigies of Ravan are set ablaze to symbolise the triumph of truth. Suddenly, a white Hyundai I-20 sports car (UP15CD6004) came speeding down the road. The driver was racing his car and swerving dangerously down the streets, at around 10 pm. They were driving as if they were heavily drunk. At first, they nearly drove inside a shop on the side of the street risking the lives of many standing there. My friend Utkarsh, and I were there too as we had stopped to buy snacks from a street vendor after returning from a Dusshera mela I had gone to cover. When I was on the left side of the road, trying to cross it along with my friend, the car came speeding towards me. He

Numbers that shame

Delhi-National Capital Region (NCR) has alarmingly high rates of violence and harassment against women, and most cases remain unreported. From September 2022 to August 2023, Faridabad registered 2,666 complaints, Gurgaon had a 12 per cent increase in reported cases. Delhi recorded the highest crime rate against women in the country at 144.4 per 100,000, Noida had a 21 per cent decrease in such crimes.

pulled me to the side just in time. Else I would have been mowed down or getting hit by the racing car. For a second, the car stopped and swayed again in an abrupt manner. While my friend shouted at the car driver, and I stood shaking, worried with what was a near death experience, two bystanders, who were also drinking on the side of the road, started abusing him. They yelled slurs and told him to not shout at the drivers. Worried over what could turn into an ugly fight and potential risk to life, I took my friend to the other side by which time the car driver must have heard people asking for police to arrive at the location and take action against them. They raced their car back into a nearby housing society. Upon calling the police on 112, the officers responded by asking if we will file a report on the same in an unsympathetic manner. A police van with two officers arrived at the location after about 20 minutes of the incident. However, when the police came, they again asked us to file a police complaint at a station while we requested them to take action immediately so that our safety was ensured. "We saw them racing in the society right here. At least try to find out if the guards know if the car belongs to any of the flat," we told the police.

The police officers asked some questions in a half-hearted manner to the guard, and we were again told to go to the nearby sector-113 police station in Noida. We were in shock, but decided to go to the police station and filed a complaint. The police assured us that action will be taken, however, none has been taken by Sunday. However, as a single working woman in this city whose job does not have fixed hours, one cannot imagine the safety concerns even filing a complaint brings about. "What if they find me alone and attack me? They must have seen my face while I remain unknown of their identity" looms over the head of a woman in a country when gang rapes and murder are an everyday affair with accused living unhinged," were some of the thoughts rushing in my head.

Continued on page 8

Waqf Joint Committee has received 1.2 crore email responses

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The head priest of a Nashik temple, three advocates and representatives of a Muslim organisation are among those who will share their views on the Waqf (Amendment) Bill, before a Parliamentary panel on Monday. The Joint Committee of Parliament on the Waqf (Amendment) Bill meeting is scheduled on Monday and Tuesday to hear representatives of Jamiat Ulama-i-Hind, Delhi, and Goa-based Sanatan Sanstha. The panel headed by Bharatiya Janata Party's Jagdambika Pal will also hear Mahant Sudhirdas Maharaj, the head priest of Nashik's Shri Kalam temple. Advocates Ashwini Upadhyay, Vishu Shankar Jain and Amita Sachdeva will also share their views on the bill before the panel. Sachdeva represents the Hindu Janjagruti Samiti, Goa. Former chairperson of the Karnataka State Minorities Commission, Anwar Manipadi, is also listed to share his opinions on the Draft Bill. The Joint Committee of the two Houses has received a staggering 1.2 crore email responses amid campaigns launched by rival groups to ratchet up support for their respective viewpoints regarding the draft law.

Continued on page 8

Ayodhya readies for Diwali

BISWAJEET BANERJEE ■ LUCKNOW

As Ayodhya gears up for Diwali, also known as Deepotsav, the city is undergoing a substantial beautification process. A key part of this effort is the installation of solar-powered smart lights at prominent locations, managed by the Uttar Pradesh New and Renewable Energy Development Agency (UPNEDA) with a budget of Rs 300 crore. Upon completion, these solar lights will illuminate the Ayodhya Bypass and the road leading to the Maharshi Valmiki International Airport. Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath has long envisioned turning Ayodhya into a "solar city." Various solar energy projects, including rooftop solar installations, are already in progress, and many parks and roads in Ayodhya are now lit by solar lights. UPNEDA is expediting the installation of these smart solar lights, with 60 planned for the area around the airport to attract tourists and pilgrims. In addition, UPNEDA is installing 58 smart solar lights along both sides of the Ayodhya Bypass and in other strategic spots. Sixteen lights are being placed near the Divisional Commissioner's residence, ten in a park near Dharmapath, and six at Mukti Dham. UPNEDA Project Officer Praveen Kumar Pandey confirmed that the project is moving swiftly, aiming for completion by Diwali to ensure that key sites are brightly illuminated for the festivities. Simultaneously, the construction of the 161-foot-high spire atop the Ram Temple in Ayodhya is progressing rapidly. The first layer of the spire has been completed, and the Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust has shared images of the progress on social media. The temple structure's height from its foundation up to the third floor is 76 feet. The spire will rise above this structure and add considerable grandeur to the temple. The spire will reach 85 feet in height and consist of 29 layers, each around three feet high. Approximately 300 skilled artisans are working on the project, completing each layer in about a week. After the spire is finished, a 44-foot Dharma Dhvaj (religious flagpole) will be installed atop it, with a six-foot religious flag. This will bring the total height of the temple, including the spire, to roughly 211 feet. The spire's construction is expected to be completed by February 2025.

FAREWELL MAA DURGA

Women apply vermilion on each other as they participate in 'Sindoor Khela' at a 'puja pandal', to mark the end of the Durga Puja festival celebrations

Ola must put consumer first: CCPA

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Central Consumer Protection Authority (CCPA) has directed ride-hailing platform Ola to implement consumer-friendly changes, including offering refund options and providing receipts for auto rides, the regulator said on Sunday. The CCPA, led by Chief Commissioner Nidhi Khare, observed that Ola's no-questions-asked refund policy only provided coupon codes for future rides, without giving consumers a choice for bank account refunds. "This (practice) violates consumer rights," the CCPA said in a statement. "The no-question-asked refund policy cannot mean that the company incentivises people to simply use this facility for taking another ride." The regulator also mandated Ola to issue bills or invoices for all auto rides booked through its platform, citing the absence of such documentation as an "unfair trade practice" under the Consumer Protection Act, 2019.

Following the CCPA's intervention, Ola has implemented several changes, including displaying contact details of grievance and nodal officers on its website, clearly mentioning cancellation policies and fees at the time of booking, adding more options for ride cancellation reasons, and publicizing fare component breakdowns. The other changes implemented were showing address of both pickup and drop locations to drivers and revised payment cycles for drivers for swift payment. The CCPA reported 2,061 complaints against Ola from January to October 2024, with top issues including overcharging, refund delays and driver-related problems. "Through its regulatory intervention, the CCPA has been steadfast in ensuring that Ola adheres to the legal framework established to secure the rights of consumers," the regulator stated. The move comes as the CCPA increases scrutiny of digital platforms to protect consumer interests in the rapidly growing e-commerce and ride-hailing sectors.

When aged buses collapse, traffic jams in mourning

Dozens of large public vehicles stall on the roads regularly, causing jams, diversions

BY RAJESH KUMAR

It is now common to come across social media posts by the Delhi Traffic Police urging people to steer clear of certain roads because of jams created by the breakdown of a bus in the National Capital. However, these reported incidents are a mere fraction of the actual number of daily breakdown of buses. Breakdown of buses and Medium Goods Vehicles (MGVs) has become a major cause of traffic snarls during peak hours in Delhi. Sources in the transport department said that dozens of Delhi Transport Corporation (DTC) and clusters scheme buses stall on the roads every day. The consequences of a bus breakdown are complex. It not only causes inconveniences to daily commuters who are stranded on the road but it also results in traffic congestion with the slow down and idling vehicles.

Traffic was affected on Najafgarh-Bahadurgarh Road due to the breakdown of a Bus near Najafgarh Depot on Sunday. As per Delhi traffic police social media post, traffic was affected on Bahadurgarh Najafgarh Road due to accident and fire in Hyva Truck near Anaj Mandi, Najafgarh. On Saturday, traffic police posted two advisories on the breakdown of buses. The first breakdown took place on Najafgarh Road in the carriageway from Dholi Piao towards Dwarka Mor due to breakdown of a bus at Uttam Nagar Chowk, which led to slow down of movement. In the second incident, traffic was affected on Rohtak Road in the carriageway from Tikri border towards Peeragarhi due to breakdown of a Bus near metro pillar No 530. According to traffic police social media posts on Friday, five incidents of breakdown of vehicles reported in the peak hours. Traffic was affected on Mathura Road in the carriageway from Ashram towards Badarpur due to breakdown of a Cluster bus near Sarita Vihar flyover. This is one of the busiest roads in Delhi that connects Delhi and Uttar Pradesh and Haryana. In the second instance, traffic is affected on MGM (Ring Road) in the carriageway from AIIMS towards Moti Bagh due to breakdown of a truck at Raj Nagar Flyover. The third stretch was affected on MGM (Ring Road) near IG Stadium in the carriageway from Rajhat towards Sarai Kale Khan due to breakdown of an MGW at IP Flyover. In the fourth incident, traffic was affected on Mathura Road in the carriageway from Sarita Vihar towards Badarpur due to breakdown of a truck near Aali Village bus stand. In the fifth incident, traffic was affected on Ring Road in the carriageway from Ashram Chowk towards Moolchand Underpass due to breakdown of an MGW at Moolchand Underpass. This stretch of Ring Road is considered one of the busiest in Delhi. Similarly, four incidents of breakdown of vehicles was reported on traffic police social media posts on Thursday. The traffic was affected on Ring Road in the carriageway from Raja Garden towards Delhi Cantt Metro Station due to breakdown of an MGW on Naraina Flyover. The traffic was affected on Mathura Road in the carriageway from Okhla towards CRRJ due to

PM's surprise visit

A surprise visit to Bharat Mandapam by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday led to traffic snarls in the heart of the national Capital. Commuters trying to go from Central to South Delhi were inconvenienced, as the arterial roads remained choked for the VIP movement. Security protocols were in place around Bharat Mandapam for hours in the afternoon and evening, and commuters had to wait for long hours in their vehicles, for the all clear.

descending Akshardham flyover. This is one of the busiest roads in Delhi that connects Delhi and Uttar Pradesh. There were among 50 breakdowns that disrupted traffic since last Friday, going by the Traffic Police's social media posts. There were dozens of incidents of breakdown of buses which were not reported by the transport department and traffic police. According to a traffic police official, it typically took around one hour to rectify the situation arising from a bus breakdown. In some instances, the resolution time exceeds two-three hours. Removing the broken down bus is a tedious task since they have hydraulic brake setups that can only be opened by expert mechanics. Since buses ply on long routes, the depots are generally at some distance from the breakdown spot and the arrival of the required mechanical personnel also takes time.

Continued on page 8

Dalit man's death during police interrogation sparks outrage

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

The death of a Dalit man allegedly during a police interrogation has ignited widespread outrage and political backlash in Vikas Nagar, raising serious concerns about police conduct and accountability in Uttar Pradesh. The incident has provided ammunition for political parties to criticise the ruling government and the police, which has recently been under scrutiny for alleged misconduct. The Dalit man, Aman Gautam, was apprehended by police along with his friend Sonu for their alleged involvement in gambling at Ambedkar Park. Reports said that the police acted on tips about gambling activity in the area, leading to a raid. According to police statements, they pursued the two men after others fled upon seeing the officers. However, the narrative quickly shifted as details surrounding Aman's death emerged, leading to conflicting accounts from the police and the victim's family. Former chief minister and Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) leader Mayawati condemned the government for its handling of the situation. She demanded immediate compensation for Aman's family and accountability for those responsible for his death. Azad Samaj Party leader Chandrashekhar Azad labelled the incident a murder, highlighting that the life of a Dalit is often regarded as less valuable than even basic necessities in the state. Azad drew a stark comparison between Aman's case and that of Vivek Tiwari, another incident involving alleged police violence, emphasising that both situations involved egregious actions by law enforcement. He said that while Tiwari's family received significant compensation following his death, he had little hope that Aman's family would see similar justice, given the current government's stance on Dalit issues. Azad demanded Rs 50 lakh in compensation and a government job for Aman's wife, underscoring the urgent need for state accountability. Aman died on the night of October 10 while he was allegedly being interrogated by police. Eyewitnesses have since come forward, asserting that Aman and Sonu were simply preparing for a local event when police arrived. According to Aman's family, he was organising a 'jagran' (a devotional gathering) scheduled for October 12, and the police's aggressive intervention was unwarranted. Local residents echoed these sentiments, asserting that both men were innocent and had no involvement in gambling activities. CCTV footage has surfaced, showing police escorting Aman and Sonu from the park. Aman's wife Roshni is seen trailing behind, visibly distressed. The police later claimed that Aman's health suddenly deteriorated during transportation, leading to his death, but this explanation has been met with skepticism by the community. The police have changed their statements multiple times regarding the circumstances of Aman's death. Initially, they suggested that he fainted while attempting to escape, but later narratives indicated he was taken to a police vehicle for questioning. Aman's postmortem report listed the cause of death as a heart attack, but his family maintains that he fainted due to police beatings. Roshni has alleged that a specific constable, identified as Shailendra Singh, was particularly aggressive during the encounter. She claimed that Aman was beaten so severely that he lost consciousness, and the officers, fearing repercussions, transported him to a hospital only after he was unresponsive. In response to Aman's death, protests erupted in Vikas Nagar, with residents blocking roads and clashing with police. The police's attempts to disperse the crowds led to further unrest. The situation has prompted visits from various political figures, including members of the Samajwadi Party and former bureaucrat Amitabh Thakur, who have called for a thorough investigation into the incident. Samajwadi Party MP from Mohanlalganj RK Chaudhary alleged that Aman was beaten to death by the policemen who wanted to show their might. "This is a custodial death as Aman died in police custody. He was innocent and not involved in gambling," he added.

Youth rapes girl returning from jagran

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

A youth allegedly raped a girl who was returning home after attending a Goddess Durga 'jagran' in Chinhat on the intervening night of Friday and Saturday, police said. The police registered a case in this regard and arrested the accused. The complainant, a resident of Chinhat, alleged that she was returning from a 'jagran' at around 3 am on Saturday. The accused, identified as Anuj of Tikonia in Chinhat, found her alone on the road and stopped her. The girl ignored his advances and moved ahead, but he caught her by her hand. "He dragged me to his house. When I tried to raise an alarm, he threatened to kill me. He gagged me and forced himself upon me," she alleged. "The accused's mother, Manju, his sister Puja, and uncle Sunil and another person, Manoj, came to my house. They abused and beat me. When my brother intervened, he was also beaten up," she alleged. The Chinhat police said that a case had been registered and the accused was arrested. Meanwhile, an absconder who had evaded parole granted by the Supreme Court in 2021 was arrested by a Gomti Nagar police team in Chandigarh on Sunday. To obscure his case, he reportedly filed a missing person report, and his family allegedly created a ruckus to pressure the police. The accused, Anshuman Pandey, a resident of Vikas Khand in Gomti Nagar, had been absconding for over three years after being granted a 90-day parole. He was required to surrender upon completion of this period but chose not to return, having conspired with his parents and supporters to evade capture. His father is a retired income tax officer. It is alleged that a fabricated missing complaint was filed to cover Pandey's absence. A police spokesperson stated that Pandey was arrested at the Mubarak Plaza hotel in Chandigarh. Warrants for his arrest had been issued by multiple courts.

Devotees bid goodbye to Goddess Durga

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

After five days of celebration, it was time to bid farewell to Goddess Durga from puja pandals on Sunday. The morning was vibrant as Bengali women celebrated 'sindoor khela', a tradition where they take vermilion from the goddess and apply it on each other's faces. Members of the Bengali community expressed their emotions as they prepared for the goddess's departure. A devotee from Gomti Nagar shared, "Visarjan is a heart-breaking moment. We look forward to Durga Puja for days, and these five days pass so quickly. When the time comes for Goddess Durga to return, we feel very sad and emotional." Sumit Bhowmik, a key organiser of the Vikasnagar Durga Puja, said he was teary-eyed. "I feel sad bidding farewell to Goddess Durga. All the committee members and other devotees share this emotional moment. This year, Durga Maa stayed with us longer due to the tithis (dates) falling over two days." Rupesh Mondal, president of Lucknow Durga Puja Visarjan Samiti, noted that the visarjan was carried out over two days because Dashami fell on both Saturday and Sunday. Over 30 Durga Pujas from Barabanki and more than 500 Devi Jagrans carried out the visarjan on Saturday, while over 112 Durga Pujas in the city conducted the immersion on Sunday, from afternoon until late at night. The visarjan began at noon, with traffic diversions and a token system implemented to facilitate smooth parking arrangements. Nine ghats were constructed at Jhule Lal Park for the immersion. The number and size of the ghats increased this year. Six kunds were dug for statue immersion, while three were for the puja samagri. Smaller statues were taken to the smaller ghats, while larger ones were taken to the larger ghats. At the largest ghat, we arranged for a crane to assist with the immersion. Most statues were immersed using the crane due to a lack of manpower, and trucks transporting the statues were allowed near the ghat. Over 70 statues were immersed with the help of cranes. Durga Pujas with adequate manpower were directed to other pits for self-immersion. After every five or six immersions, the wooden infrastructure was removed from the pit once the clay dissolved to create space for additional statues. Among all the Durga Pujas, the Bengali Club conducted the immersion in their kund, while the Rama Krishna Mission carried out the immersion at their plot in Bakshi Ka Talab.

(Top) Women posing in front of Goddess Durga idol after 'sindoor khela'. (Above) A crane pressed into service for visarjan

CLASSIFIEDS

NOTICE

I have changed my name FARANA BEGUM to FARJANA BEGUM W/O AKBAR HUSAIN for future purpose. Add- HAZRATGANJ KARARI KAUSHAMBI.

NOTICE

I have changed my name MOHD SHAIK to MOHAMMAD SAIF S/O KHALEEL AHMAD for future purpose. Add- KORAURA MOHAN UNNAO.

NOTICE

I have changed my name from Bharat Singh Chandel To Bharat Singh for all future purposes. Bharat Singh S/o Ram Singh R/o 635, Civil Line Unnao- 209801.

NOTICE

I Niraj Kumar S/o Ram Sevak R/o 96.0 Nawao, Nawao chamiyani Unnao, U.P. declare that my daughter name in my army service record was wrongly mentioned as Kumari Pragati whereas her correct name in her Aadhar card is Pragati. Aadhar Card record should be considered correct.

NOTICE

I Niraj Kumar S/o Ram Sevak R/o 96.0 Nawao, Nawao chamiyani Unnao, U.P. declare that date of Birth of my mother Asha Devi in my army service record was wrongly mentioned as 01.07.1961. Whereas her correct date of birth in Aadhar card is 01.01.1954. Aadhar Card record should be considered correct.

NOTICE

I Niraj Kumar S/o Ram Sevak R/o 96.0 Nawao, Nawao chamiyani Unnao, U.P. declare that date of Birth of my mother Ram Sevak in my army service record was wrongly mentioned as 01.07.1959. Whereas her correct date of Birth in Aadhar card is 01.01.1965. Aadhar card record should be considered correct.

NOTICE

THIS IS TO INFORM THAT IN MY ACADEMECT RECORDS MY NAME HAS BEEN MENTIONED AS AFSHAN FATIMA DUE TO INADVERTENCE WHILE CORRECT SPELLING OF MY NAME IS AFSHA FATIMA AND BOTH NAME ARE OF SAME PERSON THAT IS MINE. H.NO 356/255/72 ASHRAF NAGAR RAJAJIPURAM, LUCKNOW.

NOTICE

I have informed that my daughter FALAK PARVEEN'S name is recorded as MOHAD ASIF RAJA in her High School Certificate/Marks Sheet of 2012. Mohammed Asif MOHAMMAD ASIF and MOHAD ASIF RAJA are the same person and so is the name of me, the swearing in oath. MOHAMMAD ASIF son of Mohammed Hanif R/O Shahpura Kothi near Sales Tax Office, Lakhimpur Kheri.

NOTICE

I have informed that my daughter TUBA PARVEEN'S name is recorded as MOHAD ASIF RAJA in her High School Certificate/Marks Sheet of 2012. Mohammed Asif MOHAMMAD ASIF and MOHAD ASIF RAJA are the same person and so is the name of me, the swearing in oath. MOHAMMAD ASIF son of Mohammed Hanif R/O Shahpura Kothi near Sales Tax Office, Lakhimpur Kheri.

Youth killed due to friendship with pal's fiancée

Lucknow (PNS): A youth was killed allegedly due to his close friendship with a girl engaged to his friend in Jankipuram. The revelation emerged after police investigated the disappearance of Mohammed Aftab (20), whose body was discovered beneath the Ghaila bridge in Madaion. Aftab went missing after leaving to meet his friends Fazil and Afaq around 7 pm on October 8. When he did not return home, Aftab's parents inquired about his whereabouts and suspected Fazil and Afaq's involvement, leading them to file a missing complaint. However, the police initially took no action on the complaint. On October 11, Aftab's body was recovered from the Gomti river and identified by his family. It was only then that the police launched a probe into the case. On October 12, during their investigation, police collected CCTV footage and other evidence linking the suspects to the crime and conducted a raid at their home. When interrogated, Fazil confessed that he was jealous of Aftab's close friendship with the girl to whom his marriage was arranged. Out of jealousy, he, along with Afaq, killed Aftab at his house. To conceal the crime, they wrapped Aftab's body in a plastic sheet, placed it in a car, and disposed of it under the Ghaila bridge. Thereafter, they gathered the items used in the crime—such as the plastic sheet, a dupatta, and a blood-stained pipe—stuffed them in a sack, and discarded it near a pit in Nauwakheda, CDRI.

SP snub to Cong for bypoll seats: Cong says 'possibilities ahead'

Lucknow (PTI): Congress strategists on Sunday said discussions on ticket distribution are ongoing with the Samajwadi Party and there are "possibilities ahead", days after its ally declared candidates for six of the 10 Uttar Pradesh assembly seats where bypolls are scheduled. The SP had announced candidates for six of the 10 Uttar Pradesh assembly seats after the Congress lost the assembly polls in Haryana. The Congress has been demanding five seats in the bypolls for which the schedule is yet to be announced. Congress national general secretary and Uttar Pradesh in-charge, Avinash Pandey told PTI, "If the results do not meet our expectations, it is natural for disappointment to arise among our workers and leaders. However, we are committed to our objectives in UP - the era of jungle raj must come to an end." A Congress worker said the loss in Haryana has empowered the SP to declare candidates for six seats in the state. Despite this setback, Pandey emphasised that discussions regarding ticket distribution are ongoing and solutions will be found through timely communication. "This is not a major issue. There are still possibilities ahead," he asserted. In the last Lok Sabha elections, the Congress, in alliance with the SP contested 80 seats in Uttar Pradesh. The SP won 37 seats, while the Congress managed to secure six, providing a morale boost for a party that had been sidelined in the state for years. With eyes on the 2027 UP assembly polls, the Congress was eager for the upcoming bypolls to test its strategies. State president Ajay Rai even proposed that the Congress contest five of the ten available seats. However, the recent election results in Haryana prompted the SP to assert claims on six seats, including two that the Congress was eyeing. On Wednesday, the SP named candidates for the Karhal (Mainpuri), Sisamau (Kanpur Nagar), Milkipur (Ayodhya), Katehari (Ambedkarnagar), Phulpur (Prayagraj), and Majhawan (Mirzapur) seats. Notably, Phulpur and Majhawan were among the five seats the Congress had sought to contest. The SP has yet to announce candidates for the Kunderki, Meerapur, Ghaziabad, and Khair seats. In the 2022 assembly polls, the Ghaziabad seat was won by BJP's Atul Garg by getting 1,50,205 votes while the SP was at number two, the BSP at third and the Congress at fourth. Here the Congress candidate got 11,818 votes while the SP got 44,668 votes. Anoop Valmiki of the BJP won the Khair assembly seat of Aligarh district by getting 1,39,643 votes and against him the BSP was second, RLD third and Congress at fourth place. Here the Congress candidate got only 1,514 votes. Political experts say that in the 2022 elections, the Ghaziabad seat was not favourable for the

SP and the Meerapur and Khair seats were given to the ally RLD, so the SP can give these seats to the Congress to save the relationship. Political analysts said the SP might allocate the Meerapur and Khair seats to the Congress to preserve the alliance, as they were less favourable for the SP in the past elections. "Our loss in Haryana was due to overconfidence, but in UP we are actively working on the ground. Together, Congress and the SP will challenge the BJP's dominance and strive for victory," Rai said. He said the shared goal of both parties is to end the BJP's "jungle raj" and asserted that the people will respond accordingly. Rai said the Congress proposed to contest five seats where the BJP had faltered in 2022, but the SP has now declared candidates for two of those. Both Rai and other Congress leaders emphasised the importance of the alliance with the SP, downplaying ticket distribution concerns for the bypolls.

