BJP, Congress battle over USAID

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

At the backdrop of BJP and Congress engaged in a fierce battle of words over certain revelations about USAID funding for certain activities in the country, the Ministry of External Affairs on Friday said they are "deeply troubling" and have led to concerns about foreign interference in its internal affairs.

BJP sharpened its attack on the Congress on the USAID funding issue and called Rahul Gandhi a "traitor", accusing him of colluding with foreign forces in his bid to weaken India as it dismissed as "cover up" media reports that claimed USD 21 million was sanctioned in 2022 for Bangladesh, not India.

Congress on their part, following reports that an amount of USD 21 million approved by the USAID was meant for Bangladesh and not India, the party demanded an apology from the BJP alleging that the ruling party's narrative was aimed at diverting attention from its own use of foreign funds to destabilise past governments led by the grand old party. Congress also reiterated its demand from the government for a white paper on the USAID funding as well as funding by other such agencies in India.

Since the Trump administration's Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE) announced on February 16 that it had "cancelled", among a string of projects, the USAID funding of "USD 21 million for voter turnout in India", the ruling BJP has accused the Congress of using external influence in India's election process.

In a speech in Miami on Wednesday, US President Donald Trump said: "Why do we need to spend USD 21 million for voter turnout in India? Wow, USD 21 million! I guess they were trying to get somebody else elected."

Vice President Jagdeep Dhankhar too expressed concern over the alleged USAID funding for raising voter turnout in India, saying people who allowed such an attack on the country's democratic values should be exposed. He also said that it was the "national duty" of people to strike at such forces.

Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said relevant departments and authorities are looking into the information put out by the United States administration regarding certain US activities and funding. "We have seen information that has been put out by the US administration regarding certain US activities and funding. These are obviously very deeply troubling," Jaiswal said.

"This has led to concerns about foreign interference in India's internal affairs. Relevant departments and agencies are looking into this matter. It would be premature to make a public comment at this stage, so relevant authorities are looking into it and hopefully, we can come up with an update on that subsequently," Jaiswal said.

Addressing a Press conference at the BJP headquarters, party national spokesperson Gaurav Bhatia claimed the USAID funding came to India to meddle with internal politics and disrupt electoral process in India.

"More than USD 2000 million funding came to the government in India from 2004-13 during the erstwhile Congress led UPA rule. And, just USD 1.5 million came during Modi ji's term. It's because they know that Narendra Modi will not sell India and India's interests to any foreign power," he said.

A larger share of the USAID fund came into India during the UPA regime because the Congress can broker the country's sovereignty and its interests, Bhatia alleged.

"While funding for the government (in India) stopped, there was an increase in funding for the NGOs during Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra to strengthen Rahul Gandhi ahead of the polls in an attempt to defeat Narendra Modi (in the Lok Sabha elections)," he claimed.

Congress general secretary in-charge communications Jai Ram Ramesh said, "Lies first mouthed in Washington. Lies then amplified by BJP's Jhoot Sena. Lies made to be debated on Godi media." "Lies now thoroughly exposed. Will the liars apologise?" he asked in a social media post.

Addressing a press conference Congress's media and publicity department head Pawan Khara alleged that the entire "USD-21 million USAID funds narrative" perpetrated by the BJP, Modi government's ministers, its economic advisor, the party's IT department head, the RSS-BJP ecosystem and a section of the "BJP-friendly media" was done to divert attention from their "own sins" of using foreign funds to destabilise Congress governments of the past.

New Delhi Assembly to begin with CAG reports

RAJESH KUMAR ■ NEW DELHI

The newly constituted BJP led Delhi Assembly is set to begin its first session on Monday. The session will be held on February 24, 25, and 27, with 14 pending Comptroller and Auditor General of India (CAG) reports on the previous Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government's performance will be tabled. According to Rohini MLA Vijendra Gupta, 14 pending CAG reports will be tabled on February 25. This comes after newly sworn-in Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta announced on Thursday, that 14 pending reports from the CAG, allegedly withheld by the previous AAP government, will be tabled in the first session under the new BJP-led administration.

"In the first cabinet meeting, it was decided to hold a three-day Assembly session on 24th, 25th and 27th February. First of all, a pro-tem Speaker will be appointed by the LG.

President Droupadi Murmu with Delhi CM Rekha Gupta during a meeting at Rashtrapati Bhavan PTI

He (pro-tem Speaker) will chair the House and on all 70 members will take oath (as MLAs) in the Assembly. Senior leader Arvinder Singh Lovely would be the Pro-tem Speaker of the House. Pro-tem Speaker is a temporary Speaker who conducts House proceedings for a limited period and till the election of the full-time Speaker. After that Speaker and Deputy Speaker will be elected. The first agenda after this is CAG report. The report has already been received by the Speaker's office. So, the first agenda is to table the CAG report and hold discussion on it after the election of Speaker and Deputy Speaker," Gupta said.

Gupta said the newly elected MLAs will take the oath on February 24-25. During AAP's rule in Delhi, the BJP had approached the court to direct the government to table the CAG reports. BJP accused the AAP government of stalling the report to hide its "corruption".

Life's aim to bring Cong to power: Bhakta

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Paradesh Congress Committee (PCC) president Bhakta Charan Das on Friday during the party's Sankalp Padayatra to Puri said the support of Congress members and supporters on the way has boosted the morale of the party.

The blessings of Lor Jagannath are with the Congress. But it is the first priority of the party to go to the people and win their confidence. During the Padayatra, the moral support of the party's senior leaders has encouraged the entire party.

Former PCC president Niranjan Patnaik and Jayadev Jena joined in the march and helped in interacting with the people. Sonia Gandhvi and Rahul Gandhi have given responsibility to AICC's Ajay Kumar Lullu to strengthen the party in Odisha.

Das said it is his life's aim to bring the Congress to power in the State and he prayed to Lord Jagannath regarding this. But he has no intentions of become Chief Minister. He has taken a vow before the Lords to serve the people of the State. Lord Jagananth's blessings and people's faith would strengthen the party in the State.

Opposition walks out of Assembly over KIIT issue

Express dissatisfaction over minister's response

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Opposition BJD and Congress members staged a noisy walkout in the Odisha Assembly on Friday voicing their dissatisfaction over Higher Education Minister Suryabanshi Suraj's response regarding the unrest at the KIIT University following the suicide of a Nepali girl student.

Earlier, while participating in an adjournment motion debate on the issue, they had demanded a judicial inquiry into the matter, but the government did not respond to their plea. The minister stated that law would take its course and that anyone found guilty would be punished.

During an adjournment motion moved by Congress members, Minister Suraj explained that tensions escalated at KIIT following the girl's suicide, and on February 17, the university administration declared a sine die for Nepalese students, instructing them to vacate the campus. These students were later escorted to railway stations in Bhubaneswar and Cuttack.

Nepali student death KIIT officials appear before govt panel

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

An eight-member team from the KIIT University appeared before a high-level committee of the Odisha Government on Friday in connection with the death of a Nepali student in the campus.

The committee, headed by Additional Chief Secretary, Home, Satyabrata Sahoo, recorded statements from the university representatives, including its founder, Dr Achyuta Samanta.

The minister stated that the government had intervened quickly, directing the KIIT University to revoke the sine die order. Additionally, a high-level three-member fact-finding committee was formed, including the Additional Chief Secretary (Home), the Principal Secretary of the Women and Child Development Department and the Director of Higher Education.

Suraj said that both the Chief Minister and the Central Government have taken the incident seriously with the Central Government maintaining constant communication with the State. The Nepalese Embassy also sent two officials to meet with Nepali students on February 18.

To support affected students, the government set up a 24X7 helpline and encouraged students who had left the campus to return and continue their studies. Remedial classes would be held for these students, and the mid-semester exams at KIIT would be postponed. The Odisha Government would also cover the travel expenses for students returning to the campus, Suraj said.

BJD and Congress members said the KIIT incident has tarnished Odisha's and India's reputation internationally. They called for strict action against KIIT officials, including criminal charges for assaulting Nepali students.

Both parties demanded a judicial inquiry and voiced dissatisfaction over the government's handling of the situation.

BJD and Congress members expressed their dissatisfaction over the minister's response and staged a walkout.

Mission Shakti to be renamed 'Subhadra Shakti'!

NALINI SAHU ■ BHUBANESWAR

In a significant development for women's empowerment in Odisha, the State Government is considering renaming its flagship Mission Shakti initiative as 'Subhadra Shakti'.

Deputy Chief Minister Pravatī Parida hinted at the potential rebranding during a recent interaction, sparking widespread speculation. The anticipated change aligns with the launch of the 'Subhadra Shakti Mela', scheduled to commence on Saturday evening in Bhubaneswar. This event will bring together women from self-help groups (SHGs) across the State, showcasing their creativity and entrepreneurial spirit.

The Subhadra Shakti Mela, to be inaugurated by Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi at the Janata Maidan, will run until March 2. It aims to spotlight the exceptional skills and craftsmanship of SHG women, featuring over 300 stalls with diverse products ranging from traditional handicrafts, terracotta and bamboo crafts to hand-woven textiles, organic foods, spices, sweets and millet-based delicacies.

With participation from approximately 700 women entrepreneurs, the event represents a powerful platform for economic empowerment and aims to foster financial independence among women, potentially earning them the title of 'Lakshpati Didi' (a term symbolising financial self-sufficiency).

Deputy CM Parida emphasised, "This initiative charts a new path towards women's financial independence in line with our vision for a Bikashita Odisha and a Viksit Bharat."

She further highlighted the symbolic significance of the name change, linking it to the legendary character Subhadra, representing strength and empowerment.

Urban transformation Govt to expand urban planning scheme to 3 new cities

Puri-Konark, Cuttack, Brahmapur to benefit

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR
The State Government would expand its urban planning scheme to three additional cities, aiming to emulate the transformative development witnessed in the capital city of Bhubaneswar. The government has announced the extension of its successful Town Planning (TP) scheme to the cities of Puri-Konark, Cuttack and Brahmapur.

This decision was finalised in a meeting presided over by Housing and Urban Development Minister Krushna Chandra Mohapatra on Friday.

The 'Triple City' initiative aims to enhance land management and develop essential infrastructure across the holy city of Puri, the historical town of Konark, the industrial hub of Cuttack, and the silk city Brahmapur. As part of the scheme, 40% of land from common people in these cities will be acquired for building roads, drainage systems, electricity networks, markets and parks, with landowners retaining the remaining 60%.

The minister called for prompt execution of the revised scheme, stressing the importance of safeguarding residents against exploitation by intermediaries. He advised government officials and relevant stakeholders to be vigilant in ensuring fair and transparent processes.

The expansion is expected to bring about significant improvements in urban planning and infrastructure. The minister said, "We are committed to implementing this scheme effectively and ensuring that the benefits reach the rightful owners without any undue influence."

"I had invited development authorities of PKDA (Puri Konark), Berhampur, Cuttack, and Bhubaneswar. Our government wants as much development as possible in these cities. Usually, people who have houses close to the main road are the beneficiaries while those have houses a bit interior face lot of problems due to lack of space, road and connectivity. So, we are planning to take 40% of their lands and build all the facilities including drainage, sewerage, light system and proper road," he added.

'Take action against KIIT authorities'

Demands Youth Cong, meets DCP

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR
The KIIT University authorities did not listen to the repeated pleadings of a girl student, for which she died by suicide. If the university's founder Achyuta Samanta and Vice-Chancellor and Registrar had taken the right decision in time, the victim's life would have been saved, the Congress said on Friday.

After the Nepal girl student's death, the university students protested, which is a normal thing. But the university authorities, instead of pacifying them, threatened and assaulted them, which the Youth Congress strongly objects, said Pradesh Youth Congress president Ranjit Patra, who lead a delegation which met the city DCP. The delegation demanded arrest of the KIIT founder, Vice-Chancellor and Registrar and submitted a memorandum to the DCP. They said without the founder Achyuta Samanta's direction, nothing is done in the university. Due to assault on the Nepal students, the relations between India and Nepal were adversely affected. Besides, the women staff members who made caustic remarks about Nepal's economy also should be arrested, the Youth Cong demanded.

Drones used to curb liquor smuggling

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR
The State Excise Department has deployed drones to curb liquor smuggling, identifying illicit units in dense forests.

This advanced method, as a pilot project, was recently introduced in the reserve forests near Saraswatipur under Athagarh block in Cuttack district.

Drone footage enabled the department to locate numerous liquor production sites nestled within these protected reserve forest areas. The initiative marks a breakthrough in addressing the challenges posed by liquor mafias who often take advantage of the inaccessible and dense forests for their illicit activities.

In a collaborative move involving the Cuttack Flying Squad and local Excise Department officials, the authorities seized 5,355 litres of fermented brew and 595 litres of country liquor on Friday. Despite the significant haul, there have been no arrests made as of yet. The country liquor makers gave the excise officials a slip during the raid.

The government has intensified its efforts to combat illegal liquor trade, implementing a zero-tolerance policy against illicit alcohol. Excise Minister Prithviraj Harichandan has announced stringent measures to curb illegal liquor sales and ensure public safety.

Bhubaneswar to be IT hub like Hyderabad

Rs 408 crore allocated

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR
The Odisha Government has allocated Rs 408 crore to transform Bhubaneswar into an IT hub akin to Hyderabad. A new satellite city spanning 322 hectares is planned, alongside a Rs 1,100-crore investment in urban corridors.

The ambitious plan aims construction of a new Bhubaneswar Metro system. This metropolitan expansion will also include a new ring road to streamline the traffic flow.

Further enhancing this vision, the government also plans to transform 15 cities into five tri-city clusters.

A strategic initiative is underway to develop a new satellite city within Bhubaneswar. Spanning 322 hectares, the project is expected to bolster the region's infrastructure across multiple sectors with a particular focus on IT like in the Hyderabad model.

This move is anticipated to attract significant investments and foster a plethora of employment opportunities.

Besides, the government is also prioritising an expeditious completion of the Bhubaneswar Metro system. This metropolitan expansion will also include a new ring road to streamline the traffic flow.

Additionally, with a budget allocation of Rs 1,100 crore, this initiative aims to transform several city regions into economic powerhouses. The plan includes enhancement of five urban corridors:

Bhubaneswar-Cuttack-Puri, Sambalpur-Jharsuguda-Baragarh, Jeypore-Sunabeda-Koraput, Chhatrapur-Brahmapur-Gopalpur and Keonjhar-Badbil-Joda. These regions are envisioned as future economic hubs, critical to boosting local economies and infrastructure.

Under the scheme, the government will focus on the development of creation centres and tourism circuits. There will also be significant advancements in logistics, higher education facilities and medical services.

Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi said, "We are planning to construct a new city within Bhubaneswar and land for the purpose has already been identified. Our plan is to transform Bhubaneswar in the parallels of Hyderabad.

Now, ring roads are also currently in works to avoid traffic congestion. This development is expected to boost local employment opportunities and promote infrastructural advancements."

"This apart, we will transform Bhubaneswar-Cuttack-Puri into an economic hub," he added.

Housing and Urban Development Minister Krushna Chandra Mohapatra said, "We have signed an MoU for Rs 8 crore to prevent flooding, entry of flood waters to residences and houses and drainage problems in Bhubaneswar."

"Other new towns will be planned with all basic facilities including parks, sewerage and proper road facilities," he added.

KIIT row Delegation demands safety of Nepal students

Meets city police chief

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Some representatives of the Nepali community on Friday met the Commissioner of Police here and demanded stringent action against those involved in the death of Prakriti Lamsal at the KIIT University and also ensuring safety of Nepal students in the city.

In a memorandum, they stated, "We are demanding an impartial probe into the death of the girl student Prakriti Lamsal. We are also demanding creation of a safe environment for the other Nepalese students who were ill-treated at the university." The representatives also expressed concerns, drawing attention to the sense of vulnerability prevalent within the Nepal student community. The delegation called for immediate and effective interventions from local authorities to address these issues.

"The way the students were driven out of KIIT, the authorities should ensure measures for their safe return. There have been attacks on students in the past. Now, the incident has caught global attention. We have discussed various issues with senior officials of Commissionerate police today," a member of the delegation said.

Govt strives for UNESCO tag for Bali Yatra

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR
The Odisha Government is striving for global recognition of the historic Bali Yatra festival held annually in Cuttack.

While replying to a question by MLA Debi Ranjan Tripathy in the State Assembly on Friday, Culture Minister Suryabanshi Suraj clarified that there is no current mechanism for national recognition of Bali Yatra as such status is conferred by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO).

"There is no provision for according national status tag. UNESCO only grants recognition for intangible heritage as far as fairs and festivals are concerned. Be it Bali Yatra or Dhanu Yatra, we are trying to ensure that they get included in the UNESCO recognition and heritage map. Provision for funds has also been made in the budget as well," said Suraj.

In pursuit of international recognition, the Odisha Government is working closely with UNESCO and has established an experts' team to maintain a consistent dialogue. The minister said, "We are hopeful that UNESCO's recognition will be realised soon." The Bali Yatra witnessed a record turnout this year. A total of 2,438 stalls were established.

Recently, the Central Government accorded 'National Fair' tag to the Bali Yatra.

XIM media conclave 'Communiqué 2025' held

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR
The XIM University (New Campus), in collaboration with IlluminatiX - the media and PR cell of XIM University, hosted 'Communiqué 2025', its prestigious annual media conclave.

Held on February 15, the event served as a vibrant platform for knowledge-sharing and critical discussions on the rapidly evolving media landscape.

The theme for Communiqué 2025, "Verified vs Viral: Surviving the Trends of Media", sparked insightful debates on the complex intersection of media credibility, sensationalism, and the pursuit of truth in an era of rapid information consumption.

The conclave provided students, professionals, and media enthusiasts with valuable perspectives on responsible media practices and the challenges posed by misinformation.

The event featured an engaging panel discussion with distinguished thought leaders and experts from the media and tech industry, including Dr Himanshu Talwar, noted media strategist and thought leader. Dr Sanjay Arora, academic and industry expert, Aakash Mishra veteran journalist and Pratyush Ranjan, senior editor and media analyst. The discussions delved into the importance of ethical journalism, the impact of digital media on public perception, and strategies to combat misinformation.

Key rail infra projects sanctioned for S Odisha

RAJEEV RATHAN ■ BRAHMAPUR
In a move to transform south Odisha's connectivity and economic prospects, the Ministry of Railways sanctioned several railway infrastructure projects on Friday.

Among the major projects is the doubling of the Naupada-Gunupur-Theruvalli New Line alongside the 250-km-long Gopalpur-Rayagada New Rail Line. Rs 9.65 crore has been sanctioned for the Final Location Survey (FLS) for the two projects. The Rs 1,326-crore Gunupur-Theruvalli New Line (73.62 km) will link Gunupur and Theruvalli in Rayagada district. The project is set to be completed in five years with a land acquisition of 473.78 hectares.

The Gopalpur-Rayagada New Rail Line and Gunupur-Theruvalli Rail Line projects will bring immense economic benefits by improving transportation efficiency and reducing logistical costs in the southern part of the state.

Development of seven new stations in the Gunupur-Theruvalli New Rail Line Project will improve access to key areas, including the aspirational Rayagada district. The Gunupur-Theruvalli New Rail Line Project is an essential part of the Energy, Mineral and Cement Corridors under Indian Railways.

The proposed railway lines in southern Odisha are crucial for supporting the transportation of key materials to industries in the region. By enhancing connectivity, the project will drive industrial growth, reduce logistics costs, and enable quicker and more efficient transportation of vital goods.

The Gopalpur-Rayagada New Rail Line and Gunupur-Theruvalli Rail Line projects are set to usher in a new era of economic development, significantly improving the quality of life in the region.

Mother Language Day

Odia language: Legacy of struggle, identity, pride

RAJEEV RATHAN ■ BRAHMAPUR
As the world observes the International Mother Language Day on February 21, it is a moment of reflection on the rich legacy of Odia, a language that has shaped the identity and cultural consciousness of millions.

Recognised as one of the six classical languages of India, Odia has played a decisive role in the linguistic and political history of the country. Odisha holds the unique distinction of being the first State in India to be formed on the basis of language, marking a significant milestone in the nation's linguistic reorganization.

Brahmapur played a historic role in the fight for the recognition of Odia as a distinct language. The Utkal Ashram, established in 1903, was the first epicenter of the Odia language movement. Under the leadership of Krishna Chandra Panigrahi, the ashram became a hub for intellectuals, writers and activists who campaigned for Odia's preservation.

During the British rule, Bengali, Hindi and Telugu were being imposed in different parts of Odisha, leading to concerns that Odia might be erased. Utkal Ashram spearheaded protests, debates, and literary movements that demanded the reinstatement of Odia in administration and education. The influence of the institution later spread to Paralakhemundi, Cuttack, Puri and Sambalpur, strengthening the call for a separate Odia-speaking State.

Before Odisha became a separate province in 1936, Odia-speaking regions were fragmented under the control of different administrative units such as Bengal Presidency, Central Provinces and Madras Presidency. This led to the marginalization of Odia language and culture, as Bengali and Telugu were being imposed in various regions.

A major struggle for Odia language recognition took place in southern Odisha, particularly in Paralakhemundi, Brahmapur and Koraput, which were then part of the Madras Presidency. Despite the dominance of Telugu and Tamil in administration and education, the people of these regions fought persistently to be reunited with Odisha, citing their linguistic and cultural identity. The movement was instrumental in the eventual merger of southern Odisha into the State when it was carved out from Madras in 1936.

Paralakhemundi, under the rule of the Gajapati kings, played a crucial role in the Odia language movement. Maharaja Krushna Chandra Gajapati, a key figure in Odisha's formation, strongly advocated for the recognition of Odia as the administrative language in Odia-speaking areas. Likewise, Brahmapur, with its intellectual and literary contributions, remained a major center for the linguistic struggle.

Odisha was officially declared a separate province on April 1, 1936. The province also had the rare distinction of having a Prime Minister (equivalent to today's Chief Minister) in 1936. Maharaja Krushna Chandra Gajapati became the first Prime Minister of Odisha, leading the State's first government under British rule. His efforts were crucial in shaping modern Odisha and preserving Odia identity.

Odia has a rich literary tradition that dates back over a thousand years. The Mahabharata of Sarala Das (15th century) is one of the earliest and most significant literary contributions in Odia. The Bhakti movement, led by Jagannath Das, Balam Das and Achyutananda, infused Odia literature with deep spiritual and philosophical insights.

With literary figures like

Fakir Mohan Senapati, Gangadhar Meher and Gopabandhu Das, modern Odia literature flourished, shaping the linguistic and cultural identity of Odisha. Today, the language continues to thrive through literature, digital platforms, and academic research, securing its place as a classical language of India (2014).

Despite its glorious history, Odia faces modern challenges like declining usage among youth, lack of digital presence, and reduced preference in education. However, cultural organisations, government policies and academic institutions are working towards the preservation and promotion of Odia through digital archives, language technology, and educational reforms.

B'pur Commissionerate Police system pending

CM informs Assembly
PNS ■ BRAHMAPUR
Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi has informed the State Assembly that the proposal for establishing a Commissionerate Police system in Brahmapur is pending with the government. Responding to Brahmapur MLA K Anil Kumar's question on Tuesday, the CM stated that while the previous Chief Minister had announced its implementation, no final decision has been made. Meanwhile, Rs 94 crore has been allocated in the 2024-25 financial year to prevent fund stagnation and prepare a Drainage Master Plan for the city. Housing and Urban Development Minister Dr Krushna Chandra Mohapatra stated that necessary steps would be taken once a formal request is received from the relevant authorities. MLAs also raised concerns over the recurring issue of artificial flooding in Brahmapur and urged the government to implement a comprehensive drainage system. In response, Minister Mohapatra informed that Rs 3 crore has been disbursed to the Berhampur Municipal Corporation (BeMC) for flood mitigation. Major drains are being cleaned before the monsoon, and efforts are underway to enhance water drainage through pumps to prevent severe water-logging.

In Cuttack dist Woman found dead in mysterious condition

Kin allege murder for dowry
PNS ■ CUTTACK
A woman, married just one and a half years ago, was allegedly killed by her husband and in-laws at Smantrapur village in Cuttack district after her family failed to fulfill the dowry demands. Despite being given dowry to the tune of Rs 5 lakh during marriage, her in-laws allegedly continued to harass her for more dowries, alleged the family members of the deceased. Based on a complaint by the woman's family, police have registered a case and a probe into the incident was ongoing. The deceased Situ Pradhan from Rangadaspur village was married to one Rajendra Swain on December 10, 2023. Situ's family asserts that her husband and in-laws repeatedly harassed her over dowry demands.

Despite providing Rs 5 lakh initially, they claimed that the demands of Rajendra and his family continued, leading to unbearable pressure on Situ. Later, Situ was found dead under mysterious circumstances on Thursday night. However, her family has alleged that she was murdered. They claimed speaking to her only hours before her death and she was reportedly in a distressed condition.

In Sundargarh Woman held for killing sister, another person

6 more aides of accused also held
PNS ■ SUNDARGARH
A woman was brutally killed by her own sister over minor financial transactions in Sundargarh district. Not just her sister, the accused woman along with her aides also killed a businessman. The matter came to the fore after the two bodies were recovered from two separate locations, the first in Chandiposh and the second in Kutra. After four days of investigation, police have arrested as many as seven accused including the woman, who is believed to be the mastermind of the double murder. Teams of the Sundargarh and Rourkela police have been pursuing leads through raids across various locations. Police also confiscated objects that are believed to be the murder weapons, and efforts are underway to reconstruct the sequence of events. Western Range DIG Brijesh Kumar Rai said, "The deceased woman is the sister of the main accused woman, who is also the mastermind of both the murders. Our investigation started after the bodies were recovered in two different locations. We later learnt that the deceased woman was working in the businessman's office."

"During the probe, we learnt that a tiff broke out between the two sisters over some financial transaction. So, she kidnapped her own sister and killed her and the businessman and dumped their bodies in two separate places," Rai added.

In Brahmapur Navy issues warrant against missing personnel

PNS ■ BRAHMAPUR
The Indian Navy has issued a warrant against Odia Navy personnel Saurabh Kumar Patra, who has been missing for over a month. The Navy has dispatched a formal warrant notice to the Brahmapur Town police station. Over one month has passed since his disappearance on January 19, 2025, but the police have yet to uncover any concrete leads in the case.

But, he has neither reached Kochi nor has taken his flight from Visakhapatnam. "There are two missing person's complaints in this regard, one with Town Police and the other with Railways GRS. During the probe, we learnt that he disembarked from the train at Ichchapuram railway station. We are now looking into where he has fled and why he cheated his family members and the Navy," he further said. D Patra, a 25-year-old Navy officer from Brahmapur, went missing on January 19, 2025, while en route to his duty station at INS Garuda in Kochi. Patra, who joined the Navy in 2019, was last seen boarding a train from Brahmapur to Visakhapatnam, from where he was supposed to catch a flight to Kochi. His family lost contact with him shortly after he boarded the train, leading to concerns about his whereabouts. The last detected location of his mobile phone was Ichchapuram railway station in Andhra Pradesh, where CCTV footage captured him disembarking from the train and leaving the station premises in an auto-rickshaw.

was supposed to fly to Kochi after his holidays. On his day of departure, his family members dropped him at Brahmapur railway station.

NTPC Talcher holds health camp in nearby village

PNS ■ TALCHER
The NTPC Talcher Thermal, in collaboration with Ashlok Hospital, organized a mega health camp at Santhapada Gram Panchayat as part of its community development initiatives on February 18. The camp aimed to provide essential healthcare services to the residents in the peripheral areas of Talcher Thermal, ensuring improved health access for vulnerable communities.

A team of specialist doctors from Manipal Hospital, Bhubaneswar, was invited to offer free, high-quality medical consultations and diagnostic tests, including blood pressure and blood sugar screenings. The health camp benefited 344 villagers, including women, children, and the elderly, addressing a wide range of health concerns such as chronic diseases, maternal and child healthcare, geriatric care, and general ailments. Alongside beneficiaries were made aware of hygiene, nutrition, and preventive healthcare. Free medicines were also distributed to the attendees. Many elderly beneficiaries expressed their appreciation for receiving specialized medical care within their village, while women availed of gynecological check-ups and maternal health guidance.

Head of Project, at Talcher Thermal, Vijay Chand remarked, "At Talcher Thermal, we are committed to the well-being of the communities we serve. This health camp is a testament to our dedication to providing accessible healthcare to rural areas. The overwhelming response from the villagers encourages us to continue such initiatives for the betterment of society." The Sarpanch of Santhapada Gram Panchayat expressed heartfelt gratitude to Talcher Thermal for organizing the health camp and acknowledged the critical importance of accessible healthcare in rural areas. Reaffirming its commitment to community welfare, Talcher Thermal announced plans to continue similar healthcare initiatives in the future to enhance public health and well-being.

In Baleswar Van flees with man's severed hand after mishap

PNS ■ BALESWAR
An elderly man lost his hand after he was hit by an over-speeding pickup van in Jaleswar of Baleswar district on Friday. The condition of the victim remains critical while the vehicle fled the scene after hitting him leaving him with a severed hand. The mishap occurred near the Laxmananath-Gurudaspur Bridge, where the pickup van hit the victim, resulting in the loss of his hand. Despite the severity of the nature of the accident, the driver fled with the vehicle, leading to the severed hand being carried away in the van. However, locals chased the vehicle and intercepted it. The driver was apprehended and thrashed before being handed over to police. As per reports, the driver was detained for further questioning and investigation. The injured man was first admitted to Jaleswar hospital. He was later referred to the SCB Medical College Hospital in Cuttack.

In Baleswar Concern over deficiencies in med services

PNS ■ BALESWAR
The local Government Medical College and Hospital Action Committee staged a demonstration in front of the district Collectorate here on Thursday expressing its concern over the deficiencies in medical services in the district. Later on, the agitators submitted a 17-point charter of demands to the Chief Minister through the district Collector. The demands included recruitment of specialists at least in cardiology, neurology and urology, adequate number of doctors and paramedics as per sanctioned strength, to make the AIIMS satellite centre fully operational, establishment of a nursing and pharmacy college and increase of the number of seats for medical students from 100 to 150. Speakers at the gathering stated that the committee's demands are genuine and the patients are suffering badly due to the absence of these facilities. Gouranga Panigrahi, Niranjana Parida and several other representatives of the action committee addressed the gathering.

'MV Devi' ship faces uncertain future at Paradip

After seizure of Rs 220-crore cocaine
PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The MV Devi ship remains stranded at the Paradip Port after the seizure of Rs 220 crore worth of cocaine from it. Despite an Orissa High Court order resolving financial disputes, Customs' ongoing probe raises uncertainty over its release. There is a possibility that the investigation into the cocaine smuggling could be obstructed if the ship is released. The person responsible for smuggling the cocaine on the ship has not been identified yet. Hence, it is believed that the ship is unlikely to leave Paradip for now. Recently, the High Court rescinded an arrest order on the ship, originally issued due to unpaid berth charges owed to the port authority, PICT (Paradip International Cargo Terminal Private Limited). Despite resolving the financial dispute between the ship's owners and PICT, the cocaine-related investigation remains unresolved. Legal experts are skeptic regarding the ship's imminent departure as the primary investigation still unfolding. "The Honourable High Court's order is for the issue because they have reached an amicable resolution, the High Court has ordered its release. However, the involvement of the Customs Department after the seizure of cocaine is a different case altogether. It is a high-profile case with a large quantity of cocaine seized. Maybe, the Customs department will file a review petition," informed lawyer Gatikrushna Satapathy.

Once migrant labourers These N'pada tribals now proud owners of mango orchards

Thanks to NREGS
AJIT PANDA ■ NUAPADA

The MGNREGS has the potential to serve as a significant source of income and a means of sustainable livelihood for the poor if implemented with innovation and careful planning. A remarkable example of such innovative utilisation of the MGNREGA funds can be seen in Arada village of Khariar block. Raja Sabar, a tribal migrant worker from the village, now finds himself in a much better position as a beneficiary of the job scheme. Once compelled to migrate to cities in Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu for work in brick kilns, he is now the proud owner of a one-and-a-half-hectare mango orchard. "I have a total of eight acres of cultivable land, but finding steady income from farming here was a challenge. My job card not only provided me with work but also opened up an alternative source of livelihood. This is the fifth year of my mango plantation, which I established with the support of the Watershed Department, and it has now started bearing fruits," he shared. Raja had cultivated cotton, and groundnut as intercrops among the mango plants when they were still small, enabling him to earn approximately Rs 40,000 over the past three years. He now plans to sow arhar and groundnut again in the upcoming season. To enhance his future income, Raja has also planted trees like aanla, jamun, gambhari, and neem along the boundary of his field, which will provide additional earnings in the coming years. Rajeswar Sabar of this village has planted 200 mango plants in one acre of land. The intercrops are beans, tomato, radish, and watermelon. He got Rs 8,000 from tomato. He hopes to earn fifty thousand rupees from watermelon. The mango plantation project was initiated in Arada village in 2020. It began with Raja, who agreed to the idea immediately when it was proposed to him. "The land had been fallow for a long time. When we suggested the project to Raja, he agreed," said Biswambar Gauda, the field official of the Watershed Mission in Khariar. Raja's wife, Bhagyaa Sabar, who dedicates her time to the mango plantation, shared their motivation: "We had seen mango farmers in our neighbouring village selling their produce in truckloads; so we decided to take up mango cultivation." Raja was not the only one to embrace mango farming in Arada village that year; three others also agreed to convert their fallow land into mango orchards. The initiative was implemented under the MGNREGS scheme with an estimated budget of Rs 12.92 lakh, out of which Rs 9.35 lakh was allocated for wages, according to Gauda. "The project generated around 2,500 person-days of employment over four years from the year of planting, averaging about 650 days per year," he added. It was enough to generate more than 150 days of employment per family who took up the venture, because most of the work was carried out by the family members of the beneficiaries. Bhagyaa explained, "We handled everything-from digging pits and manuring to planting and regular watering, often carrying water on our heads from the nearby river." Additional employment opportunities were also created for the beneficiaries through a field bunding programme under the MGNREGS. The effort in 2020 led to the engagement of additional households in developing mango orchards on their uplands, which were previously used occasionally for cultivating cotton or gurji. "Four more households approached the Watershed Mission for support under the project, and they were subsequently included in 2021-22 and 2023-24," informed Gauda. The mango orchard in Arada now covers 8 hectares with 3,200 thriving plants, backed by an investment of approximately Rs 26 lakh, of which Rs 22.42 lakh has been allocated to wages. After ensuring three/four years of dedicated care and supervision, the mission has successfully handed over the plantations from the first and second phases to the beneficiaries. Over the past five years, the projects have generated 6,500 person-days of employment, providing stable livelihoods for 12 households actively engaged in the initiative. These farmers have also participated in other MGNREGS projects, such as field bunding and land development, further enhancing their earnings. Beneficiaries report that their income from the scheme alone has ranged between Rs 30,000 to Rs 40,000 per year, helping them meet their livelihood needs, healthcare expenses, and children's education. Additionally, they have earned extra income by cultivating vegetables as intercrops. "We haven't calculated the exact income our efforts will yield, but we are deeply grateful to the officials who guided us out of distress migration (dadan) and the hardships we faced while working in kilns," shared the farmers. These beneficiaries have now become role models within the community, inspiring more farmers to take up plantation activities. Encouraged by their success, three more farmers have expressed interest in joining the initiative next year, and officials are planning to include them in the scheme. "The district administration has been striving hard to reach out to people in distress and indigent condition by way of providing employment through MGNREGA. We are also sanguine in arresting migration in coming days," said Nuapada DM Madhusudan Dash.

PM pitches for world-class leaders in every field

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday pitched for world-class leaders in every field who can find solutions to global complexities and needs while prioritising the interests of India.

Addressing the School of Ultimate Leadership (SOUL) conclave here, Modi said an institute like this can be a game-changer at a time when India needs energetic leaders in every field, be it bureaucracy, policy-making or business, who have a global approach but a mindset rooted in local perspectives.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi addresses during the inauguration of the first edition of the SOUL Leadership conclave in New Delhi on Friday. PTI

He called for leaders in different fields who have "global thinking and local upbringing", saying what is needed is a leadership that reflects India's vision in every field when the country is emerging as a "global powerhouse".

The country's speed and momentum need to be replicated in every field, Modi said, adding that institutes like the SOUL are not only a choice but a necessity.

"There is a need for energetic leaders in every sector who can find solutions to global complexities and needs while prioritising the nation's interests on the global stage," he said. These leaders should have a global approach but retain a local mindset, and should be ready for strategic decision-making, crisis management and futuristic thinking, the prime minister said.

The future leadership, he said, will not be limited to power, an apparent reference to the political arena, adding that leadership roles will require capabilities in innovation and impact. Modi said such leaders, who understand international dynamics, are required for the country to compete in international markets and global institutions.

preparing the leadership for emerging sectors, such as deep-tech, space, biotech and renewable energy, besides conventional sectors like sports, agriculture, manufacturing and social service.

"India must not only aspire for excellence in all sectors but also achieve it. India needs leaders who can develop new institutions of global excellence," the prime minister said. He noted that India's history is filled with glorious stories of such institutions and emphasised the need to revive that spirit.

Modi underscored the importance of building human resources and said the development of better citizens is necessary for nation-building when everyone is working for the making of a "Viksit Bharat". In this context, he cited the example of Gujarat, noting that questions were raised about its future as a separate state due to its lack of natural resources.

However, the state is doing very well today due to its leaders, Modi said, adding that it has no diamond mine but nine out of 10 diamonds in the world pass through the hands of a Gujarati. He said a new and spacious campus of the SOUL would be ready, close to Gujarat's GIFT City, in the near future.

The SOUL is an upcoming leadership institution in Gujarat to enable "authentic leaders to advance public good", according to an official statement.

Modi said India should have leaders in different sectors who can spearhead innovation and channelise skills. He expressed confidence that the SOUL will develop critical thinking, risk-taking and solution-driven mindsets and produce leaders who are prepared to work amidst disruptive changes. They should not just follow trends but set those, he added.

As India grooms new leadership in sectors ranging from diplomacy to tech innovation, the influence and impact of the country will multiply across various sectors, the prime minister said, adding that the nation's entire vision and future depend on producing a generation of strong leadership.

"When we move forward with a common goal and collective efforts, the results are extraordinary," he said.

Modi said the Indian society is being shaped by those born in the 21st century and a decade prior to it, asserting that they will be the "Amrit Peedhi" as the country embarks on the path of development.

Shah to chair Western Zonal Council meeting in Pune

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Home Minister Amit Shah will chair on Saturday the 27th meeting of the Western Zonal Council in Pune, which will provide a platform for resolving disputes and issues between the Centre and States in the region.

The Western Zonal Council comprises the states of Gujarat, Goa, Maharashtra and the Union Territories of Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu.

The zonal councils hold discussions on a wide range of issues, including speedy investigation of cases of sexual offence/rape against women and children and implementation of Fast Track Special Courts for expeditious disposal of such cases.

Facilitation of banks/India Post Payment Bank branches within 5 km in each village, implementation of Emergency Response Support System (ERSS-112), issues relating to infrastructure, mining, environment and forests, food security parameters and other subjects of common interest at the regional level are other issues discussed at the meetings.