LDA to focus on land consolidation to boost revenue

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

The primary agenda of the Lucknow Development Authority (LDA) on Sunday was to discuss measures for increasing its revenue. The meeting was presided over by LDA Vice-Chairman Prathmesh Kumar, who emphasised the urgent need for measures to boost LDA's revenue, with a top priority on consolidating the land bank. Surprisingly, the development authority has never maintained a systematic record of its land bank, leading to confusion among officials regarding its boundaries. This lack of organisation has allowed locals to illegally occupy public land. The VC acknowledged this shortcoming and announced plans to establish a modern, well-equipped record room at the head office.

He also stated that staff would need to collaborate with the revenue department to update the land bank records. Another priority discussed was the disposal of unsold properties, which are deteriorating and located in prime areas of the city. The VC noted that these properties should be sold at any reasonable price to generate revenue. He mentioned that a more systematic approach would be adopted for this process, with consultations from real estate experts. Additionally, the VC highlighted the potential for revenue generation by reviving old projects that have stalled due to financial crises. Meanwhile, in a press communiqué issued late Sunday evening, it was announced that an eight-day sculpture camp, jointly organised by Akhil Bharatiya Murtikala Camp and LDA, will begin in Lucknow on Monday.

₹1.43L average stipend offered to IIM-L batch

Lucknow (PNS): The Indian Institute of Management, Lucknow (IIM-L) has completed its summer placement process for the 2024-2026 batch, securing 576 offers for its 40th batch of post-graduate programme (PGP)-students and the 21st batch of the Post-Graduate Programme in Agribusiness Management (PGP-ABM). This year, the average stipend offered was Rs 1.43 lakh per month, with a median stipend of Rs 1.50 lakh per month. The highest domestic stipend reached Rs 3.95 lakh per month, while international offers topped Rs 1.75 lakh per month. Student affairs and placement chairperson at IIM-L, Prof Priyanka Sharma said: "I am proud to announce that despite challenging economic conditions, our summer placement drive has achieved remarkable success. As the economy stabilises, we are confident in expanding opportunities further and preparing our students for continued professional success." IIM-Ls diverse 2024-2026 batch includes 234 freshers and 342 students with significant prior work experience across various sectors. This blend of fresh talent and seasoned professionals enabled students to secure positions in a wide range of fields, including consulting, finance, general management, product management, sales & marketing, operations & retail, and e-commerce. Several new recruiters participated this year, including Arcesium, Barclays, Bank of New York Mellon, eBay, Essar, GMR Group, Navneet, NIIF, Paytm Money, PepsiCo Agro, Saint Gobain, Sprinklr, Tata Consumer Products, Tesco, and Virtusa, offering a mix of domestic and international roles. These newcomers joined legacy recruiters such as Accenture, Aditya Birla Group, Adobe, Alvarez & Marsal, Amazon, American Express, Bain & Company, Boston Consulting Group, Citi Group, Deloitte, EY, Goldman Sachs, HUL, McKinsey & Company, Procter & Gamble, PwC, and Tata Administrative Services.

UP mulling ban on ferrying people by tractor-trolleys

Lucknow (PNS): The Uttar Pradesh government is contemplating a ban on use of tractor-trolleys for passenger travel. The Transport department will soon convene a meeting of all stakeholders to ensure compliance with the ban on using tractor-trolleys for transportation of people. The decision has been made in the wake of a spate of mishaps involving people traveling on tractor-trolleys. The latest one was reported on October 4 from Mirzapur when 10 labourers returning by tractor-trolley from a project site to their homes in Varanasi were killed. After October 4 too, many tractor-trolley related mishaps have been reported from different parts of Uttar Pradesh. "We will soon convene a high-level meeting to discuss ways to curb use of tractor-trolleys for passenger transportation. Our strategy is going to be two-fold - enforce regulations on tractor-trolleys strictly while also creating awareness among the rural masses, who prefer tractor-trolleys for commuting, possibly because they consider it to be a cheaper and readily accessible option," Uttar Pradesh Transport Minister Daya Shankar Singh said on Saturday.

Tension in Bahraich as one killed in violence during idol immersion

PNS ■ BAHRAICH

Tension prevailed in Bahraich after a 22-year-old youth was fatally shot at when the idol of Goddess Durga was being taken for immersion in a procession and some people raised slogans, in Bahraich. Members of a particular community pelted stones and opened fire, fatally injuring 22-year-old Ram Gopal Mishra, a native of Rehua Mansoor village, who was walking in the procession. He later died in the hospital during treatment, one of his family members said. Around half dozen more people were injured in the stone pelting and firing, police said. The incident took place when the procession was passing through Mansoor village's Mahraigan Bazaar carrying an idol of Goddess Durga for immersion on Sunday evening. After the incident, Hindu organisations started protesting by stopping idol immersion at various places in the district. In view of the seriousness of the incident, a heavy police force has been deployed in the area. Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath said that those who spoiled the atmosphere in Bahraich would not be spared. He instructed the officials to identify the miscreants and take strict action against them. The chief minister also told the officials that idol immersion should continue by holding talks with religious organisations. He also asked officials to identify those whose negligence led to this incident. According to the police, the incident took place in Maharajanjan on Sunday evening when some people involved in the Durga idol immersion procession raised slogans. After this, angry people of a particular community started pelting stones and opened fire. Officials have appealed to the people to maintain peace. The local administration has made tight security arrangements in view of the seriousness of the incident and efforts are being made to restore peace in the area. In protest against the incident, the Durga idol for immersion processions in Bahraich city and nearby towns Kaiserganj, Fakharpur, Mahsi were stopped and the road was being blocked. The administration is holding talks with the Durga Puja Mahasabha. Meanwhile, three people were injured after two groups clashed over playing DJ music during the burning of effigies at a village in Ballia district on Dussehra, police said on Sunday. The clash broke out at Kharoni village in the Bansdih police station limits on Saturday night between two groups of people over playing DJ music during the Dussehra festivities. The police had to intervene to bring the situation under control. The injured were rushed to the community health centre in Bansdih from where Ankit Singh (25) was referred to the district hospital where his condition is stated to be critical. Based on the complaints lodged by both sides, the police have registered a case against 24 individuals under the relevant sections of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS). Fourteen accused persons have been taken into custody for questioning, police said. Additional Superintendent of Police (North) Anil Kumar Jha said the matter is being investigated and appropriate action will be taken against those found guilty as per the law.

CM: Together we stand, together we stay safe

PNS ■ GORAKHPUR

Chief Minister and Gorakshpeethadhiswar Yogi Adityanath said that unity was the key to the nation's safety. Speaking at the coronation ceremony of Lord Shri Ram, organised by the Shri Shri Ramlila Committee in Aryanagar at Mansarovar Ramlila Ground on Saturday, Chief Minister Yogi emphasised that eliminating untouchability and discrimination is key to fostering unity and ensuring the safety of both individuals and the nation. He urged the people to avoid the mistakes of the past that led to slavery and gave invaders the chance to destroy India's religious places and divide society. Extending his greetings on the auspicious occasion, Chief Minister Yogi highlighted the historical consequences of division, stating, "Due to a lack of unity during different periods of slavery, invaders were able to desecrate sacred temples like the Vishwanath temple in Kashi, the Ram temple in Ayodhya, and the Shri Krishna temple in Mathura. If we fall into slavery again, such situations can happen again." He further stressed that freedom is not only political, but also a symbol of cultural and spiritual independence. "We must remain united to honour the sacrifices of the martyrs who fought for our independence. Their sacrifices should not go in vain," he said, calling for collective efforts to preserve the country's rich heritage and safeguard its future. Chief Minister Yogi urged people to overcome divisions based on caste, religion, language and untouchability, highlighting the importance of collective strength in promoting social harmony. He noted the recent developments in Ayodhya, where a grand temple dedicated to Lord Shri Ram has been built after 500 years. The chief minister pointed out that historical divisions based on region, caste and religion were part of a conspiracy that still affects society today. "We must not allow these divisions to grow," he remarked. He urged everyone to unite for the nation's progress, stating that personal interests should never outweigh national interests. "All our efforts should be in the name of the country," he asserted, citing the movement for the construction of the Ayodhya temple as a source of inspiration for this mission. The chief minister became visibly emotional while discussing the movement for the construction of the Ram temple, recalling the dreams of his revered Gurudev, Brahmalin Mahant Avedyanath ji Maharaj. He shared that his gurudev's last wish was to witness the temple's completion. The chief minister praised the ongoing journey of preserving and developing India's cultural heritage, attributing this progress to the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. He noted that Sanatanis and Indians, both within the country and abroad, take pride in these developments. Reflecting on the past, Chief Minister Yogi emphasised that just five years ago, few believed that a temple for Lord Shri Ram would be constructed at his birthplace in Ayodhya. "Only a handful of Sanatanis, like us, firmly believed that the Shri Ram temple would indeed be built," he said, expressing satisfaction that this dream has now become a reality. The chief minister highlighted several significant achievements, including the successful realisation of the grand Vishwanath Dham in Kashi, the transformation of Maa Vindhyaasini Dham in Vindhyaachal, and the vision of Ramrajya coming to life in Chitrakoot. He also mentioned the restoration of the historical significance of Shukratirth, where the Bhagwat Katha was first held five thousand years ago, and the revitalisation of Naimisharanya, presenting it in a new light inspired by its mythological and Vedic heritage. Chief Minister Yogi further highlighted the importance of India's ancient heritage, dedicating the celebrations to the feet of Lord Shri Ram. He drew parallels between the present and the past, stating that the evening of Vijayadashami likely mirrored the moment in Treta Yug when Lord Shri Ram defeated Ravana, the embodiment of 'adharma', untruth and tyranny. Expressing his pride in coronating Lord Shri Ram on behalf of Gorakshpeeth during this significant festival, Chief Minister Yogi remarked, "It is a matter of pride for me to have this opportunity, which is deeply connected to our heritage. He emphasised that thousands of years ago, Lord Vishnu incarnated as Shri Ram to establish dharma, protect the saints, and promote the welfare of humanity. In his address, Chief Minister Yogi emphasised the dual significance of Vijayadashami, where Lord Shri Ram is crowned, and his aarti is performed while Ravana's effigy is burned. "This dual celebration carries a profound message: those who act against humanity and commit injustices will face consequences, while those who uphold dharma, truth and justice will be honoured and revered, just as Shri Ram, Mata Janaki, Laxman, and Ram devotee Hanuman are celebrated," he concluded.

Yogi leads Vijayadashami procession, brings communities together in Gkp

PNS ■ GORAKHPUR

On the auspicious occasion of Vijayadashami, the festival celebrating the triumph of righteousness, truth and justice, a vibrant and traditional procession led by Gorakshpeethadhiswar and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath commenced from Gorakhnath temple on Saturday evening. Yogi, riding the chariot, was greeted with an overwhelming display of devotion and unity as flowers symbolising harmony were showered upon him throughout the procession. Leading the procession in the traditional attire of the mahant of Gorakhnath temple, Yogi Adityanath, seated on a newly built flower-decorated chariot, was warmly greeted by people from various communities, including the weaver (Muslim) and Sindhi communities. Yogi blessed them, shared festive greetings, and distributed prasad from the Navratri rituals. The procession, marked by a strong cultural and religious significance, showcased a blend of ancient traditions and modern-day camaraderie. The Vijayadashami procession, one of the key rituals of the world-renowned Gorakshpeeth of the Nath sect, commenced around 4 pm following prayers at the Gorakhnath temple. Accompanied by the distinct sounds of Nath sect instruments like the Nagani, trumpets, nagada and drums, the procession wound its way through the streets. Special performances by folk artists represented the rich cultural tapestry of India, while local residents lined the route, eager to catch a glimpse of the spiritual leader. As the procession reached the main gate of the Gorakhnath temple, a shower of flowers welcomed the Gorakshpeethadhiswar.

Members of the Muslim community, including weavers, greeted him with garlands and saffron robes. Chaudhary Kaifulwara, the outgoing chairman of the Urdu Academy, along with other community members, expressed their respect, receiving prasad from the Navratri rituals in return. At multiple points, the Muslim and Sindhi communities expressed their respect and love for the Gorakshpeethadhiswar. Prominent figures like Chaudhary Kaifulwara, representing the weaver community, greeted Yogi with flower garlands and saffron robes. The people in attendance, including many Muslim women and children, captured these moments on their smartphones. Chaudhary Kaifulwara shared that his family has been welcoming the Vijayadashami procession for generations, stating that the Gorakshpeeth treats all individuals as equal, regardless of their religion or background. Chairman of the Weavers Welfare Association, Azizulhadi, also led a group that extended their respect to the Gorakshpeethadhiswar. As the procession advanced toward the Mansarovar temple, members of the Sindhi community greeted it with folded hands. The outpouring of enthusiasm along the route was palpable, with people eagerly awaiting a glimpse of the Gorakshpeethadhiswar and offering their respects. The final stop of the procession was the Mansarovar Ramlila ground, where Yogi performed the coronation of Lord Ram, worshipped deities, and performed aarti amidst the chants of Vedic mantras. The celebration marked the spirit of Vijayadashami and left an indelible impression of unity, devotion and cultural pride. Folk artists from different parts of the state brought extra colour to the event with their traditional dance performances. Rajesh Sharma's group from Mathura performed the Mayur (peacock) dance, while Vishal Gupta's group from Varanasi showcased Damru playing. Munna Lal Yadav's group from Azamgarh performed the Dhobiya dance, and Mata Prasad Verma's group from Ayodhya presented the Faruwahi dance. Sangamla's group from Ayodhya performed the Badhawan dance, and Santosh's group from

CM addresses grievances of people

Gorakhpur(PNS): Following a hectic three-day schedule of ceremonial events for Shardiya Navratri and Vijayadashami, CM Yogi Adityanath addressed problems of around 300 people at the Janata Darshan held in front of Mahant Digvijaynath Smriti Bhawan on Gorakhnath temple premises on Sunday morning. The CM met the people one by one, listened to their problems patiently and forwarded their applications to the officials concerned present there, instructing them for prompt and satisfactory resolution. He stressed the need for strict legal action against land grabbers and those exploiting the weak. He also said that those who were left out of the government schemes for any reason must be included, emphasising the state's commitment to ensure justice and prosperity in every citizen's life.

Sonbhadra showcased the Singha folk dance. Imran Khan's group from Jhansi performed the Rai folk dance, while several groups from Gorakhpur, including Ramgyan, Chhedi Yadav, Vindhyaachal Azad, and Rambachan, performed the Faruwahi dance. Sugam Singh's group from Gorakhpur also presented the Vantangiya folk dance. The Vijayadashami festival at Gorakhnath temple commenced on Saturday morning with a sacred worship ceremony dedicated to Shrinathji (Guru Gorakhnath, an incarnation of Lord Shiva) led by Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath.

Chitrakoot Dham's Amavasya fair to be enlivened with grand Diwali decorations

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

In its ongoing efforts to boost spiritual tourism and develop pilgrimage sites across Uttar Pradesh, the Yogi Adityanath government is preparing to transform the Amavasya fair, held during Diwali, at Chitrakoot Dham. Following the success of events like Ayodhya's Deepotsav and Varanasi's Dev Diwali, the government now aims to give this traditional fair a divine and grand appearance. As part of Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's vision, the Chitrakoot Dham Teerth Vikas Parishad is finalising preparations for the five-day event, running from October 28 to November 1. Central to the plan is a large-scale beautification project that will see the entire Chitrakoot Dham adorned with attractive lighting and floral decorations. Intelligent LED lighting gates will be installed, and 13 key hotspot areas, including the Ramayana Mela site, Ramghat and the railway station, will be extensively decorated to create a vibrant and festive atmosphere. According to the action plan chalked by the Chitrakoot Dham Teerth Vikas Parishad, the entire pilgrimage area will be beautifully decorated for the Amavasya fair during Diwali. The decorations will include colourful LED lights, fabric (dasa cloth), and flower garlands. As part of the plan, 13 key locations in Chitrakoot Dham, including the fair site, will feature large, 40-foot high and 30-foot wide intelligent LED gates that will attract visitors. These temporary gates will have running LED lights and will be designed around devotional themes, showcasing events from the life of Lord Ram. The gates will be decorated with fabric, flower garlands and cutouts of Lord Ram. The main gate at the fair venue will also feature a bow-shaped decoration along with a cutout of Lord Ram, creating a grand entrance. Additionally, LED screens, tables and other props will be used to enhance the look of the venue, and the entire pilgrimage area will glow with colourful lights and flower decorations. Lord Shri Ram's deep connection with Chitrakoot is well known, as he spent 11 years of his exile in this sacred land. His presence is felt in every corner of Chitrakoot, making it a significant pilgrimage destination, especially during Diwali. Every year, lakhs of devotees from across India and the world gather to light lamps at various ghats, including the famous Ramghat on the banks of the Mandakini river. According to the tradition, after his victory over Lanka, Lord Shri Ram halted in Chitrakoot on his way back to Ayodhya, to meet the sages. With their blessings, he expressed his gratitude by donating a lamp in the Mandakini river. This ritual has continued ever since, with devotees lighting lamps in the river, circumambulating Kamadgiri, and visiting important temples and spiritual sites like Kamtanath during Diwali.

Gangster killed in encounter

Lucknow (PNS): The Baghat police claimed to have achieved a big success when during an encounter they killed a listed gangster carrying a cash reward of Rs 1.5 lakh on his arrest. Identified as Rajesh, a native of Sihalnagar village under Aahar police station area of Bulandshahr district, the criminal had over 50 cases registered against him. During the encounter, Aahar police station in-charge and a constable were also injured. The encounter took place in the Kotwali rural area of Bulandshahr on early Sunday morning. Deputy Superintendent of Police of Anoopshahr, Girja Shankar Tripathi, who led the team along with the station house officer of Kotwali police station, claimed that they were looking for Rajesh in several cases, mostly of robbery and dacoity committed in the district and adjoining areas. The DSP claimed that after getting inputs of the criminal's movement in Sihalnagar area, he led a team and spotted him on Sunday morning. The gangster was asked to surrender but he suddenly opened fire on the policemen in which the SHO and a constable were injured. Later, in retaliatory firing, the gangster was killed. On Saturday night also, the police had arrested two criminals named Babulal and Golu after an encounter. The Khurja Nagar police came under fire from Babulal and Golu when the cops were checking vehicles near Madanpur crossing. When the police spotted two suspicious persons coming on a motorcycle, they signalled the duo to stop. However, the both turned the motorcycle and tried to escape towards Madanpur. But in this attempt, the motorcycle slipped and fell down. Seeing themselves surrounded, the criminals opened fire on the police team. In the retaliatory firing, they were shot in the leg and later arrested. Both were admitted to the district hospital. Babulal and Golu are accused of shooting and killing a person named Gaurav on October 9 in a dispute over money transaction. Police have recovered illegal weapons, cartridges and motorcycles used in the incident from their possession.

TWO FEARED DROWNED

Two youths were feared drowned while another was rescued after being swept away in Manwar river during idol immersion in Gonda, police said on Sunday. The incident took place on Saturday night and a search is underway to trace them. Chapiya police station in-charge Krishna Gopal Rai said, Mankapur SDM Yashwant Rao said during the immersion of Durga idols at Piprahi Ghat of the Manwar river, three youths carrying idols were swept into deep water.

8 die in road accidents

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Eight people, including a police sub-inspector and four teenage boys, were killed in separate road accidents. Four teenage boys were killed in the outskirts of Aligarh city on Sunday when their motorcycle collided with a tractor-trolley parked at the roadside, police said. The accident occurred when Vikas, Yash, Sunil, and Ravi were returning home after attending Dussehra festivities, Circle Officer Mayank Pathak said. They had left their homes from a village in Dibai town of Bulandshahr district on Saturday night and were returning home before dawn, Pathak said. He said that a police patrolling car arrived at the spot and took the victims to Jawaharlal Nehru Medical College hospital where doctors pronounced them dead. Four people walking on the Eastern Peripheral Expressway in Baghat were crushed by a speeding truck on Sunday morning. While three of them were killed, one is in hospital in a critical condition. After the accident, the truck driver fled from the spot. On receiving information, the police reached the spot and started an investigation.

Deputy Superintendent of Police Preeti Singh said that the accident took place on the Eastern Peripheral Expressway near Lahchaura village in Chandinagar area on Sunday morning. According to reports, four people were walking on the expressway when they were hit by a speeding truck. Due to the negligence of the driver, the truck ran over all four. While three people died on the spot, one was seriously injured. He was admitted to the district hospital. The DSP identified the deceased as Raja (26) and Nanhe (40) of Dehra, Hapur and Akil (40) of Nahal in Ghaziabad district. In another tragic road accident, a police sub-inspector was killed in Etah district, after a vehicle hit his motorcycle near Natha village on Bareilly-Agra highway, police said. The deceased policeman was identified as Naresh Pal Singh (60). Singh was immediately taken to a local hospital from where he was referred to Aligarh medical college hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries. The police were trying to trace out the vehicle involved in the accident. Singh had joined the police force in 1989 and was posted at Mirhachi police station for the past year and a half. He was to retire in two months.

Maha Kumbh: UP govt to ensure smooth road travel for devotees

PNS ■ LUCKNOW/PRAAYAGRAJ

To ensure that devotees not only experience the spiritual essence of Maha Kumbh 2025 but also enjoy a smooth and convenient journey, the Yogi Adityanath government has implemented several key initiatives to simplify access to Prayagraj, particularly by road. From improving road networks to providing parking facilities, digital signboards, shuttle buses, e-rickshaws, and emergency plans, every detail has been meticulously addressed. These measures will serve as a significant milestone in making Maha Kumbh 2025 a safe, well-organised and unforgettable event. For Maha Kumbh 2025, with lakhs of devotees expected to arrive in Prayagraj from across the country, the government has identified seven key routes to ensure smooth traffic flow. Special plans are being developed to facilitate unobstructed travel for devotees on these routes. The seven major routes, along with the estimated percentage of devotees, include 21 per cent from the Jaunpur route, 16 per cent from the Varanasi route, 12 per cent from the Mirzapur route, 18 per cent from the Rewa route, 14 per cent from the Kanpur route, 10 per cent from the Lucknow route, and 9 per cent from the Ayodhya-Pratapgah route. Tailored traffic management plans have been created for each of these routes to ensure a seamless journey.

THEMATIC GATES

In a significant effort to beautify Prayagraj ahead of the Maha Kumbh, the government plans to construct thematic gates in the fair area. This initiative aims to create a grand and divine atmosphere that reflects the spiritual significance of the event, warmly welcoming millions of devotees and visitors to the city. According to Regional Tourism Officer at Prayagraj, Aparajita Singh, the beautification plan for the Kumbh area includes the construction of 30 temporary thematic gates. The construction of these gates will incorporate 14 gems from the 'Samudra Manthan', reflecting the mythological significance of the Kumbh. The gates will be constructed in all four directions of the Kumbh area, with a priority on those sectors of the fair where tourist and devotee traffic is highest.

NETRA KUMBH

The government is tirelessly working to ensure that the Maha Kumbh 2025 is a grand, divine, safe, and seamless event. As part of these efforts, the health and well-being of the devotees are being prioritised. In line with this, the Mela administration will establish a 'Netra Kumbh' (eye camp) in the Maha Kumbh Mela area to provide eye care services for pilgrims. With a budget exceeding Rs 9 crore, this temporary facility will offer vision correction, cataract surgeries, and eyeglasses during the fair. A central unit will be set up in the main Mela area to serve as the primary eye care center. In addition to offering eye care services, the initiative aims to raise awareness about the importance of eye health and regular check-ups. The eye health data collected from devotees and bathers will be stored digitally, enabling ongoing monitoring and follow-up care when necessary.

SANITATION WORKERS & SAILORS

The government is also taking significant steps for the uplift of sanitation workers and sailors who play a vital role in the success of Kumbh. In a major welfare initiative, these workers are being enrolled in key social security schemes, including the Pradhan Mantri Jeevan Jyoti Bima Yojana and Pradhan Mantri Suraksha Bima Yojana. Additionally, efforts are underway to connect them with the Pradhan Mantri Shram Yogi Maandhan Yojana, ensuring their financial security and improving their quality of life. Furthermore, the state government is working to ensure that the daughters of sanitation workers and sailors benefit from schemes like the Kanya Sumangala Yojana and Shiksha Protsahan Yojana. A growing number of families from this community are already receiving support through these programmes.

BJP selectively targeting minority institutions, alleges Akhilesh

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav has accused the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party of selectively targeting minority institutions/madrasas after a report by a child rights panel called for stopping state funding of madrasas across the nation. The SP president said that the saffron party wanted to do politics over hatred and discrimination. "This country belongs to everyone; the Constitution gives us the rights. Whatever system has been established by the Constitution, the BJP wants to change it. They are the people who want to do politics over hatred, by creating conflicts between castes and religions. But they won't succeed; the people of the country, intellectuals of society now understand that the discriminatory politics of the BJP won't go long," Akhilesh Yadav said while talking to reporters in Lucknow on Saturday. "The BJP does everything that spreads hatred in society. If they have a problem with education, they should have taken steps to improve the quality of education. All institutions, whether it is madrasa or any other institution... if they had the power, they would have closed Sanskrit schools also. They want control, they want to keep everything under their control," Akhilesh Yadav said. The SP chief was reacting to a report by the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR), which raised concerns about the functioning of madrasas and called for an end to state funding unless these institutions comply with the Right to Education Act. The NCPCR on Saturday issued a report titled 'Guardians of Faith or Oppressors of Children: Constitutional Rights of Children vs Madrasas', which discusses the historical role of madrasas along with their impact on children. The NCPCR, in its report, recommended closure of Madrasa Boards and stopping of state funding to them. NCPCR chief Priyank Kanoongo said the report had been released after an analysis of nine years. He said that children in madrasas were tutored in such a way that they would work according to the motives of certain people. "The commission has released its final report after studying this issue for nine years. We have found that around 1.25 crore children are deprived of their basic education rights. They are being tutored in such a way that they would work according to the motives of certain people; this is wrong. The people who have captured these madrasas are those who used to say that they wanted to preach Islam across India during India-Pakistan partition. There are madrasa boards in 7-8 states and we have asked to shut the madrasa boards because they failed to serve the purpose... donations are being raised for madrasas," he added. The NCPCR report states that while Articles 29 and 30 of the Constitution protect the rights of minorities to preserve their culture and establish educational institutions, these provisions have, in a way, led to discrimination against madrasa students, who miss out on formal education. The report points out that while the primary focus of madrasas is religious education, many do not provide the essential components of formal education such as adequate infrastructure, trained teachers and proper academic curricula. The report also cites 2021-22 data of Unified District Information System for Education (UDISE), which states that a large number of Muslim children are out of school, with an estimated 1.2 crore children not receiving formal education. The report also says there is a lack of accountability in many madrasas, where physical safety concerns, such as poor infrastructure and cases of child rights violations, have been reported.

Bharat Milap held amidst tight security

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ VARANASI

Amidst chaos, stampede-like situation and altercation between Yadav Bandhus and the police, thousands of people thronged Nati Imli and adjoining areas to watch the internationally famous Bharat Milap event held here on Sunday evening with all traditional gaiety and religious fervour. When the Yadav Bandhus as per tradition reached there carrying 'Pushpak Viman', the police stopped them allowing only a limited number of people to the entire event venue but all the Yadav Bandhus wanted to go there. It led to altercation and created chaos and stampede-like situation there.

Later, the situation was brought under control and event was held peacefully. Tight security arrangements were made at the venue of Bharat Milap to avoid any untoward incident and barricading was done. Right from afternoon hours, the people started gathering there to have a glimpse of the reunion of Lord Rama with his brother Bharat. It is a famous event which even attracted Bollywood to make a movie on the event. Former Kashi Naresh Kumwar Anant Narayan Singh reached the venue as per tradition. The event was also watched by many dignitaries. After the reunion of Lord Rama with his brothers, chief of Banaras royal family Kunwar gifted coins to members of the committee as per tradition. As per tradition, children playing the roles of divine characters were brought to the grounds of Nati Imli for public viewing of their reunion. The devotees paid their respect by putting a tilak on their forehead and garlanding Lord Rama, Bharat, Lakshman and Shatrughan. Later, Kunwar returned to Bada Ganesh with the same route through which he had reached and in a similar procession. Earlier, to attend the event Kunwar left his Ramnagar Fort along with his sons along with traditional fort security personnel. The event was presented by the Ramayani Dal of Shri Chitrakoot Ramleela Samiti.

Famous Bharat Milap being held in Nati Imli area in Varanasi on Sunday evening.

Earlier, the Ramlila of Jaitpura started with the Mukut Pujan and Ram Janam on the occasion of Dussehra under the auspices of Shri Adarsh Prachin Ramlila Committee.

BJP starts preparations for PM's proposed Kashi visit on Oct 20

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ VARANASI

The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) has started preparations in full swing for the proposed arrival of Prime Minister Narendra Modi in his parliamentary constituency on October 20. Regional President Dilip Patel said that as per the schedule, Prime Minister Modi will reach Babatpur Airport at around 12.30 pm and will be given a rousing welcome by BJP workers and local people amid drums and flower showers.

Patel said after this Prime Minister Modi will leave for the city by road. He will first go to Shankar Netralaya on Ring Road, where he will inaugurate the eye hospital built for north Indians and will also interact with the dignitaries associated with this eye hospital. After this, the prime minister will inaugurate the Varanasi Sports Complex (Siga Stadium) built at a cost of about ₹200 crore in Siga and will inaugurate and lay the foundation stone of other projects including the foundation stone of Babatpur Terminal building. After this,

PM Modi will address a public meeting at Siga Stadium at 3 pm, in which Bharatiya Janata Party workers and general public of the district will participate.

After the public meeting, Modi will leave for Babatpur Airport by road and will continue his further travel programme. Patel said preparations have started in Varanasi under the aegis of the district and city unit of the party for the grand welcome of PM Modi and the success of the public meeting. Under this, various meetings are being organised, in which senior Bharatiya Janata Party leaders and workers are participating. There is an atmosphere of enthusiasm in Kashi regarding the prime minister's visit and Bharatiya Janata Party workers have started preparations on a large scale to welcome him.

Thousands flock to watch Ravan Dahan at BLW

CELEBRATING VICTORY OF GOOD OVER EVIL: The effigy of Ravana along with other being burnt at BLW in Varanasi on Saturday evening.

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ VARANASI

Thousands of people watched the famous Ravan Dahan event at Central Sports Grounds in Banaras Locomotive Works (BLW) here on Saturday evening as the auspicious festival of Vijayadashami was celebrated with traditional gaiety and religious fervour. In the recent decades, the event has become very popular as a large number of people reach there. When the effigies of 'Demon King' Ravana, his brother Kumbhakaran and son Meghnad which were 75, 65 and 60-feet-tall respectively were burnt, the slogans of 'Jai Siya Ram' were raised. The grounds as well as roads in its surrounding areas were packed with thousands of people. The event was marked with an attractive fireworks show. Prior to that, the artistes performed Ramlila and mes-merised the audience. Prior to burning of effigies, the fireworks event changed the mood of the people. Earlier, the General Manager (GM) SK Srivastava and Chairperson of BLW Women's Welfare Organisation (BLWWO) Gauri Srivastava performed the 'arti' of Lord Ram and Mata Sita. Then the artistes performed Lila of Ram Van Gaman to Ravana Vadha based on Ramcharitmanas. Extending greetings to the employees, the GM said the festival of Vijayadashami marked the victory of Dharma over Adharma, truth over falsehood and light over darkness. "This festival not only symbolises the victory of good over evil, but also inspires us to follow morality, truth and justice in our lives", he said. The entire programme was conducted under the guidance of SD Singh. The event was unique in itself as it was an example of Ganga-Yamuni culture. Like the last three decades, this time too the effigies were made by Shamshad Khan and his family. Elaborate security arrangements were made during the festival. The district administration, Uttar Pradesh Police, Railway Protection Force (RPF), St John's Ambulance Brigade, Civil Defence, District Scouts and Guides and members of Vijayadashami Committee played an important role in conducting the event smoothly and peacefully. To deal with any untoward incident, the medical team of BLW Central Hospital was present there, setting up its first aid posts there.

On this occasion, Principal Chief Engineer Vinod Shukla, Principal Chief Medical Officer Dr Devesh Kumar, Principal Chief Personnel Officer Janardan Singh, Chief Mechanical Engineer (SE) Neeraj Jain, Chief Materials Manager (Headquarters) SK Mishra, Chief Mechanical Engineer (Production) Sunil Kumar, Deputy General Manager Anuj Katiyar, Chief Mechanical Engineer (QMS) Ramjanm Chaubey, Public Relations Officer Rajesh Kumar and others including general secretary of Vijayadashami Committee Anoop Singh, Alok Singh, VD Dubey, Mukesh Singh, Dharmendra Singh and Rakesh Pandey. In the end, the vote of thanks was given by the convener of Vijayadashami Committee and Deputy Chief Mechanical Engineer, (Spares) MK Singh.

Idols of Maa Durga immersed in ponds

BIDDING FAREWELL: A Durga Puja idol being taken for immersion in Varanasi on Sunday

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ VARANASI

Amidst tight security arrangements, a large number of idols of Goddess Durga and others were immersed in various ponds located in different parts of the city here on Saturday and Sunday. Right from the afternoon, the processions of idols was taken out from different parts of the city and later they were immersed in the ponds as there was a ban on their immersion in Ganga river as per the instructions of the High Court.

The idols were immersed in ponds at Vishva Sundari Bridge, Bhikharipur, Shankuldhara Pokhara, Laharata, Laxmi Kund, Machhodari Kund, Company's Bagh, Pahadiya, Ganeshpur Pokhara, Kandwa, Ramnagar and Ishwargangi as the Nagar Nigam had identified as many as 12 kunds/ talabs (ponds) in the city to immerse the idols of Goddess Durga and other deities. The boats were also made available during the immersion to avoid any untoward incident.

With the immersion of idols of Goddess Durga at different ponds, the Durga Puja came to an end and at all the puja pandals of Bangiya Samaj, the women of Bengali families did the traditional rituals of Sindur Khela with religious fervour and then the women gave an emotional Vidai (farewell) to Maa Durga. There was enthusiasm among the Bengali women during Sindur Khela at various pandals of Bhelupura, Shivala, Sonarpura, Godowlia, Ramkrishna Mission, Bharat Seva Sangh. This is an old tradition among the Bengalis to seek the blessings of Goddess Durga for the long life of their husbands. During the immersion, elaborate security arrangements were made at different ponds. The Shastra Puja programmes were also organised at some places on the occasion of Vijayadashami. The local jewelers performed the traditional puja at Swarnkar Karmshala at Daranagar under the auspices of Swarnkar Kshtriya Samaj which has been organising the programme since 1954. The activists of Namami Gange launched a cleanliness campaign at Ramghat with a call for victory of cleanliness over dirt. Every corner was cleaned at the mythical Ram Ghat. Many materials were removed from the foothills of the Ganges and carried to the dustbin. People were appealed to maintain cleanliness.

A woman performs 'Sindoor Khela' ritual before the immersion of Goddess Durga idol in Varanasi on Sunday PTI

Regional convener (Kashi unit) Rajesh Shukla said that the holy festival of Vijayadashami is associated with the victory celebration of Maryada Purushottam Lord Ram. "This festival reminds us that the people who follow the path of truth, righteousness and justice always win. Falsehood, unrighteousness and injustice can never be eternal. Let us take a pledge that we will cooperate in making the victory of cleanliness over filth," he appealed to the people. Sonu, Virendra Upadhyay, Soumya Upadhyay and many others were also present.

Pilgrims from Rameswaram reach Varanasi on foot, meet minister

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ VARANASI

The 24-member team, which came on foot from Rameswaram to Kashi for the 12th time to pray for PM Narendra Modi's long life and welfare of India, met the UP Minister of State (Independent Charge) for AYUSH Dr Dayashankar Mishra 'Dayalu' late on Saturday night and apprised the latter of their problems. The minister immediately talked to Kashi Vishwanath Temple CEO Dr Vishwa Bhushan Mishra and got the problems of the pilgrims resolved.

The team from Rameswaram led by Pachekkavadi Ayya, reached Kashi after walking for 130 to 140 days. After arriving in the city, they visited Kashi Vishwanath Temple (KVT). The delegation also met AYUSH Minister late at night when the temple administration refused to give them certificates. The minister's Public Relations Officer Gaurav Rathi said the delegation told the minister that after the Kashi Yatra, their team will go to Ayodhya on foot from here. The minister assured them of every possible support in staying on the Kashi to Ayodhya route and other arrangements.

Rameswaram pilgrims holding meeting with UP minister Dr Dayashankar Mishra Dayalu in Varanasi

The delegation mainly included Bachhei Kavadi, Sanmukham, R Angamulu, Khannan, Natarajan, Gaurav Rathi, Shailesh Pathak, Dr Hardat Shukla, Jitendra Kushwaha, Saurabh Rai, Shirish Mishra, Pramod Rai etc.

Three killed as car rams into stationary truck

PTI/PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ KANPUR

Three people, including two foreign nationals, were killed while three others were injured when their car ramed into a truck on the Agra-Lucknow Expressway here, police said on Sunday. The accident occurred on Saturday night, near the 125 km mark of the expressway in Usrahar area when the car was en route from Lucknow to Delhi, Senior Superintendent of Police (SSP) Sanjay Kumar Verma said.

The passengers were returning from Lucknow after Dussehra holiday, the SSP said. A woman from Afghanistan, Naz (30), her Russian friend Katarina (20) and the car driver Sanjeev (40), a resident of Delhi's Tughlakabad Extension died on the spot, Verma said. He said that Naz's sister Atifa (25), Christine (20), currently a resident of Delhi's Lajpat Nagar and Rahul (38) from Delhi's Ambedkar Nagar were injured in the accident. They have been admitted to Saifai Medical College, Etawah for treatment. The bodies have been sent for post-mortem, he added. Meanwhile the damaged car was sent to Kudrail outpost with the help of the crane.

FIRE IN BANK: A short circuit caused a fire in the air conditioner of bank in Nawabganj on Sunday morning. On getting information two fire tenders rushed to the spot and brought the fire under control within 30 minutes. Meanwhile, bank staff also reached the spot. Due to timely action, a big disaster was averted. As the incident took place on Sunday, it was apprehended that due to air conditioner being on, there had been a short circuit. The bank management has set up a probe in the matter. CFO Deepak Sharma said the Azad Nagar (Nawabganj) branch of Punjab National Bank suddenly caught fire due to a short circuit on Sunday morning. Neighbours informed the fire brigade and two fire tenders immediately rushed to the spot and brought the fire under control within 30 minutes. No important records and documents were gutted in the fire. CFO said due to timely action of fire brigade, big disaster had been averted. During the probe, it was observed that the fire broke out due to a short circuit in the air conditioner.

Dussehra celebrated with enthusiasm

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ PRAYAGRAJ

The festival of Dussehra was celebrated with enthusiasm at IFFCO Ghyanagar Phulpur. The programme was inaugurated by performing ritual worship Senior Executive Director (Unit Head) Sanjay Kudesia in the Ram Temple and at the venue of the programme.

A brief Ramayana was depicted, especially the Ram-Ravana war. In IFFCO Ghyanagar Colony, a grand procession Shringar Chowki of Ram, Lakshman, Ravana Hanuman and other characters was taken out on elephant, horse and camel which was the centre of special attraction and the immersion of the idol of Maa Durga took place in which a large number of women participated and gave an emotional farewell by playing 'Sindoor Khela'. The effigy of Ravana was burnt at Mukhtangan ground and grand fireworks were organised. Sanjay Kudesia in his message wished the people a happy Dussehra. He announced a prize of Rs 501 for all characters participating in the brief Ramlila and a special prize of Rs 1,101 for Manoj Yadav, who played the role of Ravana. The programme was conducted by IFFCO Recreation Club Secretary DK Shukla. Senior GM Sanjay Vaish, GMs respectively MD Mishra, AP Rajendran, Sanjay Bhandari, PK Singh, JGMs respectively PK Patel, Ratnesh Kumar, Arun Kumar, Arvendra Kumar, PK Verma, AK Gupta, HoD Human Resources Shambhu Shekhar, IFFCO Officers' Association President Anurag Tiwari and General Secretary Swayam Prakash, IFFCO Employees' Sangh President Pankaj Pandey and General Secretary Vijay Kumar Yadav and a large number of people of IFFCO Ghyanagar enjoyed the Dussehra festival with their families.

DUSSEHRA MELA: The biggest Mela of Dussehra was conducted peacefully in the densely populated Chowk area on Saturday.

On the 10th day of Dussehra, tableaux of Ram Dal procession of many committees, including Pajawa and Patharchatti Ram Lila committee, were taken out throughout the night. To ensure that the Mela is conducted without any obstruction, DCP (City Abhishek Bharti) deployed police personnel in the mela areas. ACP Manoj Singh took over the security of Ram Dal procession of Chowk. Singh also deployed a team of fire brigade on the Mela road of Kotwalia area and appointed traffic police at every intersection. Apart from this, QRT team was also deployed and ACP Manoj Singh's team also kept a vigil throughout the night by roaming around the mela in civvies.

Ram Leela Committee, Pajawa and other organisers praised the work of the police officers for conducting the Mela peacefully. ACP Manoj Singh said that this time a fire brigade team was deployed for the first time in the mela and in coordination with the Electricity department, separate arrangements were made at every power station. He said the mela was also monitored with drones.

WOMAN INJURED: A pregnant woman received serious injuries when the ambulance carrying her to the hospital after labour pain overturned. The accident took place in front of Lakshan Ka Pura village on the highway on Sunday morning. On receiving information, the police along with the hospital staff reached the spot. The woman was sent to the hospital by another ambulance and admitted for treatment.

Complete works on time: DM

PRAYAGRAJ (PNS): District Magistrate Ravindra Kumar Mandar directed the officials concerned to complete the works being carried out in the city regarding Maha Kumbh within the stipulated time. While addressing the media on Sunday the DM said he Saturday he had inspected the works being carried out by the Tourism department and directed the regional tourism officer to complete the works on time. He inspected the works going on in Nagvasuki Temple, Alopshankari, Dashawamedh Ghat Temple and other temples. The DM said he will regularly review the progress of the works and will inspect the ring road works on Monday. In view of Maha Kumbh, efforts are being made to complete the development works in Prayagraj at a fast pace. TWO DROWN: Two boys who had gone to bathe their sheep in a pond drowned in Ghoorpur here on Sunday. While bathing the sheep in the pond, Atul, a student of class XI, started drowning in deep water. When he screamed, Ravi (13), who was with him, went ahead to save him and he too drowned in the deep water. When the people present near the pond saw the boys drowning, they raised an alarm. Many people jumped into the pond to save them. Atul and Ravi were taken out of the water and taken to a nearby hospital where they were declared dead.

Kanpur Metro Rail: Construction for underground section to begin soon

Kanpur (PNS): Tunnel construction for the underground section of Corridor-2 (CSA to Barra-8) of the Kanpur Metro Rail Project is set to begin soon. All components of the fifth TBM machine for the overall project, which is also the first TBM machine for Corridor-2, have been successfully lowered into the launching shaft at Rawatpur. Following this, assembly of the TBM parts and preparations for the 'initial drive' are currently underway.

The underground station being constructed under Corridor-2 near the existing elevated station at Rawatpur will serve as a key connection between both corridors of the Kanpur Metro. The work on the diaphragm wall for this station began on April 1 of this year. In conjunction with the top-down construction method, the parts of the fifth TBM machine for Kanpur Metro have been successfully lowered into the launching shaft.

'Bhoomi puja' performed

Kanpur (PNS): CMD of JK Urbanscapes, Abhishek Singhania, performed the bhoomi puja of the sales office at its upcoming 50 acre mixed land use project here on Saturday. The township will have a 150 room Taj branded hotel, a primary school, high street retail and about 2,500 residential apartments. The company is celebrating its 100th year centenary celebrations with the launch of this project with an investment of about Rs 1,800 crore.

TRAINING PROGRAMME: The Rotary Club of New Kanpur organised a five-day Judo and Karate training program for girl students of BNSD Shiksha Niketan Balika Inter

College, Meston Road. The program aimed to empower 100 girl students with self-defense skills and boost their confidence. The training sessions were conducted by Mr. Basant Singh, who emphasized the importance of common sense, sixth sense, and self-strength in every situation. The students were awarded certificates upon completion of the programme.

Meanwhile the School of Business Management, CSJM University, organised an alumni meet 'Nostalgia-2024' of BBA (2003-06) students.

PM GatiShakti revolutionises infrastructure development efforts

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday said the PM GatiShakti National Master Plan has emerged as a transformative initiative aimed at revolutionising India's infrastructure and is driving faster and more efficient development across sectors. PM GatiShakti National Master Plan (PMGS-NMP) was launched on October 13, 2021 for providing multi-modal connectivity infrastructure to various economic zones. PM GatiShakti is a transformative approach for economic growth and sustainable development which is driven by seven engines - railway, roads, ports, waterways, airports, mass transport and logistics infrastructure. In a social media post, Modi said, "PM GatiShakti National Master Plan has emerged as a transformative initiative aimed at revolutionising India's infrastructure. It has significantly enhanced multimodal connectivity, driving faster and more efficient development across sectors." The seamless integration of various stakeholders has led to boosting logistics, reducing delays and creating new opportunities for several people, Modi said. "Thanks to GatiShakti, India is adding speed to fulfil our vision of a Viksit Bharat. It will encourage progress, entrepreneurship and innovation," the prime minister said.

Modi tagged Union Minister of Commerce and Industry Piyush Goyal's post in which he had lauded the GatiShakti initiative on completion of three years. "Today marks 3 years since the launch of the PM GatiShakti National Master Plan for Multimodal Connectivity by PM Narendra Modi ji. By streamlining logistics and advancing connectivity, this path-breaking initiative ensures faster and more efficient project implementation," Goyal said. It continues to play a pivotal role in developing a modern, interconnected infrastructure network, strengthening the vision of building a Viksit Bharat, he said.