The Maharashtra government is hosting the meeting which is being organised by the Inter State Council Secretariat under the Ministry of Home Affairs, in collaboration with the state government.

The meeting is expected to be attended by the chief ministers of the member states and the administrator of the Union Territories, along with two senior ministers from each state, the statement said.

Amit Shah interacts with students of rural and tribal community who came from Santokba Dholakia Vidyya Mandir located in Dang district of Gujarat in New Delhi. PTI

Chief secretaries, advisors and other senior officers of the state governments and union territories and Union Home Secretary, secretary, Inter State Council and other senior officers of the Central government will also participate in the meeting.

Five zonal councils were established in 1957. The Union Home Minister is the Chairman of these five councils, while the chief ministers of the states included in the respective zonal council and the administrator/LG of the union territories are its members.

Zonal councils provide an excellent platform for resolving disputes and issues between the Centre and the States and between the several States in the region. Many issues of national importance are also discussed in each meeting of the zonal councils.

These include power operations, urban master plan, eliminating malnutrition among children through POSHAN Abhiyan, discussion on reducing the dropout rate of school children, participation of government hospitals in Ayushman Bharat-Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana, strengthening Primary Agricultural Credit Societies and other issues of common interest, the statement said.

Verifying individuals are Indian nationals in Panama: MEA

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The external affairs on Friday said it has seen some reports about deportation flights to Panama and New Delhi is "verifying the details" as to whether the individuals concerned are Indian nationals or not.

"Once that verification details are complete, then arrangements will be made for the return of these Indian nationals back home," MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal told reporters here in response to a query during his weekly briefing.

On a query on any steps taken to curb illegal immigration, he said, "We are committed to fight it tooth and nail."

Many reporters asked him if Panamanian authorities had approached India on this issue. "We have seen some reports about deportation flights to Panama and Costa Rica. Now it is our understanding that these have been undertaken as per a bridge arrangement between the US and the respective governments. Both Costa Rica and Panama have agreed to serve as transit countries for deportees while the US bears all the costs of the operation," Jaiswal said.

These deportees have been kept in a hotel, he said. "There could be some Indian nationals we understand... And our mission in Panama, which is also accredited to Costa Rica, they are in touch with the local authorities," the MEA spokesperson said.

In case of Panama, India is "verifying the details whether the individuals concerned are Indian nationals or not," he said.

"Once that verification details are complete, then arrangements will be made for the return of these Indian nationals back home," he said.

In case of Costa Rica, "while we have heard that some people have been sent from the United States, we have heard this through media. Officially, we have yet to hear from the Costa Rica side."

Jaiswal in response to another query said, "yes, we are in talks with the Panama government there."

"Our embassy there is in regular touch. They have had consular access. In fact, there was an issue that, you know, some of them were having some difficulty there. That may have been case with people from other nationalities, not with people who are, who supposedly are of Indian nationality," he said.

Yasin Malik to virtually appear in Jammu court from Tihar on March 7: SC

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday directed jailed JKLF chief Yasin Malik to appear in a Jammu court from Tihar Jail through video-conferencing on March 7. A bench of Justices Abhay S Oka and Ujjal Bhuyan noted that the Jammu sessions court was "well-equipped" with the video-conferencing system enabling the virtual examination.

The CBI sought the transfer of the trials in the 1989 case of the kidnapping of Rubaiya Sayeed, daughter of former union minister Mufti Mohammed Sayeed, and the 1990 Srinagar shootout case, from Jammu to New Delhi.

During the hearing, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the CBI, informed the court that as per the report filed by the registrar general of the Jammu and Kashmir High Court, the video-conferencing system was working properly in the Jammu court.

Mehta said it appeared all the accused were working in tandem to delay the trial while pointing out that Malik refused to engage a lawyer and others were opposing the transfer of trial.

The top court previously directed the registrar general of the Jammu and Kashmir High Court to ensure proper video-conferencing facilities at the Jammu special court while hearing two cases against Malik and others.

The top court on December 18, last year, gave six accused two weeks to respond to the CBI's plea to transfer the trial of the cases.

The plea is over the two cases in which four Indian Air Force personnel were killed on January 25, 1990 in Srinagar and the abduction which took place on December 8, 1989. Malik, chief of the proscribed JKLF, is facing trial in both cases.

The top court was hearing a CBI plea against the September 20, 2022 order of a Jammu trial court directing Malik, serving a life term in Tihar jail, to be produced before it physically to cross-examine prosecution witnesses in the abduction case.

Delhi court reserves order in 2022 case against Lalu

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

A Delhi court on Friday reserved for February 25 its order on whether or not to take cognisance of a chargesheet filed in the land-for-jobs case involving former railway minister Lalu Prasad and others. Special judge Vishal Gogne, who was scheduled to decide it on Friday, adjourned the matter on February 25 after hearing CBI's clarifications on certain points. The CBI said three separate final reports (chargesheets) in the matter required only one trial given the entirety of the allegations reflected in it.

As the allegations in the three chargesheets involved the same foundational conspiracy and named a number of common accused and witnesses, the second and third chargesheets were in the nature of supplementary chargesheets, the agency said.

The submissions came in response to a query posed by the court on whether the case would require separate trials. The judge recorded the submission and posted the matter for February 25 for orders on cognisance and further proceedings.

The CBI had informed the judge that it had received requisite sanctions from the authorities concerned to prosecute public servant RK Mahajan.

if the sanction against Mahajan was not processed by January 30, the "competent authority shall furnish" an explanation by the next date of hearing.

The CBI on November 26, 2024 filed before the court requisite sanctions obtained from authorities concerned to prosecute 30 accused persons in the case, while submitting that sanctions regarding the prosecution of Mahajan were still awaited.

The case relates to Group-D appointments made in the West Central Zone of Railways based in Jabalpur, Madhya Pradesh, during Prasad's tenure as the railway minister between 2004 and 2009 in return for land parcels gifted or transferred by the recruits in the name of the RJD supremo's family or associates, according to officials.

AI to be used for improving agriculture sector: Dhankar

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Vice President Jagdeep Dhankar on Friday said disruptive technologies like artificial intelligence (AI) should be used for improving the agriculture sector, and asserted that the rural population represents both opportunities and responsibilities.

Speaking at the inaugural session of 21st General Session of African Asian Rural Development (AARDO) Conference, the vice president also stressed using technology to alleviate suffering.

Speaking at the event, Dhankar said the rural regions nurture 3.6 billion lives, including 894 million rural Indians, "representing both our opportunity and responsibility."

"A challenge to our intellect is in form of emergence of disruptive technology. Artificial intelligence, machine learning...No less than industrial revolution," he said.

"They offer daunting challenges but also bring a basket of opportunities, only if we learn to unleash them," he said. Dhankar said these technologies should be used for improving the farm sector and rural areas.

"India has taken some flagship initiatives and one initiative is digital India," he added.

He stressed on using technology to mitigate suffering, reducing corruption, and generating accountability. Stating that India has the target to become a developed nation by 2047, Dhankar said there was a time when India had to deposit its gold with banks in Switzerland to sustain fiscal credibility.

"By then the foreign exchange reserve was only 11 billion US dollar, if it can be compared to the present situation the volume has gone to seven hundred billion US dollar," he said.

He said India is an example for the rest of the world that what could be the impacts of good initiatives in the field of rural development and empowerment of people. Dhankar also talked about the significance of the role of women in governance and said India has constitutionally structured participation of women at village and municipal levels. "Gender participation in governance is fundamental to bring about equality and to cut into inequities. India perhaps the only country in the world that has constitutionally structured participation of women in governance," he said.

He said that in village and municipal bodies, one third seats have been reserved for women. AARDO, one of the earliest examples of South-South and Triangular cooperation in the fields of agriculture and rural development in the African-Asian region, was established in 1962. It is an autonomous inter-governmental/multilateral organisation, comprising 32 countries of Africa and Asia as full members and three associate members. It has been given the status of an international organisation by the Government of India, at par with other UN organisations in India.

India, Bangladesh to launch new 'hotline'

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

India and Bangladesh have decided to establish a new communication link between the deputy commanders of their respective border-guarding forces and identified about 99 fresh patches for erecting a fence along their shared border.

The decisions were finalised during the biannual director general-level talks between the Border Security Force (BSF) and the Border Guard Bangladesh (BGB) that concluded here on Thursday, sources in the security establishment told PTI.

This was the first time that a high-level meeting between the two forces took place after the fall of the Sheikh Hasina government in Bangladesh on August 5 last year.

The three-day talks, held from February 18 to February 20, went off in a "cordial manner", with the Indian side able to "convince" its neighbour about the importance of fencing on the remaining areas of the 4,096-km-long frontier that spans across five Indian states on the eastern flank, the sources said.

A total of 864.48 km of the front remains unfenced, including 174.51 km of "non-feasible" gap, according to official data.

The two sides have decided to open a new "hotline" for effective communication after the latest round of DG-level talks.

This link will be between the additional director general (ADG) of the BSF eastern command based in Kolkata and his BGB counterpart posted at the force's headquarters in Dhaka, the sources said.

It was felt "necessary and important" to enhance the engagement between the two sides and hence, this new platform for commanders' interaction has been agreed upon and included in the official records for the first time, they added.

Currently, "hotlines" or links of communication exist between the two force chiefs and officers in the ranks of inspector general (regional commander for the BGB), deputy inspector general (sector commander for the BGB) and other field-level officers. These communication lines are used to convey real-time information and intelligence so that issues related to the front and instances of cross-border crimes can be checked promptly.

The BSF delegation, headed by its Director General Daljit Singh Chawdhary, also asked the BGB to take "stringent and effective" steps to ensure that Bangladeshi miscreants and criminals are not able to "breach" their security layer and cross the border to attack BSF personnel and Indian civilians.

Keep away from attempts to create divisions on basis of language: Modi

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday said there has never been any animosity among Indian languages and each has enriched the other, giving a fitting reply to attempts to discriminate on the basis of linguistics.

Addressing the inaugural function of the 98th Akhil Bharatiya Marathi Sahitya Sammelan here, Modi hailed Marathi as a complete language reflecting the elements of bravery and courage, beauty, sensitivity and equality. "There has never been any animosity among Indian languages. Languages have always influenced and enriched each other," Modi said.

He said often, when efforts were made to create divisions based on languages, India's shared linguistic heritage gave a fitting reply.

"It is our social responsibility to distance ourselves from these misconceptions and embrace and enrich all languages," the prime minister said.

His remarks came on a day when Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M K Stalin reiterated his remarks that the implementation of the National Education Policy (NEP) is an attempt to impose a three-language formula throughout the country.

Modi said India is one of the oldest living civilisations in the world because it has constantly evolved and embraced new ideas and welcomed new changes.

"The fact that India has the world's largest linguistic diversity is a proof of this. This linguistic diversity is also the most fundamental basis of our unity," Modi said.

ident of the 98th Akhil Bharatiya Marathi Sammelan, were present at the inaugural function, among others.

The three-day Akhil Bharatiya Marathi Sahitya Sammelan is being held in the national capital after a gap of 71 years and a year after Marathi was granted the classical language status.

Modi said the event is being held in Delhi in the 350th year of the coronation of Chhatrapati Shivaji and the centenary celebrations of the RSS.

"We take pride in the fact that in the great land of Maharashtra, a remarkable Marathi-speaking individual planted the seeds of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh 100 years ago. Today, we celebrate its centenary. The organisation has grown and flourished like a banyan tree," he said.

"For the last 100 years, the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh has been running a Sanskar Yagya to take India's great tradition and culture to the new generation," Modi said.

He said the RSS has inspired lakhs of people like himself to live for the country and it is because of the Sangh that he got the privilege of connecting with the Marathi language and Marathi traditions.

Mahakumbh 2025 to end with a cosmic spectacle

BISWAJEET BANERJEE ■
PRAYAGRAJ

As the Mahakumbh enters its final week before concluding on February 26, skywatchers and spiritual seekers alike are in for a rare celestial treat. All seven planets of the solar system—Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune, will be visible in the night sky from India, creating a once-in-a-lifetime astronomical spectacle. The phenomenon, which began in January with the visibility of Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune, will reach its climax in February as Mercury begins the formation. The alignment will peak on February 28, when all seven planets gather on one side of the Sun, forming a breathtaking planetary parade. Astronomers explain that while the term 'planetary alignment' lacks a strict scientific definition, it generally refers to multiple planets appearing along the ecliptic—the Sun's apparent path across the sky. "These celestial bodies will align along the ecliptic since their orbits lie nearly within the same plane," said Dr Rajeev Sharma, an astrophysicist. Spiritual and astronomical significance
This rare planetary display is adding spiritual depth to the Mahakumbh celebrations. Many devotees believe that such cosmic occurrences amplify spiritual energy and divine consciousness. "The coming together of all seven planets is not just an astronomic event; it is a moment of immense spiritual significance. The energies of the cosmos are believed to influence human consciousness, making this Kumbh Mela even more powerful," said S N Jha, lecturer in Department of Astrology in Lucknow University. The best time to witness this alignment is during twilight—just after sunset or before sunrise—when the planets are positioned higher in the sky. Five planets—

Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn—can be seen with the naked eye, while Uranus and Neptune require binoculars or a telescope due to their dimness. Astronomers predict that a similar planetary alignment will occur in mid-August 2025, when six planets will be visible in the morning sky. While Uranus and Neptune remain challenging to spot without optical aid, ideal viewing conditions and equipment will help locate them. The Mahakumbh Mela, held every 12 years in Prayagraj and every four years in Haridwar, Ujjain, and Nashik, is deeply connected to celestial movements. The festival's timing is determined by the orbit of Jupiter, which plays a crucial role in Vedic astrology and Hindu traditions. Millions of devotees gather to bathe in the holy rivers, believing that this sacred ritual cleanses sins and leads to spiritual liberation. "With Jupiter governing the cycle of Kumbh Mela, the presence of a rare planetary alignment this year feels like a cosmic blessing," said Pandit Arun Mishra, a Kumbh scholar. "It reinforces the belief that celestial events influence human spirituality and destiny." As devotees continue their pilgrimage to the sacred ghats, the heavens will offer a dazzling reminder of the universe's grand design—making Mahakumbh 2025 a truly extraordinary confluence of faith and science.

Assam Assembly uproar over MP attack

Congress MP Rakibul Hussain addresses media after filing an FIR following an attack on him in Assam

PNS ■ GUWAHATI

The Assam Assembly on Friday witnessed uproarious scenes over the attack on Congress MP Rakibul Hussain in Nagaon district, leading to two adjournments. The opposition Congress, which created noisy scenes in the House demanding adjournment of proceedings to discuss the issue, relented after the government assured of a thorough probe into the attack. Leader of Opposition Debabrata Saikia raised the demand for adjournment motion as soon as the House assembled at 9.30 am. He maintained that Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma did not condemn the assault on Hussain in his reply on the matter in the assembly. Hussain, the Dhubri MP, his son Tanzil and his personal security officers (PSOs) were attacked by unidentified persons at Rupohihat in Nagaon district on Thursday. The Congress MP was on his way to attend a meeting of party workers at Gunomari village on a two-wheeler when he was attacked with cricket bats by a group of people, who had their faces covered with black cloth, and were shouting slogans against the MP, police said. The DGP later said that the MP and Tanzil were unhurt, but the two PSOs suffered minor injuries and were undergoing treatment. Speaker Daimary said the adjournment motion cannot be allowed, as discussion on the finance bill was scheduled for the day. Information and Public Relations Minister Pijush Hazarika, responding in absence of the CM and the Parliamentary Affairs Minister in the House to Saikia's allegation of government inaction, said the attackers have been identified and action is being initiated. Unsatisfied with the response, the Congress legislators stormed into the well of the House and created noisy scenes. The BJP legislators present in the assembly claimed that attacks on the party's leaders took place during the Congress regime, but no action was taken. As the ruckus continued, the Speaker adjourned the House for 10 minutes. Soon after it reassembled, Congress legislators once again stormed into the well and demanded discussion on the issue. Daimary then adjourned proceedings for another five minutes. When the House met after the second adjournment, LoP Saikia demanded a statement from the state government that the culprits will be caught and such incidents will not recur. "We want a message to go from here that democracy will be protected. We want to know whether all culprits have been identified, whether the DGP or other top officials have visited the site, and why no additional security deployment was made for the MP's meeting," Saikia said. He also submitted records of chat messages purportedly pointing to security lapse on part of the officer-in-charge of Rupohihat police station, and demanded disciplinary action against him. Responding to this, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Chandra Mohan Patowary said, "The CM has mentioned about the attack during his reply to the motion of thanks on the governor's speech yesterday. Our government never supports such incidents and the CM, who is out of state today, will not allow its recurrence."

UP supplies prisons with Sangam water

Inmates from 62 UP jails take a symbolic holy dip with Mahakumbh water

PRAYAGRAJ

As the Mahakumbh 2025 witnessed a record-breaking turnout with 59 Crore devotees taking a holy dip at the Sangam, the Yogi Adityanath government extended the sacred experience to prisoners across Uttar Pradesh. In an unprecedented initiative, inmates from all 62 jails in the state were given the opportunity to partake in a symbolic holy dip within their respective jail premises. To facilitate this, large water tanks were constructed inside the jails, where sanctified water from the Triveni Sangam was transported and poured, enabling prisoners to immerse themselves in its spiritual significance. The initiative was aimed at ensuring that inmates, despite their confinement, could experience religious purification and virtue. At Central Naini Jail in Prayagraj, where over 1,700 inmates are currently lodged, more than 1,400 prisoners participated in the ritual. Senior Jail Superintendent Rang Bahadur Patel stated that the holy water was brought from the Triveni in urns, ritually worshipped, and then poured into a specially built pond within the jail premises, allowing inmates to bathe in the consecrated water. A similar arrangement was made at the District Jail of Prayagraj, which houses over 1,300 prisoners. Senior Superintendent Amita Dubey confirmed that more than 1,000 inmates took part in the sacred bath following religious ceremonies to sanctify the water brought from the Mahakumbh at Sangam. Many prisoners expressed their profound gratitude, stating they never imagined they would be able to take part in the revered ritual while serving their sentences. The Yogi government's initiative ensured that even those behind bars did not miss this spiritual opportunity, which occurs once in 144 years. Given the security and logistical challenges of physically taking inmates to the Triveni, the government orchestrated the sacred bath within jail premises. As prisoners immersed themselves in the blessed water, the jail reverberated with chants of 'Har Har Gange,' reflecting their deep emotional and spiritual

Punjab police busts foreign-backed target killing module

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Punjab police on Friday said they have busted a target killing module and apprehended two operatives of a foreign-based gangster from Patiala. Those arrested have been identified as Malkit Singh alias Max, a native of Rodala village in Ajnala, Amritsar, who is currently residing in Sempali village in Fatehgarh Sahib, and Sandeep Singh alias Deep, a resident of Sirhind in Fatehgarh Sahib. "Acting swiftly on intelligence inputs, Patiala Police busted a target killing module and apprehended two operatives of the foreign-based gangster Goldy Dhillon from Rajpura, Patiala. Both accused were tasked with carrying out target killings in Mohali and Rajpura in the directions of gangster Goldy Dhillon," Punjab's Director General of Police, Gaurav Yadav, posted on X. "Their arrest has also led to the solving of two previous cases related to target killings in Mohali and Rajpura," he added. Police teams have also recovered five pistols, including three .32 caliber, one .30 caliber, and one .315 caliber country-made pistol, along with 15 cartridges and 1,300 intoxicant tablets from their possession. Additionally, their black-coloured scooter has been impounded, the statement said. Both arrested individuals have a history of criminal activities, with multiple cases registered against them under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, Arms Act, attempt to murder, extortion, dacoity, snatching, and other charges, the DGP said. Further investigations are underway to establish backward and forward linkages in this case. More arrests and recoveries are likely in the coming days, he added.