Israel PM mourns passing of Ratan Tata

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Israel Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has condoled the death of industrialist Ratan Tata and said he was a champion of friendship between Israel and India. Ratan Tata passed away in Mumbai on Wednesday last at the age of 86. In a social media post addressed to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Netanyahu highlighted Ratan Tata's contributions to fostering Israel-India ties. In the statement, Netanyahu said, "To my friend, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, I and many in Israel mourn the loss of Ratan Naval Tata, a proud son of India and a champion of the friendship between our two countries. Please convey my condolences to Ratan's family." Prime minister Modi praised Ratan Tata in a post mourning his demise, calling Tata "a visionary business leader, a compassionate soul and an extraordinary human being." The final rites of the eminent industrialist were conducted with full state honours in Worli crematorium. On Thursday, Singapore's prime minister Lawrence Wong paid tribute to Ratan Tata, calling him a true friend of the country. French president Emmanuel Macron also praised Ratan Tata's contributions to innovation and knowledge, adding that "France has lost a dear friend from India. Microsoft founder Bill Gates also lauded Ratan Tata's achievements and his importance for India and the world. He said, "Ratan Tata was a visionary leader whose dedication to improving lives left an indelible mark on India-and the world.

Supreme Court to hear Boinpally's bail plea

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court is scheduled to hear on Monday the bail plea of Hyderabad-based businessman Abhishek Boinpally in a money laundering case related to the alleged Delhi excise policy scam. As per the cause list, a bench of Justices M M Sundresh and Aravind Kumar is likely to take up the matter. The top court had on August 13 extended the interim bail granted to Boinpally. On March 20, the top court noted that the businessman had been in custody for 18 months and directed his release on interim bail for five weeks. Since then, Boinpally's interim bail has been extended from time to time by the apex court. While granting him interim bail, the top court had asked Boinpally to surrender his passport and directed him not to leave the National Capital Region except for a visit to Hyderabad. The businessman has challenged a July 3, 2023, order of the Delhi High Court that dismissed his petition questioning the legality of his arrest in 2022. The businessman had contested his arrest before the high court on the grounds of non-compliance with section 19 of the Prevention of Money Laundering (PMLA) which deals with the procedure for arrests. Section 19 of the PMLA empowers authorised officials of the ED to arrest people based on the material in their possession, providing a reasonable basis to suspect that an individual has committed an offence punishable under the law. The Delhi government implemented the excise policy for 2021-22 on November 17, 2021, but scrapped it at the end of September 2022 amid allegations of corruption. According to the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) and the ED, irregularities were committed while modifying the excise policy and undue favours extended to the licence holders. The money-laundering case stems from a CBI FIR that was lodged after Delhi Lieutenant Governor V K Saxena recommended a probe into the alleged irregularities in the implementation of the excise policy. It has been claimed that Boinpally was part of clandestine meetings and involved in a conspiracy to launder money along with another accused Sameer Mahendru, a businessman dealing in liquor.

BJP is a party of terrorists, says Mallikarjun Kharge

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Slamming Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge's BJP is a "party of terrorists" remark, former Union Minister Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi alleged on Sunday that the Congress is selling hatred in its "shop of love". Naqvi said the opposition party has become a "multinational distribution centre" of "certificates" labelling nationalists as terrorists and anti-nationalists as nationalists. Kharge alleged on Saturday that the BJP is a "party of terrorists", as he hit back at Prime Minister Narendra Modi over his recent remarks that the Congress is being run by a "gang of urban Naxals". Kharge also accused those in the saffron party of "lynching and beating" people, and committing atrocities against the Scheduled Castes (SCs) and Scheduled Tribes (STs). Talking to reporters, Naqvi said in its "depression of defeat", the Congress has become "hostage to hopelessness" due to its "habit of hate". The "dynasty's animosity and hostility" towards Prime Minister Narendra Modi is becoming a "political disaster" for the grand old party, the senior BJP leader said. The Congress is trying to portray the "political danger to dynasty" as a "danger to democracy", which shows its arrogance and not wisdom, he added.

Instead of "introspection", the Congress is still engaged in "smugness" as it blames electronic voting machines (EVMs) for its internal conflict, Naqvi said, adding that it is like "a bad workman blaming his tools". Asked about the Congress criticising a recent statement of RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat, the BJP leader accused the opposition party of harbouring a "prejudiced political mindset" and said Bhagwat gave an effective nationalist message of "Constitution, culture, harmony, social security and inclusivity". Communal political statements made by some champions of pseudo-secularism even on a message of national unity and integrity is like "empty vessels making noise", he said. The Congress is selling hatred in its "mohabbat ki dukaan", Naqvi alleged.

Two Indian ships arrive at Port of Manama

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

With the objective of further strengthening bilateral defence ties with Bahrain, two Indian ships arrived at Port of Manama there on Saturday while one ship arrived in UAE, navy said here on Sunday. Giving details, officials said continuing with the long range training deployment in the Persian Gulf, INS Tir and ICGS Veera of First Training Squadron (ITS) arrived at the Port of Manama, Bahrain on October 12. Aimed at enhancing Naval cooperation and augmenting interoperability, Indian Navy is set to engage with the Royal Bahrain Naval Forces (RBNF) on various domains of maritime ops and best shared practices. Professional interactions, cross ship visits, joint training sessions, yoga sessions, band concerts, friendly sports fixtures, social interactions and community welfare activities are planned during the port call. The sea trainees of Indian Navy will be visiting various training facilities and establishments of RBNF. A coordination meeting between the operational teams of both the Navies towards planning and conduct of a Maritime Partnership Exercise is also scheduled. Training interaction with the partners of CMF as part of cooperative engagement and reaffirming maritime security in the region will also feature during the visit. In another port visit, INS Shardul of ITS entered Port Rashid, Dubai at UAE. The ship was received by the Defence Attaché at the Embassy of India and officials of the UAE Navy. During the visit, the ship will engage with the UAE Navy on multiple training activities and harbour interactions. The deployment of ITS to Bahrain and UAE is aimed not only at exposing the sea trainees towards various Naval training activities but also endeavours to further the socio-political, military and maritime linkages. The visit is indicative of growing defence relations of India with Bahrain and UAE while boosting maritime security cooperation and enhanced synergy amongst the Navies.

Over 47,000 complaints filed by scheduled castes since 2020

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Over 47,000 complaints have been received by the National Commission for Scheduled Caste in the last four years, according to official data, with atrocities against Dalits, and disputes related to land and governments jobs being the main issues. As per information shared by the NCSC in response to an RTI filed by PTI, 11,917 complaints were received in 2020-21, 13,964 complaints registered in 2021-22, 12,402 in 2022-23 and 9,550 complaints so far in 2024. Speaking to PTI about the data, NCSC chairperson Kishor Makwana said the most common complaints received by the commission are related to atrocities against the Scheduled Castes community, followed by land disputes and issues related to services in the government sector. "In a bid to address the complaints speedily, from next month, me or my members would be visiting the state offices and looking into the issues faced by the people there," he said. Makwana added that he is holding hearings four times a week to meet people and listen to their problems. "Since I have taken charge, I have ensured that my office remains open to meet people," he said. A senior NCSC official said the highest number of complaints have been filed from Uttar Pradesh among all states. The commission receives 200-300 complaints every day and many of them get resolved within days, so the data seen here is mostly of the complaints that are in the process of getting their resolution, the official said. "There is not a single complaint that has been left unattended. They all are under consideration," he said.

According to the data from the national helpline on atrocities against people from the Scheduled Tribes and Scheduled Castes, 6,02,177 calls were received. Out of these, the total number of grievances stood at 5,843, of which 1,784 have been resolved. More than half of calls have been received from Uttar Pradesh at 3,10,623. This helpline is monitored by the Social Justice and Empowerment Ministry. According to the latest government report under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, the majority of atrocities against Scheduled Caste were concentrated in 13 states, which reported 97.7 per cent of all cases in 2022. Of 51,656 cases registered under the law in 2022, Uttar Pradesh accounted for 23.78 per cent of the total cases with 12,287, followed by Rajasthan at 8,651 (16.75 per cent) and Madhya Pradesh at 7,732 (14.97 per cent). Other states with a significant number of cases of caste atrocities were Bihar with 6,799 (13.16 per cent), Odisha with 3,576 (6.93 per cent), and Maharashtra with 2,706 (5.24 per cent). These six states accounted for nearly 81 per cent of the total cases.

Devotees carry the palanquin of the deities to participate in the International Kullu Dussehra festival in Kullu on Sunday. PTI

Kharge's son withdraws request for five acre land

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The chairperson of Siddhartha Vihar Trust, Rahul M Kharge, has withdrawn his request for the allotment of five acres of civic amenity site in Bengaluru to set up a 'Multi-Skill Development Centre, Training Institutes and a Research Centre'. The move by Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge's son Rahul Kharge comes close on the heels of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife Parvathi returning the 14 sites to Mysuru Urban Development Authority after the Lokayukta police registered a case against Siddaramaiah, his wife and brother-in-law. Mallikarjun Kharge's younger son Priyank Kharge, who is a minister in the Karnataka government, shared the information with the scanned copies of the letter on his 'X' handle. In a letter to the Chief Executive Officer of the Karnataka Industrial Development Board (KIADB) on September 20, Rahul Kharge wrote, "Withdrawal of our request for Civic Amenity site to set up Multi Skill Development Centre, Training Institutes and a Research Centre." He said the objective of the Siddhartha Vihar Trust was to create more employable opportunities through skill development in emerging technologies for students and unemployed youth. "The proposed Multi-Skill Development Centre aimed primarily to serve youngsters to make them more employable and industry ready with skills and future skills. It was also designed to help students who were unable to pursue college education," Rahul Kharge said. The trust preferred a site within the KIADB industrial area because of its proximity to high-growth industries as it would provide invaluable exposure and opportunities for young people, he said. "Siddhartha Vihar Trust is a public educational, cultural, and charitable trust and not a private or family-run trust. All institutions established under its aegis are 'Not For Profit', he explained.

While sharing the information, Priyank Kharge wrote that the trust was fully eligible to apply for and receive an allotment of a CA site for an educational institution. However, any educational institution cannot function effectively while constantly facing malafide, baseless and politically motivated allegations, he said, adding that the trust did not wish to be drawn into long-drawn controversies which would divert attention and efforts from the primary objective of education and social service. "In light of the circumstances, the Trust wrote to the KIADB to withdraw our proposal and withdraw our request for a CA site for establishing a skill development and research centre," the Minister said. The Trust had submitted its proposal to the KIADB on February 12, 2024, and a month later, the proposal was approved.

Vaccines could prevent 500,000 deaths from AMR annually

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Underscoring the critical role vaccines could play in addressing rising antimicrobial resistance (AMR), a WHO report has estimated that 44 vaccines targeting 24 pathogens (19 bacteria, 4 viruses, 1 parasite) could prevent over 500,000 deaths from superbugs' infections annually. This strategy not only promises significant healthcare cost savings but could also reduce the reliance on antibiotics by 2.5 billion doses per year, said the report released recently. Currently underutilised vaccines, such as the pneumococcal conjugate vaccine for Streptococcus pneumoniae, alongside those in development for tuberculosis, E. coli, and Klebsiella pneumoniae, hold potential for future AMR control. The report emphasises the urgent need to integrate these vaccines into global AMR strategies, as vaccination could drastically reduce infections that necessitate antibiotic use. The analysis highlights that existing vaccines could prevent up to 106,000 AMR-related deaths and yield substantial economic benefits, while newer vaccines in late-stage development could further avert 135,000 deaths if introduced swiftly. "The best infection is the one that doesn't occur," said Yvan Hutin, MD, PhD, director of surveillance, protection and control for the WHO's AMR Division, said in a statement. The report also outlines the potential impact of early-stage vaccine candidates, which could prevent up to 408,000 deaths and significantly reduce healthcare costs and productivity losses.

www.dailypioneer.com

facebook.com/dailypioneer | @TheDailyPioneer | instagram.com/dailypioneer/

PAPER WITH PASSION

Peacekeepers' peril

India joins 34 other countries contributing troops to the UNIFIL in condemning Israeli military actions that threaten peacekeepers

The ongoing hostilities in the West Asia have drawn global concern, with recent escalations along the Israel-Lebanon border highlighting the risks faced by United Nations peacekeepers. As Israeli airstrikes target Gaza and tensions spill over to southern Lebanon, the UN Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) finds itself in the line of fire. India, along with 34 other countries that contribute troops to UNIFIL, has endorsed a joint statement condemning actions that jeopardise the safety of peacekeepers and calling for the protection of UN personnel as per existing United Nations Security Council (UNSC) resolutions. The situation along the Israel-Lebanon border has become increasingly volatile, with Israeli military operations intensifying in Lebanon. On October 11, two Sri Lankan UN peacekeepers were wounded in an Israeli airstrike near their watchtower in Naqoura, south Lebanon. This was second attack in 48 hours where UNIFIL's main base in the region was subjected to blasts amid the cross-border conflict. UNIFIL is a peacekeeping mission established in 1978 to monitor the cessation of hostilities in the area. It is the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon.

In the wake of the attack, India has condemned the threat to peacekeepers' safety. The Indian Permanent Mission to the United Nations reaffirmed that the "safety and security of peacekeepers are of paramount importance and must be ensured in accordance with extant UNSC Resolutions." India's stance underscores its long-standing commitment to UN peacekeeping operations, where it has historically been one of the largest contributors of troops. Of the 9532 troops deployed, 895 happen to be Indian. In fact, India happens to be the second largest contributor to the peacekeeping mission next to Indonesia. So far UNIFIL has endured 334 casualties. The UN's efforts aim to bring a halt to hostilities that have resulted in significant casualties and infrastructure damage, exacerbating an already dire situation in the region. The UN Security Council has called for restraint from all parties involved and emphasised the importance of allowing humanitarian aid to reach civilians in Gaza. However, the complexity of the conflict, with multiple factions and external players influencing the dynamics, has made the path to a ceasefire fraught with obstacles. India's response to the recent escalation along the Israel-Lebanon border reflects a pragmatic approach. While it has avoided direct condemnation of either side in the broader conflict, its alignment with the UNIFIL countries signals support for international peacekeeping standards. By calling for the protection of peacekeepers and adherence to UNSC resolutions, India is positioning itself as a responsible stakeholder in upholding international law and maintaining regional stability. The path to a sustainable ceasefire remains uncertain, but with global powers like India endorsing diplomatic initiatives and supporting the UN's peacekeeping mandate, there is a stronger impetus for pursuing non-violent solutions to the ongoing crisis.

peacekeepers' safety. The Indian Permanent Mission to the United Nations reaffirmed that the "safety and security of peacekeepers are of paramount importance and must be ensured in accordance with extant UNSC Resolutions." India's stance underscores its long-standing commitment to UN peacekeeping operations, where it has historically been one of the largest contributors of troops. Of the 9532 troops deployed, 895 happen to be Indian. In fact, India happens to be the second largest contributor to the peacekeeping mission next to Indonesia. So far UNIFIL has endured 334 casualties. The UN's efforts aim to bring a halt to hostilities that have resulted in significant casualties and infrastructure damage, exacerbating an already dire situation in the region. The UN Security Council has called for restraint from all parties involved and emphasised the importance of allowing humanitarian aid to reach civilians in Gaza. However, the complexity of the conflict, with multiple factions and external players influencing the dynamics, has made the path to a ceasefire fraught with obstacles. India's response to the recent escalation along the Israel-Lebanon border reflects a pragmatic approach. While it has avoided direct condemnation of either side in the broader conflict, its alignment with the UNIFIL countries signals support for international peacekeeping standards. By calling for the protection of peacekeepers and adherence to UNSC resolutions, India is positioning itself as a responsible stakeholder in upholding international law and maintaining regional stability. The path to a sustainable ceasefire remains uncertain, but with global powers like India endorsing diplomatic initiatives and supporting the UN's peacekeeping mandate, there is a stronger impetus for pursuing non-violent solutions to the ongoing crisis.

PICTALK

Devotees immerse an idol of Goddess Durga, in Nadia

The steadfast diplomat who crafted India's foreign policy

SANTHOSH MATHEW

As India marks the 50th anniversary of V K Krishna Menon's passing, it is a fitting moment to remember a man whose brilliance shaped the nation's global diplomacy

Fifty years since Vengalil Krishnan Krishna Menon's passing, the significance of his contributions to Indian diplomacy and global politics remains evident. Hailed as one of India's most brilliant yet controversial statesmen, Menon's legacy is inextricably linked with the evolution of the country's foreign policy. Born in Kozhikode, Kerala, his journey from a young boy in South India to a pivotal figure on the world stage was marked by intellectual rigor, steadfastness, and an unyielding commitment to India's sovereignty and values. When he passed away on October 6, 1974, then-Prime Minister Indira Gandhi described his departure as "a volcano has been extinguished," aptly capturing the intensity he brought to every role he undertook. His contributions, despite the passage of time, continue to influence India's diplomatic posture.

Menon's early life in Kerala and subsequent education in the United Kingdom set the stage for his distinguished career. His association with Jawaharlal Nehru, whom he befriended while in London, was instrumental in shaping his path. Quickly emerging as a prominent voice in the Indian independence movement abroad, Menon's articulate speeches and sharp intellect earned him recognition. During his time in the UK, he co-founded Penguin Books, which revolutionised the publishing industry by making literature affordable and accessible. However, his foray into publishing was merely the precursor to his true calling: crafting India's foreign policy. It was Menon who proposed the term "Non-Aligned Movement" (NAM), a cornerstone of India's Cold War-era diplomatic stance. He championed neutrality, ensuring that India, as a newly independent nation, did not align itself with either the United States or the Soviet Union. For Menon, non-alignment was more than just a diplomatic position; it was an assertion of India's sovereignty and self-respect. He fiercely defended this stance on various international platforms, particularly at the United Nations, where his eloquence and conviction made him a formidable figure. As India's representative at the UN, Menon achieved global recognition, notably delivering the longest speech in the forum's history—a marathon eight-hour defence of India's position on Kashmir during the 1957 General Assembly. His unwavering defence of India's claim to Kashmir earned him the title "Hero of Kashmir." Yet, his confrontational style also attracted criticism, especially from Western media, which often portrayed him as the "Indian Rasputin," suggesting he exerted undue influence over Nehru's policies. Menon's relationship with Nehru was undoubtedly significant, with the Prime Minister recognising his brilliance and appointing him to government roles, first as a minister without portfolio and later, in 1957, as Defence Minister. Together, they steered India's post-independence strategies in both foreign relations and defence. The 1962 Sino-Indian War marked a turning point for Menon. As Defence Minister, he was widely blamed for India's crushing defeat by China, with critics accusing him of failing to adequately prepare the military. Western media, particularly "Time" magazine, infamously depicted him on its cover as a "snake charmer," manipulating Nehru into a disastrous conflict. While Menon's detractors held him largely responsible for the debacle, such an assessment does not acknowledge his broader contributions to defence and foreign policy. Menon was a proponent of self-reliance in defence, laying the groundwork for indigenising military production—a policy India pursues to this day. Furthermore, his role in the Goa Liberation movement of 1961, which ended Portuguese colonial rule, reinforced his image as a dedicated patriot.

MENON'S EARLY LIFE IN KERALA AND SUBSEQUENT EDUCATION IN THE UNITED KINGDOM SET THE STAGE FOR HIS DISTINGUISHED CAREER. HIS ASSOCIATION WITH JAWAHARLAL NEHRU, WHOM HE BEFRIENDED WHILE IN LONDON, WAS INSTRUMENTAL IN SHAPING HIS PATH

Despite the setback after the Sino-Indian War, Menon's career was not over. In 1971, supported by the left-leaning EMS Namboodiripad, Menon made a comeback to Parliament, representing Thiruvananthapuram. His return was a testament to the enduring respect he commanded among certain segments of Indian society. Even in his later years, Menon remained a formidable presence in politics, unafraid to challenge prevailing norms. Menon's personal life remained relatively private, though his wit and often abrasive style earned him both admirers and detractors. He was viewed by contemporaries such as Bertrand Russell as a man of profound intellect and integrity. Yet, his sharp tongue and uncompromising nature also alienated many, leading to well-publicised rivalries, including with fellow Malayali diplomats like VP Menon and KPS Menon. These tensions added an element of intrigue to his already controversial career. Reflecting on the 50th anniversary of Menon's passing invites a reevaluation of his towering legacy. His contributions to Indian foreign policy, particularly his advocacy for non-alignment and his defense of India's stance on Kashmir, remain integral to the country's diplomatic strategies. The fact that his UN speech still holds the record as the longest ever delivered underscores his place in the annals of global diplomacy. Menon's influence extended beyond India's borders; his advocacy for global disarmament and his warning, "Either man will abolish war, or war will abolish man," still resonates in international forums. At a time when diplomacy often takes place behind closed doors, Menon's readiness to speak truth to power, regardless of personal cost, set him apart. His passing marked the end of an era, but his ideas—particularly his fierce commitment to Indian sovereignty and global justice—continue to shape the country's foreign policy. The "volcano" that Indira Gandhi referred to still casts a long shadow over Indian diplomacy—a shadow that endures. (The writer is an associate professor; views are personal)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BABA SIDDIQUE ASSASSINATED

Madam — The city of Mumbai has recorded another high-profile targeted killing of NCP leader Baba Siddique. The assassination of Siddique by two shooters at the time he is leaving his son's office and sitting in the car is purely calibrated killing attempts. Despite the fact that his son Zeeshan was an elected MLA from Bandra, Mumbai, it is a bit surprising that killing took place in the same areas. However, it's too early to claim the killing was politically motivated before a proper investigation is to be done by the Mumbai police. He is known in the entire of India for the glam glitz Iftar Parties, which attract Bollywood celebrities every year. The investigation will shed light on the actual motive of the killer for his targeted killing. Meanwhile, it is extremely sad to note that killing is such an easy task in our country. If politicians and renowned personalities like Baba Siddique are not safe in our country, how could we expect the safety of the locals?

The policing mechanism has to be active all the time to avoid such uncertainties. Also, there must be a rigorous punishment mechanism for the shooters, and harsh penalties to be put in place so that no such miscreants will dare to take such actions on the charm of few money from the actual culprits.

Kirti Wadhawan | Kanpur

TACKLE HUNGER CRISIS

Madam — This refers to the article on the paradox of nutritional status. Though the contour of nutritional status has too many curves based on too many factors like urban, rural, poor, rich, middle class, gender and so on, the overall condition is definitely not encouraging. The rank given by the Global Hunger Index needs no suspicion. The country's nutrition-related programmes organised by the Union and State governments need an uprisal to review the improvement or the otherwise. A national programme with area-specific contents needs to be taken up, involving the youth who can contribute nutrition-

Tennis legend retires

Tennis legend and one of the all-time greatest tennis players, Rafael Nadal, has announced his retirement as a professional tennis player. Nadal remains one of the most decorated sportspersons of all time of the 22 Grand Slam titles he has won, the Spaniard clinched a record 14 French Opens. Nadal also has 36 masters titles as well as an Olympic gold medal. Beyond his clay court mastery, Nadal has won US Open titles four times and the Australian Open two times. On the grass of Wimbledon, a surface considered challenging for him, he secured two championships. Who could forget the 2008 Wimbledon final between Nadal and Federer? Or 2013 Australian Open final between Nadal and Djokovic? Surely Nadal should have inspired millions of children to start playing tennis across the globe. Nadal remained the world's top player for 209 weeks during his peak years, 2005-2023. After Nadal's retirement, will men's tennis ever have another trio, "Federer, Nadal and Djokovic," who dominated tennis for 20 years? Certainly Nadal's retirement from tennis is the end of an era.

P Victor Selvaraj | Tirunelveli

related knowledge and implement the program with periodical study on the study. There was news in the media about the lack of quality of the distributed stuff also. In slums, poor eating and non-access to nutritional items are issues, and among the rich, overeating of avoidable items is the issue. Unless nutrition is taken up as a priority to implement with all seriousness and with adequate allocation of funds, there may not be a tangible improvement in the status. Expenditure on improving nutritional status is a productive investment as it helps improve the productivity of the individuals as well as the nation, which is imminent.

A G Rajmohan | Anantapur

MASTERING POLITICAL GAMES

Madam — There is no specific Noble Prize for politics. However, many politicians received the Noble Peace Prize for their efforts in promoting peace, resolving conflicts and advancing human rights; examples are Nelson Mandela, Barack Obama, and Mikhail Gorbachev. Political manoeuvring and politics are related but distinct. The former involves a variety of tactics aimed at maintaining or gaining power such as politicians changing parties (turn coats), building pre or post poll alliances with other political parties, contesting elections as independent candidate if ticket is denied and after winning getting favours by supporting government forming party or parties, using the fundamental right of freedom of speech to the fullest extent in criticizing the opponents at will, turning from foes to friends and vice versa with ease by being immune to guilt or shame, directing resources for garnering and maintaining vote banks through freebies & unproductive welfare schemes, toppling governments, poaching elected members from opposition parties and defaming own country's government & its policies abroad etc. Indian politicians are 'Mahirs' in the above activities. So, if a Noble Prize is instituted for "political maneuvering," India will always get it.

O Prasada Rao | Hyderabad

Send your feedback to: letterstopioneer@gmail.com

Gandhi's philosophy in the age of AI

As we forge ahead into this digital age, embracing Gandhi's philosophy could pave the way for a more humane and equitable future

Artificial intelligence (AI) is increasingly shaping our world, making the relevance of many ancient philosophies seem distant. People may find it difficult to comprehend the hardships our predecessors endured during their lifetimes.

Even people may find it difficult to believe that great philosophers, who have provided us with a wealth of knowledge, once lived on this planet. We will accept only those incidents and individuals whose photographs or videos are accessible. As of now, we are fortunate to have documentary evidence of our nation's father, Mahatma Gandhi. Otherwise, people would have forgotten him. But even in this digital world where AI rules humanity, Gandhiji's philosophy remains profoundly relevant. The core values that Gandhi stood for—such as non-violence, truth, self-reliance, simplicity and social justice—offer timeless guidance for managing the challenges humanity faces even today. We can interpret non-violence (Ahimsa) in this digital era as ensuring the ethical and responsible use of AI technologies. Gandhian principles have high relevance today as we start integrating AI into aspects of human life, be it healthcare, economy, agriculture, or warehousing. As we indulge in digital warfare Gandhi's non-violence principle prompts us to develop technologies that prioritise human welfare and minimise harm. Cyberbullying is on the rise, and many people are falling victim. Cyberbullying fundamentally involves the use of words, images, or exclusion on the internet as a means of violence. Unfortunately, even political parties sometimes encourage such behaviour for gain, which fosters enmity between communities—a divide that can be challenging to bridge. By embracing ahimsa, individuals can practice empathy and kindness online, refraining from harmful or derogatory comments. Promoting non-violence in digital spaces could lead to reduced aggression and a more supportive online environment. Gandhi's emphasis on truth serves as a powerful antidote to the deceit and falsehoods that often fuel cyberbullying. Many online bullies hide behind anonymous profiles, spreading rumours, lies, or misinformation. Truthfulness can also empower victims to speak out against bullying, creating a culture of transparency and accountability. In the digital age, where people can react instantly and sometimes impulsively, applying self-discipline is crucial. In a world where major tech companies dominate AI development, Gandhi's philosophy of self-reliance (swadeshi) is highly applicable. It encourages nations, especially third-world countries, to build their own AI capabilities and not rely solely on foreign technology. Fostering digital independence and ensuring the use of AI in ways that benefit local economies and cultures is crucial. One of Gandhi's most enduring legacies was his advocacy for the marginalised. In the AI-dominated world, we must ensure that these technologies do not exacerbate inequalities. We should use AI to promote inclusivity, reduce the digital divide, and provide technology access for all, which is in line with Gandhi's vision of social justice. In essence, Gandhian philosophy, with its moral clarity and human-centred approach, serves as a vital guide for shaping the AI-driven future. Even in a world where technology seems to dominate, Gandhi's philosophy has high relevance for building peace and happiness in the world.

(The author is a Dean at Garden City University and an adjunct faculty member at NIAS, Bangalore; views are personal)

BIJU DHARAMAPALAN

FIRST COLUMN

EMOJIS SPEAK WHERE TEXTING FALLS SHORT

Emojis transform otherwise bland exchanges into vibrant and meaningful interactions

ASHA IYER KUMAR

I am a huge fan of emoticons, or emojis, as I prefer to call them. In a new, technically robust world that chooses to conduct most of its private and professional business digitally, the existence of emojis is a lot more valuable than what they seem primary. Emojis fill the gap between one's feelings [thoughts] and words; they arch over the space where misunderstandings breed unintentionally. The trouble with texting is it, more often than not, conveys meanings not meant. The true import of the statements is often dispensed with an unsavoury blandness. Words, for all the power they have, are restricted in their ability to convey true emotions. There is no tone or tenor in a conversation that happens over a typed chat. It is here that the emojis take charge to let people know the precise sentiment behind the words. It's fascinating how something as simple as a tiny, colourful image can carry the weight of an entire conversation.

Emojis have become the silent saviours of our digital dialogues, transforming what could be a dry exchange into something vibrant, relatable and meaningful. I have always believed that words, despite their richness, sometimes falter in delivering the exact shade of sentiment we wish to express. How many times have we sent a message and then wondered; Will they get what I mean? Will they feel my warmth, my concern, or my light-heartedness? Emojis step in at this point, like little emotional cue cards, guiding the recipient towards the intended feeling behind our words.

A simple smiley can transform a blunt response into a kind reassurance. It acts as a gentle nudge, hinting to the reader, "Take it easy; this is friendly." Emojis allow us to soften the blows of formality, sprinkle humour on otherwise serious subjects, or underline the gravity of what would otherwise seem trivial. Consider this: You've sent a message that says, "Let's talk later." Now, depending on the mood of the person on the other side, it could be read as indifferent, abrupt, or even ominous. But if you add a little smiley at the end, the vibe changes entirely. Suddenly, it sounds casual, almost warm. This is the magic of emojis — they are the unseen bridges in our communication, preventing misunderstandings. They fill in the emotional blanks that text leaves behind. In this world where we don't always get the luxury of hearing someone's voice or seeing their expressions, emojis have quietly become the body language of our conversations. They provide a way to infuse our cold, typed words with a cozy connection. That's where their real value lies, and why I, as someone deeply in love with words and their power, have come to appreciate the humble emoji. Moreover, in a globally connected world where language barriers can stand between intent and interpretation, emojis offer a universal code. A thumbs-up or a heart means the same whether you're in Dubai or Delhi, making them incredibly effective in fostering inclusivity and understanding.

As I continue my writing journey, both in traditional and digital spaces, I find myself more often turning to emojis to complement my words, especially when texting or communicating over social media. They are the small, unspoken allies in my digital interactions, helping me stay connected, relatable, and, most importantly, understood. In a time when misunderstandings are as quick as a keystroke, I've come to appreciate emojis as more than just playful symbols. They are, in many ways, the unsung heroes of modern communication, making sure that what we feel and what we say are in sync. And that's a role too important to ignore.

(The author is a columnist and writing coach based in Dubai; Views are personal)

The booklet that redefines Mayawati

BISWAJEET BANERJEE

Mayawati is launching a revival effort to reclaim lost ground; she released a 59-page booklet outlining the party's roadmap, while emphasising her 'Iron Lady' image

Facing a steep decline in electoral performance, the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP), under the leadership of Mayawati, is now pivoting with a new strategy aimed at regaining its lost political ground. The once-formidable party, which made significant strides in the late 1990s and early 2000s by mobilising Dalit and marginalised communities, has been on the back foot in recent elections. With an eye on the upcoming assembly by-elections and the 2027 general elections, the BSP has taken an important step by releasing a 59-page booklet, designed not only to recount its past achievements but also to chart a new course for the future. The release of this booklet is a key part of the BSP's revitalisation plan. It features several statements from Mayawati, emphasising her leadership and vision for the party's future. One of the key aspects of the booklet is Mayawati's self-identification as the "Iron Lady," a term that echoes the strong and uncompromising leadership style often associated with female leaders in global politics, such as former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

By using this title, Mayawati seeks to project an image of resilience, firmness and determination, drawing on her previous tenure as the Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh, where she exercised considerable political influence. Mayawati's attempt to invoke historical symbolism is another notable feature of the booklet. She compares herself to Emperor Ashoka, an ancient Indian ruler known for his governance and promotion of social justice. The parallel is clear: like Ashoka, Mayawati aspires to usher in a new era of social welfare and justice for the marginalised sections of society, particularly Dalits. Through this comparison, she hopes to solidify her image as a leader capable of bringing about meaningful social change, positioning herself as a saviour of the oppressed and aligning her leadership with India's rich historical tradition of justice. The use of such symbolic language is not merely rhetorical; it is a calculated effort to energise the party's traditional voter base, which largely consists of Dalits, while also appealing to other communities. The invocation of Emperor Ashoka, a figure revered for his contributions to governance, inclusiveness and justice, allows Mayawati to appeal to a wider electorate that values strong leadership based on social equity and welfare.

By aligning her vision with that of Ashoka, she is reminding voters that her leadership stands for inclusiveness, fair governance and social justice—values that resonate deeply with her core constituency. One of the most significant components of Mayawati's new political strategy is a renewed focus on social engineering, an electoral strategy that had previously yielded considerable success for the BSP. This approach, which played a crucial role in Mayawati's rise to power in 2007, involves forging electoral alliances across caste lines—specifically between Dalits and Brahmins. By uniting these groups, the BSP was able to create a winning formula that resulted in sweeping electoral victories in the mid-2000s.

The booklet highlights the party's intention to revive this strategy, indicating that the BSP aims to once again bring together a broad-based coalition to strengthen its political position. In the booklet, Mayawati makes a strong appeal to Brahmin voters, asserting that their economic and social upliftment can only be achieved under BSP rule. She takes the opportunity to criticise

ONE OF THE PRIMARY OBSTACLES IS THE EROSION OF ITS TRADITIONAL VOTE BANK. THE BSP, WHICH ONCE COMMANDED A SUBSTANTIAL BASE AMONG DALIT VOTERS, HAS SEEN A SIGNIFICANT PORTION OF THESE VOTES SHIFT TOWARD THE BJP IN RECENT ELECTIONS

ritual political parties, including the Samajwadi Party (SP), Congress, and the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), for neglecting the Brahmin community and failing to address their concerns. By making this overture to Brahmins, Mayawati hopes to recreate the Brahmin-Dalit electoral coalition that had been so successful in the past, particularly in 2007, when this formula helped her ascend to the Chief Minister's office in Uttar Pradesh. This strategy signals that Mayawati is determined to reconstruct a broad-based support structure, aiming to gain a foothold among both upper and lower castes. The outreach to Brahmins is not an entirely new tactic for the BSP. The party had previously established strong support among Brahmin voters, particularly in the mid-2000s, by emphasising the importance of social cohesion and inclusive governance. In many ways, Mayawati's return to this formula reflects her understanding of the changing political dynamics in Uttar Pradesh. She recognises the importance of rebuilding alliances that cross caste lines, particularly as the political landscape in the state continues to evolve. However, the new strategy does not stop with Brahmins. The booklet also directs sharp critiques at Mayawati's political rivals, particularly Congress leader Rahul Gandhi. She targets Gandhi's recent visit to a shoe repair shop, characterising it as "symbolic politics" that does little to address the real issues faced by marginalised communities. In her view, this gesture perpetuates caste-based stereotypes, reinforcing the notion that certain communities, such as Dalits, should be associated with manual labour, including shoe-making. This critique is aimed at resonating with her core voter base—Dalits—by emphasising her stance against caste-based occupations and promoting a broader vision of social justice. Mayawati also uses the booklet to revisit past political alliances, notably the failed partnership between the BSP and the Samajwadi Party (SP) ahead of the 2019 Lok Sabha elections. The alliance, once seen as a formidable force capable of challenging the BJP in Uttar Pradesh, ultimately fell apart. In the booklet, Mayawati attributes the breakdown to a lack of communication from Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav, who, according to her, stopped answering her calls. This communication breakdown, she claims, forced the BSP to withdraw from the alliance—a move she frames as one made out of self-respect. By bringing up the collapse of the alliance, Mayawati seeks to remind voters of her independence and self-reliance as a leader, further distinguishing herself from her political rivals. Despite Mayawati's efforts to reposition the BSP, the party faces significant challenges. One of the primary obstacles is the erosion of its traditional vote bank. The BSP, which once commanded a substantial base among Dalit voters, has seen a significant portion of these votes shift toward the BJP in recent elections. In a notable shift in strategy, Mayawati has announced that the BSP will contest the upcoming by-elections. Historically, the party has refrained from participating in by-polls, preferring to focus its resources on general elections. However, the recent electoral setbacks and the changing political landscape in Uttar Pradesh have prompted a reassessment of this approach. By contesting the by-elections, Mayawati hopes to reenergise the party's cadre and send a message to her supporters that the BSP is still in the fight. The by-elections offer the BSP an opportunity to test its new strategies and alliances in a smaller electoral context before the next general elections. By doing so, the party can identify its strengths and weaknesses, allowing it to adjust its tactics in preparation for larger electoral battles. Additionally, Mayawati's decision to contest the by-elections is about more than just winning seats—it's also about reinvigorating the party's organisational strength. In recent years, the BSP's grassroots machinery has weakened, with many party workers becoming disillusioned after a series of electoral defeats. By throwing the party into the by-election fray, Mayawati aims to revive its organisational structure and prepare it for future contests. Mayawati's messaging, as outlined in the newly released booklet, signals her determination to reclaim the BSP's former electoral strength.

Through a combination of symbolic language, critiques of her rivals, and a recalibrated strategy, she hopes to reposition the BSP as a force to be reckoned with in Uttar Pradesh politics. The upcoming by-elections will serve as a crucial test for the party's new approach and could determine whether Mayawati is successful in her efforts to revitalise her support base and counter growing competition from both established and emerging political players. (The writer is an Associate Editor, of The Pioneer; views are personal)

Haryana's election lesson: Why Tejashwi and Akhilesh must shun caste politics

To secure long-term success, they must cater to broader social sentiments as voters increasingly reject traditional caste-based power structures

The recent election results in Haryana have overturned pre-poll predictions and ground reports by YouTubers, sending a clear message for future elections, particularly in key states like Bihar and Uttar Pradesh. For leaders such as Tejashwi Yadav and Akhilesh Yadav, who belong to the dominant Yadav caste, the outcome holds lessons. Their political scenario mirrors the situation of the Jats in Haryana, where social dynamics are shifting away from dominant caste politics. In this evolving landscape, they face the challenge of addressing broader social sentiments and responding to the concerns of marginalised groups who feel overlooked or disadvantaged in the traditional caste power structures.

AKHILESH SUMAN

In Haryana, the Jats, a politically influential community, faced a consolidation of other social groups against them, as seen in the election results. This trend is significant for Bihar and Uttar Pradesh, where the dominant OBC groups, particularly the Yadavs, have held power for decades but are now struggling to maintain their influence. The once-powerful Yadav-led governments lost their grip on power partly because of growing resentment from other communities who felt sidelined. The political history of Bihar and Uttar Pradesh is marked by the rise of leaders like Lalu Prasad Yadav and Mulayam Singh Yadav, who gained initial popularity by championing anti-Congress sentiment and social justice. Their "M-Y equation" (Muslim-Yadav alliance) was a powerful electoral strategy that secured their dominance, but it also instilled fear in other communities. The consolidation of their caste base came at the cost of alienating non-Yadav OBCs, Dalits, and upper castes, creating a sense of marginalisation. Over time, the politics of exclusion backfired, as disillusioned voters began to seek alternatives, leading to the emergence of leaders like Nitish Kumar in Bihar and the BJP in Uttar Pradesh, who promised clean governance and development for all. The memories of the 1990s and early 2000s, when the Yadav-led administrations were perceived as using caste power to consolidate authority, still linger. While the Yadavs continue to be an important electoral bloc, the rest of society—especially the non-Yadav OBCs, Dalits, and upper castes—often recalls those years as an era of exclusion. The BJP, with its "subaltern Hindutva" narrative, has effectively capitalised on this sentiment, attracting marginalised groups by offering a sense of inclusion and an alternative to Yadav-centric politics. Akhilesh Yadav, upon coming to power, made efforts to bridge the gap between his caste and others. He distanced himself from the old guard, symbolised by his uncle Shivpal Yadav, who represented the traditional power dynamics of the Samajwadi Party. However, incidents involving unruly behaviour by some of his caste members toward other communities made it difficult for him to secure a second term. His attempts to modernise and adapt the party's image were undermined by persistent social tensions. Similarly, Tejashwi Yadav faces challenges in Bihar, where his efforts to step out of his father Lalu's shadow have been hampered by his own caste groups' oppressive behaviour toward Dalits and upper castes. His political journey involves grappling with the legacy of Yadav dominance, which is often perceived as being dismissive of other communities' aspirations. To succeed in the future, Tejashwi must navigate these entrenched social dynamics with greater inclusivity. The lesson from Haryana is clear: caste dominance can become a liability if it alienates other social groups. The Jat experience shows that when other communities consolidate against a dominant caste, it can significantly alter the political landscape. For Akhilesh and Tejashwi, this means urging their caste members to adopt a more accommodative stance, rather than projecting dominance. Effective leadership in this context involves advocating for social harmony and cooperation across different segments. Both Tejashwi and Akhilesh must understand that lasting political success cannot be achieved by relying solely on their traditional caste bases. They need to expand their appeal beyond the Yadavs and reach out to other communities that have felt marginalised. Their strategy should involve building broader alliances that include marginalised communities, addressing their socio-economic needs, and promoting an inclusive vision of governance. The political landscape in Bihar and Uttar Pradesh is undergoing a shift. The BJP's ability to attract non-Yadav OBCs and other marginalised groups has weakened the impact of traditional Yadav-centric politics. Leaders like Tejashwi and Akhilesh must shed the image of their parties as "Yadav-centric" and instead emphasise inclusive governance that addresses the aspirations of all communities. (The writer is a senior journalist; views are personal)

MVA flags NCP leader Baba Siddique's murder, alleges collapse of law and order

T N RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Upping the ante over the brutal murder of NCP (Ajit Pawar) leader and three-time former MLA Baba Ziauddin Siddique, the Opposition Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) on Sunday charged that there was a breakdown of law and order in Maharashtra ahead of the State Assembly polls. In an incident that sent shock waves through the city, Baba Siddique was shot dead by three miscreants outside his MLA-son Zeeshan B. Siddique's office at Nirmal Nagar in Bandra (East) here on Saturday night. A former minister, 66-year-old Baba Siddique --- who had initially been with the Congress for more than three and a half decades before joining to the Ajit Pawar-led NCP in February this year for some reasons --- suffered three bullet wounds --- two in his chest and one in his abdomen --- after seven rounds of fire were opened at him by the miscreants. He succumbed to bullet wounds late at the nearby Lilavati Hospital. Expressing serious concern over Baba Siddique's murder, leader of the Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi wrote on "X": "The tragic demise of Baba Siddique ji is shocking and saddening. My thoughts are with his family in this difficult time. This horrifying incident exposes the complete collapse of law and order in Maharashtra. The government must take responsibility, and justice must prevail." At a joint news conference called later in the afternoon to release a charge-sheet against the ruling BJP-led MahaYuti, leaders of the three constituent parties --- Congress, NCP and Shiv Sena (UBT) --- attacked the Eknath Shinde-led government and asked State Home Minister Devendra Fadnis of the BJP to take responsibility for Baba Siddique's murder. Condemning the incident, NCP chief Sharad Pawar said: "If the Home Minister and the rulers are going to push the cart of the state so mildly, it can be an alarm bell for the common people. There is a need not only to investigate this, but deputy chief minister Devendra Fadnis, who holds the state Home portfolio, should accept the responsibility and step down from his post." Shiv Sena (UBT) president Uddhav Thackeray hit out at BJP-led MahaYuti government for Siddique's murder and the earlier encounter-death of Badlapur children sexual assault key accused. "Whether it is the arrest of accused in Baba Siddique's murder or the encounter of Akshay Shinde (rape accused), suspicions are being raised on every act of this government and this is not a good thing. We are not sure who these arrested accused are. They (Maharashtra govt) are keeping tabs on our movements but are not watching the criminals," Uddhav said. Asking chief minister Eknath Shinde to take responsibility for Siddique's murder, Congress Legislature Party (CLP) leader Balasaheb Thorat said: "Siddique's murder is unfortunate. The killing of an important person took place on a road. The law and order has broken down in the state. The MahaYuti government has lost control over the state. More than the Home Minister, the chief minister should take responsibility for the incident," he said. Shiv Sena's Rajya Sabha member Priyanka Chaturvedi said: "Maharashtra hasn't seen such a state of collapse in its law and order. This death is a grim reminder of the 80s decade of Mumbai. Siddique's is the fourth political murder that has taken place in Mumbai and neighbouring Thane district during the current year. Listing the four political murders that took place during the current year, Priyanka said: "On February 3, 2024 BJP MLA Ganpat Gaikwad opened fire on Mahesh Gaikwad, the Shinde Sena chief of Kalyan, inside a police station. On February 9, Sena (UBT) leader Abhishek Ghosalkar was shot dead by Mauris Noronha alias Mauris Bhai. In October 2024, Sachin Kurmi, member of the NCP (AP), was fatally stabbed in Byculla (E). On October 12, Baba Siddique, NCP(AP) shot dead in Bandra despite knowing he was receiving death threats and had Y category security." The murder of NCP (AP) leader Baba Siddique is of considerable importance. A Congressman all through his life, he had joined the NCP (Ajit Pawar) in February this year. He was a close associate of former Union Minister Sunil Dutt and his daughter Priya Dutt, actors Sanjay Dutt, Salman Khan and Sharukh Khan. A popular figure in the politics, Siddique brought about a truce between feuding film stars Shah Rukh Salman Khan at one stage in the distant past. He was elected twice to the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation as a corporator on the Congress ticket. Later on he was elected to the State Assembly for consecutive three terms --- 1999, 2004 and 2009. His son Zeeshan is a Congress MLA from Bndra. In 2014 Assembly polls, he had declared assets worth 775 crore. Later in 2017, the Enforcement Directorate (ED) conducted raids on his properties in connection with an alleged money laundering case linked to a slum rehabilitation project. He had reportedly not got approval from the BJP-led MahaYuti for a few of his development projects, which was said to be one of the reasons for his joining the Ajit Pawar-led NCP in February this year.

Not cops, only men can save women, claims TMC MP

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

There is furor over an alleged "sexist" remark made by senior Trinamool Congress leader and MP Kalyan Banerjee who said that only men and none else can save the honour of women. During an interaction with some media men during Durga Puja celebrations, Banerjee said --- in an apparent reference to the ongoing protest against a plethora of recent rape and murder cases including the one of a post-graduate lady doctor inside the RG Kar Medical College and Hospital --- "if men cannot honour women then no one can ... even an army of 1000 policemen cannot save women if the men don't protect and honour women." Praying Mother Goddess

Durga to destroy the evil and inspire good sense in the people he iterated "we the men will provide security and preserve the honour of all the women ... we will offer security to all the women." Reminding how "Lord Shiva had honoured Goddesses Durga and Kali," and how members of civil society wondering why during the TMC rule the women will have to be protected by men and not by law. "We the women are equal with women in every respect ... even better than them ... at least if we take into consideration the fact that our Chief Minister is a woman ... if that be so why the men will have to protect women and why not the reverse," said Ushashi a Bengali film actress. Another actor invoked Rudyard Kipling's "White Man's Burden" to take care of the "common things" saying, while the British writer sounded racist here some TMC leaders are "sexist if it be put that way." A State BJP leader asked whether Banerjee's statement should be taken as a discredit to the police administration that that it cannot provide adequate protection to its citizens, particularly women. "The way he is telling that the police cannot protect the women means that the State police administration has literally given up ... it cannot take on the TMC goons anymore," he said reminding how "encounter medicine in Yogi ji's UP had reformed all the aspiring criminals." CPI(M) leader Dipshita Dhar said that the TMC MP should herself be respectful to the women before appealing others to do so. "Kalyan Babu should walk his talk ... he should himself pay respect to the women first before asking others to do so ... if you refer to his previous remarks about women adversaries you will feel disturbed," Dhar who had contested against Banerjee in the Lok Sabha elections said.