Muslims voluntarily remove 168-year-old Mosque in Meerut

BISWAJEET BANERJEE ■
MEERUT

In a significant development, the management of a 168-year-old mosque in Meerut has begun dismantling the structure to make way for the city's Metro and Rapid Rail Corridor projects. The mosque, located outside Jagdish Mandap on Sharda Road, had been identified as an obstruction to the infrastructure expansion plans. For the first time, Friday prayers were not held at the mosque, as its gate had already been removed and the electricity connection cut. The decision to voluntarily remove the mosque came after extensive discussions between the administration and the mosque management. On Thursday night, Additional District Magistrate (ADM) City Brijesh Kumar Singh, accompanied by officials from the National Capital Region Transport Corporation (NCRTC), met with the mosque's Imam and management committee. The officials explained the necessity of clearing the structure to facilitate rapid construction work, urging a resolution through mutual agreement. Following the discussions, the mosque management agreed to begin dismantling the structure on Friday. Haji Swale Heen, a representative of the mosque committee, stated, "We received a notice regarding the mosque. The Mutawalli (caretaker) is unwell, but we were informed that the mosque would need to be removed, either voluntarily or through administrative action. We decided to dismantle it ourselves." He also emphasised that the mosque had historical significance, dating back to 1857, and urged the administration to provide an alternative site for reconstruction.

Mamata clarifies her 'Mrityu Kumbh' remarks

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Days after raking up controversy with her 'Mrityu Kumbh' (deadly Kumbh) remarks, Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee has done a volte face, saying her love for her own religion was beyond question, and that religion is a personal affair, while festival belongs to all. Even as the BJP upped its decibel level demanding an apology from the Chief Minister for making an "uncouth remark" against a Santani festival Banerjee on Thursday said, "Who said I do not respect my religion? Remember, religion belongs to an individual, but festivals are for all." In an apparent bid to control the damage she had earlier reminded that she was a daughter of a Hindu Brahmin family and that she performed Pujas and Paath three times a day. "But that is my personal affair and why should I make it public. I have respect and regard for my religion and all religions and cultures equally," she said. Banerjee capped her Thursday comments with another one on Friday saying her Government was working tirelessly for the development of Bengal as a language. "It is my Government that has supplied tomes of research papers to the Central government to help categorise Bengali as a classical language. Out tireless efforts have made it possible to prove that Bengali has a more than a thousand years of history. It is the fifth largest spoken language in the world and perhaps the second largest spoken one in Asia." She was speaking at an International Mother Language Day. In what critics called a balancing act "for the mess she created on Tuesday by antagonising the Hindu electorate the Chief Minister made use of the Bengali sentiment to offset the damage." She said, "my love for my Bengali language, and its richness can never be taken away, it is for this we realise the sentiment behind a mother language and so we have recognised all the languages from Gorkhali to Kurmali to Hindi to Alchiki." Banerjee drew criticism after she criticised the BJP Governments both in the Centre and Uttar Pradesh for making Mahakumbh a money spinning event by heavily publicising without making adequate arrangements to handle the massive turnout. Banerjee had on Tuesday during her speech in the State Assembly termed the mega event at Prayagraj 'Mrityu Kumbh' saying "I too have regards for the event, but I cannot support this mismanagement where you publicise an event and call in crores of people and then mismanage the entire affair leading to so many deaths, and hiding dead bodies. This has turned into Mrityu Kumbh. Using religion for politics is the worst thing you can do." Her remarks immediately triggered a countrywide outburst.

Hathras stampede: Judicial inquiry clears Bhole Baba

LUCKNOW

The judicial commission investigating the tragic stampede at a religious gathering in Hathras has given a clean chit to Bhole Baba, also known as Narayan Sakar, according to the sources. The commission submitted its report to the Uttar Pradesh government, which discussed it in a cabinet meeting ahead of the state budget presentation. While the report confirms that the police investigation was conducted properly, it remains inconclusive on whether any conspiracy was involved. The government has approved a proposal to table the report in the legislature, but it has not yet publicly disclosed its key findings. The incident occurred on July 2 in Hathras, Uttar Pradesh, during a religious congregation attended by tens of thousands of devotees. According to eyewitnesses, as Bhole Baba concluded his sermon and began leaving, a sudden rush ensued. Many followers tried to move closer to him, hoping for his blessings. In the overcrowded space, people began pushing and shoving, leading to panic. Authorities reported that the venue lacked adequate emergency exits, and many attendees were unable to escape in time. While some blame poor crowd management, others argue that the organisers did not anticipate the sheer number of devotees who would attend the event. The judicial inquiry commission, set up to investigate the tragedy, has made several key recommendations to prevent similar incidents in the future. The report suggests enforcing strict crowd management protocols, including a cap on the number of attendees at religious events and mandatory security drills before such gatherings. It recommends that all large public events be required to have designated emergency exits, medical teams, and police presence. It also proposes stricter licensing rules for religious congregations and large public gatherings to ensure better accountability of event organisers. Grieving families of the victims have expressed frustration over the report's findings, saying justice remains elusive. Anita Devi, whose 65-year-old mother was among the deceased, said her mother was a devout follower of Bhole Baba and never missed his satsangs.

Gurugram police nabs bank staff for aiding cybercriminals

STAFF REPORTER ■
GURUGRAM

A team from the cyber cell of the Gurugram police has arrested two accused including a bank official of a private bank for allegedly providing bank accounts for cybercriminals, police said. Priyanshu Diwan, Assistant Commissioner of Police (cybercrime), said that the arrested accused has been identified as Avinash Sharma and Aditya Chaturvedi both resident of Delhi. According to the police, a man filed a complaint at the Cyber Crime Police Station East in November 2024, that he was duped of ₹4.97 Crore in the name of investing in the stock market. During the probe, the police of the said police station arrested the suspects from different parts of Delhi for the alleged involvement in the crime from Delhi on Wednesday. During interrogation, the accused disclosed that Aditya Chaturvedi was currently working as business development manager at gujranwala town-2 of Idsund bank in Delhi since 2023. "The bank account used in the fraud was opened by Aditya Chaturvedi and sell it to Avinash in ₹25,000 to commit fraud. Chaturvedi took ₹10,000 to open saving account and ₹50,000 for current account," Sandeep Kumar, a spokesperson of the Gurugram police said. Senior police officers of the Gurugram claimed that the police are closely working with other agencies and organisations to counter these frauds. "The cyber fraudsters commit fraud by luring people with good profits, investing in the stock market, reducing electricity bills, in the name of buying or selling cheap goods online, sextortion through video calls on WhatsApp, morphing, sending links through various means, posing as a customs officer or police officer in the name of implicating false case, in the name of issuing a No-Objection Certificate, digitally arresting people by showing the fear of implicating them in a criminal case, etc," Priyanshu Diwan, ACP (cybercrime), said. "We appealed to the public to steer clear of such dubious callers and advised caution in sharing personal details to strangers stalking them online," he added. "So far the Gurugram police have arrested 27 bank officials from different banks till now who were allegedly involved in cyber fraud," Diwan added.

Harish Choudhary is new in-charge of MP Congress unit

GIRISH SHARMA ■ BHOPAL

The Madhya Pradesh Congress finds itself at yet another critical juncture with the appointment of Harish Choudhary as the new in-charge of the state unit. Choudhary, who officially assumed office at the PCC headquarters on Thursday, becomes the sixth leader to hold this position in just five years. This rapid turnover at the helm signals a deeper malaise within the state unit of the Congress party, highlighting the ongoing instability and factionalism that have plagued its ranks. Among Choudhary's predecessors, Deepak Babaria stands out for having the longest tenure, spanning two years. During his time, Babaria was instrumental in uniting the fragmented leadership and introducing significant structural reforms such as the Mandal sectors within the party. His efforts played a crucial role in reinvigorating the Congress in Madhya Pradesh, culminating in the party's victory in the 2018 assembly elections under the leadership of Kamal Nath. However, the subsequent years have seen a rapid succession of in-charges, with most leaders lasting barely a year or even just a few months, further exacerbating the sense of disarray. After Babaria, the Congress leaders who remained in charge of Madhya Pradesh unit of Congress were- Mukul Wasnik, JP Agarwal, Randeep Singh Surjewala and Bhanwar Jitendra Singh. The recent departure of AICC general secretary Bhanwar Jitendra Singh reportedly stemmed from his strained relations with Madhya Pradesh Congress president Jitu Patwari. Patwari, known for his assertive stance, was believed to have actively sought Singh's replacement. This episode is indicative of the larger issue of factionalism within the state unit, where power struggles between senior leaders continue to weaken the party's organisational framework. While Patwari has made efforts to project a unified front with Leader of the Opposition in the State Assembly, Umang Singhar, their underlying differences remain an open secret in political circles. The discord within the leadership ranks is no longer just an internal matter but has become a talking point in Madhya Pradesh's political landscape. Patwari himself recently likened intra-party groupism to a 'cancer' eating away at the Congress's prospects in the state, vowing to eliminate such divisions. However, his own conflicts with Singhar and other senior leaders contradict this call for unity, raising questions about the feasibility of his mission. The fissures within the Congress were further underscored during Harish Choudhary's formal induction at the PCC headquarters. Addressing the party workers on the occasion, Patwari's remark that leaders who attain positions within the party begin to behave as though they own it was a thinly veiled critique of the prevailing culture of entitlement and power struggles. His statement underscores the deep-rooted leadership crisis within the party, where personal ambitions often supersede collective goals. For the Congress to regain its lost ground in Madhya Pradesh, addressing these internal conflicts is imperative. Harish Choudhary's appointment presents an opportunity for course correction, but whether he can succeed where his predecessors have struggled remains to be seen. The party needs a stable and decisive leadership that prioritises organisational strength over factional battles. As the 2028 assembly elections loom on the horizon, the Madhya Pradesh Congress must introspect and realign its strategies if it hopes to mount a serious challenge against the ruling dispensation. Madhya Pradesh BJP spokesperson Narendra Saluja, who joined the saffron party after quitting Congress a couple of years ago, told The Pioneer that Choudhary faces tough challenges ahead. The absence of senior Congress leaders Kamal Nath, Digvijay Singh, and Arun Yadav from the induction programme suggests they did not take Choudhary's appointment seriously, he added.

Trump's peace offensive

Though US President Trump is attempting to resolve the prolonged war in Ukraine, the effectiveness of his methods remains uncertain

As the war in Ukraine enters its third year, US President Donald Trump is trying to broker peace. However, his approach has sparked controversy, as it appears to sideline Ukraine in key negotiations. With Russia still holding a significant portion of Ukrainian territory, the implications of this initiative could reshape the geopolitical landscape of Europe and beyond. The critical questions remain: What would a Trump-led peace deal entail? How would it affect Ukraine's sovereignty? And what choices do Ukraine and Europe have in response? If Ukraine is sidelined in these negotiations, it could be pressured into accepting a deal that legitimises Russia's territorial gains, effectively rewarding aggression. For Russia, such an outcome would be a strategic victory, allowing it to retain control over nearly a fifth of Ukraine's land, including areas it currently does not fully control. A peace deal without Ukraine's full participation and interests at its core would have profound consequences. The Ukrainian government has consistently maintained that any agreement must include the restoration of its 1991 borders and accountability for war crimes committed during the invasion. However, a Trump-negotiated settlement could pressure Kyiv into compromising its sovereignty in exchange for an end to hostilities.

For Europe, such a scenario would be equally troubling. If Russia emerges from the conflict with territorial gains, it could embolden further aggression against NATO's eastern flank. The Kremlin's broader objective has always been to reverse the strategic impact of the Soviet Union's collapse and limit the sovereignty of Eastern European nations. A weakened Ukraine would shift the burden of deterrence squarely onto NATO's shoulders, requiring significant military investments and commitments to prevent further Russian expansion. The effectiveness of Trump's initiative is highly uncertain. While a ceasefire might reduce immediate bloodshed, it would not necessarily lead to lasting stability. If Ukraine is forced into a compromised peace, resistance movements could emerge, leading to prolonged low-intensity conflict. Additionally, the global implications of a weakened Ukraine extend beyond Europe. A victorious Russia could inspire China to take a more aggressive stance on Taiwan, believing that the West lacks the resolve to uphold international law. Trump's initiative to end the Ukraine war could mark a turning point in the conflict, but the manner in which it is pursued will determine its impact. If Ukraine is sidelined and forced into territorial concessions, the consequences could be dire—not just for Kyiv but for the entire European security framework. While a peace deal might bring temporary relief, a settlement that fails to address Ukraine's sovereignty could embolden Russia and reshape the global balance of power in ways that will be felt for decades to come. The choices made in the coming months will define the future of Ukraine, Europe, and world security.

A reminder of Delhi's seismic vulnerability

The 4.0 magnitude earthquake that shook Delhi-NCR recently underscores Delhi's alarming seismic risks, given its location on active fault lines

SATENDRA SINGH

In the early morning of February 17, 2025, the residents of Delhi-NCR awakened by a sudden unexpected jolt awakening due to a tremor. A 4.0-magnitude earthquake struck the region, with its epicentre located near Dhaura Kuan, Delhi, sending shockwaves throughout the city along with neighbouring NCR. Although the quake was relatively minor, its impact felt stronger because it originated from a shallow depth and was intensified by widespread fear of bigger earthquakes. People hurriedly evacuated their homes, buildings swayed and social media was abuzz with concern.

This event served as yet another reminder that Delhi remains dangerously vulnerable to seismic shock vulnerability to seismic activity. Delhi hazardously sits on several active fault lines, including the Delhi-Haridwar Ridge and the Mahendragarh-Dehradun fault. The city falls in Seismic Zone IV and is recognised as being at high risk for earthquakes. Its closeness to the Himalayas, one of the most seismically active areas globally, further increases its risk. According to geoscientists, the Indian plate is continually pushing beneath the Eurasian plate at a rate of about 47 mm per year, generating significant underground stress. When this stress is released, it results in earthquakes—ranging from minor to devastating. History has shown us the potential destruction of earthquakes. The 2001 Bhuj earthquake in Gujarat, which registered 7.7 on the Richter scale, resulted in over 20,000 fatalities and left entire towns in rubble. If a similar earthquake event were to strike Delhi-NCR, the aftermath could be even more disastrous. Simulations from global seismic studies, including the USGS PAGER system and the GEM Global Seismic Risk Map, indicate that a 7.7-magnitude earthquake in Delhi could result in between 150,000 to 250,000 deaths. The combination of a dense population, ageing infrastructure, and unplanned urbanisation makes the capital particularly vulnerable to widespread devastation. One major concern facing the city is the quality of construction.

Many buildings, especially in older areas and unauthorised settlements, are not designed to endure strong earthquakes. Although there are strict regulations set by the National Building Code and the Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS), enforcement often remains weak. High-rise buildings and even some government facilities in the region frequently lack the necessary retrofitting to enhance their earthquake resistance. With over 30 million people living in Delhi-NCR, the scale of destruction from a significant earthquake could be unimaginable. So, what steps can be taken? Demolishing all unsafe buildings and reconstructing them with seismic-resistant technology is neither practical nor economically viable. However, sincere efforts can be made to raise awareness about the earthquake risk and ensure people are prepared for a potential major earthquake in Delhi.

First and foremost, raising awareness and ensuring preparedness should be a top priority. Every household needs to have a well-defined earthquake survival plan. Schools and workplaces should regularly conduct earthquake drills to prepare individuals for how to react during tremors. Simple actions, like securing heavy furniture, identifying safe areas in homes, and having emergency kits ready, can greatly improve safety. The government also needs to take necessary actions in this regard.

A comprehensive structural audit of buildings, particularly those constructed before modern seismic standards were established, is urgently required. Buildings that fail to meet safety criteria should be reinforced and retrofitted. It is essential to enforce the use of earthquake-resistant construction methods in new projects. Retrofitting at-risk buildings may be expensive, but it is a crucial investment for protecting lives. Additionally, public infrastructure needs to be reassessed. Bridges, flyovers, and metro stations need to be evaluated for their ability to withstand seismic activity. Several cities like Tokyo and San Francisco have successfully implemented advanced technology to make buildings more earthquake-proof. Delhi should look to these global examples to reduce the risk of widespread casualties.

A city that is well-prepared for disasters always invests in the education and awareness of its residents. Creating an Earthquake Awareness Museum in Delhi, akin to the one in Bhuj, Gujarat, could make a significant impact on people's awareness, not only from Delhi NCR but from all over the country.

This museum could highlight Delhi's seismic history, delve into the science behind earthquakes, and inform the public about safety protocols. Additionally, a dedicated "Earthquake Clinic" within the museum could provide free consultations with engineers on how to house earthquake resistance at a reasonable price. Moreover, implementing an efficient early warning system could significantly minimise the risk of casualties. For instance, Japan's earthquake early warning system alerts people just seconds before a quake, allowing people to take cover. Establishing a similar system in Delhi should be a national priority. Despite scientific advancements, earthquakes remain unpredictable. However, we can control the level of preparedness when a disaster strikes. The recent tremor in Delhi is more than just a fleeting event—it serves as a warning. Ignoring it could be disastrous. The time to take action is now before nature delivers a lesson that is too harsh to endure.

PEACE TALK WITHOUT UKRAINE

Madam — It is indeed a strange move that Ukraine is not involved in the peace talks being held to bring the Ukraine war to an end. America is holding talks with Russia, the country that pounds Ukraine. Any meaningful negotiation should be between the countries on the war and others may facilitate reaching a settlement to end the war. In the process, any other country may help but not keep the victim behind the screen. Ukraine has unnecessarily taken up war with Russia. The demand of Russia was that Ukraine should not take membership in NATO as it disturbs its security concerns. For NATO also Ukraine joining the group will add to its strategic security concerns. That is why it extended all possible help, like weapons and funds, except for its soldiers to Ukraine.

The sanction against buying Russian fuel also proved to be a failure, as all the EU members were buying the same Russian fuel through India. Ultimately Ukraine is at a loss but gives a sound lesson to others not to depend on others' strength to wage a war, but instead to sort the issues out through diplomatic strength. It is also time to remember the moral story that when two parties decide to fight each other, there are always other parties to reap rich harvests. The giants in the field of weapons production found Ukraine a flourishing market to pump in weapons. It is also time to rethink before deciding to enter the war field, over-assuming one's strength.

WHO RECEIVED $21 MILLION FROM US?

Madam — US President Donald Trump has once again questioned the United States' decision to allocate $21 million for voter turnout efforts in India. Speaking at the FII PRIORITY Summit in Miami, he said, "$21 million for voter turnout, why do we need to spend $21 million for voter turnout in India?" Trump expressed his respect for India and its Prime Minister Narendra Modi but wondered why the US needs to spend millions on voter turnout in a foreign country. He further argued that

Tharoor praises PM Modi's achievements

Senior Congress leader and MP Shashi Tharoor's praise for PM Modi's achievements during his recent visit to the US, followed by his article in a national daily praising Kerala's startup economy under the ruling LDF alliance, has not gone down well with his party leaders. In a stifling political atmosphere where political parties are buying for each other's blood, his praise does not help his party's attempts to target the NDA and the LDF governments on these issues.

But Tharoor, a former diplomat and well-known for his intellect, is a rare class of politician who has the spine to speak their mind. He has proven time and again that he is a true statesman who deeply believes in democratic values. On his criticism, he has further clarified that we cannot always speak only in terms of party interests. Thus, his principled political behaviour is a lesson for all political leaders.

Manoj Parashar | Ghaziabad

India, with its strong economy and high tariffs on US goods, doesn't need such financial support.

"They got a lot of money. They're one of the highest taxing countries in the world in terms of us. We can hardly get in there because their tariffs are so high." Hence, the $21 million allocation was part of a larger list of international aid programmes cancelled by the Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE), headed by Elon Musk. There is no doubt a lot of money, white and Black, is used. Then who knows that foreign funding is also not another source? Hope the NDA government should come out clearly on who revived this 21-million-dollar (about 176 crore rupees) and how this money was distributed. As reported earlier, the money can't be received by the Election Commission legally.

MULTILINGUALISM FOSTER UNITY

Madam — A recent incident highlights the importance of embracing multilingualism in India's diverse political landscape. During the INDIA bloc meeting in Patna, DMK leader TR Baalu requested a translation of Bihar CM Nitish Kumar's Hindi speech into English, as DMK chief MK Stalin was unable to follow Hindi. The request was met with a sharp reaction from Kumar, who emphasised that leaders should understand Hindi, leading to an uncomfortable moment for the DMK delegation. The DMK's resistance to the three-language formula stems from its commitment to preserving Tamil.

While this is admirable, instances like these underline how knowing a third language, including Hindi, can be a practical asset. Whether for employment, travel, or national collaboration, multilingual ability fosters inclusivity and avoids such avoidable embarrassments. Balancing linguistic pride with pragmatic multilingualism is key. Leaders and citizens alike must view additional language skills as tools for growth rather than threats to cultural identity.

The road to change: A story of hope in Uttarakhand's remote Villages

As government initiatives push forward rural road development, the hope remains that these villages will soon find themselves linked to a future of greater possibilities

In the mountains, roads are more than just paths from one place to another—they are lifelines. They connect people to schools, hospitals, and markets, making daily life easier and opportunities more accessible. For many remote villages in Uttarakhand, however, the wait for a proper road continues, shaping everyday realities in ways that outsiders rarely see.

In Surag and Bhagdhanu villages of Garud Block, Bageshwar District, the absence of a proper road is a challenge that residents navigate every day. The people here have adapted—carrying essentials on foot, finding their ways to reach schools and markets, and supporting each other through difficult times.

Yet, the dream of a well-built road remains. Kedar Singh, 70, has spent a lifetime in Surag. He describes how unpaved, uneven roads make even the simplest tasks difficult, especially during the monsoon. "When it rains, the paths become slippery, making it hard for both people and animals to move. We take our cattle to graze on the mountains, but during the rains, they often slip on the muddy paths and fall down the slopes. It's heartbreaking to see, and it makes our work much harder." For many, the challenge is not just about movement but about access to essential services. Nandi Devi, 45, explains how women and elderly residents face particular difficulties: "When someone falls ill, finding transport is nearly impossible. Vehicles don't come here because of the poor road conditions. We have to rely on each other and make do with what we have."

A Journey to Education

For students, an incomplete road is more than an inconvenience—it shapes their future. Bhavana Rawal, a 10th-grade student, walks 5 km every day on an unpaved road to reach her school in Sailani, 9 km away. "Most of the time, we manage, but during the rains, we arrive at school covered in mud. On some days, we can't go at all," she says. Kavita, 18, has similar concerns. "During the monsoon and winter, getting to school is incredibly difficult. The steep paths become dangerous, and there is always the fear of slipping. Sometimes, we miss school for days, which affects our studies."

The Road Ahead

Efforts have been made over the years to bring road connectivity to Surag and Bhagdhanu. A survey for the road's construction was conducted, and discussions continued resolving land-related concerns. Local leaders, like village head Champa Devi, have been advocating for progress, and there is optimism that change will come. In Uttarakhand, over 33,500 km of roads have already been built, with 171 km of new roads planned for 2024-25 under the Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojana. Across the state, better road connectivity has opened doors to education, healthcare, and employment. There is hope that the Rs 70,000 crore allocated in the Union Budget for rural roads will also reach villages like Surag and Bhagdhanu, ensuring that they, too, become part of this expanding network.

For now, the people of these villages continue their journeys—on foot, through difficult terrain, with patience and resilience. But with consistent efforts from local communities, government agencies, and policymakers, the day is not far when these paths will finally be paved, bringing with them new possibilities for those who have waited the longest.

MAKE THE RIGHT CHOICES IN LIFE

Those who exhibit positive behaviour and make righteous choices excel and live a meaningful life

AJIT KUMAR BISHNOI

Yes, there are five choices; by making them we can excel in life. These are to become good people. We know whom we call good. They are good in their behaviour, choices, etc. The next level is of those, who are not only good but they mostly follow dharma also, which pleases God. The next level is that of welfare workers, who dedicate their lives to the service of humanity without any selfish motive. Out of the followers of dharma, God appoints some as His (nimitta) instrument to carry out activities for God to uphold dharma. The top-most level of course is of bhaktas (devotees) of God. I will now give details regarding how one can become these five and what benefits one will derive by doing so. To be good in spiritual parlance means to have the highest percentage of the mode of goodness. There are three modes, which are: goodness, passion and darkness. They are always competing with us. (The Bhagavad-Geeta 14.10) The mode of goodness is illuminating and free from diseases on account of purity. (14.6) The mode of passion suffers from the fault of attachment. (14.7) One is too attached to certain acts and their results. Unfortunately, the results are not in our hands. (2.47) One, therefore, suffers from anxiety, fear, depression, etc.

The mode of darkness deludes, which gives rise to many faults like carelessness. (14.8) Lord Krishna has set out in great detail about activities in goodness in the Bhagavad-Geeta. If we imbibe them, the percentage of the mode of goodness will gradually increase in us. There are many benefits in doing so and the best is goodness being the stepping stone to devotional life – the highest, and good karmaphalas of course. The next level is of persons, who strictly follow dharma besides being good. This sets them apart from the masses. One is aligned with the plan of God for us, who is for upholding dharma. God even incarnates to do so. (6.7) We know what dharma is; it is the highest moral and religious principle. Benefits are many including accumulating pious karmas. The third higher level is that of welfare workers. God promises no 'durgati' (bad end) for such persons. (6.40) This is a big achievement because old age and bad ends are very scary prospects for human beings. Lord Krishna has singled out King Janaka as the role model in the Bhagavad-Geeta (3.20) in this connection. The next higher level is that of 'nimittas' (instruments) of God; He chooses them from those who are habitually followers of dharma and are inclined to serve God as Arjuna did. God does everything as a karta for them and they get credit for the acts done. (11.33) The topmost category is those of devotees of God. Their rise is from being good people to strict followers of dharma. Then, they do spiritual practices like praying, darshan of God's Deities, offering obeisance to God, chanting of God's names and mantras, dhyana of God, thanking God for favours done, etc. They become very dear to God, who is everything. (7.19) The top-most benefit of being a devotee of God is liberation in a few lives. (6.45) I am going to describe the benefits in greater detail because these are the highest. God guides, and He, being omniscient, knows what will work every time. I have made a habit of praying for guidance anytime I have some doubts about something. I have been surprised by God's response. They are no longer intuitions because they work. The same happens in the case of help. God helps His devotees like one cannot even dream of. (The writer is a spiritual teacher, views are personal)

Beyond the boundary: The passion, intelligence and legacy of cricket

HIRANMAY KARLEKAR

Cricket, the game of glorious uncertainties, is almost a religion in our country. It often gets more attention than other sports but then you have to play it to experience its magic

There are people who frown upon what they view as the obsessive interest that many Indians have in cricket and, to a lesser extent, soccer. One wonders how many of them are familiar with Rudyard Kipling's reference to the "flannelled fools at the wicket or the muddled oafs at the goal" in his poem, The Islander, first published in The Times, London, on January 4, 1902. One also wonders whether even those who are familiar are aware that any attempt to cite the quote in vindication of their position, can run into a squall. He wrote the poem in anger, as he felt that the English cricket team that was on an ashes tour of Australia in 1901-02, was getting more attention from the public than the British soldiers who were dying in the Boer War in South Africa, which was then limping towards an end. People paid lip service to their valour and "Then ye returned to your trinkets; then ye contented your souls/ With the flannelled fools at the wicket or the muddled oafs at the goals." It is clear from the lines that follow that Kipling's rebuke was addressed not primarily at Britishers who played cricket and soccer but his countrymen in general for not doing enough to cope with the challenges that were going to confront the British empire—of which he was an unabashed apologist. These read, "Given to strong delusion, wholly believing a lie, / Ye saw that the land lay fenceless, and ye let the months go by/Waiting some easy wonder, hoping some saving sign/Idle—openly idle—in the lee of the forespent Line. / Idle—except for your boasting—and what is your boasting worth/If ye grudge a year of service to the lordliest life on earth?" The reference in the last line was to conscription for military service that many in Britain abhorred. Let us, however, not digress, especially when it not even caused by "perfume from a dress"—as TS Eliot puts it in The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock. Our original concerns were cricket and soccer, to which we must now revert. I have never played much soccer. I played cricket for my College (Presidency) and clubs (Union Sporting and Dakshin Kolikata Sangsad), in Kolkata in the 1950s. Even at those levels—by no means lofty—I realised that playing required a lot of intelligence and application of mind, intense concentration, reflection, enormous will power and determination, courage, considerable physical fitness and huge reserves of stamina. Intelligence was needed to tailor one's batting and/or bowling to meet the demands of the pitch and the nature of the outfield, The mind had to be set to work to find out the vulnerabilities of the players of the opposing side, and devise the strategy to win a match. Determination was needed to continue fighting even when the odds were heavily loaded against one, will power to calm the butterflies that began in fluttering in one's stomach as one walked out to bat and took guard, and courage not to run away from fast bowling on a wicket with uneven bounce where one could get hurt any moment. The matches we played were mostly for a day. As an opening batsman, I could be at the wicket for a maximum period of three hours. As a first-change medium pacer, I bowled a maximum of eight overs in two spells. As the skipper of my college team, I fielded mostly at first slip or short square leg, which meant I did not have to do much running around. Yet I was pretty much drained out at the end of it all. Cricket matches are war by other means among well-established rivals, and particularly so when it comes to India and Pakistan, or England and Australia for the ashes. It, however, also has other dimensions. If history, to quote TS Eliot again—this time from Gerontion—"has many cunning passages, contrived corridors," cricket has its tantalising moments and amusing anecdotes. Several of the latter relate to Dr WG Grace, a legend of English cricket who had an MRCS and LRCP against his name. In one of these, he had gone to a village to play in a charity match, and a massive crowd had turned out to watch. A huge cheer rent the sky as he walked to the wicket and took guard. Then the unthinkable happened. A village lad who was bowling shattered his stumps with the devil of a delivery. The umpire signalled "out." A deadly hush fell on the ground. Grace did not move. He looked at the bowler and said, "All of these people have come to see WG Grace bat and not your monkey tricks. So go back and start bowling." There are stories relating to India as well. One of these is about Ganesh Bose who, along with his brother, Kartik Bose—both my maternal grand-uncles—constituted the bedrock of Bengal's batting from the late 1920s to late 1940s. A dashing batsman, he was once out to a rank bad shot in a critical match. One of his maternal uncles, who was among the spectators, rushed to him as he returned to the pavilion, and unleashed a mouthful of colourful abuses. Ganesh Bose glared at him for a moment and then said between his teeth, "I would have buried you here had you not been my maternal uncle (mama na hole tomake eikhane punte pheltam in Bengali). There are many stories about Kartik Bose too.

INTELLIGENCE WAS NEEDED TO TAILOR ONE'S BATTING AND/OR BOWLING TO MEET THE DEMANDS OF THE PITCH AND THE NATURE OF THE OUTFIELD, THE MIND HAD TO BE SET TO WORK TO FIND OUT THE VULNERABILITIES OF THE PLAYERS OF THE OPPOSING SIDE, AND DEVISE THE STRATEGY TO WIN A MATCH

There was a good spinner who played college and club cricket and kept long hair, which fell on his eyes every time he bowled. Watching him at the Cricket Association of Bengal's nets at the Eden Gardens, which he conducted, Bose had asked him several times to cut his hair. As the spinner showed no sign of complying, he summoned one of Kolkata's many roadside barbers who sat in the Kolkata Maidan, and, as the nets concluded, had a crew-cut administered to him. I had to give up cricket shortly after 21. Those days, cricket offered neither money nor the kind of career I wanted. The crunch came when I saw some of those who played with me join the railways at subordinate levels, while my friends at college joined the Indian Railways Traffic Service and the Indian Railways Accounts Service, both central services of the Government of India, as officers. It was a deeply painful step. My family's link with cricket goes back to the time of Saradaranjan Ray (1858-1925), principal Metropolitan College and elder brother to my maternal great-grandfather, Upendrakishore Ray (1863-1915). A brilliant player himself and dubbed WG Grace of Bengal, he is known as the father of Bengal cricket. His grand nephew, Shivaji Ray, played for Bengal in the Ranji Trophy tournament. A person who was deeply saddened by my decision was another of my maternal grand-uncles, Prabhataranjan Ray. Very fond of me and a great supporter of my cricket, he watched every match I played. US exits Paris Agreement again: A setback for global climate action?

As the climate crisis escalates, the US exit threatens to disrupt climate diplomacy, financial commitments and emission reduction efforts worldwide

The newly elected president, Donald J. Trump has ordered the withdrawal of the United States from Paris Agreement on global warming for the second time, the first official exit being on November 4, 2020. The question is- Will the global momentum to cut emissions get stalled once again, as has happened in the past? Will other countries fill up the void or will we witness reduced contributions? Though the withdrawal announcement of the world's biggest economy aligns with America first in international environmental agreements, can it disrupt the international climate diplomacy, at a critical moment of the climate crisis? With 200 countries committing towards reducing greenhouse gas emissions (GHG) and keeping the global temperature rise below 1.5 degrees Celsius, the signing of the Paris Agreement in 2015 showcased the collective accountability and shared responsibility of nations in addressing climate issues. In his tenure, the former president, Joseph R Biden Jr has often communicated the vital role of the US in leading the world in curbing fossil fuel pollution. The support to developing countries for transitioning to renewable energy, building resilient infrastructure and adapting to climate change is essential to mitigate the adverse consequences of the phenomenon and pace up the global progress on emission reduction. This is in sharp contrast to the recent, yet not surprising announcement. Mr. Trump has often referred to it as an unfair and one-sided agreement that permits the South, particularly China and India to free-ride the economic burden of the North. With less than a year for it to be effective, the U.S. will soon find itself with the other three countries- Iran, Libya and Yemen- of not being a party to the Paris agreement. This further raises the question of whether must all the countries contribute equally in terms of efforts and resources. Though the principle of "Common but Differentiated Responsibility" has been undermined at all successive CoPs, does it imply that the developed countries can default on their financial commitments and jeopardise the global climate commitment? With the announcement of US retrenchment from the agreement in 2017 and the beginning of the formal withdrawal process, the International Energy Agency reported that global energy-related CO2 emissions increased by 1.7 per cent in 2018, after a steady decline over the last three years. In recent times, as is already known that the NDCs of individual countries are not in pace with the Paris pact goal. With the withdrawal of the US, will it imply that countries will have to make greater reductions in emissions? Will it be possible? However, the key lessons learned from this episode underscore the importance of political stability for long-term climate commitments. As an outcome, countries like China will take advantage of this situation by leveraging themselves as reliable and committed partners in global climate leadership. It will also halt the mitigation and adaptation efforts of developing countries due to the disrupted support from developed countries. Ceased contribution of the U.S. to the Green Climate Fund will hinder the availability of critical resources for developing countries. This tops up the already low pledges announced in COP29 at Baku this year compared to the demand by developing countries.

All of this can disrupt critical alliances, deviate nations to scale down their climate commitments and impact the world's ability to fight climate change. The U.S. withdrawal from the Paris Agreement raises urgent concerns about global climate action. As nations strive to meet climate goals, America's absence could weaken commitments, disrupt funding, and shift leadership dynamics. The world must now adapt, ensuring collective progress continues despite political instability and shifting priorities in international climate diplomacy. Netanyahu decries release of wrong body as ceasefire violation

HAMAS PLEDGES TO INVESTIGATE

PTI ■ JERUSALEM

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu vowed revenge Friday for what he described as a "cruel and malicious violation" of the ceasefire agreement after a body that Hamas released as part of the deal was found to not be that of an Israeli mother of two young boys, as the militants had promised. The incident has thrown the future of the fragile ceasefire into question. Six more living hostages are scheduled to be released Saturday as part of the tenuous ceasefire that has paused over 15 months of war. In a statement on Friday, Hamas said it would "conduct a thorough review" of the information regarding the body, and suggested a possible mix-up of remains might have occurred due to Israeli bombing of the area where the Israeli hostages were being held, where other Palestinians were also present. Hamas turned over four bodies Thursday as part of the ceasefire. They were supposed to have been those of Shiri Bibas and her two young sons, Kfir and Ariel Bibas, and of Oded Lifshitz, who was 83 when he was abducted during the Hamas attack that started the war on October 7, 2023. Israeli authorities said that while the remains of the two boys and of Lifshitz were positively identified, the fourth body was found to not be that of Shiri Bibas, but that of an unidentified woman from Gaza. "We will work with determination to bring Shiri home together with all our hostages — both living and dead — and ensure that Hamas pays the full price for this cruel and malicious violation of the agreement," Netanyahu said. "The sacred memory of Oded Lifshitz and Ariel and Kfir Bibas will be forever enshrined in the heart of the nation. May God avenge their blood. And so we will avenge." Hamas said it had "no interest in retaining any bodies", adding that it had "demonstrated full compliance with the agreement in recent days and remain committed to all its terms." "We reject Netanyahu's threats, which serve only to manipulate Israeli public opinion," Hamas said, calling on mediators to ensure the continued implementation of the ceasefire. The group also called for the return of the unidentified remains, which Israel has said are those of a Palestinian woman. The revelation of the body's identity was a shocking twist in the saga surrounding the Bibas family, who have become global symbols of the plight of Israeli hostages held by Hamas. During the ceasefire, which began in January, Hamas has been releasing living hostages in exchange for hundreds of Palestinian prisoners being held in Israeli jails. Thursday's release marked the first time the group has returned the remains of dead hostages. The Israeli army said Thursday that the fourth body released by Hamas was an "anonymous, unidentified body". It said the Bibas family had been notified, including Yarden Bibas, Shiri's husband and father of the two boys, who had been taken captive separately from his wife and children and was released early this month as part of the ceasefire deal. Hamas has claimed Lifshitz, Shiri Bibas and her sons were killed in Israeli airstrikes. But Israel said the testing had found the two boys and Lifshitz were killed by their captors. US envoy Adam Boehler described the release of the wrong body as "horrific" and a "clear violation" of the ceasefire. "If I were them, I'd release everybody or they are going to face total annihilation," Boehler, who serves as the US envoy for hostages, told CNN. It was unclear how the incident might affect the next scheduled swap of hostages for prisoners, set for Saturday. Hamas has said it will also release four more bodies next week, completing the first phase of the ceasefire. It is also unclear whether the truce will be extended beyond the end of the current phase, which expires in early March. In another potential blow to the deal, a series of explosions struck three parked, empty buses in central Israel overnight. There were no injuries and no claim of responsibility. But the Israeli military said in response it was beefing up its forces in the West Bank, raising the likelihood of further escalation in the area. Israel has been carrying out a broad military offensive in the occupied territory since the ceasefire took effect. If the current phase of the ceasefire goes according to plan with the release of six hostages on Saturday and four more bodies next week, Hamas will be left with about 60 hostages, about half — all men — believed to still be alive. Hamas has said it won't release the remaining captives without a lasting ceasefire and a full Israeli withdrawal. Netanyahu, with the full backing of the Trump administration, says he's committed to destroying Hamas' military and governing capacities and returning all the hostages, goals widely seen as mutually exclusive. Trump's proposal to remove about 2 million Palestinians from Gaza so the US can own and rebuild it, which has been welcomed by Netanyahu but universally rejected by Palestinians and Arab countries, has thrown the ceasefire into further doubt. Hamas could be reluctant to free more hostages if it believes that the war will resume.