FeMA asks for PM's intervention in doctors' fast

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

After writing a strong letter last week to Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee asking her to intervene in the ongoing indefinite fast resorted to by the junior doctors demanding justice for their postgraduate colleague who was on August 9 raped and murdered inside the RG Kar Medical College and Hospital the Federation of Medical Associations (FeMA) has written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi requesting him to take steps so as to save Bengal which they claimed was "passing through its darkest phase post Independence." Requesting the Prime Minister to visit Kolkata where junior doctors' indefinite fast entered its ninth day on Sunday the FeMA wrote that it was only his intervention that could save the lives of the junior doctors. Earlier the organisation had written to the Chief Minister saying if the movement was not defused by taking some positive step and if there was a casualty among the protesting doctors then the movement would go beyond control and even the central force would not be able to control it. "No amount of vote bank or police force will be able to stop the movement. We will make sure that this extreme step that you are forcing us to take will be supported by every common man and even your own vote bank. It will soon be followed by similar action Pan India. Even central forces will not be sufficient to douse the flames," the FeMA wrote to the Chief Minister. However there was "still no response from the Government," the doctors' organization said. Meanwhile, out of nine junior fasting doctors --- seven in Kolkata and two in Siliguri --- three had been hospitalized as their condition deteriorated. While Dr Aniket was hospitalized on Thursday night two more doctors one from Kolkata and one from Siliguri were rushed to the hospitals as ketone levels in their blood increased steadily. However in their places two more doctors joined the indefinite fast, sources said.

Baba Siddique Murder Case

Those arrested had humble backgrounds, came to Mumbai in search of work: Cops

BISWAJEET BANERJEE ■ LUCKNOW

The high-profile murder of Baba Siddique, a former MLA and a leader of Ajit Pawar-led Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) in Maharashtra, has revealed the involvement of two shooters from Uttar Pradesh. The suspects, identified as Dharmraj Kashyap and Shiva Gautam, hail from Gandara village in the Kaiserganj area of Bahraich district. According to police sources, both had migrated to Mumbai in search of work to support their families. Superintendent of Police (SP) Vrinda Shukla said that both individuals have no prior criminal record and belong to regular families. They have maintained contact with their families, and police are currently investigating whether their families have any knowledge related to the incident. The murder took place on Saturday night outside the office of Baba Siddique's son Zeeshan. Reports suggest that the assailants took advantage of the noise from firecrackers being set off during Dussehra celebrations to carry out the attack. Mumbai Police have arrested two suspects in connection with the case, while investigations continue into the possible motives and accomplices. Following the revelation of a possible UP connection, the Special Task Force (STF) in Uttar Pradesh has been alerted. One of the shooters involved in the attack managed to flee the scene. There are suspicions that the underworld could be linked to the planning and execution of the murder, prompting further investigations by the STF. ADG (Law and Order) Amitabh Yash mentioned that while Mumbai Police has not yet formally reached out to the STF, they are gathering detailed information about Dharmraj and his accomplice. The authorities suspect that Dharmraj could have ties with an organized gang, which might have assigned him a specific task in Mumbai. The manner in which he used a pistol, firing multiple shots like a professional shooter, has raised suspicions of his connection to a criminal syndicate. Dharmraj Kashyap and Shiva Gautam come from humble backgrounds in Bahraich. SP Vrinda Shukla revealed that they had gone to Mumbai as laborers and no prior criminal activities have been reported against them. Shiva Gautam, the youngest of two brothers, is unmarried, and his father, Bal Kishun, sustains the family through farming and labor. Dharmraj Kashyap, the youngest of six brothers, also remains unmarried. His father and elder brother sell fish, while another brother runs a small cart, and others work as laborers. Most of his elder brothers are married, while Dharmraj and another sibling remain single. The family possesses minimal agricultural land, which made it necessary for them to seek employment elsewhere. As investigations proceed, authorities are piecing together information to understand the motive behind the attack and the possible involvement of organized crime. Meanwhile, the revelation of the UP connection adds another layer to the unfolding narrative of this high-profile case.

Protein complex playing critical role in connectivity of brain cells and cognitive behaviors identified

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

In a significant breakthrough that could pave the way for more effective treatments for anxiety disorders, scientists at Universite de Montreal and the Montreal Clinical Research Institute (IRCM) have identified a specific protein complex that plays critical roles in the connectivity of brain cells and various cognitive behaviors. The findings from the global research hold significant relevance in the Indian context where anxiety disorders are increasingly recognised as a major public health concern amidst limited access to mental healthcare. Led by researcher Hideto Takahashi, the study published in The EMBO Journal involved collaboration with teams from York University and Tokushima University in Japan. The findings focussed on a specific protein complex that plays critical roles in the connectivity of brain cells and various cognitive behaviors. Synapses, the junctions between neurons, are essential for the transmission of signals in the brain. They facilitate communication between neurons, allowing for complex functions such as learning, memory, and emotional regulation, said the study. At the same time, excitatory synapses, in particular, activate signal transmission and are crucial for many brain activities. However, defects in these synapses are linked to several mental illnesses, yet the precise mechanisms that govern their organization and function have been poorly understood until now. Takahashi's team previously identified a unique protein complex that exists only in excitatory synapses, with genes associated with anxiety disorders and autism. In the current study they demonstrated that this protein complex is vital for regulating both the structural and functional maturation of excitatory synapses. It does this by modulating phosphorylation—a biochemical modification of proteins that can alter their function—of various synaptic proteins, said the study. When the researchers disrupted this protein complex in their experiments, they observed specific behavioral changes in mice, indicating that the proper functioning of this complex is crucial for normal behavior. High-resolution imaging of the brains of these mutant mice revealed disorganized synapses, suggesting a failure in proper synaptic structure. Further investigations showed an increase in inactive synapses and significant impairments in signal transmission. Behaviorally, the mutant mice exhibited increased levels of anxiety, particularly in unfamiliar environments, as well as deficits in social interactions. These findings indicate that disruptions in synaptic organization and function may contribute to anxiety and other behavioral issues. By understanding how specific protein complexes regulate synaptic function, scientists may be able to develop targeted therapies aimed at restoring healthy synaptic connections and improving mental health outcomes. According to various studies, anxiety disorders are prevalent among various demographics in India, affecting both urban and rural populations. Around 14% to 30% of the population, particularly young people including students report high levels of anxiety related to academic pressure, job prospects, and social expectations in India.

Punjab: Farmers block roads, squat on rail tracks to protest 'tardy' paddy purchase

PTI ■ LUDHIANA/HOSHIARPUR/AMRITSAR

Punjab farmers on Sunday blocked roads and squatted on rail tracks at many places in the state as part of their protest against the alleged tardy procurement of paddy in the ongoing Kharif marketing season. While the Samyukta Kisan Morcha had given a call for a statewide road blockade from 12 to 3 pm, the Bharti Kisan Union (Ekta Ugrahan) had also given a call for 'rail roko' for three hours. As farmers blocked roads at several places including national highways, commuters faced inconvenience. Police, however, had diverted road traffic through alternative routes. BKU (Ekta Ugrahan) general secretary Sukhdev Singh Kokrikalan said they held their 'rail roko' protest at 17 places including Batala, Shahkot (Jalandhar), Bathinda, Ajjitwal (Moga), Wallah Phatak (Amritsar), Patti (Tarn Taran), Malout (Muktsar), Jalalabad (Fazilka), Kotakpura (Faridkot), Mansa, Dhablan (Patiala), Sunam (Sangrur), Malerkotla, Qila

Raipur (Ludhiana) Lalru (Mohali), Talwandi Bhai (Ferozepur) and Mandiala (Hoshiarpur). In Ludhiana, farmers disrupted road traffic at several places, including Samrala, Kohara, Khanna, Raikot, Doraha, Payal and Jagraon. Farmer leader Balbir Singh Rajewal said despite assurances by the state government regarding the smooth procurement of paddy, farmers are facing problems in grain markets. In Hoshiarpur, farmers blocked road traffic near Bijli Ghar Chowk, SDM Chowk and Adda Bhangala. They also staged 'dharnas' at various points including Adda Dosarka on the Hoshiarpur-Tandara road, Pur Hiran Bypass Chowk near the Bus Stand in Garhshankar, Sarhala crossing in Garhdiwala, Chandigarh Bypass Chowk, Majarra on the Hoshiarpur-Chandigarh road, Bagpur Sataur, Bhunga on the Hoshiarpur-Dasuya road, and village Singhpur Tarkhana on the Hajipur-Dasuya road. The protesters also squatted on the railway tracks at village Mandiala on the Hoshiarpur-Jalandhar rail section.

The protesting farmers alleged delay in paddy procurement and its lifting in the state. They also raised slogans against both the state and central governments, accusing them of failing to begin paddy procurement and lifting operations at state-run mandis. They demanded immediate commencement of procurement operations, warning that failure to act would lead to an intensification of their agitation. BKU (Doaba) blocked a road at Sugar mill crossing in Phagwara.

Satnam Singh Sahni, general secretary BKU(D) alleged that there was tardy or virtually no lifting of paddy from 'mandis', resulting in delay of further harvesting of paddy in fields as well as the subsequent preparation for sowing of wheat crop. He demanded plying of special trains for evacuating rice stored in godowns so that the required space for fresh crop was available. In Amritsar, protesting farmers squatted on Wallha railway crossing to protest against the slow purchase of the paddy crop.

When aged buses collapse...

From page 1

According to Delhi Traffic Police's X handle, eight breakdowns disrupted traffic just on Monday. Four were reported on Tuesday. Three were reported on Wednesday. Officials of Delhi transport department said one of the top reasons for frequent breakdowns is age of the CNG run buses. Most of the buses have a lifespan of 15 years. In fact they are on extended life and this often means more breakdowns.

Navratri ends...

From page 1

My friend Utkarsh, a political consultant, remained in a state of fear. "It was a scary moment; I could see a severe accident happening if I weren't prompt enough. But after all of it was over, all I could think was how to escape this? It was a festive night, which has now become an event to get drunk and create ruckus on the streets and ruin it for everyone," he said. "Safety is a primal instinct, things like this made me wonder if I should just leave this country at the first opportunity and settle in a

Waqf Joint Committee...

From page 1

Parliamentary sources said the Joint Committee on the Waqf (Amendment) Bill has also received 75,000 responses with documents to support the respective views, prompting the panel to seek additional staff from the Lok Sabha Secretariat. Through these consultations, the panel will examine key aspects of the Waqf (Amendment) Bill, including the digitisation of records, more rigorous auditing processes, enhanced legal measures for dealing with encroachments and the decentralisation of the Waqf management.

Political bullets fired

From page 1

Expressing his "profound sorrow" over his party leader Baba Siddique's murder, deputy chief minister Ajit Pawar has expressed profound sorrow over the tragic murder of NCP leader Baba Siddique, stating, "The NCP has been devastated by the tragic loss of Baba Siddique, a leader deeply loved by many, and personally, I have lost a dear friend whom I have known for years."

Political bullets fired

From page 1

Ajit Pawar appealed to the Opposition parties to refrain from politicising the murder. "I strongly urge everyone to resist the temptation to politicise this horrifying event. This is not a time for division or for exploiting the pain of others for political advantage. Right now, our focus must be on ensuring that justice is served. We will not rest until those responsible are brought to account," Ajit Pawar said.

Harris helps pack aid boxes for North Carolina hurricane victims

AP ■ RALEIGH

Vice President Kamala Harris on Saturday helped pack diapers into boxes of personal care products destined for North Carolina hurricane victims, agreeing with one helper who said "it takes a village."

"You're exactly right," Harris replied to Greg Hatem, owner of The Pit Authentic Barbecue restaurant as she put two packages of diapers inside each cardboard box that was placed in front of her assembly-line style.

Harris met with Black leaders at the barbecue restaurant in Raleigh before she joined volunteers who were there to pack bandages, baby formula, baby wipes, pain relief pills and other items for victims of Hurricane Helene, which tore through western North Carolina last month.

The vice president was overnighting in the state, which narrowly backed her rival, Republican Donald Trump, in 2020. Democrats are campaigning hard to flip North Carolina into their column in the presidential election next month. On Sunday, Harris was attending church in Greenville as part of her campaign's "Souls to the Polls" effort to get out the vote and holding a rally.

The weekend trip was her second to the battleground state after it was struck by Hurricane Helene. The Democratic presidential nominee went to North Carolina last Saturday to survey the aftermath of Helene and pledged federal assistance for its victims.

Before her plane left Washington, Harris told reporters accompanying her that she looked forward to talking with residents "first and foremost to see how they're doing in the wake of the hurricane."

Democrats view North Carolina as swinging their way this year with its base of Black and college-educated voters, as well as women concerned about the loss of abortion protections. But the aftermath of Hurricane Helene has become a political flashpoint with former President Trump and his allies attacking the Biden administration's response to the natural disaster.

At The Pit, Harris met with Black elected, faith and community leaders. Her campaign did not release a list of the people she met with.

After church on Sunday, Harris, a Baptist, was set to speak about her economic plans at a rally to generate support for early voting, which starts Thursday in North Carolina. Making landfall on Sept. 26, Hurricane Helene resulted in the deaths of roughly 230 people and wiped out roads, electrical power and cell phone service. Just two weeks later, Hurricane Milton hit Florida this week and generated an estimated $50 billion worth of damage and left several people dead.

Harris also visited Georgia after Helene struck there, too, in addition to virtually attending briefings on the federal government's response and rejiggering her campaign schedule. She continued to travel for the presidential race with time spent this week in Nevada and Arizona. One of her prime messages has been that there should be no price gouging by companies seeking to take advantage of shortages caused by the hurricanes, an issue she has made central to her campaign as a way to tackle inflation.

"To any company or individual that is using this crisis to jack up prices through illegal fraud or price gouging, whether it be at the gas pump, the airport or the hotel counter, we will be monitoring and there will be a consequence," Harris said at Friday's briefing.

However, Trump and his allies have falsely suggested that disaster relief from the Federal Emergency Management Agency went to immigrants instead of hurricane victims, while also suggesting that people are not getting the full financial support to which they're legally entitled.

At a recent rally in Reading, Pennsylvania, Trump said the response has been worse than during 2005's Hurricane Katrina, which left nearly 1,400 people dead and caused $200 billion in damages.

"North Carolina's been hit very hard and this administration has not done a proper job at all. Terrible, terrible," Trump said at the rally, adding that Harris was "on a fundraising comedy tour while people are stranded and drowning all over some of our greatest states."

President Joe Biden has called Trump's falsehoods about the government's response "un-American" and his predecessor to "get a life, man."

Donald Trump plans military shift for domestic policy

Washington (AP): During his first term as president, Donald Trump tested the limits of how he could use the military to achieve policy goals. If given a second term, the Republican and his allies are preparing to go much further, reimagining the military as an all-powerful tool to deploy on US soil.

He has pledged to recall thousands of American troops from overseas and station them at the US border with Mexico. He has explored using troops for domestic policy priorities such as deportations and confronting civil unrest. He has talked of weeding out military officers who are ideologically opposed to him.

Trump's vision amounts to a potentially dramatic shift in the role of the military in US society, carrying grave implications for both the country's place in the world and the restraints that have traditionally been placed on domestic use of the military.

As Trump's campaign heads into its final stretch against Democratic Vice President Kamala Harris, he is promising forceful action against immigrants who do not have permanent legal status. Speaking in Colorado on Friday, the Republican described the city of Aurora as a "war zone" controlled by Venezuelan gangs, even though authorities say that was a single block of the Denver suburb, and the area is safe again.

"I will rescue Aurora and every town that has been invaded and conquered," Trump said at the rally. "We will put these vicious and bloodthirsty criminals in jail or kick them out of our country."

The former president and his advisers are developing plans to shift the military's priorities and resources, even at a time when wars are raging in Europe and the Middle East. Trump's top priority in his platform, known as Agenda 47, is to implement hard-line measures at the US-Mexico border by "moving thousands of troops currently stationed overseas" to that border. He is also pledging to "declare war" on cartels and deploy the Navy in a blockade that would board and inspect ships for fentanyl.

Trump also has said he will use the National Guard and possibly the military as part of the operation to deport millions of immigrants who do not have permanent legal status.

While Trump's campaign declined to discuss the details of those plans, including how many troops he would shift from overseas assignments to the border, his allies are not shy about casting the operation as a sweeping mission that would use the most powerful tools of the federal government in new and dramatic ways.

"There could be an alliance of the Justice Department, Homeland Security and the Department of Defence. Those three departments have to be coordinated in a way that maybe has never been done before," said Ron Vitiello, who worked as the acting director of Immigration and Customs Enforcement under Trump.

While both Democratic and Republican presidential administrations have long used military resources at the border, the plans would be a striking escalation of the military's involvement in domestic policy. Advocates for human rights and civil liberties have grown alarmed. "They are promising to use the military to do mass raids of American families at a scale that harkens back to some of the worst things our country has done," said Todd Schulte, president of FWD.us, an immigration advocacy organization. In Congress, which has the power to restrict the use of military force through funding and other authorisations, Republicans are largely on board with Trump's plans.

Heavy Israeli bombardment rocks northern Gaza

United Nations peacekeepers in Lebanon hit again

AP ■ BEIRUT

Palestinians in northern Gaza described heavy Israeli bombardment on Saturday in the hours after airstrikes killed at least 22 people, as Israel warned people there and in southern Lebanon to get out of the way of offensives against the Hamas and Hezbollah militant groups.

In Lebanon, the UN peacekeeping force said its headquarters in Naqoura was hit again, with a peacekeeper struck by gunfire late Friday and in stable condition. It wasn't clear who fired. It occurred a day after Israel's military fired on the headquarters for a second straight day. Israel, which has warned peacekeepers to leave their positions, didn't immediately respond to questions.

Hunger warnings emerged again in northern Gaza as residents said they hadn't received aid since the beginning of the month. The UN World Food Program said no food aid had entered the north since October 1. An estimated 400,000 people remain there. Israel's military renewed its offensive in northern Gaza almost a week ago while escalating its air and ground campaign against the Iran-backed Hezbollah in Lebanon. Amid Israel's war with Hezbollah, a top UN official, Carl Skau, told The Associated Press he's concerned that Lebanon's ports and airport might be taken out of service. More than 1 million people have been displaced. Israel's military said Hezbollah fired more than 300 projectiles over Yom Kippur, the holiest and most solemn day on the Jewish calendar. Hezbollah claimed a series of rocket strikes on Israeli military positions and said fighters engaged an Israeli infantry unit attempting to enter Lebanese territory. Israel's military also said it killed 50 militants in Lebanon. Claims on either side couldn't be verified.

Israeli airstrikes on Saturday hit multiple areas in southern and eastern Lebanon, according to the Lebanese Health Ministry. Nine were killed in Maira village in the northeast. Four were killed in an apartment building on the edge of Barja south of Beirut. Rayak and Tal Chaha hospitals in the Bekaa Valley were damaged. In Nabatieh, eight people were wounded.

The total toll in Lebanon over the past year of conflict between Israel and Hezbollah is now 2,255 killed, according to the Lebanese Health Ministry. More than 1,400 people have been killed since mid-September. It isn't clear how many were fighters.

"We will keep standing with the Lebanese people during these difficult circumstances and also with the Palestinian people," the speaker of Iran's parliament, Mohammad Bagher Qalibaf, said Saturday while touring the scene of an Israeli airstrike in Beirut.

SOME GAZA RESIDENTS ARE TRAPPED

In northern Gaza, residents told the AP many were trapped in their homes and shelters with dwindling supplies while seeing bodies uncollected in the streets as the bombing hampered emergency responders. Those who rushed to the scene of the latest deadly airstrikes in the urban refugee camp of Jabaliya found a hole 20 meters (65 feet) deep where a home once stood.

At least 20 bodies were recovered while others likely were under rubble, emergency service officials said. Elsewhere in Jabaliya, a strike on a home killed two brothers and wounded a woman and newborn baby, the officials said. An afternoon strike on a home killed at least four people, including a woman, said Fares Abu Hamza, an official with the emergency service. Israel's military said it killed more than 20 militants in the Jabaliya area over the past day. Military spokesperson Avichay Adraee told people in parts of Jabaliya and Gaza City to evacuate south to an Israeli-designated humanitarian zone as Israel plans to use great force "and will continue to do so for a long time."

Israel has repeatedly returned to parts of Gaza as Hamas and other militants regroup. The war has destroyed large areas of Gaza and displaced around 90% of its population of 2.3 million people, often multiple times. Once again, some families moved south on foot, in donkey carts or crowded in vehicles that navigated piles of rubble. Others refused to go. "It's like the first days of the war," said a Jabaliya resident, Ahmed Abu Goneim. "The occupation is doing everything to uproot us. But we will not leave."

The 24-year-old said Israeli warplanes and drones struck many neighboring houses in the past week. He counted 15 relatives and neighbors, including four women and five children as young as 3, killed in neighboring homes. Hamza Sharif, who stays with his family in a school-turned-shelter in Jabaliya, described "constant bombings day and night." He said the shelter hasn't received aid since the beginning of the month and that families "will run out of supplies very soon."

FOOD IS RUNNING OUT

The World Food Program said it was unclear how long the limited food supplies it distributed in northern Gaza earlier will last. The UN's independent investigator on the right to food last month accused Israel of carrying out a "starvation campaign" against Palestinians, which Israel has denied. Israel's offensive in Gaza started after Hamas' October 7 attack, when militants stormed into Israel, killing about 1,200 people, mostly civilians, and abducting around 250 others.

Israel's offensive has killed more than 42,000 Palestinians, according to local health authorities, who don't specify between combatants and civilians. Gaza's Health Ministry said that hospitals had received the bodies of 49 people killed over the past 24 hours.

The US Secretary of Defense Lloyd J Austin III spoke with Israeli Minister of Defense Yoav Gallant on Saturday to express his "deep concern" about reports that Israeli forces fired on UN peacekeeping positions in Lebanon, as well as the reported death of two Lebanese soldiers, according to a Pentagon statement. Austin said it was important to ensure the safety and security of UNIFIL forces and Lebanese Armed Forces, and "reinforced the need to pivot from military operations in Lebanon to a diplomatic pathway as soon as feasible," according to the statement. The US Secretary of Defense also said steps must be taken to address the humanitarian situation in Gaza, and reaffirmed the United States' "unwavering, enduring, and ironclad commitment to Israel's security," according to the statement.

India backs statement strongly condemning attacks on UN peacekeepers in Lebanon

United Nations (PTI): India has backed a joint statement by the UNIFIL-contributing countries that "strongly condemned" the recent attacks on the UN peacekeeping force in Lebanon and said such actions must stop immediately.

The joint statement, initially co-signed by 34 countries, came after at least five United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) peacekeepers were wounded in recent days as Israeli troops launched attacks in southern Lebanon as part of its campaign against Hezbollah.

"We consider UNIFIL's role as particularly crucial in light of the escalating situation in the region. We therefore strongly condemn recent attacks on the UNIFIL peacekeepers. Such actions must stop immediately and should be adequately investigated," said the joint statement posted on X by Poland's mission to the UN on Saturday.

India, initially not mentioned among co-signatories, on Saturday said it aligns itself fully with the joint statement. "As a major Troop Contributing Country, India aligns itself fully with the joint statement issued by the 34 @UNIFIL_ troop-contributing countries. Safety and security of peacekeepers are of paramount importance and must be ensured in accordance with extant UNSC Resolutions," the Permanent Mission of India to the United Nations said in a post on X. Earlier in a statement in New Delhi on Friday, the Ministry of External Affairs said India was "concerned" at the "deteriorating" security situation in parts of West Asia.

"Inviolability of UN premises must be respected by all, and appropriate measures taken to ensure the safety of UN peacekeepers and the sanctity of their mandate," the MEA said in its statement.

Initially, 34 nations, including Bangladesh, Brazil, China, France, Italy, Spain, Sri Lanka, and the UK co-signed the joint statement. On Sunday, the Polish mission to the UN announced that India, Colombia, Germany, Greece, Peru and Uruguay have extended support to the statement.

Train crash in Egypt kills 1, injures over 20

Cairo (AP): A locomotive crashed into the tail of the Cairo-bound passenger train Sunday in southern Egypt, killing at least one person and injuring multiple others, authorities said. It is the second train crash in a month in the North African country. The collision occurred in the province of Minya, 270 km (about 168 miles) south of Cairo, the railway authority said in a statement, and two railway carriages fell into an adjacent watercourse. The cause of the crash was being investigated, the statement added.

Footage aired by local media showed the two carriages partially submerged in the watercourse. Along with the fatality, the Health Ministry said in a separate statement at least 21 people were taken to hospitals, of which 19 were later discharged after receiving treatment. Train derailments and crashes are common in Egypt, where an aging railway system has also been plagued by mismanagement. In September, two passenger trains collided in a Nile Delta city, killing at least three people. In recent years, the government announced initiatives to improve its railways. President Abdel Fattah el-Sissi said in 2018 some 250 billion Egyptian pounds, or $8.13 billion, would be needed to properly overhaul the neglected rail network.

People stand by the wreckage after a locomotive crashed into the tail of the Cairo-bound passenger train in southern Egypt, in the province of Minya, about 168 miles south of Cairo, Sunday

7 killed as storm hits Brazil's Sao Paulo, knocks out power to 1.4 million homes

Sao Paulo (AP): At least seven people were killed after a brief but powerful storm swept through Sao Paulo, Brazil with around 1.4 million households in the South America's largest metropolis left without power on Saturday.

Officials in Sao Paulo state said that record wind gusts Friday night of up to 67 mph (108 kph) knocked down transmission lines and uprooted trees, causing severe damage in some parts. The storm also shut down several airports and interrupted water service in several areas, according to the state government. One person died when a tree fell on an outdoor stall, authorities said. At least six other people in surrounding Sao Paulo state also died. Authorities originally expected to restore power within a few hours. But several neighborhoods in the metropolitan area, which is home to 21 million people, were still in the dark on Saturday, and authorities were urging residents to limit their consumption of water.

Most of the disruptions were in the service area of a single utility, Enel-Sao Paulo, which is partly owned by AES Corporation. In May, the Virginia-based power company said it was selling its 47% stake in its Brazil unit for $640 million. Regulators ordered an inspection of the utility, warning that if it doesn't resolve the outages in a satisfactory and swift manner it will move to terminate the private concession. For its part, Enel said that 17 high voltage transmission lines were affected by the storm. It did not provide a time frame for re-establishing service.

New SL gov orders probe into many cases again

Colombo (PTI): Sri Lanka's new government has ordered the police to reinvestigate some high-profile cases, including the 2019 Easter Sunday terror attacks and the 2005 murder of a Tamil minority community journalist. The ruling National People's Power, which won the presidential election last month, pledged to reinvestigate past cases which had not been resolved. The Ministry of Public Security took action to identify any lapses in investigations. "The ministry has asked the acting police chief that these cases should be reinvestigated," Police spokesman Nihal Thalduwa said on Saturday. The cases to be reinvestigated include the alleged scam in the issue of Central Bank bonds in 2015 blamed on the then government of Ranil Wickremesinghe, the former president, and the 2019 Easter Sunday terror attacks that killed over 270 people, including 11 Indians. The catholic church has been demanding stringent action on what they alleged was a politically motivated cover-up by previous governments on the attacks. Among the other cases that are to be investigated are the 2005 murder of Tamil minority community journalist D Sivaram and the 2006 abduction and disappearance of a Tamil minority academic who headed the Eastern University at the time.

Netanyahu plans to empty northern Gaza, of civilians, cut off aid to those left inside

AP ■ JERUSALEM

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu is examining a plan to seal off humanitarian aid to northern Gaza in an attempt to starve out Hamas militants, a plan that, if implemented, could trap without food or water hundreds of thousands of Palestinians unwilling or unable to leave their homes.

Israel has issued many evacuation orders for the north throughout the yearlong war, the most recent of which was Sunday. The plan proposed to Netanyahu and the Israeli parliament by a group of retired generals would escalate the pressure, giving Palestinians a week to leave the northern third of the Gaza Strip, including Gaza City, before declaring it a closed military zone. Those who remain would be considered combatants — meaning military regulations would allow troops to kill them — and denied food, water, medicine and fuel, according to a copy of the plan given to the Associated Press by its chief architect, who says the plan is the only way to break Hamas in the north and pressure it to release the remaining hostages. The plan calls for Israel to maintain control over the north for an indefinite period to attempt to create a new administration without Hamas, splitting the Gaza Strip in two.

There has been no decision by the government to fully carry out the so-called "Generals' Plan", and it is unclear how strongly it is being considered. One official with knowledge of the matter said parts of the plan are already being implemented, without specifying which parts. A second official, who is Israeli, said Netanyahu "had read and studied" the plan, "like many plans that have reached him throughout the war", but did not say whether any of it had been adopted. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity because the plan is not supposed to be discussed publicly. On Sunday, Israel launched an offensive against Hamas fighters in the Jabaliya refugee camp north of the city. No trucks of food, water or medicine have entered the north since September 30, according to the UN and the website of the Israeli military agency overseeing humanitarian aid crossings. The State Department spokesperson has said the United States is against any plan that would bring direct Israeli occupation in Gaza. Human rights groups say the plan would likely starve civilians and that it flies in the face of international law, which prohibits using food as a weapon and forcible transfers. Accusations that Israel is intentionally limiting food to Gaza are central to the genocide case brought against it at the International Court of Justice, charges Israel denies. So far, very few Palestinians have heeded the latest evacuation order. Some are elderly, sick or afraid to leave their homes, but many fear there's nowhere safe to go and that they will never be allowed back. Israel has prevented those who fled earlier in the war from returning. "All Gazans are afraid of the plan," said Jomana Elkhaili, a 26-year-old Palestinian aid worker for Oxfam living in Gaza City with her family. "Still, they will not flee. They will not make the mistake again ... We know the place there is not safe," she said, referring to southern Gaza, where most of the population is huddled in dismal tent camps and airstrikes often hit shelters. "That's why people in the north say it's better to die than to leave." The plan has emerged as Hamas has shown enduring strength, firing rockets into Tel Aviv and regrouping in areas after Israeli troops withdraw, bringing repeated offensives. After a year of devastating war with Hamas, Israel has far fewer ground troops in Gaza than it did a few months ago and in recent weeks has turned its attention to Hezbollah, launching an invasion of southern Lebanon. There is no sign of progress on a cease-fire in either front.

Government imposes import restrictions on pocket lighters

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The government on Sunday imposed import curbs on parts of pocket lighters with immediate effect, a move which would help encourage domestic manufacturing and cut dependence on their inbound shipments from China.

"Import of parts of pocket lighters, gas fuelled, non-refillable or refillable lighters (cigarette lighters)... Is restricted with immediate effect," the directorate general of foreign trade (DGFT) said in a notification.

Imports of cigarette lighters, priced less than Rs 20, are already prohibited. The import ban is also there on pocket lighters, gas-fuelled, non-refillable or refillable.

Last year, the government also issued mandatory quality standard norms for flame-producing lighters with a view to contain import of sub-standard goods and boost domestic manufacturing.

Items under the quality control orders (QCO), cannot be produced, sold/traded, imported and stocked unless they bear the BIS (Bureau of Indian Standards) mark.

During April-July this fiscal, import of lighter parts stood at USD 3.8 million. It was USD 4.86 million in 2023-24. The parts are mainly imported from China.

Other sources of lighter imports include Spain, Turkey and the UAE.

In September 2022, Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M K Stalin had urged the Centre to ban single use plastic cigarette lighters to help the domestic matchbox industry.

These plastic cigarette lighters, which are legally and illegally imported from countries like China, are available for Rs 10 and can substitute 20 matchboxes. Further, these non-refillable lighters result in immense plastic waste, damaging the environment and also impacting health, he had said.

The matchbox manufacturing industry is a major source of employment in the southern part of Tamil Nadu.

India has been taking a series of measures to cut imports from China, which is India's second largest trading partner after the US. The country's merchandise imports from China has increased to USD 101.73 billion in 2023-24 from USD 98.5 billion in 2022-23. Exports to the neighbouring country, though, have increased at a slower pace and aggregated at USD 16.65 billion in the previous fiscal as against USD 15.3 billion in 2022-23.

Average air fares drop 20-25 per cent around Diwali

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Air passengers might have a reason to smile this Diwali season as average airfares on many domestic routes have dropped 20-25 per cent compared to the year-ago period, according to an analysis.

Increased capacity and the recent fall in oil prices are considered to be among the factors for the fall in air ticket prices.

The analysis by travel portal ixigo showed that average airfare on the domestic routes has declined in the range of 20-25 per cent.

The prices are for one-way average fare on a 30 days APD (advanced purchase date) basis.

For 2023, the time period considered is November 10-16 while it is October 28-November 3 for this year. This is the time around Diwali.

The maximum decline of average airfare is 38 per cent for a Bengaluru-Kolkata flight to Rs 6,319 this year from Rs 10,195 last year, as per the analysis.

The ticket price on Chennai-Kolkata route has fallen 36 per cent to Rs 5,604 from Rs 8,725.

The average airfare for Mumbai-Delhi flight has dropped 34 per cent to Rs

5,762 from Rs 8,788. Similarly, there is a 34 per cent decrease in ticket prices on Delhi-Udaipur route to Rs 7,469 from Rs 11,296.

The decline is 32 per cent on Delhi-Kolkata, Hyderabad-Delhi, and Delhi-Srinagar routes.

"Last year, airfares around Diwali had surged due to limited capacity, primarily driven by the suspension of Go First airline. However, this year we've seen some relief as additional capacity has been added since then, leading to a 20-25 per cent YoY (year-on-year) dip in average airfares across key routes for the last week of October," ixigo Group CEO Alok Bajpai told PTI.

According to him, the decline in oil prices, down 15 per cent this year, may have also contributed to this downward trend, offering travellers more affordable options during the festive season.

Currently, oil prices are slightly on the upward trajectory amid rising geopolitical tensions.

Meanwhile, there has been a hike in airfares of up to 34 per cent on certain routes.

While the ticket price has jumped 34 per cent on Ahmedabad-Delhi route to Rs 8,758 from Rs 6,533, the rise is 33 per cent on Mumbai-Dehradun route to Rs 15,527 from Rs 11,710, the analysis showed.

ONGC explores mini-LNG plants for efficient gas transportation

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

State-owned Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC) is looking to set up mini-LNG plants to evacuate natural gas from wells located in areas that are not connected with pipelines.

The firm has identified five sites in Andhra Pradesh, Jharkhand and Gujarat for setting up mini plants at wellhead that will convert the gas pumped out from under the ground into liquefied natural gas (LNG) by supercooling it to minus 160 degrees celsius.

This LNG will be loaded on cryogenic trucks and transported to the nearest pipeline where it will be reconverted into its gaseous state and pumped into the network for supply to users like power plants, fertilizer units or city gas retailers.

ONGC has floated a tender seeking manufacturers/service providers to tap stranded natural gas, according to the tender.

The locations identified for setting up mini-LNG plants in the tender are two sites at Rajahmundry in Andhra Pradesh and one each at Ankleshwar in Gujarat, Bokaro in Jharkhand and Cambay in Gujarat.

ONGC in the tender document said while the country has an extensive network of pipelines that connect supply and demand centres, there remains a substantial volume of stranded gas (non-connected) that is required to be tapped for enhancing domestic supplies and meeting the needs of nearby demand centres.

The stranded volumes, it said, range from 5,000 to 50,000 standard cubic meters per day that can be produced for up to 5 years.

The tender called for bids from manufacturers and service providers to "set up a small scale LNG plant on BOO (build, own and operate) basis to produce LNG, transport the produced LNG by cascades / tankers to consumption sites located within a distance of around 250 kilometers, depressurize / re-gasify the LNG and then inject the gas into existing gas distribution grids or supply directly to bulk consumers."

India produces over 90 million standard cubic meters per day of natural gas that is used to generate electricity, produce fertilisers or turned into CNG to run automobiles and piped into household kitchens for cooking purposes. But domestic production meets roughly half of the demand. ONGC is India's largest crude oil and natural gas producer and has been investing billions of dollars to boost production to cut India's reliance on imports. Prior to floating of this tender, it had entered into a partnership with nation's largest fuel retailer Indian Oil Corporation (IOC) to set up a small-scale LNG plant near its Hatta gas field in Vindhyan basin in Madhya Pradesh.

The Hatta gas field is located in Batiyagarh tehsil of Damoh district in Madhya Pradesh, approximately 45 km from Damoh town.

The initial LNG plant capacity is planned for 32 to 35 tonnes, with 45,000 standard cubic meters per day of gas coming from the Hatta field.

As per that agreement, IOC, which is conducting a detailed feasibility study of the project, will bear the cost of the small-scale LNG plant. ONGC will sell gas to IOC. The LNG plant will be operated and managed by IOC and it will further sell the gas to consumers.

Earlier in March this year, state-owned gas utility GAIL (India) Ltd had announced setting up a small-scale LNG plant at its Vijapur LPG unit in Madhya Pradesh.

SBI to raise threshold limit for MSME instant loan scheme

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

To ensure easy and adequate credit availability to the MSME sector, the State Bank of India (SBI) is planning to enhance the threshold under the instant loan scheme from the existing Rs 5 crore.

"MSME Sahaj - End to End Digital Invoice Financing", provides solutions ranging from applying for the loan, documentation and disbursement of the sanctioned loan within 15 minutes, without any manual intervention.

"We have, last year, introduced a business rule engine based, data based assessment of the credit limits up to Rs 5 crore. Anybody walking into our MSME branch has to give only their PAN and approval for sourcing GST data, we can give approval in 15-45 minutes," SBI Chairman C S Setty told PTI in an interview.

Simplification of the MSME credit is something that the bank is emphasising on and making lending cash flow based backed by the CGTMSE guarantee, he said.

This reduces the need for collateral, which would enable a lot of people to come into the formal MSME borrowing system, he said.

"We still have a large number of MSME customers accessing the informal credit. We would like to bring them to the banking fold," he said.

As far as network expansion is concerned, Setty said SBI is planning to open 600 branches across the country in the current financial year.

SBI has a network of 22,542 branches across the country as of March 2024.

"We have strong branch expansion plans... This would be mainly focused on emerging areas. A lot of residential colonies are not covered by us. Around 600 branches is something we are planning in the current year," he said.

Apart from a vast branch network, SBI reaches its customers through 65,000 ATMs and 85,000 business correspondents.

"We serve about 50 crore customers and we take pride in saying that we are the banker to every Indian, and, more importantly, to every Indian family," he said.

He also said it will be his endeavour to transform SBI into the best and the most valued bank not only from a shareholder point of view but for every stakeholder who deals with the lender.

"It could be my customers, it could be our shareholders, it could be the larger ecosystem -- the society, the institutional framework -- all the stakeholders should be saying that this is the best bank to deal with," he added.

IN BRIEF

THE CLOSING CEREMONY OF THE LAW FESTIVAL-2024

The Maharishi Mahesh Yogi National Law Festival-2024 has come to a close with its Grand Closing Ceremony at Maharishi University of Information Technology, Noida took place recently.

ZONAL YOUTH FESTIVAL CONCLUDED

AMRITSAR: Zonal Youth Festival of Education Colleges of the Guru Nanak Dev University was concluded in Dashmesh Auditorium of the University, Khalsa College of Education, Ranjit Avenue, Amritsar bagged the position of Overall Champion.

AICTE CHAIRMAN ADDRESSES SRMIST CONVOCATION

Kattankulathur: "Skills and knowledge are essential for sustaining a career in today's rapidly changing job market," said Dr. T. G. Sitharam, Chairman of the All India Council for Technical Education, during the 20th Convocation of SRM Institute of Science and Technology in Kattankulathur. A total of 8,438 students from the Faculty of Engineering and Technology received their degrees.

Tara Sutaria shines with her debut performance at Suroskie's sufi night

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Suroskie hosted a glamorous Sufi Night in the heart of the capital, with actress Tara Sutaria making her debut appearance as the brand ambassador for the company's hair care range. The event, which showcased Suroskie's products, attracted a mix of celebrities and influencers.

The event also marked an opportunity for Suroskie to highlight its commitment to ethically crafted, cruelty-free, and chemical-free hair care solutions.

Guests were invited to experience the brand's offerings firsthand, underscoring its mission to cater to modern consumer needs while upholding sustainable practices.

Deepali Bansal, Founder of Suroskie, added, "Our commitment to offering cruelty-free and clean luxury products is central to our brand's philosophy. It was a privilege to have Tara share her haircare tips with our guests, and we look forward to organizing more such exquisite events."

"The Sufi Night marks a significant milestone for Suroskie, as Tara Sutaria's association with the brand reinforces its vision to deliver high-quality, eco-friendly hair care solutions that resonate with today's conscientious consumers."

CIL's contribution to government exchequer drops marginally

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

State-owned Coal India Ltd's contribution to the government exchequer dropped marginally by 0.6 per cent to Rs 28,930.27 crore in the first half of the ongoing fiscal over the year-ago period.

Coal India Ltd (CIL), which accounts for over 80 per cent of the domestic coal output, paid Rs 29,122.13 crore to the government exchequer in April-September period of FY24, according to provisional figures of the coal ministry.

Total levies paid to the government in September also dropped by 11.1 per cent to Rs 4,355.24 crore from Rs 4,878.84 crore paid in the corresponding month of FY24.

Of the total Rs 28,930.27 crore paid to the government exchequer in April-September FY25, maximum amount of Rs 6,452.30 crore went to the Jharkhand government, followed by Rs 6,383.14 crore to the Odisha government, Rs 5,432.02 crore to Chhattisgarh, Rs

5,177.41 crore to Madhya Pradesh, and Rs 2,782.25 crore to Maharashtra, among others. The coal-producing states earned the revenue from royalty, District Mineral Foundation (DMF) and National Mineral Exploration Trust (NMET), among others.

The government had earlier said that coal-producing states earned a revenue of Rs 1.52 lakh crore in the last nine years from royalty, DMF and NMET.

The coal mining sector has proved to be a big booster for the economic growth of the states that produce the fossil fuel.

The PSU's coal output in April-September period of the current fiscal year increased 2.5 per cent to 341.5 MT, over 332.9 MT in the year-ago period. Coal India's production rose 10 per cent to 773.6 million tonne in 2023-24 but fell short of its production target of 780 MT for the fiscal year. The company's output was 703.2 MT in the preceding 2022-23 fiscal year.

SIGNIFICANCE OF GETTING ENOUGH SLEEP

Getting enough sleep is necessary for good mental and physical health says DR CHIRAG GUPTA

In today's hectic environment, sleep is frequently taken for granted. People regularly give up sleep due to the continual pressures of job, social commitments, technology, and the desire to remain productive. But getting enough sleep is more than just a luxury—it's necessary for good mental and physical health as well as general well-being.

The body and brain may heal, renew, and reenergise themselves through sleep, which is a natural restorative process. Every night, the body goes through several cycles of sleep, with light, deep, and REM (rapid eye movement) sleep being the stages of each cycle.

The circadian rhythm, the body's internal clock, regulates sleep and is impacted by temperature and light. The body receives the necessary rest thanks to this clock, which indicates when it is time to sleep and wake up. Poor sleep quality and health problems can result from circadian rhythm disruptions, which include inconsistent sleep schedules and exposure to artificial light at night.

The ideal quantity of sleep differs depending on one's age, demands, and lifestyle. The National Sleep Foundation recommends that individuals get between seven and nine hours of sleep every night. Due to their unique developmental demands, teenagers and older adults may need significantly less sleep than infants or older people, but getting good sleep is crucial for everyone. Finding a sleep balance that suits your body is crucial since getting too little or too much sleep can both be harmful to your health.

Getting less sleep than your body requires on a regular basis is known as chronic sleep deprivation, and it can have both short- and long-term consequences for your health and well-being.

Sleep deprivation significantly affects cognitive performance. Lack of sleep impairs concentration, decision-making, problem-solving, and creativity. It also diminishes alertness and reaction time, increasing the risk of accidents and errors.

Sleep is essential for memory consolidation. Without enough sleep, it becomes difficult to retain new information and recall it when needed. Poor sleep can make people more emotionally reactive and less capable of handling stress. Over time, chronic sleep deprivation can contribute to mood disorders such as anxiety and depression. Sleep plays a vital role in maintaining the immune system. When you don't get enough rest, your body becomes more vulnerable to infections and illnesses. Studies have shown that individuals who don't get adequate sleep are more likely to catch colds and recover more slowly.

Long-term sleep deprivation is linked to serious health conditions such as heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, and stroke. Insufficient sleep can also lead to weight gain due to the disruption of hunger-regulating hormones.

“THE IDEAL QUANTITY OF SLEEP DIFFERS DEPENDING ON ONE'S AGE, DEMANDS, AND LIFESTYLE. THE NATIONAL SLEEP FOUNDATION RECOMMENDS THAT INDIVIDUALS GET BETWEEN SEVEN AND NINE HOURS OF SLEEP EVERY NIGHT”

Athletes and physically active individuals need adequate sleep for muscle recovery, energy restoration, and coordination. Lack of sleep diminishes endurance, strength, and reaction time, directly affecting physical performance.

People who sleep too much may be at a higher risk of obesity and heart disease, similar to those who sleep too little. Long sleep durations can result in physical inactivity, contributing to these issues. Paradoxically, sleeping too much can leave you feeling groggy and less energized. This phenomenon, known as sleep inertia, can make it difficult to wake up and start your day.

Tips for achieving better sleep: Go to bed and wake up at the same time every day, even on weekends. Consistency reinforces your body's circadian rhythm, making it easier to fall asleep and wake up naturally. Engage in calming activities before bed, such as reading, meditating, or taking a warm bath. Avoid activities like watching electronic devices, as the blue light emitted by screens can interfere with sleep.

Ensure your bedroom is conducive to sleep by keeping it dark, quiet, and cool. A comfortable mattress and pillows also play a critical role in improving sleep quality. Avoid caffeine, nicotine, and large meals close to bedtime. Physical activity can promote better sleep, but avoid exercising too close to bedtime, as it may energise you and make falling asleep harder. High stress levels can negatively affect sleep. Practice stress-relieving techniques, such as mindfulness, deep breathing, or yoga, to help calm your mind before bed. Sleep is an integral component of health, and achieving the right balance is key to living a productive and healthy life. Whether it's ensuring you get enough sleep or avoiding oversleeping, understanding your body's needs is crucial. By prioritising quality sleep and adopting healthy habits, you can enhance your mental, physical, and emotional well-being, ensuring long-term vitality and success.

The author is the Senior Consultant Neurology in Fortis Hospital, Greater Noida.

EXPLORING THE BENEFITS OF REGENERATIVE MEDICINE: HEALING FROM WITHIN

BY RISHI TANDULWADKAR

In the ever-evolving landscape of healthcare, regenerative medicine stands as a beacon of hope and innovation. Unlike traditional treatments that focus on symptom management, regenerative medicine targets the root cause, restoring function by leveraging the body's innate ability to repair itself. This revolutionary approach not only enhances recovery but also improves overall well-being and quality of life.

THE SCIENCE BEHIND REGENERATIVE MEDICINE

Regenerative medicine encompasses a range of therapies designed to restore and reestablish normal function in diseased or injured tissues. This field integrates multiple disciplines, including biology, chemistry, engineering, and medicine, to develop innovative treatments. The core concept is to harness the body's natural healing processes and amplify them to treat various conditions. Key components of regenerative medicine include:

Stem Cell Therapy: Stem cell therapy involves using undifferentiated cells that have the potential to develop into specialised cell types to repair and regenerate damaged tissues. These cells can be derived from various sources, such as bone marrow, adipose (fat) tissue, or even laboratory-cultured induced pluripotent stem cells (iPSCs). The therapy has shown promise in treating conditions like joint injuries, heart disease, neurological disorders, and diabetes.