Israel's military offensive killed more than 48,000 Palestinians, mostly women and children, according to Gaza's Health Ministry, which doesn't distinguish between civilians and combatants. Israel says it has killed more than 17,000 fighters, without providing evidence. The offensive destroyed vast areas of Gaza, reducing entire neighbourhoods to rubble. At its height, the war displaced 90 per cent of Gaza's population. Many have returned to their homes to find nothing left and no way of rebuilding.

A kickback scheme, says Trump as he targets Biden for funding 'voter turnout'

PTI ■ NEW YORK

US President Donald Trump has claimed that the USD 21 million funding to India for 'voter turnout' was a "kickback" scheme, as he continued to attack the previous Biden administration over the now cancelled financial aid. Trump made these remarks while speaking at the Republican Governors Association meeting in Washington DC on Thursday. "USD 21 million for voter turnout in India. Why are we caring about India's turnout? We have got enough problems. We want our own turnout," said Trump. "I would say in many cases, many of these cases, anytime you have no idea what we're talking about, that means there's a kickback because nobody has any idea what's going on there," he said. This is the third time within a week that Trump has questioned the funding. Earlier addressing the FII PRIORITY Summit in Miami on Thursday, he had raised similar concerns over funding to India and suggested that they were trying to "get somebody else elected".

On Wednesday, he questioned the purpose of providing USD 21 million to India for "voter turnout" as he reiterated that the US "can hardly get in there" because of high Indian tariffs. His remarks came days after the Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE) led by Elon Musk disclosed that USAID contributed USD 21 million to the Election Commission to boost voter turnout in India. On February 16, DOGE listed items on which the "US taxpayer dollars were going to be spent" and the list included "USD 21M for voter turnout in India." DOGE noted that all of the items have been cancelled.

The list also included USD 29 million for "strengthening political landscape in Bangladesh", USD 20 million for "fiscal federalism" and USD 19 million for "biodiversity conservation" in Nepal as well as USD 47 million for "improving learning outcomes in Asia". Trump during the speech at the Republican Governors Association meeting also questioned USD 29 million to strengthen the political landscape in Bangladesh. "Nobody knows what they mean by the political landscape. What does that mean?" he asked. "USD 20 million for fiscal federalism and USD 19 million for biodiversity in Nepal, USD 47 million for improving learning outcomes in Asia. What the hell do I care about? We got a lot. We got enough problems and all of this is terminated. We terminated this stuff and we're on the track. And by the way, there were so many others I could have I could read all night long, but so many were so terrible, and were actually disgusting. And I know you're eating your dinner, so I didn't want to do that but we're draining the swamp," Trump said. The DOGE has been put in charge of overseeing workforce reduction across the government, and as part of that, Musk announced that he would shut down USAID, which is responsible for humanitarian efforts around the globe. According to USAID officials on February 7, all USAID humanitarian work worldwide was stopped, ABC News reported. The agency's website was shut down before Musk's announcement. Later, a Trump-nominated judge announced a temporary restraining order that prevents the president and DOGE from placing 2,200 employees on administrative leave.

Ukrainians rally around Zelenskyy

PTI ■ KYIV

Days before the third anniversary of Russia's full-scale invasion, Ukrainians are as sombre and tense as they were right before Moscow launched the war. Only now, they aren't just worried about their longtime enemy. Ukraine's stunning new threat comes from its once staunchest ally, the United States, whose support appears to be fading as President Donald Trump echoes the narrative of Russian President Vladimir Putin while pledging to stop the fighting between the two countries. After their initial shock at Trump's false claims this week that Ukraine is led by a "dictator" who started the war with Russia, the Ukrainian people are rallying around a defiant President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, who publicly criticized Trump for promoting Russian "disinformation." "Yes, he's not a perfect president, but he's not a dictator," said Kateryna Karasuh, a 25-year-old tech worker from Kyiv who like many Ukrainians — and even some Republicans in Congress — is struggling to wrap her head around Trump's embrace of Russia, which represents a major about-face in US foreign policy. "It feels like the whole world is against us," Karasuh said. Against long odds, Ukrainians — with massive military support from the US — have prevented

Russia from overtaking their country, even if roughly one fifth of it is now under Russian control. But after three years of war, both civilians and soldiers are exhausted. Hundreds of thousands have been killed or wounded, tens of thousands are missing, and millions have fled the country. The mood only became gloomier in recent days as Trump signaled his desire to rapidly bring the fighting to a close on terms that Zelenskyy and many in the West say are too favorable to Russia. After Trump called Zelenskyy a "dictator" — for legally postponing an election last year — and as reports emerged of US and Russian officials meeting in Saudi Arabia to discuss a possible ceasefire without input from Ukraine, even some of Zelenskyy's harshest domestic critics have begun defending him. "We may have different opinions about Zelenskyy, but only Ukrainian citizens have the right to judge his support," said Yaroslav Zhelezniak, a lawmaker from the opposition party Holos. "And to publicly criticize him too, because, in the end, he is our elected leader." Trump's harsh words for Zelenskyy have drawn criticism from Democrats and even some Republicans in the US Congress, where defending Ukraine from Russia — with tens of billions of dollars in military aid — has had bipartisan support. But Vice President JD Vance admonished Zelenskyy for publicly warning Trump about falling for Russian disinformation. On Thursday, the deepening tensions led to the cancellation of a news conference that had been planned to follow talks between Zelenskyy and Trump's Ukraine envoy over how to end the war. A poll released Wednesday by the Kyiv International Institute of Sociology put public trust in Zelenskyy at 57%. The survey was conducted Feb 4 to Feb 9 among 1,000 people living across Ukraine in regions and territories controlled by the Ukrainian government. "We have a president whom we support. During war, we are united," said Larysa, a 52-year-old resident from the northeastern city of Kharkiv, who refused to give her last name due to security concerns. The political rift with the US comes as Ukrainian forces, outnumbered and outgunned, increasingly struggle to hold back Russia's slow but steady advances. Speaking from the front lines, some Ukrainian soldiers said they were not panicking yet, and not ready to give up the fight. "Even if we don't get enough weapons or if funding is cut, that doesn't change our duty to (fight)," said a Ukrainian officer who spoke on condition of anonymity in line with military rules. "No shells? We'll take up rifles. No rifles? We'll grab shovels." On Wednesday, Trump echoed one of Putin's frequent talking points, claiming Zelenskyy, whose term expired last year, must hold elections. But the idea has little traction within Ukraine — even among opposition politicians, who recognize Zelenskyy's right to postpone elections during wartime.

Macron's message to Trump: 'You can't be weak in face of Putin'

PTI ■ PARIS

French President Emmanuel Macron said he intends to tell Donald Trump that it's in the joint interest of Americans and Europeans not to "be weak" in the face of Russia's Vladimir Putin amid US-led negotiations to end the almost three-year war in Ukraine. Macron is to travel to Washington to meet with Trump on Monday, the White House said. In a one-hour question and answer session on his social media Thursday, Macron said he'll tell Trump: "You can't be weak in the face of President Putin. It's not you, it's not your trademark, it's not in your interest. How can you then be credible in the face of China if you're weak in the face of Putin?" Trump's recent statements that echo Putin's narrative and plans to have direct negotiations with Moscow have left European allies and Ukrainian officials worried. But Macron suggested Trump's strategy to create "uncertainty" in talks with Russia could actually make Western allies stronger in these talks. Putin "doesn't know what he (Trump) is going to do, he thinks (Trump) is capable of anything," Macron said. "This uncertainty is good for us and for Ukraine." Macron added he would seek to persuade Trump that US interests and Europeans' interests are the same, telling him: "If you let Russia take over Ukraine, it would be unstoppable." That means any peace deal must be negotiated with Ukrainians and Europeans around the table, Macron reaffirmed. "We want peace, but we don't want a ceasefire that means Ukraine surrendering, because that's dangerous. And we know that would lead to Russia going further. We've already experienced it," he said. Macron also appeared ready to answer Trump's call to boost defence spending. "Us, Europeans, we must increase our war effort," he said.

Trump admin flouting order to temporarily lift freeze on foreign aid, judge says

PTI ■ WASHINGTON

The Trump administration has kept withholding foreign aid despite a court order and must at least temporarily restore the funding to programmes worldwide, a federal judge has said. Judge Amir H. Ali on Thursday declined a request by nonprofit groups doing business with the US Agency for International Development to find Trump administration officials in contempt of his order, however. The Washington, D.C., district court judge said administration officials had used his February 13 order to temporarily lift the freeze on foreign aid to instead "come up with a new, post-hoc rationalisation for the en masse suspension" of funding. Despite the judge's order to the contrary, USAID Deputy Secretary Pete Marocco, a Trump appointee, and other top officials had "continued their blanket suspension of funds," Ali said. The ruling comes in a lawsuit by the nonprofit groups challenging the Trump administration's month-old cutoff of foreign assistance through USAID and the State Department, which shut down USD 60 billion in annual aid and development programmes overseas almost overnight. Even after Ali's order, USAID staffers and contractors say the State Department and USAID still have not restored payments even on hundreds of millions of dollars already owed by the government. Marocco and other administration officials defended the nonpayment in written arguments to the judge this week. They contended that they could lawfully stop or terminate payments under thousands of contracts without violating the judge's order. The Trump administration says it is now doing a programme-by-programme review of all State Department and USAID foreign assistance programmes to see which ones meet the Trump administration's agenda. Aid organisations, and current and former USAID staffers in interviews and court affidavits, say the funding freeze and deep Trump administration purges of USAID staffers have brought US foreign assistance globally to a halt, forced thousands of layoffs and is driving government partners to financial collapse.

Xi passes orders to transform China's military into world-class armed force

PTI ■ BEIJING

Chinese President Xi Jinping issued fresh orders on Friday revising rules to transform the country's military into world-class armed forces, focusing on combat readiness and war preparation amid growing rivalry with the US and tensions over Taiwan and neighbours. Xi, 71, who heads the military besides the powerful ruling Communist Party of China (CPC) and the Presidency, signed orders to publish three regulations on the military's interior order, code of conduct and military formation, state-run Xinhua news agency reported. The revisions to the regulations prioritise combat readiness as the foremost duty, with a fundamental orientation of preparing for and engaging in warfare. Fully applying the strategy of running the armed forces by law, the revised rules aim to promote a more standardised order in war preparation, training, operations and daily life, the report said. The revision to the military code of conduct refines the rules to award the excellent, punish violators and streamline relevant procedures, it said. The revised rules, which will take effect April 1, are designed to fully transform the country's military into world-class armed forces. The regulations on the military's interior order were revised to improve the management of military personnel in matters such as soldiers' appearance and conduct, leave-taking and military training. The revised regulations on military formation were added with detailed codes of practice concerning military parades on the land, in the sea, at the dock and in the air. These rules were promulgated as China gears up for increased frictions with the US after the return of President Donald Trump, who vowed to follow a firm policy to contain Beijing's rise with tariffs as well as strengthened American armed forces.

Canada designates 7 Latin American criminal groups as terrorist entities

PTI ■ OTTAWA

Canada is designating seven Latin American criminal organisations as terrorist entities under the country's Criminal Code, giving Canadian law enforcement another tool in the fight against fentanyl trafficking, Public Safety Minister David McGuinty said. The list includes Mexico's Sinaloa Cartel, Jalisco New Generation Cartel and La Nueva Familia Michoacana, and was announced a day after the US government formally designated eight Latin American organized crime groups as "foreign terrorist organisations." "The measures will help keep fentanyl off Canadian streets and from entering the United States," McGuinty told a news conference. The announcement was Canada's latest response to US President Donald Trump's claim that the flow of fentanyl and illegal immigration into the US were behind his threats of imposing a 25 per cent tariff on all Canadian goods — with the exception of 10 per cent on energy. Trump has paused the implementation of those tariffs until at least

March 4. US border patrol statistics show that less than 1 per cent of all fentanyl seized is found at the northern border. But Canadian officials have expressed a willingness to do more to combat the deadly synthetic opioid. The other organisations designated as terrorist groups are Cartel del Golfo and Carteles Unidos, also from Mexico; Tren de Aragua, in Venezuela, and the Mara Salvatrucha, or MS-13, which started in California but became a dominant criminal force in El Salvador.

The designation effectively freezes a group's assets and property. "Banks and brokerages will freeze these entities' assets, which can then be the subject of seizure, restraint or forfeiture," said McGuinty. It is also an offence to knowingly participate in, or contribute to, any activity of a listed terrorist group. The listing process begins with intelligence reports that indicate whether an organisation has knowingly carried out, attempted to carry out, participated in or facilitated a terrorist activity.

McGuinty said listing a group as a terrorist entity follows a rigorous process that "must meet a legal threshold". If the public safety minister believes that threshold has been met, the minister may recommend to the federal cabinet that the organization be added to the list. RCMP Commissioner Mike Duheme said the RCMP has intelligence indicating that crime cartels operate in Canada. "There's also strong intelligence that Canadians have actually moved to Mexico and South America to facilitate the transport of certain commodities into Canada," Duheme said. Canada recently appointed Kevin Brosseau, a former member of the RCMP and a former national security and intelligence adviser, as its fentanyl czar to help stop drugs entering the US. The Canadian government has also announced it is spending 1.3 billion Canadian dollars (USD 910 million) on increased border security, including new helicopters, technology and personnel.

UK foreign secretary questions Russia's 'appetite' for peace

... challenges Lavrov at tense G20 meet

PTI ■ JOHANNESBURG

UK Foreign Secretary David Lammy said he saw no appetite for peace from Russia in Ukraine after listening to a speech by Russia's top diplomat at a tense Group of 20 meeting in South Africa.

Lammy was speaking to reporters on Thursday after Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov addressed other senior diplomats in a closed-door session at the G20 foreign ministers meeting in Johannesburg.

"I have to say when I listened to what the Russians and what Lavrov have just said in the chamber this afternoon, I don't see an appetite to really get to that peace," Lammy said.

Lammy said Lavrov left his seat in the meeting room when it was Lammy's turn to speak. No details of Lavrov's speech were released.

The two-day G20 gathering on Thursday and Friday comes days after landmark bilateral talks between the United States and Russia over ending the war in Ukraine. Those talks sidelined Washington's European allies and Ukraine, who weren't involved.

US President Donald Trump has further upended the West's position by criticising Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy and falsely blaming Ukraine for the full-scale invasion by Russia. The war's third anniversary is next week.

"At the moment, we've had talks effectively about talks," Lammy said. "We've not got anywhere near a negotiated settlement."

In his own speech, which was released by the UK Foreign Office, Lammy criticised Russia for what he called "Tsarist imperialism".

"You know, mature countries learn from their colonial failures and their wars, and Europeans have had much to learn over the generations and the centuries," Lammy said, according to the transcript from the UK Foreign Office. "But I'm afraid to say that Russia has learned nothing," "I was hoping to hear some sympathy for the innocent victims of the aggression. I was hoping to hear some readiness to seek a durable peace. What I heard was the logic of imperialism dressed up as a realpolitik, and I say to you all, we should not be surprised, but neither should we be fooled."

Lammy referred to Lavrov's speech as "the Russian gentleman's tired fabrications".

Tensions at the meeting were underlined when a photo opportunity for the foreign ministers to pose together for pictures was cancelled with no reason given.

The United Kingdom, France, Germany and the European Union have all pledged continued support for Ukraine and were expected to reinforce that position at the G20 meeting.

US Secretary of State Marco Rubio, who led those talks with Lavrov in Saudi Arabia this week, was a high-profile absentee from the meeting. Rubio boycotted amid US tensions with host South Africa over some of its policies, which the Trump administration has labelled anti-American. The US was represented by Dana Brown, its acting ambassador to South Africa.

The G20 is made up of 19 of the world's major economies, the European Union and the African Union. Others attending the meeting in South Africa included EU foreign policy chief Kaja Kallas, Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi and French Foreign Minister Jean-Noël Barrot, who repeated France's condemnation of Russia in an op-ed published by several media outlets.

The Russian Foreign Ministry did release details of a bilateral meeting Lavrov held with China's Wang. Afterwards, Lavrov said Russia's relations with China "have become and remain an increasingly significant factor in stabilising the international situation and preventing it from sliding into total confrontation," according to a statement from the ministry.

Kash Patel confirmed as Trump's FBI director

PTI ■ NEW YORK

New FBI director Kash Patel has vowed to "rebuild" trust in the bureau as he becomes the first Indian-American to lead the country's premier law enforcement agency after being confirmed by the US Senate.

The Republican-led Senate narrowly voted to confirm 44-year-old Patel on Thursday. The Senate voted 51 to 49 to confirm Patel. Two Republicans, Susan Collins and Lisa Murkowski, voted against his confirmation. The nomination faced intense scrutiny from Democrats on Capitol Hill who have warned that Patel is poised to use the position to seek retribution against Donald Trump's perceived political enemies.

In his confirmation hearings, Patel also denied keeping a list of "deep state" enemies, while playing down controversial past remarks he had made such as referring to law enforcement officials who investigated Trump as "criminal gangsters".

After his confirmation, Patel posted on X, "I am honoured to be confirmed as the ninth Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Thank you to President Trump and Attorney General Bondi for your unwavering confidence and support."

"The FBI has a storied legacy—from the 'G-Men' to safeguarding our nation in the wake of 9/11. The American people deserve an FBI that is transparent, accountable, and committed to justice. The politicisation of our justice system has eroded public trust—but that ends today. My mission as Director is clear: let good cops be cops—and rebuild trust in the FBI," he said.

He also warned that the agency would hunt down those who seek to harm Americans. He was the 18th Cabinet official approved by lawmakers since Trump was inaugurated a month ago.

Patel takes the helm of an FBI in flux after the justice department forced out some of its top officials and demanded the names of agents who investigated the 2021 riot by Trump supporters at the US Capitol. Patel replaces Christopher Wray whom Trump picked in 2017. Wray resigned before inauguration day last month after the incoming Republican president indicated he would fire him.

The role of FBI director is supposed to be a 10-year term. Republicans have defended Trump's pick to lead the FBI, arguing that Patel will bring needed transparency to the FBI and dismissing controversial past statements as hyperbole. After announcing Patel as his FBI pick, Trump posted on social media calling him "an advocate for truth, accountability, and the constitution".

"Kash is a brilliant lawyer, investigator, and America's first fighter who has spent his career exposing corruption, defending justice, and protecting the American people," Trump said. Meanwhile, Democrats say Patel is a far-right conspiracy theorist with little experience in law enforcement, and someone who would put fealty to Trump above his oath to lead a department that is meant to operate independently. ("Patel's poor judgment and lack of experience make him wholly unqualified to keep Americans safe as our FBI Director. I voted no," Senator Martin Heinrich said on X.

"We will vote no," Sen. Adam Schiff (D-California) said at the morning news conference. "Our Republican colleagues, intimidated by this president and threats of primary challenges from the MAGA (Make America Great Again) world, may vote to confirm him. But... they will have to live with that vote." In his new position, Patel will lead a mammoth organisation with more than 30,000 employees, hundreds of offices nationwide and a sprawling mandate to investigate cases involving national security, terrorism and violent crimes.

Since long before his nomination, Patel has called for profound changes within the FBI. His 2023 book described the bureau as "a tool of surveillance and suppression of American citizens" and said its powers should be dramatically curtailed. Trump announced his plans to make Patel the FBI director in November. Patel's supporters include a group of former agents who have previously been accused of misconduct and were suspended, the New York Times reported.

These former agents, who deny wrongdoing, have accepted financial help from Patel's non-profit foundation in some cases and say they have been in touch with him since he was nominated, the report added.

New York-born Patel has his roots in Gujarat. However, his parents are from East Africa - his mother is from Tanzania and his father is from Uganda. They came to the US from Canada in 1970.

Brazil's top court justice orders X to pay USD 1.4 million fine for non-compliance

PTI ■ SAO PAULO

Brazil's Supreme Court Justice Alexandre de Moraes ordered X to pay 8.1 million Brazilian reais (USD 1.4 million) in fines for failing to comply with judicial orders, according to a judicial ruling.

The ruling, signed on Wednesday and made public by the court on Thursday, said the social media platform refused to provide registration data for a profile attributed to Allan dos Santos, an ally of former president Jair Bolsonaro accused of spreading falsehoods.

In July 2024, De Moraes ordered both X and Meta to block and ban the account and provide the data. X said it had blocked the account but could not deliver the requested information, arguing that its operators didn't collect it and that the user had "no technical connection point with Brazil".

De Moraes rejected the argument and, in early August, imposed a daily fine of 100,000 Brazilian reais (USD 17,500) if the social media platform failed to provide the data. By October, the total fine for non-compliance had reached 8.1 million Brazilian reais. X appealed but later notified the court that it would pay the fine. In Wednesday's ruling, the justice ordered the company to pay the full amount immediately. It is unclear from the decision reviewed by The Associated Press whether X provided the requested registration data. The company didn't immediately reply to AP's request for comment.

Last year, De Moraes ordered X's nationwide shutdown after the company said it was removing all remaining Brazil staff in the country, saying de Moraes should be dramatically curtailed. Trump announced his plans to make Patel the FBI director in November. Patel's supporters include a group of former agents who have previously been accused of misconduct and were suspended, the New York Times reported.

These former agents, who deny wrongdoing, have accepted financial help from Patel's non-profit foundation in some cases and say they have been in touch with him since he was nominated, the report added.

New York-born Patel has his roots in Gujarat. However, his parents are from East Africa - his mother is from Tanzania and his father is from Uganda. They came to the US from Canada in 1970.

months over free speech, far-right accounts and misinformation. Musk called the judge an enemy of free speech and a criminal. But De Moraes' decisions have been repeatedly upheld by his peers - including his nationwide block of X.

Securitymen kill 6 militants in NW Pakistan

PTI ■ PESHAWAR

Security forces in Pakistan acting on intelligence raided a militant hideout in a former stronghold of the Pakistani Taliban in the country's northwest on Friday, triggering an intense shootout in which six militants were killed, the military said. The raid was carried out in Karak, a district in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province bordering Afghanistan, the military said in a statement. An operation was underway to eliminate any other militants found there.

The military provided no further details about the killed militants, but such operations are often conducted against the Pakistani Taliban, which are also known as Tehrik-e-Taliban Pakistan, or TTP.

The TTP is an ally of the Taliban in Afghanistan and has stepped up its assaults in Pakistan since the Afghan Taliban seized power in Afghanistan in 2021.

Rate cut appropriate monetary policy response: RBI Governor

PTI ■ MUMBAI
Reserve Bank of India (RBI) Governor Sanjay Malhotra opined that rate reduction was an appropriate monetary policy response at this juncture citing movement of inflation towards the central bank's 4 per cent target, said the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) meeting minutes released on Friday. Malhotra, along with five other members of the MPC had voted for a 25 basis points reduction in the short-term lending rate (repo) to 6.25 per cent. The RBI at its meeting held from February 5 to February 7 effected the rate cut after a gap of five years. "Given the macroeconomic outlook when inflation is expected to align with the target, and recognising that monetary policy is forward-looking, I view a lower policy rate to be more appropriate at the current juncture," Malhotra said, according to the minutes. Chairing his first MPC meeting, he had also pointed out that rising uncertainties on global financial markets and trade policy front, coupled with continuing risk of adverse weather events pose risks to the inflation and growth outlook. While the central bank had reduced the rate, it continued with the neutral stance of monetary policy. "This will provide the flexibility to respond to the evolving macroeconomic environment. By taking this logical course, monetary policy will be able to fulfil its mandate and play its part in the sustainable development of the Indian economy," Malhotra said. Headline inflation, after moving above the upper tolerance band in October, has moderated and was at a five-month low of 4.3 per cent in January. MPC member and RBI Deputy Governor M Rajeshwar Rao said that at the current juncture, with a further alignment of headline inflation towards the 4 per cent target, there is greater space to address concerns regarding growth by way of reduction in the policy repo rate. "This monetary policy measure in conjunction with the fiscal measures announced in the Budget should give a fillip to aggregate demand conditions. Furthermore, the government has reaffirmed its commitment to fiscal consolidation, which should help to anchor medium-term inflation expectations," Rao said. RBI Executive Director and panel member Rajiv Ranjan said in line with the sequencing path that the RBI followed, a policy rate cut in February 2025 is the most rational and appropriate next step as we now have greater confidence on the disinflation path. "In line with this prognosis, we also prepared the market by infusing sufficient liquidity for better transmission. The baseline projections suggest headline inflation to average at 4.2 per cent during 2025-26," he said, according to the minutes. The external members of the MPC - Nagesh Kumar, Saugata Bhattacharya, and Ram Singh - too had voted for a reduction in the repo rate. Nagesh Kumar had flagged concern about a threat of dumping of excess capacities in China with their deep pockets and their access to the Western markets coming under a cloud. He also noted that some manufacturing sectors have begun to feel the pinch including steel (possibly explaining the negative growth) while labour-intensive consumer sectors, such as garments and leather goods have been facing an onslaught. The latest Economic Survey shows FDI inflows have been subdued, with foreign investors both FDI and FPIs repatriating, leaving little investments in net terms. "Therefore, the case for supporting growth cannot be overemphasised," Kumar said. External member Saugata Bhattacharya said that in view of the downward inflation trajectory, rate cut is the "appropriate policy response at this point of the economic cycle". Bhattacharya also voted to continue with the neutral monetary policy stance. Ram Singh said the Union Budget 2025 has given a push to demand.

CEPA with UAE fastest agreed FTA: Piyush Goyal

PTI ■ KOCHI
The proposed bilateral trade pact between India and the US will be the "mother of all deals" that will provide huge opportunities for Indians and Americans to work together, Union Minister Piyush Goyal said on Friday. Addressing the Invest Kerala Global Summit (IKGS) here, the commerce and industry minister said he has come here to express the central government's solidarity and full support to the event. His comments also came against the backdrop of differences between the BJP-led Centre and the Kerala government, which is headed by the Left Democratic Front (LDF), on various issues. The minister mentioned about India's Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA) with the UAE and said it was the world's fastest ever negotiated free trade agreement. "We hope to start the process soon for CEPA with Bahrain," he said in the presence of ministers from Bahrain and the UAE. According to Goyal, India is already in dialogues with the European Union, the UK and

Oman for the trade deals. "We will soon start discussing with the Trump administration of the US a strong, powerful economic engagement and a bilateral trade deal which will be the mother of all deals providing huge opportunities for Indians and Americans to work together and complement each other's strengths in this very turbulent world," the minister said. Highlighting the growth opportunities in Kerala and the country, Goyal told investors not to miss the bus and with respect to the state, not to miss the boat.

"Those who miss the boat may be left at the shore while others will sail with tailwinds of growth, progress and prosperity that India offers," the minister said. Around 3,000 participants are expected at the two-day summit. Goyal said it is always a pleasure to visit God's Own Country and in every visit, you will feel like never going back. "I will go back, so you don't have to worry. The lotus has not yet bloomed in Kerala but very soon. That was on a lighter note, do not take it that this is a political platform," Goyal, also a senior BJP leader, said.

Forex reserves drop to USD 635.721 Billion

PTI ■ MUMBAI
Snapping the three-week rising streak, India's forex reserves dropped by $2.54 Billion to $635.721 Billion in the week ended February 14, the RBI said on Friday. In the previous reporting week, the reserves had increased by $7.654 Billion to $638.261 Billion. The forex reserves had increased to an all-time high of $704.885 Billion in September 2024. The forex kitty however declined thereafter due to forex market interventions by RBI to reduce volatility in the rupee. For the week ended February 14, foreign currency assets, a major component of the reserves, decreased by $4.515 Billion to $539.591 Billion, the data released on Friday showed. Expressed in dollar terms, the foreign currency assets include the effect of appreciation or depreciation of non-US units like the euro, pound and yen held in the foreign exchange reserves. Gold reserves, however, increased by $1.942 Billion to $74.15 Billion during the week, the RBI said.

Sensex declines nearly 425 points

PTI ■ MUMBAI
Falling for the fourth straight day, benchmark Sensex declined by nearly 425 points on Friday due to selling in auto, pharma and banking shares and relentless foreign fund outflows. The 30-share BSE benchmark Sensex dropped 424.90 points or 0.56 per cent to settle at 75,311.06. During the day, it tanked 623.55 points or 0.82 per cent to 75,112.41. The NSE Nifty declined 117.25 points or 0.51 per cent to 22,795.90. In four trading days, the BSE barometer tumbled 685.8 points or 0.90 per cent while the Nifty declined 163.6 points or 0.71 per cent. From the Sensex pack, Mahindra and Mahindra tanked over 6 per cent. Adani Ports, Tata Motors, Sun Pharma, Power Grid, Zomato, ICICI Bank, State Bank of India and UltraTech Cement were also among the laggards. Tata Steel, Larsen and Toubro, HCL Tech, Asian Paints, HDFC Bank and NTPC were among the gainers. "A combination of negative factors such as relentless FII selling, falling rupee, expensive valuations and the US threat of reciprocating tariff levies continue to drive investors away from Indian equities. "In fact, local benchmarks under-performed both Asian and European indices, which logged significant gains. Barring metals, the slump in domestic markets was led by weakness in banking, IT, telecom, auto, realty and oil and gas shares," Prashanth Tapse, Senior VP (Research), Mehta Equities Ltd, said. Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) offloaded equities worth ₹3,311.55 Crore on Thursday, according to exchange data. The BSE midcap gauge declined 1.18 per cent and smallcap index dipped 0.43 per cent. Among BSE sectoral indices, auto dropped 2.60 per cent, consumer discretionary (1.49 per cent), oil and gas (1.42 per cent), realty (1.33 per cent), telecommunication (1.19 per cent) and consumer durables (0.87 per cent). Metal emerged as the only gainer and jumped 1.23 per cent. As many as 2,246 stocks declined, while 1,701 advanced and 113 remained unchanged on the BSE. On the weekly front, the BSE benchmark declined 628.15 points or 0.82 per cent and the Nifty went lower by 133.35 points or 0.58 per cent. The domestic market continued to exhibit broad-based weakness, primarily influenced by investor concerns over the hawkish tone of the FOMC minutes, which signalled prolonged higher interest rates that could constrain liquidity in emerging markets, Vinod Nair, Head of Research, Geojit Financial Services, said. "Although the market has undergone a healthy correction, the uncertainties surrounding the gradual recovery of corporate earnings and ongoing tariff-related risks continue to cast doubt on valuation levels, particularly in the broader market. India is currently lagging behind its Asian peers, as FII outflows remain high, with the "sell India, buy China" strategy continuing to yield returns for the time being," he added.

Government classifies barytes, feldspar, mica, quartz as major minerals

PTI ■ NEW DELHI
The government on Friday said that it has changed the classification of barytes, feldspar, mica and quartz into the category of major minerals. This move would pave the way for an increased exploration and scientific mining of such resources that are primary source of many critical minerals. Earlier, these were classified as minor minerals. "The Ministry of Mines vide gazette notification dated 20th February, 2025 has shifted minerals Barytes, Feldspar, Mica and Quartz from the list of minor minerals to the category of major minerals," an official statement said. The development came on the heels of the government's National Critical Mineral Mission which seeks exploration and mining of critical minerals within the country including recovery of these minerals from various mines, overburden and tailings. Quartz, feldspar and mica are found in pegmatite rocks, which are an important source of many critical minerals such as beryl, lithium, niobium, tantalum, molybdenum, tin, titanium and tungsten among others.

PM to release 19th instalment of PM-KISAN

PTI ■ NEW DELHI
Prime Minister Narendra Modi will on Monday release the 19th instalment of PM-KISAN scheme, transferring around ₹22,000 Crore directly to bank accounts of 9.8 crore farmers, as part of the government's effort to enhance income of the farming community. Under this scheme, each beneficiary gets an annual benefit of ₹6,000, in three equal installments of ₹2,000 every four months. Addressing a press conference here, Union Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan on Friday said, "Prime Minister will release the 19th instalment of PM-KISAN on February 24 at a function in Bhagalpur, Bihar. The amount will be directly credited to bank accounts of eligible farmers." He said a total amount of ₹22,000 Crore will be disbursed to 9.8 Crore farmers. Chouhan said the number of beneficiaries has increased from 9.6 Crore in the 18th instalment. The minister said that the government has disbursed total ₹3.46 Lakh Crore so far under Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Nidhi (PM-KISAN) and the number will rise to Rs 3.68 Lakh Crore after the release of 19th instalment next week. The PM-KISAN, launched in February 2019, is the world's largest DBT (Direct Benefit Transfer) scheme and has helped farmers meet their expenses towards purchase of seeds and fertilisers.

Asked about the talks with protesting farmers in Punjab, Chouhan said the government has been holding talks with the farming community and will continue to do so. He said the government is committed to increasing production, reduce input cost, enhance farmers' income from their produce and encourage natural farming. Chouhan said the Congress party talks a lot about farmers welfare but it never gave any direct financial assistance to farmers when they were in power. Elaborating on the event at Bhagalpur, Chouhan said around 2.5 Crore farmers are expected to participate physically and virtually. He said Bihar Governor, Chief Minister and the central ministers belonging to the state will also attend the event. Chouhan informed that the Prime Minister will also inaugurate a dairy processing unit being established at Barauni and a centre of excellence under Gokul Mission, besides a couple of rail projects in the state. The minister said the release of 19th instalment from Bhagalpur should not be linked to upcoming assembly election in Bihar. He added that the Prime Minister has been releasing the instalments from different states. Chouhan said that he will be meeting Makhana farmers at Darbhanga on February 23 to understand the problems faced by them. He said the Makhana Board proposed in this year's Budget will be soon established.

Rupee falls seven paise against US dollar

PTI ■ MUMBAI
The rupee pared initial gains and settled 7 paise lower at 86.71 (provisional) against the US dollar on Friday, weighed down by sustained foreign fund outflows and a recovery in the American currency index. Forex traders said the Indian rupee declined on Friday on weak domestic markets and a recovery in the US dollar index. However, weak crude oil prices cushioned the downside. At the interbank foreign exchange, the rupee opened on a positive note at 86.50 against the greenback. During the session it pared the gains and fell to an intra-day low of 86.77 before ending the session at 86.71 (provisional) against the dollar, logging a loss of 7 paise from its previous close. On Thursday, the rupee appreciated 34 paise to close at 86.64 against the US dollar. Meanwhile, the dollar index, which gauges the greenback's strength against a basket of six currencies, was trading 0.22 per cent higher at 106.61.

may support the rupee at lower levels," said Anuj Choudhary - Research Analyst at Mirae Asset Sharekhan. Choudhary further noted that the $-INR spot price is expected to trade in a range of 86.50 to 87. In the domestic equity market, the 30-share BSE Sensex declined 424.90 points, or 0.56 per cent, to settle at 75,311.06, while the Nifty fell 117.25 points, or 0.51 per cent, to 22,795.90 points. Foreign institutional investors (FIIs) offloaded equities worth ₹3,311.55 Crore on net basis on Thursday, according to exchange data. Meanwhile, Moody's Analytics on Thursday said India's growth will slow to 6.4 per cent in 2025, from 6.6 per cent in 2024, as new US tariffs and softening global demand weigh on exports. In its report titled 'Asia-Pacific Outlook: Chaos Ahead', Moody's Analytics said growth across the Asia-Pacific economy will slow in 2025 as trade tensions, policy shifts, and uneven recoveries knock the region's fortunes.

Moen enter premium sanitaryware market in India

PNS ■ NEW DELHI
Moen, a global leader in kitchen and bathroom solutions, has partnered with Bathline Acquaviva Group to expand into India's fast-growing sanitary ware market. This strategic alliance blends Moen's expertise in innovation and sustainability with Acquaviva's strong presence in the Indian premium segment. India's sanitary ware industry, currently valued at ₹539.5 Billion ($6.5 Billion), is projected to grow at a CAGR of 7.74 per cent over the next five years. Moen's entry aligns with rising consumer demand, driven by increasing incomes and a booming real estate sector. "This collaboration allows us to merge Moen's innovation leadership with Acquaviva's deep market understanding. Together, we aim to deliver premium, sustainable solutions," said Vinay Gupta, Chairman of Bathline Acquaviva Group. To mark its entry, Moen has launched its first Experience Centre in New Delhi's upscale MG Road area, offering customers an immersive look at its cutting-edge products, from faucets to shower panels. "India is poised to be Moen's next growth engine," said George Wu, President of WINN Asia at Fortune Brands Innovations. With this partnership and flagship store, Moen is set to redefine India's premium bathroom solutions market.

Adani Foundation unveils 'Butterfly Effect' framework for women empowerment

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI
Ahead of the upcoming International Women's Day next month, the Adani Foundation hosted the first national-level roundtable consultation on February 19, 2025, in New Delhi. The event brought together key stakeholders to discuss strategies and chalk out pathways to accelerate women's empowerment across India. The national-level event also saw the unveiling of the Foundation's 'Butterfly Effect' framework - a transformative approach tailored to address the evolving needs of women throughout their lives. This roundtable served as an important platform to engage stakeholders and derive strategic insights on pathways to enhance the outreach and impact of women-centric interventions. It also aimed at identifying newer collaborations to scale up the socio-economic empowerment of women across all age groups pan India. The Adani Foundation has been dedicated to empowering women for nearly three decades since 1996, implementing a series of targeted interventions designed to meet the unique needs of women at all life stages. From infancy and early childhood to adolescence, young adulthood, middle age, and old age, the Foundation strives to ensure continuous support for women, ensuring that women receive the necessary guidance and opportunities to enhance their socio-economic well-being. Its commitment to women's empowerment is holistic and across dimensions. The focus is on causing inter-generational improvement of outcomes, benefiting women in all stages of life from infancy to old age. Instead of charitable distributions, it focuses on education, nutrition and health security, skill building, and sustained outcomes through program designs that unlock self-reliance, agency and autonomy. With a sharp focus on enabling economic activity, the Foundation is catalysing transformation for women through health, education, sustainable livelihoods, and infrastructure initiatives that empower them to make meaningful choices for themselves and their families. The 'Butterfly Effect' framework embodies this holistic approach by positioning women at the center of all interventions. The framework has been designed to support women across different stages, promoting their growth, self-reliance, and overall well-being. During the event, the Adani Foundation also released its 'Supporting Her Exponential Empowerment (S.H.E.)' Report, a carefully curated document that highlights the Foundation's ongoing efforts to empower women through every stage of their lives. The report offers a detailed look into the Foundation's approach, with a focus on the holistic nature of its interventions and how they are working to empower women throughout the country. On the occasion, Dr. Abhishek Lakhtakia, Chief Executive Officer of the Adani Foundation, reaffirmed the Foundation's resolve to empowering women, saying, "Our interventions are designed to ensure equitable access to opportunities, promoting growth, well-being, and empowerment at each phase of a woman's journey. This inaugural roundtable discussion will surely be a steppingstone to further the cause of women empowerment and help expedite outcomes." He emphasised the importance of all stakeholders coming together and generating the ideal scale for interventions at each life stage. Through this transformative approach, the Foundation continues to enable 'Inclusive', 'Sustainable' and 'Transformative' change in the lives of women it touches. So far, the Foundation has positively transformed the lives of over 2 million girls and women through its dedicated efforts. Since 1996, the Adani Foundation, social welfare and development arm of the Adani Group, has remained agile and deeply committed to making strategic social investments for sustainable outcomes across India. It is empowering and enriching the lives of children, women, youth, and marginalised communities in the core areas of education, health and nutrition, sustainable livelihoods, climate action, and community development. The strategies of the Foundation are integrated in national priorities and global Sustainable Development Goals. The Adani Foundation is currently operating in 6,769 villages across 19 states, positively impacting 9.1 million lives.