Platelet-Rich Plasma (PRP) Therapy: PRP therapy involves concentrating platelets from the patient's blood and injecting them into injured areas. Platelets contain growth factors that promote healing and tissue regeneration. This therapy is commonly used in orthopedics, sports medicine, and dermatology to accelerate recovery and reduce inflammation.

Tissue Engineering: Tissue engineering combines scaffolds (natural or synthetic structures) with cells to create biological substitutes that restore, maintain, or improve tissue function. This technique is used for applications such as skin grafts for burns and other complex reconstructive procedures. Gene Therapy: By altering or correcting defective genes within an individual's cells, gene therapy treats genetic disorders at their source. This approach has shown promise in treating conditions like certain cancers, cystic fibrosis, and muscular dystrophy.

Personalised Medicine: Tailoring regenerative therapies to individual patients, ensuring more precise and effective outcomes based on unique genetic and health profiles. Regenerative medicine represents a paradigm shift in how we approach health and wellness. By harnessing the body's natural healing capabilities, it is possible to address the root causes of various conditions and promote long-term well-being. With its immense potential, regenerative medicine is poised to redefine the future of healthcare, providing solutions that not only alleviate symptoms but cure diseases and repair injuries fundamentally. As research progresses and these therapies become more accessible, we can look forward to a future where the remarkable capabilities of regenerative medicine lead the way to healthier lives.

The author is the Founder of ALIV - Regenerative Wellness

● Wound Healing and Dermatology: Tissue-engineered skin grafts and PRP therapy are being used to enhance wound healing, particularly in chronic wounds, burns, and certain skin conditions.

● Ophthalmology: Regenerative approaches are being explored to treat eye conditions like macular degeneration and corneal injuries, with the potential to restore vision.

● Diabetes (Type 2): Research is underway to regenerate insulin-producing beta cells in the pancreas using stem cell therapy, offering a potential therapeutic solution for managing diabetes.

● Improving Efficacy and Safety: Refining protocols to ensure the consistency and safety of regenerative therapies while minimising risks.

● Expanding Sources of Cells: Investigating alternative sources for therapeutic cells, including induced pluripotent stem cells (iPSCs) derived from adult cells, which can be reprogrammed to an embryonic-like state. Other sources, such as umbilical cord blood and donor-derived stem cells, are also being explored for their regenerative potential.

● Integrating Technology: Leveraging advancements in biotechnology, such as CRISPR for gene editing and 3D bioprinting for tissue engineering, to develop more sophisticated and effective treatments.

● Personalised Medicine: Tailoring regenerative therapies to individual patients, ensuring more precise and effective outcomes based on unique genetic and health profiles.

Regenerative medicine represents a paradigm shift in how we approach health and wellness. By harnessing the body's natural healing capabilities, it is possible to address the root causes of various conditions and promote long-term well-being. With its immense potential, regenerative medicine is poised to redefine the future of healthcare, providing solutions that not only alleviate symptoms but cure diseases and repair injuries fundamentally. As research progresses and these therapies become more accessible, we can look forward to a future where the remarkable capabilities of regenerative medicine lead the way to healthier lives.

Cardiology: Stem cell therapy has the potential to regenerate heart tissue

Orthopaedics and Sports Medicine: Regenerative therapies like stem cell therapy and PRP are used to treat injuries and degenerative conditions such as osteoarthritis. These therapies accelerate healing and reduce inflammation in tendons, ligaments, and joints.

Neurology: Regenerative medicine offers hope for treating neurological conditions, such as Parkinson's disease, stroke, and spinal cord injuries. Stem cells have the potential to replace damaged neural tissues, leading to improvements in mobility and function.

Regenerative medicine is a rapidly growing field, with ongoing research and clinical trials focused on refining its applications. Key areas of focus include:

● Orthopaedics and Sports Medicine: Regenerative therapies like stem cell therapy and PRP are used to treat injuries and degenerative conditions such as osteoarthritis. These therapies accelerate healing and reduce inflammation in tendons, ligaments, and joints.

● Cardiology: Stem cell therapy has the potential to regenerate heart tissue damaged by heart attacks, improving heart function and potentially reducing the need for invasive interventions like heart transplants.

● Neurology: Regenerative medicine offers hope for treating neurological conditions, such as Parkinson's disease, stroke, and spinal cord injuries. Stem cells have the potential to replace damaged neural tissues, leading to improvements in mobility and function.

● Wound Healing and Dermatology: Tissue-engineered skin grafts and PRP therapy are being used to enhance wound healing, particularly in chronic wounds, burns, and certain skin conditions.

● Ophthalmology: Regenerative approaches are being explored to treat eye conditions like macular degeneration and corneal injuries, with the potential to restore vision.

● Diabetes (Type 2): Research is underway to regenerate insulin-producing beta cells in the pancreas using stem cell therapy, offering a potential therapeutic solution for managing diabetes.

● Improving Efficacy and Safety: Refining protocols to ensure the consistency and safety of regenerative therapies while minimising risks.

● Expanding Sources of Cells: Investigating alternative sources for therapeutic cells, including induced pluripotent stem cells (iPSCs) derived from adult cells, which can be reprogrammed to an embryonic-like state. Other sources, such as umbilical cord blood and donor-derived stem cells, are also being explored for their regenerative potential.

● Integrating Technology: Leveraging advancements in biotechnology, such as CRISPR for gene editing and 3D bioprinting for tissue engineering, to develop more sophisticated and effective treatments.

● Personalised Medicine: Tailoring regenerative therapies to individual patients, ensuring more precise and effective outcomes based on unique genetic and health profiles.

“The Vital Relationship Between Nutrition and Mental Health”

BY DR WAJHA MEHTAB

In recent years, the focus on mental health has grown significantly, and for good reason. Mental well-being is vital to living a balanced, fulfilling life. But while therapy and medication are common approaches to treating mental health disorders, one often overlooked factor is nutrition. The food we eat plays a key role in influencing mood, cognitive function, and overall mental well-being.

HOW NUTRITION AFFECTS THE BRAIN

The brain is one of the most metabolically active organs in the body, requiring a constant supply of energy and nutrients to function properly. Nutrients like omega-3 fatty acids, B vitamins, and antioxidants are essential for brain health. These nutrients support neurotransmitter function, protect the brain from oxidative stress, and help regulate mood and cognition. For example, omega-3 fatty acids, found in fish like salmon and walnuts, are critical for maintaining the structural integrity of brain cells. Studies have shown that diets high in omega-3s are associated with lower levels of depression and improved cognitive function. B vitamins, especially B6, B12, and folate, help in the production of neurotransmitters such as serotonin and dopamine, which regulate mood and behavior. A deficiency in these vitamins can lead to irritability, fatigue, and feelings of depression. Foods like leafy greens, beans, and eggs are excellent sources of these essential nutrients.

THE ROLE OF GUT HEALTH

Recent research has highlighted the importance of the gut-brain connection, often referred to as the "gut-brain axis." The gut, often called the "second brain," houses trillions of bacteria that play a significant role in producing neurotransmitters and regulating mood. These bacteria, also known as the gut microbiome, are directly influenced by the food we eat.

A diet high in fiber, probiotics, and prebiotics promotes the growth of healthy gut bacteria, which can positively influence mental health. Fermented foods like yogurt, kefir, and sauerkraut are rich in probiotics, while fiber-rich foods like fruits, vegetables, and whole grains support a healthy gut environment.

On the other hand, a diet high in processed foods, sugar, and unhealthy fats can disrupt the balance of gut bacteria, contributing to inflammation and negatively impacting mental health. In fact, research has shown a link between poor gut health and conditions like anxiety, depression, and even cognitive decline.

SUGAR AND MENTAL HEALTH

One of the most common dietary pitfalls for mental health is the overconsumption of sugar. While sugary foods may provide a quick boost of energy, they are often followed by a crash that can leave individuals feeling fatigued and irritable. These rapid fluctuations in blood sugar can contribute to mood swings and worsen symptoms of anxiety and depression.

Moreover, diets high in added sugars have been linked to inflammation, which is increasingly being recognised as a contributor to mental health disorders. Chronic inflammation in the body can affect brain function and increase the risk of developing depression and other mental health conditions.

THE IMPACT OF NUTRITIONAL DEFICIENCIES ON MENTAL HEALTH

Deficiencies in key nutrients can significantly affect mental well-being. Low levels of vitamin D, for instance, have been linked to depression and seasonal affective disorder (SAD). This vitamin, commonly referred to as the "sunshine vitamin," plays an important role in regulating mood. Spending time in the sun and consuming foods like fatty fish, egg yolks, and fortified dairy products can help maintain adequate vitamin D levels.

Iron deficiency, often associated with anemia, can lead to feelings of fatigue, difficulty concentrating, and even depression. Foods like organ meats, nuts, oilseeds, leafy vegetables, oatmeal, and legumes are excellent sources of iron. Magnesium, another critical nutrient, is involved in stress regulation and mood stabilisation. Low magnesium levels have been linked to anxiety and depression. Nuts, seeds, and dark leafy greens are rich in this mineral.

FOODS THAT BOOST MENTAL HEALTH

There are several foods known to support brain health and enhance mood. Some of these include:

- Fatty fish: Rich in omega-3 fatty acids, which support cognitive function and mood regulation.
- Dark chocolate: Contains antioxidants and compounds that stimulate the release of serotonin, improving mood.
- Leafy greens: Packed with B vitamins that help in neurotransmitter production and brain function.
- Berries: Full of antioxidants that protect the brain from oxidative stress and improve cognitive function.
- Nuts and seeds: Provide healthy fats, magnesium, and B vitamins that support mental well-being.
- Fermented foods: Rich in probiotics, which help maintain a healthy gut and improve mood.

In conclusion, mental health and nutrition are inextricably linked. The food choices we make can have a profound impact on our mood, brain function, and mental resilience. As awareness grows, it is clear that a well-balanced diet is an important part of any mental health care plan, complementing therapy, exercise, and other treatment methods. Prioritising good nutrition is an investment in both physical and mental health, helping individuals lead more balanced, healthy, and happy lives.

After Paris high, India look to continue momentum at home

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The absence of the Paris Olympic medallists notwithstanding, hosts India will not be short on firepower when they compete in the season-ending World Cup Final, starting here from Tuesday, with Rhythm Sangwan headlining a 23-member squad.

The Paris Olympics medallists automatically qualify for the tournament, but Manu Bhaker, Sarabjot Singh and Swapnil Kusale, who won the bronze, have opted to skip the event to be staged at the Dr. Karni Singh Range.

Besides Rhythm, rising stars such as Ganemat Sekhon (women's skeet) and Sonam Maskar (women's 10m air rifle) will look to excel in the tournament, having earned their spots based on world rankings.

The Indian squad features nine athletes from the 2024 Paris Olympics, including Arjun Babuta (men's 10m air rifle), Anish Bhanwala (men's 25m rapid fire pistol).

Rhythm will compete in both the women's 10m air pistol and 25m pistol events.

The other Olympians in the squad include Mairaj Ahmad Khan (men's skeet), Divyansh Singh Panwar (men's 10m air rifle), and Chain Singh (men's 50m rifle 3 positions). Also ready to shoot in the World Cup Final are Arjun Singh Cheema (men's 10m air pistol), Vijayveer Sidhu (men's 25m rapid fire pistol), Anantjeet Singh Narukha (men's skeet), Maheshwari Chauhan (women's skeet), Rajeshwari Kumari (women's trap) and Shreyasi Singh (women's trap).

All these shooters competed in the Paris Games. There are four finals lined up on each of the three competition days in this traditional ISSF season-ending showdown between the best in the world. Due to host country norms, a minimum of two Indian shooters will be in action in each of the 12 individual Olympic events on the roster.

Action begins on Tuesday with the 10m air rifle women being the first final on the schedule, followed by the men's final.

The 10m air pistol men and women's finals are also lined up on day one. All the finals will be preceded by qualification rounds.

131 of the world's top shooters from 37 countries including multiple reigning Olympic champions participate in the competition which will determine the year's best performers in each of the 12 individual Olympic events. The world's top six athletes of the combined six ISSF World Cup stages held throughout year, along with Paris Olympic medallists, defending ISSF World Cup Final champions and reigning world champions have achieved direct qualification in each of the 12 events. Three events men's 10m air pistol, men's trap and women's 25m pistol will see all three Paris Olympic medallists compete for the top prize of 5000 euros.

All reigning champions from the previous year in Doha will also be there to defend their titles.

President of the International Shooting Sport Federation (ISSF), Luciano Rossi, who is in the capital to attend the tournament, hailed India's role in the growth of the sport.

"We're excited to be in India for the ISSF World Cup Final, one of the most dedicated shooting sport nations in the world," said Rossi.

"After a successful season for our athletes and a wonderful Olympic Games in Paris, this is the perfect opportunity for all to finish the season on a high," he added.

National Rifle Association of India's (NRAI) secretary general K Sultan Singh said, "Shooting sport has been witnessing huge rise in popularity and passion amongst the youth, women and specially abled athletes in the country which can be gauged by the laurels which has been achieved at the Olympics, Paralympics and continental championships."

"We wish all the participants the very best and immensely thank the ISSF and the government of India for all their support in hosting and organising the ISSF World Cup Final in New Delhi."

Historic women's doubles bronze at Asian TT Championships

India clinches three medals

PTI ■ ASTANA (KAZAKHSTAN)

India wrapped up their campaign at the Asian Table Tennis Championships with three medals, including a historic bronze in the women's doubles, after Ayhika Mukherjee and Sutirtha Mukherjee's dream run ended in the semifinals here on Sunday.

The world No. 15 pair, who stunned the reigning world champions from China en route to a bronze at the Asian Games last year, fell to Japan's Miwa Harimoto and Miyuu Kihara, 4-11 9-11 8-11 in under 30 minutes in their last-four clash.

Prior to that, the Indian duo had defeated South Korea's Kim Nayeong and Lee Eunhye in the quarterfinals to secure India's first-ever women's doubles medal at the Asian meet.

The Indian women's team had earlier clinched a historic bronze in the team event.

The trio of Manika Batra, Ayhika Mukherjee, and Sutirtha Mukherjee secured the country's first-ever medal in the women's team category since the competition began in 1972, though they eventually lost 1-3 to Japan in the semifinals.

In the men's category, India secured another bronze, their third straight in the tournament, after the team of Achanta Sharath Kamal, Manav Thakkar, and Harmeet Desai fell 0-3 to Chinese Taipei in the semifinals.

In men's singles, Manav Thakkar and Manush Shah bowed out in the pre-quarterfinals.

World No. 60 Thakkar, who had earlier shocked world No. 14 Jang Wooin of South Korea, was defeated by Hong Kong's Baldwin Chan, 4-11 4-11 8-11. Meanwhile, Manush put up a tough fight against Lin Yun-Ju of Chinese Taipei and took two games before narrowly losing 8-11 5-11 11-7 11-6 12-14.

We could have scored more: Farukh Choudhary

PTI ■ NAM DINH (VIETNAM)

Returning to action after three years, midfielder Farukh Choudhary feels they could have scored another goal as India had to settle for a 1-1 draw against hosts Vietnam in an international friendly here.

Manolo Marquez's selection of Farukh had raised eyebrows but the midfielder, who was sidelined for three years, struck a second-half goal to level things for India after Vi Hao Bui had given the hosts a 38th minute lead.

"Personally, I feel great. I've not been a part of the national team for a long time, but this is where I wanted to be. I worked hard at my clubs and I knew in my heart that I deserved to be here," Farukh said.

The last time Farukh turned out for India, he created an assist against Nepal, in October 2021, in a 1-0 victory in Male. But an unfortunate knee injury meant that he had to start from square one on his way back to the national team.

"I'm glad that I could make a difference for the team, but I feel that we could have scored another," he said.

"But everyone played well together as a team. Gurpreet (Singh Saandhu) and Anwar (Ali) also had exceptional games in defence, which is why we got this score."

In what was a game of two halves, India heaved an almighty effort for most parts of the second half, and perhaps were a bit disappointed that they could not find the winning goal. However, the head coach remains positive about his side's display as his search of a first win in charge of India continues.

"In the first half, it was practically all Vietnam. Then we discussed at half time how we have enough quality to play, and finally, we started executing our plans in the second," said Marquez.

"Sure, Vietnam could have scored in the last minutes when we were tired, but we could have scored too with our last chance. But overall, I am satisfied with this. It was a friendly game, after all."

Djokovic, Sinner reach Shanghai Masters final, Sabalenka rallies over Gauff at Wuhan

AP ■ SHANGHAI

Novak Djokovic overcame physical discomfort to beat Taylor Fritz 6-4 7-6 (6) and move closer to a 100th career title and a record-extending fifth at the Shanghai Masters. By also reaching the final on Saturday night, top-ranked Jannik Sinner ensured he will be the ATP year-end No. 1 and the first Italian to achieve that feat. ("I've won many titles, had great battles and great performances," the 37-year-old Djokovic said. "I did come here definitely with a vision and a desire to get to the final and fight for a 100th title. I get that chance against the best player in the world, and let's see what happens." Fellow great Roger Federer has 103 titles and Jimmy Connors leads men with 109 in the Open era.

Djokovic leads 4-3 overall against Sinner, who has won the last two - including in the Australian Open semifinals. Earlier, Sinner weathered a nearly two-hour baseline storm from No. 33-ranked Machac, who beat No. 2 Carlos Alcaraz in the quarterfinals. The Italian has a shot at his third Masters title in 2024 following victories in Miami and Cincinnati, to go with his second-set tiebreaker and a set point at 6-5 up.

Djokovic was clearly struggling for mobility and balance with his left knee heavily strapped. "It always takes it out of me, these kinds of battles, but particularly towards the end of the tournament," Djokovic said. "At this stage of my career, I'm doing my best to recover and I had some issues here and there on the court, physically."

But US Open runner-up Fritz could not take advantage. He lost a long rally at 6-6 and succumbed on the first match point when Djokovic stabbed a volley at the net and the American flicked it just long at full stretch.

Djokovic leads 4-3 overall against Sinner, who has won the last two - including in the Australian Open semifinals. Earlier, Sinner weathered a nearly two-hour baseline storm from No. 33-ranked Machac, who beat No. 2 Carlos Alcaraz in the quarterfinals. The Italian has a shot at his third Masters title in 2024 following victories in Miami and Cincinnati, to go with his wins at the Australian Open and U.S. Open.

"I just tried to stay there every point, to see what was going to happen," Sinner said.

"Just playing every point with the maximum intensity I could, so I'm very happy about that. I'm happy to be back in a final again."

"I'm just looking forward to (the final), to try to find a solution somehow ... And hopefully it's going to win the match." Sinner fired 10 aces and 28 winners, against only seven unforced errors, in a characteristically efficient performance for his 64th match win this year.

WUHAN OPEN: Second-ranked Aryna Sabalenka rallied from a slow start to beat an in-form Coco Gauff 1-6 6-4 6-4 in the semifinals to advance to her third straight Wuhan final and preserve her perfect record at the tournament.

Sabalenka will face seventh-ranked Zheng Qinwen in the final. The Paris Olympics champion beat No. 51-ranked Wang Xinyu 6-3 6-4. Sabalenka will be bidding for her fourth title of the season, which includes the Australian Open and US Open.

The Belarusian's 16th straight victory at Wuhan ended Gauff's own recent win streak at nine, including the China Open title last week. But it looked anything but certain for Sabalenka as she crashed 6-1 in the opening set.

"In the first set she was just crushing it," Sabalenka said.

"Whatever she was doing, everything was flying in. Everything was so aggressive. I didn't have much opportunities."

In a fight between the last two US Open champions, Gauff led by a break early in the second but Sabalenka responded to pull level at 4-4 and saved a break point on serve to take a 5-4 lead.

Serving to stay in the set, Gauff was broken as Sabalenka hit a lunging forehand volley to force a deciding set.

Ronaldo scores again in Nations League win for Perfect Portugal

AP ■ BARCELONA

Cristiano Ronaldo scored his record-extending 133rd international goal to keep Portugal perfect in the Nations League with a 3-1 win over Poland, and Spain struck late to edge Denmark 1-0.

The 39-year-old superstar was there to put in the rebound after Rafael Leão's shot hit the post in the 37th minute on Saturday. That made it 2-0 following Bernardo Silva's opener in Warsaw in the 26th. After failing to find the net in his five appearances at this summer's European Championship - with Portugal exiting in the quarterfinals - Ronaldo has scored in three straight Nations League matches, including in wins over Croatia - his 900th career goal - and Scotland last month.

Portugal coach Roberto

Martinez replaced Ronaldo with Diogo Jota with just under half an hour to play. Midfielder Piotr Zielinski halved the deficit in the 78th for the hosts, only for Southampton defender Jan Bednarek to score an own-goal with two minutes left.

Barcelona striker Robert Lewandowski started alongside Karol Swiderski but the Polish attacking pair couldn't find their way past the Portuguese defense.

"We worked very hard the last few days, preparing various solutions for this game, and we were able to show it on the pitch. I am really satisfied because we controlled this game," Martinez said.

"Also, I am satisfied how Renato Veiga and Ruben Dias performed against one of the best in the world (in Lewandowski)."

Portugal leads Group A1 with nine points from three games. Second-place Croatia has six points after it came back to beat Scotland 2-1 in Zagreb with the visitors having an equalizer deep into second-half stoppage time ruled out by VAR. Poland has three points, and Scotland zero.

Scotland's Ryan Christie opened for the Scots and their under-fire manager Steve Clarke in the 33rd. Igor Matanovic leveled three minutes later and Andrej Kramaric completed the fightback in the 70th.

Scotland had the ball in the net right at the end with substitute Che Adams involved but VAR confirmed it was offside.

Zubimendi shines in Rodri's spot

Martin Zubimendi helped Spain crack Denmark's defense as the holding midfielder starred in place of injured Rodri.

The Real Sociedad player unleashed a powerful volley in the 79th to smash a rebound from outside the area past Kasper Schmeichel, who got his hand on the ball but couldn't keep it out.

Zubimendi had impressed in the final of Euro 2024 when he replaced Rodri for the second half of Spain's 2-1 win over England.

Rodri seriously injured his right knee and required surgery on his ACL while playing for Manchester City last month.

"Martin is a treasure," Spain coach Luis de la Fuente said. "I suppose with his goal he will get more attention, but his play, the fact that he's got a computer in his brain, means we are privileged to have him at a time when Rodri will be out for a while."

Spain was also missing Nico

Williams and Dani Olmo, two more players who excelled at the Euros, who are sidelined with minor injuries.

Spain, the defending Nations League champion, has seven points in Group A4 after three games. Denmark has six points, and Serbia has four after beating the pointless Switzerland 2-0.

The Swiss didn't help their cause with an own-goal by Nico Elvedi right before the interval.

Aleksandar Mitrovic doubled the lead for Serbia with a solo effort in the 61st, and Serbia goalkeeper Predrag Rajkovic saved a penalty taken by Brel Embolo.

Wins for Kosovo, Romania

Kosovo won 2-1 at Lithuania in League C, while Romania thumped Cyprus 3-0, Northern Ireland drew 0-0 at Belarus, and Bulgaria was held 0-0 at home by Luxembourg.

Although every possible care and caution has been taken to avoid errors or omissions, this publication is being sold on the condition and understanding that information given in this publication is merely for reference and must not be taken as having authority of or binding in any way on the writers, editors, publishers, and printers and sellers who do not owe any responsibility for any damage or loss to any person, a purchaser of this publication or not for the result of any action taken on the basis of this work. All disputes are subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of competent court and forums in Lucknow only. Readers are advised and requested to verify and seek appropriate advice to satisfy themselves about the veracity of any kind of advertisement before responding to any contents published in this newspaper. The printer, publisher, editor and any employee of the Pioneer Group's will not be held responsible for any kind of claim made by the advertisers of the products & services and shall not be made responsible for any kind of loss, consequences and further product-related damages on such advertisements.