A CANVAS OF SOUND

Parvathy Baul's voice brings Jayasri Burman's art to life, says SAKSHI PRIYA

Frames of Silent Poetry

The exhibition, curated by Parul Bhagat, showcased detailed, expressive artworks by over 40 talented artists, writes TEAM VIVA

The gallery was transformed into a world of stories painted on canvas. Each artwork invited viewers to step closer, to lose themselves in its details, colours, and emotions. Some pieces felt like distant memories captured in delicate strokes, while others burst with energy, demanding attention.

Magic with every stroke, Curated by Parul Bhagat, the National Group Art Exhibition brought together over 40 artists, each presenting their unique artistic vision. The walls carried a stunning mix of traditional and contemporary styles, with paintings that played with light and shadow, rich textures and bold contrasts. Every stroke spoke of the artist's passion, whether through intricate detailing or expressive, free-flowing movements.

Some drew from tradition, giving it a fresh perspective, while others defied convention, pushing the boundaries of contemporary art.

From striking portraits to surreal landscapes, the exhibition showcased the limitless power of artistic expression. Some works carried a sense of nostalgia, drawing viewers into their depth, while others challenged perception with abstract forms and daring compositions. The colours, though varied, seemed to tell a collective story, one of creativity, emotion and the boundless possibilities of art. Each artwork reflected a personal journey, a different way of seeing the world. The exhibition continues till today at Gandhi Darshan Art Gallery, Delhi, offering visitors a final chance to experience this remarkable collection of artworks.

The gentle murmur of water and the silent glow of distant stars create an atmosphere of quiet enchantment. Jayasri Burman's latest exhibition, The Whisper of Water, The Song of Stars, at Art Alive Gallery, invites viewers into a world where nature and mythology come alive. This new body of work moves beyond the purely figurative into dreamlike landscapes filled with delicate textures and flowing forms.

Her canvases hold a sense of stillness yet breathe with life. Works like Cosmic Churn and Ocean's Whisper echo the rhythms of nature, drawing viewers into a space where land and water meet. The use of shells and cowries does not feel ornamental but deeply symbolic, representing the fluidity of time and the weight of tradition. These natural elements settle into the layers of paint, grounding the works in something tactile, something ancient.

The softness in her palette stands out. Shades of deep blues, earthy browns and muted golds create a sense of harmony, as though each piece is bathed in the quiet glow of twilight. Weeping Grace carries an emotional depth that is felt rather than stated. Femininity here is not delicate but enduring, deeply connected to nature, ever-flowing like the tides.

This exhibition holds memory, echoes of childhood impressions and a silent dialogue between past and present. Jayasri Burman does not simply paint, she listens, to water, to the stars, to the spaces in between. The result is a body of work that invites reflection through quiet, persistent beauty. Until 28 February 2025, step into Art Alive Gallery and experience this world for yourself.

A VOICE FULL OF EMOTION

Parvathy Baul began to sing, her voice carrying the weight of centuries-old traditions. Dressed in saffron, she moved with effortless grace, her body swaying in rhythm with the soul-stirring notes of her ektara. Each verse felt like a whisper from another time, filling the space with a quiet intensity that held the audience captive.

Her voice, raw yet melodic, rose and fell like a river, flowing between longing and surrender. It was music that felt deeper, a calling, a prayer crafted into sound. Her eyes, lost in a world unseen, reflected the spirit of a seeker, as if she was not just performing but living each moment of her song.

Every movement of her hands, every beat of her duggi spoke of devotion. Silence held as much power as her singing, each pause stretching into something almost tangible. The audience sat motionless, as if afraid to break the spell she had cast.

As the final note faded, the room remained still, as though her voice refused to leave.

LIVING MYTHOLOGY

Burman's art has always been deeply rooted in tradition, but in this exhibition, she invites us to see mythology not as something distant and fixed but as a living, evolving entity. The figures in her paintings seem to emerge from the elements themselves, women rise from swirling waters, constellations seem to echo human longing and the landscapes are not just backdrops but active participants in a grander story. Each piece reflects a deeply human desire for connection: to nature, to the past, to something larger than oneself.

THE POETRY OF ART AND SOUND

Jayasri Burman's paintings and Parvathy Baul's music share a deep, poetic connection. Both artists draw from tradition yet reshape it into something personal and timeless. Burman's visual storytelling unfolds in layers of colour and texture, much like Baul's voice carries the weight of centuries through melody. Their art is not just an expression but an experience, inviting the viewer and listener to step into a world where mythology, nature and devotion come together. Whether through brushstrokes or music, their work creates a space of reflection, emotion and quiet transformation, reminding us that true artistry is not only seen or heard but felt.

STANDING BEFORE THE ARTWORK, THERE IS A QUIET PULL, COLOURS MERGING LIKE DISTANT MEMORIES, TEXTURES WHISPERING FORGOTTEN STORIES. THE LINES, THE DEPTH, THE LIGHT, IT ALL SPEAKS, NOT IN WORDS, BUT IN FEELING AND REFLECTION

A Window Into the World of Art

Colours, Voices and Stories Breathing Life into Awadh Art Festival, says SAKSHI PRIYA

Art has a way of bringing people together, sparking conversations and creating moments that stay with us. The 7th Awadh Art Festival did just that, offering a space where creativity thrived and stories came to life through every brushstroke and sculpture. With 94 artists presenting their work, the festival became a meeting ground for diverse voices, each piece carrying its own essence, emotions and experiences.

The festival, guided by a thoughtful curation, brought together tradition and contemporary influences. While it has long been a platform for senior artists, this year introduced a fresh perspective by showcasing artists making a mark in the primary art market. This shift brought a dynamic energy, allowing visitors to see the evolving nature of Indian art and its ever-expanding horizons.

The inauguration was led by Lithuania's Ambassador to India, Her Excellency Diana Mickeviciene, alongside Jyoti Kathpalia, Dr Seema Bhalla, Dr Sushma K Bahl, Lipika Sud and Biman Das. The festival, founded by Arka Pradhan with advisor Mrs Ratan Kaul, was organised in association with the Inner Wheel Club of Ghaziabad - Dist 301.

al walk by Jyoti A Kathpalia allowed visitors to step into the minds of the artists, while a thought-provoking talk on legacy and value by Priya Kapoor explored the deeper significance of artistic expression. The demonstration on Patachitra, with its intricate storytelling on palm leaves, was a reminder of the craftsmanship that has been passed down through generations.

Every part of the festival held meaning, drawing people in and making them engage with art in a personal way. Conversations flowed, perspectives shifted and there was a sense of discovery in every corner. It was an experience to take forward, something to remember and return to in thought, long after the last artwork was packed away.

Gill gives India confidence against Pakistan

PTI ■ BENGALURU

Shubman Gill has an invincibility cloak hung around his shoulder in ODIs these days. Conditions and oppositions do not feature in his set-list. After taking a dominant avatar against England recently at home, Gill faced a different challenge against Bangladesh in India's Champions Trophy (CT) opener in Dubai on Thursday night. The pitch was sluggish and the bowlers consistently probed for weakness. But Gill beat both to notch up his eighth ODI hundred that led India to a six-wicket victory. The 125-ball century was the slowest he has made so far, but was perhaps the most important in his career. That uncharacteristically sedate outing carried a deeper meaning as it validated Gill's growing stature as India's all-weather batter in white-ball formats.

His form is a good omen when legends like Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma, who have been performing that role for several years, are in the twilight zone of their careers. And with important matches against Pakistan and New Zealand lined-up, India would need him to continue in the same vein. There were a couple of signature shots last night — a cracking short-arm pull off pacer Tanzim Hasan and a spearing, lofted cover drive off the same bowler for a four. Those hits in the ninth over were breathtaking, showcasing Gill's otherworldly timing, but even more mesmerising was his transformation to a batter full of self-restraint after that. When Rohit Sharma (41) got out in the 10th over, Gill was batting on 26 off 23 balls, and a lift-off looked imminent. But it wasn't there. His next boundary came in the 33rd over when pacer Taskin Ahmed returned to attack.

Till then, Gill was milking the spinners and pacer Mustafizur Rahman, a lethal slower ball, for singles and twos, ensuring that the quick start given by Rohit would not go in vain. In that phase, the 25-year-old scored just 30 runs off 52 balls, showing admirable situational awareness. It was of little surprise when Gill termed it as a "satisfying" effort. "Definitely one of my most satisfying innings that I have played. The message was sent from outside that I have to try to bat till the end and that's what I tried to do," Gill would say later to the host broadcaster. Rohit was also chuffed to see the Punjab cricketer adhering to the team order. "He's been batting brilliantly of late and what he showed us (against Bangladesh), it shouldn't surprise anyone. What was good to see was he was there till the end," said Rohit. Along with carrying his bat through, Gill also tweaked his tactics as per the game's evolving needs. A feature of Gill's batting was him coming down the track even against pacers, something he does not usually do. Generally, he stays at the crease to drive, flick or pull the quicker bowlers, a minimalistic approach that reduces the risk quotient. Gill explained that change in his approach. "Cutting the ball wasn't easy because the balls which were outside the off-stump weren't coming onto the bat that nicely. "So, I thought of using my feet to even the fast bowlers and tried to go over the circle," he added. The strategic fluidity apart, Gill's willingness to look beyond easy-on-the-eye but fleeting knocks will stand India in good stead in this tournament. If the early signs are anything to go by, then the pitches in Dubai could remain slow-burners. While Pakistan have only one spinner in Abrar Ahmed, New Zealand will be a more formidable rival as they have two excellent white-ball spinners in Mitchell Santner and Michael Bracewell. They were exceptional in stifling Pakistan in the middle overs in Karachi on a flatbed and the Kiwis can pose a bigger threat on the slack Dubai deck.

Kohli is putting lot more pressure on himself: Kumble

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Former India captain and coach Anil Kumble feels Virat Kohli is putting a "lot more pressure on himself" in his effort to get out of the lean patch, and advised the batting icon to remain mentally relaxed. Since the 2023 ODI World Cup, Kohli has hit just one fifty while scoring 137 runs in six ODI innings. "I think he's trying a bit too hard. You can see that in the way he is going about his innings. He just needs to not worry about it," Kumble said on "ESPNcricinfo". "Rohit comes in there, has the freedom because there is plenty of batting and all of them are in great form. Similarly for Virat, he just needs to come in and not worry about anything else," he added. "All players go through tough moments in their career, but I get a feeling watching him bat, I think he is putting a lot more pressure on himself," Kumble added. Kumble reckoned a relaxed approach would help Kohli in getting out of the rut. "When you have that kind of pressure and you have that kind of expectation, you suddenly start putting undue importance to all of that and then try hard to do well. "When you do that, you're not really relaxed. The best innings that I am sure he's played, he's not even thinking about all of that." In India's Champions Trophy

Kerala enter Ranji Trophy final

PTI ■ AHMEDABAD

Resilient Kerala on Friday sealed their maiden Ranji Trophy final by taking a dramatic two-run first-innings lead over Gujarat, 68 years after making their debut in Indian cricket's premier domestic competition. Going into the final day at 429/7, the home side, who won the Ranji title in 2016-17, needed just 29 runs to take a first innings lead. However, left-arm spinner Aditya Sarwate delivered under pressure, taking all three wickets to bowl Gujarat out for 455 in 174.4 overs to leave them two runs short of the mark. Making only their second semifinal appearance, the visitors had been left frustrated by a dogged 72-run eighth-wicket stand between Jaymeet Patel (74 overnight) and Siddharth Desai (24 overnight). They started the day needing three wickets with just 28 runs to defend. Kerala, who last made the semifinals in 2018-19 after making their Ranji debut back in 1957, will face Vidarbha in the summit clash after the latter defeat heavyweights Mumbai by 80 runs in the other semifinal. Sarwate's breakthroughs came amid high drama, including a dropped catch, a tight stumping decision, and a successful DRS review that overturned a caught-out call to an LBW dismissal. First it was Kerala skipper Sachin Baby, who dropped the well-set Jaymeet with Gujarat 23 runs shy of a lead. But Jaymeet could not make it count and perished for 79 (177 balls; 2x4) in the same over when he dragged his foot outside the crease while the ball passed his outside edge for Mohammed Azharuddeen to complete an excellent stumping. After multiple replays, umpire finally ruled him out as his foot was found to be on the line when the bail was knocked off as Kerala camp went up in celebration. But there was more to the contest as Gujarat left-arm quick Arzan Nagwaswalla, batting at No 10, counter-attacked and smashed Akshay Chandran for a cover boundary to take them within 14 runs of the lead. Breakthrough for Kerala came with Gujarat 11 runs behind when Sarwate broke the dogged resistance of Siddharth Desai, who got out for 30 that came off 164 balls with just one boundary. Desai reviewed a caught-out decision, and while Ultra Edge showed no spike, ball-tracking confirmed it would have hit leg stump, overturning the call to LBW. Nagwaswalla and last man Priyajitsinh Jadeja brought Gujarat within eight runs when Kerala missed a half-chance, with the ball slipping from Salman Nizar's grasp. Jalaj Saxena nearly claimed his fifth wicket as Nagwaswalla's inside edge brushed past leg stump, leaving Gujarat just two runs short. Then came the decisive moment. Sarwate tossed one up, Nagwaswalla swung hard, and the ball ricocheted off Nizar's helmet at short leg before lobbing to Baby at slip. The Amay Khurasiya-coached side erupted in celebration, securing a historic Ranji final berth as a dejected Nagwaswalla walked back in disbelief. For Kerala, Sarwate, who had started the day with 1/101, ended with figures of 45.4-7-111-4. Jalaj, who toiled hard for 71 overs, returned with 4/149 including 14 maidens. With their maiden Ranji final berth secured, Kerala batted with ease in the second innings, scoring 114 for four in 46 overs in their second innings in the drawn affair.

India interested in hosting 2030 CWG

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

India is "interested" in hosting the 2030 Commonwealth Games (CWG) and also conduct all those disciplines that were axed from the 2026 edition to ensure that the country's medal tally is not affected when the event is held in Glasgow, a source in the sports ministry revealed on Friday. The last date to submit an 'Expression of Interest' to host the 2030 CWG is March 31 and the ministry source said the process will get underway soon. "We are interested in hosting the 2030 Commonwealth Games and a formal interaction has taken place with the Commonwealth Games Federation on this. We have also proposed that all the disciplines that have been removed from the 2026 CWG be held in India," the source said. India last hosted the CWG in 2010. The ministry's push to have the axed events of the 2026 edition in India is a way to ensure that the CWG remains a high medal-yielding competition for the country. Last year, in a huge blow to India's medal prospects, key sports such as hockey, badminton, wrestling, cricket and shooting were dropped from the programme by host city Glasgow, which announced a pruned roster of 10 disciplines to keep the event budget-friendly. "We are merely looking to ensure that our medal tally does not suffer. An informal proposal (to have axed disciplines in India) has been put across, we will see how the host city responds to it," the source said.

Jiri Lehecka beats Carlos Alcaraz in Qatar Open quarterfinals

PTI ■ DOHA

Top-seeded Carlos Alcaraz lost for just the second time this year on Thursday when 25th-ranked Jiri Lehecka beat him 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 in the quarterfinals of the Qatar Open. Alcaraz's only other defeat in 2025 was to Novak Djokovic in the Australian Open quarterfinals. The 21-year-old Spaniard, ranked No. 3, won the Rotterdam Open earlier this month. "I've talked with my team, with my coach, and honestly I don't know what I could have done better," Alcaraz said in a press conference. "Honestly, I don't know. It was kind of a difficult feelings, I guess. I have to give credit to him as well, because when he was down, especially in the third set, he didn't give up." Alcaraz led 4-2 in the third set and had a break point on Lehecka's serve, but couldn't finish off the Czech, who won the next three games to advance to the semifinals. The 23-year-old Lehecka will next play eighth-seeded Jack Draper, who knocked out Matteo Berrettini 4-6, 6-4, 6-3. "The match was up and down since the beginning," Lehecka said after beating Alcaraz. "So for me to win a match like that against a player like this is a super big achievement. I believed in myself. I knew that I had the level to produce that kind of tennis. "I didn't back down," he continued. "I wanted to push him to his limits. The way I trusted my game was the key today." Earlier, fifth-seeded Andrey Rublev saved one match point and needed eight of his own to subdue second-seeded Alex de Minaur 6-1, 3-6, 7-6 (8). Rublev reached his fourth semifinals in Doha, where he won the title in 2020. He'll next face Canada's Félix Auger-Aliassime, who beat Daniil Medvedev when the Russian retired after losing the first set 6-3. "Unfortunately, I had food poisoning. Very disappointed to end my run here in Doha like this as I feel like I was playing well," Medvedev said in a statement. Auger-Aliassime said on court he thought Medvedev was "playing normal" until he retired. "And then I broke, I held my serve. And he just told (the umpire) that he didn't want to shake our hands because he was sick."

Attention to detail, loyalty towards craft make Shami lethal

PTI ■ DUBAI

A difficult and painful injury layoff firmly behind him, seasoned India pacer Mohammed Shami says attention to detail and loyalty towards his craft make him lethal in ICC events where he only cares about breakthroughs and not his economy rate. Shami grabbed an brilliant five-wicket haul in India's Champions Trophy opener against Bangladesh to play a pivotal role in the team's six-wicket triumph. In the process, he also became the fastest Indian and the second quickest overall to reach 200 ODI wickets here on Thursday night. "In ICC events, if my ball gets hit a little, that's okay, but I should get a wicket, then that will be better for my team. I always think about this," Shami said at the post-match press conference. The 34-year-old quick battled a career-threatening 14-month layoff due to an ankle here, Shami became India's leading wicket-taker in 50-over ICC events. His tally now stands at 60, overtaking former India pace spearhead Zaheer Khan. The retired left-arm seamer had taken 59 wickets in 32 innings while Shami crossed the mark in just his 19th innings. He has 55 wickets in ODI World Cups across three editions, with 24 coming in the 2023 tournament hosted at home. Shami said he has always focussed on minor details like rhythm, and level of discomfort while bowling to understand where he stood in terms of his form. "Is your rhythm good? Do you have any discomfort? I pay attention to those things. I do not pay attention to the result. I pay attention to the present. And I always try to meet the situation that is in demand. Am I good at that or not?" he said giving a peek into his mind. Shami, who claimed his sixth ODI fiver here, also has the most five-wicket hauls for India in the format. He recalled the frustration he felt while watching India's woes in the Border-Gavaskar Trophy last month when Bumrah shouldered the enormous burden of leading the attack without him at the other end. "It was very difficult...When you see that your team is very close to the edge, or it's a very close match, at that time you miss your bowlers who you used to bowl along with, or your unit. I wish I was there," he said. "I could have contributed something. Could have helped," he added. Shami has been candid enough to admit that the injury left him devastated to the extent that he feared he wouldn't be able to play again. But the pacer said once he made a domestic comeback towards the end of 2024, his confidence rose up again. "...I got to play domestic matches to gain confidence and to see my rhythm. To see what changes have come in the last 14 months or after the surgery...I got four international matches to play and I played 8-9-10 domestic matches. That gave me a lot of confidence," he said. All set for Pakistan clash Sunday would be the proverbial show-stopper of ICC events when India take on Pakistan, hoping to add another exciting chapter to the rivalry that is almost always the marquee match of an ICC event. Shami said nothing changes for his team in terms of mindset. "After winning, there is no point in having a mindset. You should stay in the same frame when you win a match and when you perform well. I don't think you need to think too much about the ICC tournament or any international match," he said, down-playing the giddy excitement that media drums up before India-Pakistan matches. "You should believe in your skills and back yourself."
